LINCOLN'S TOMB NOW SHRINE OF DIGNITY, BEAUTY

Interior Is Rebuilt; Relics Gone.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

"Yes, and as I recall the architecture of the interior it was early Pullman," said Franklin Roosevelt when he was asked whether he had ever made the pilgrimage to the tomb of Lincoln before it was rebuilt.

All that is changed now, and a revelation of beauty and dignity awaited Mr. Roosevelt when he visited Springfield last autumn:

Until the recent rebuilding of the tomb's interior the aspect of that shrine spot was as bad as bad could be. It was a receptacle for cumbersome show cases full of nondescript relics and cluttered with the calling cards and photographs of bustling mediocrities who had been able to persuade o'ertrustful custodians that their names meant something in relation to Abraham Lincoln. The walls flaunted campaign posters of some of the most vicious political freebooters that ever afflicted the state of Illinois.

A Sorry Sight.

To view the resting place of Lincoln you had to go outside the monument and peer through a grated doorway into a dank vault that was littered with sodden wreaths piled against the weather stained sarcophagus. One corner of the sarcophagus was shattered—ghastly reminder of the attempt in 1876 to steal the body it contained.

During one period of those old annals of an ineptitude that ranged from well meant but blundering zeal to carelessness and cheapness, the visitor was charged an admission fee!

The new annals tell a lofty story. A more beautiful place of pilgrimage than the reconstructed tomb does not exist in America. A difficult task has been accomplished with reverence, judgment, and delicate feeling. All is right. All is meaningful. Relics have been swept away. The memorial now is worthy not alone of Lincoln but of the state which far more than his native state may be said to have given him to the nation. The spirit of the place is the spirit of dignity, reticence, solemn beauty and eloquent symbolism.

Eloquence Replaces Relics.

From three massive tablets of bronze Lincoln speaks to us in his own words—the words of the poignant farewell to the citizens of Springfield in 1861, the words of the Gettysburg address, which Dr. Channing, so recently as eight years ago in his monumental "History of the United States," called "the most perfect piece of English prose that has yet been written in America," and the closing words of the Second Inaugural.

Softly gliding bronze gates carrying the conventionalized corn theme—the corn Lincoln grew and loved, "the royal corn within whose yellow heart there is of health and strength for all the nations" of Gov. Oglesby's apostrophe—admit to long marble corridors which lead to the new burial chamber Nine statues of Lincoln in half life size—at least five of them masterpieces of American sculpture—sentinel those corridors. Children reach up their hands to caress the vivid effigies of Lincoln from youth to "an old man," as he was wont to call himself when he was only in his early fifties.

The Shrine Within a Shrine.

Now we approach the chamber of the cenotaph and the place of actual interment behind and beneath it.

This cenotaph of dark red Arkansas marble is, as its name signifies, an empty tomb—an emblem merely, as distinguished from the original sarcophagus of white marble that until 1876 held the coffin in which Mr. Lincoln's remains were brought from Washington. Then it, too, became a cenotaph, for, to foil repetition of attempted robbery, the body was removed from it and with much secrecy temporarily buried in another part of the monument.

If they speak at all, people speak very softly as they stand before the stately mass of the present cenotaph. Unlike the huge, curving sarcophagus that contains the body of Napoleon it is not grandiose. It does not compel awe by mere bulk, but by its unadorned power and solemnity it persuades to reverent musing. It is nine feet long, four feet wide at the base, and five and a half feet high, and its sole inscription is—

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

At the nearby ends of the corridors leading into this chamber are large bronze tablets, the one on the right, as you face the cenotaph, bearing the farewell to the citizens of Springfield

J. W. HARRIMAN STABS SELF AS HIS FLIGHT ENDS

Taken to Hospital; Wanderings Told.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—Joseph W. Harriman, indicted banker who disappeared Friday from a private sanitarium, stabbed himself over the heart today while in the Old Orchard inn, at Roslyn, L. I. Police had found him suffering only from indigestion a few hours earlier.

Taken to the Nassau county hospital at Mineola by a fire department ambulance, Mr. Harriman, scheduled to appear in federal court tomorrow, was given an even chance to live.

The wound, according to doctors who attended him, was not serious in itself. It might prove so, they added, because of a complication of diseases Mr. Harriman is said to have.

Under an Assumed Name.

When found today at the Old Orchard inn, Mr. Harriman protested for hours that he was A. G. Wright of Louisville, Ky. He finally admitted his real name and agreed to leave the inn. He asked his son-in-law, Boykin Gabell Wright, whom police had left alone at his bedside, to leave the room while he dressed. A few minutes later detectives guarding the door heard a cry of pain.

Detective Lieutenant Theodore Magee opened the door to Mr. Harriman's room. The 68 year old banker who has been accused of making false entries in the books of his bank amounting to more than $1,000,000 was bent over a wash basin, his right hand pressing against his breast.

A. Wade Welles, manager of the inn rushed past Lieut. Magee and, after a struggle, wrested from Mr. Harriman a long-bladed peeling knife with which the banker had scratched his throat and which he then seemed to be driving into his heart. Mr. Wright came running back in time to carry his father-in-law to bed.

Pays 50 Cents for Knife.

The knife, its price tag showed, had cost fifty cents. Inspector Harold R. King, chief of Nassau county detectives, said the banker probably had it concealed in the bed while talking to him. Inspector King added that because Mr. Harriman was out on bail he had no authority to take him into custody or search his room, but only could notify members of Mr. Harriman's family that he had been found.

Mr. Harriman had been at the Regent Nursing home in East Sixty-first street, Manhattan, for more than a month under treatment. On Friday afternoon he wandered away from there.

Harry Biggs, manager of the Stage Coach inn at Locust Valley, said Mr. Harriman had dined heartily there Friday evening, after arriving at Locust Valley on the 5:59 train from New York.

Mrs. William J. Robinson, owner of the inn, recognized him as an old and favored client and told her manager to see that he served the guest the best. Neither he nor Mrs. Robinson knew of the search that was then in progress for Mr. Harriman, Biggs said.

Steak Dinner Over $4.

Mr. Harriman ordered a steak dinner costing about $4, and ate heartily, a waiter at the Stage Coach inn revealed. When darkness began to fall the banker asked Biggs to call a taxi from Locust Valley for him. Mr. Harriman's son, killed in 1928 in an automobile accident, is buried in the Locust Valley cemetery. Fearing that he might go to his son's grave to end his life, police with powerful searchlights were on guard in the cemetery all night.

About 9 o'clock Friday night Mr Harriman arrived at the Old Orchard inn in Roslyn, about five miles from Locust Valley, in a taxicab.

Mr. Harriman, with no baggage, introduced himself to Mr. Welles as Mr. Thomas and asked if he could obtain "inexpensive accommodations." The manager showed him several rooms which Mr. Harriman did not appear to like and then finally let him have a $4 room in the front of the house on the easterly end for $2.50.

According to Mr. Welles, the stranger handed him a $10 bill, explaining that he preferred to pay for his room in advance because he might have to "catch an early train" in the morning.

Half an hour later, Mr. Welles said, he saw Mr. Harriman leaving the hotel, returning an hour or so later and going to his room. Today it was discovered that the banker had gone to the Roslyn pharmacy and pur-

Europe Asks Showdown on Security Pact

GENEVA, May 20.—(AP)—Europe's desire to know what the attitude of the United States would be in the event of war or a threat of war was voiced in the general disarmament conference today by Giuseppe Motta, foreign minister of Switzerland and thrice president of that country.

For the moment this desire was not satisfied, but it is hoped Norman H. Davis, American delegate, will clarify the position of Washington on this matter in a speech before the conference next week.

Mr. Davis spent the day at his hotel preparing his address, which is looked forward to by the delegates as the next great event of the disarmament conference.

Pays Tribute to Roosevelt.

Motta paid a tribute to President Roosevelt for his recent disarmament proposal and said the conference was anxious to know more about the subject.

To what extent, the Swiss delegate inquired, would the United States contribute to implement the Kellogg pact outlawing war by participating in a consultative pact?

"We want to know," he said, "if that great nation is ready to take appropriate measures if, in the event of a conflict, it became necessary to define the aggressor nation and to consider what measures would be suitable to put an end to aggression.

Hopes for "Liberating Word."

"It is written in letters of fire across history that the solution of our difficulties can only be found in solidarity. The truth is that there must be a solidarity of all continents.

"I wish, I hope, and I expect that the United States will bring us the liberating word."

The prevailing hope at the conference is that the United States will announce its readiness to support international supervision of armaments, and that it will give notice of its intention not to insist on neutral rights in case of war.

Hull Keeps Plans Secret.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—A statement of the position of the United States on the MacDonald arms reduction plan by Norman H. Davis next week at Geneva was indicated today by Secretary Hull of the state department.

Hull declined to indicate what form the pronouncement might take. In unofficial quarters, however, it appeared Davis would set forth a willingness to participate in consultations with other nations in the event of a threatened war, while preserving complete American freedom of action.

TWO MEN KILLED BY BLAST AT OIL PLANT IN WHITING

Virgil Green, 28 years old, 5512 Molesberger avenue, Hammond, and Clyde Copple, 34, of 4919 Oak street, Hammond, were killed last evening by the explosion of an oil exchanger at the Standard Oil company refinery in Whiting. A third man was slightly burned. His name was not revealed.

The exchanger, a boilerlike affair which utilizes surplus oil vapors, stood outside No. 5 crude oil pipe still. Green and Copple were working outside the exchanger when the blast occurred. The blast shook the entire Whiting region, even breaking tableware in some homes near the plant. Fire followed, but was quickly extinguished by the oil company's fire department. The property damage was estimated at $10,000.

Company officials said they did not know what caused the explosion, but were investigating. The killing of the two workers was the first fatal accident at the refinery in three years, the officials said.

Thieves Keep Mama Broke Buying Buggies for Baby

Hyde Park police listened respectfully last night to the complaint of Mrs. Rose Samuels, 4740 Lake Park avenue, and agreed that her protest was fully justified. "My baby, Phyllis, is 23 months old," said Mrs. Samuels, "and three of her baby buggies have been stolen. Tonight I visited friends at 5447 Lake Park avenue, and put her fourth buggy in the basement for safekeeping. They stole that, too."

Will to Finance Haven for Nonsmokers Barred

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20.—[Special.]—The will of the late Mary L. Leonard, 75, which directed the bulk of her $300,000 estate be used to found a home for elderly people with "liars, those who speak profanely, and users of tobacco" barred, was denied probate in Superior Judge Walton Woods' court today. The will was contested by a brother, R. E. Barnes.

Fall from 3d Floor Porch Fatal to Evanston Boy, 7

Harold Bennett, 7 years old, was fatally injured last evening when he fell from a third floor porch at his home, 1004 Davis street, Evanston. He died soon afterward in Evanston hospital. The accident occurred when a part of the porch railing gave way as the boy ran against it.

Three More Earth Shocks in Southeastern California

Riverside, Cal., May 20.—[Special.]—Three light earthquake shocks were felt in this area of southeastern California shortly after noon today. No damage was reported from any of the cities in the area.

G. A. R. Balks at 2d Place on Memorial Day

Maybe there won't be any Memorial day parade in Chicago this year. Maybe there'll be two. But one thing is certain: Nobody is going to march down Michigan avenue ahead of the boys who saved the Union back in the days of '61, because if they can't be there in front as they've been for nigh on to fifty years they won't be there at all. They said so, fifty strong, in Memorial hall last night at a meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial association.

Split Over Military Precedence.

The problem of military precedence is the rock on which the G. A. R. has split with the National Guard and the regular army. As viewed by the G. A. R., the Memorial day procession is not a military but a veterans' parade, places in the line of march being assigned by the courtesy and invitation of their posts.

As interpreted by the National Guard and the regular army, they declared last night, the event is military, and Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, corps area commander, takes the stand that in such instances no unit may precede the army. Therefore the G. A. R. should follow the regulars and the National Guard in the procession.

Demand Permit Be Revoked.

"I undertake to say that if such a situation developed in England, the element that wants to shove us back to sit on the curbstones and watch them perform would be hissed out of camp," thundered Comrade C. O. Brown, commander of U. S. Grant post.

A resolution was adopted calling upon the Lincoln park board and the south park board, both of which have supervision over Michigan avenue, to revoke a permit issued to the National Guard for a parade to be held the morning of Memorial day. It also requested that no other permit should be issued to the regular army or any other unit to hold a procession on that day that would interfere with the established order.

Cites War Secretary's Order.

Maj. Gen. Parker, reached at Fort Sheridan last night, said that he had met with representatives of the veterans' organizations on Tuesday by invitation and had told them he would be glad to have regular army units in the parade.

He then told them that, by order of the secretary of war, army units participating in Memorial day parades are required to march at the head of the column as a guard of honor. Yesterday, the general added, Gov. Horner had asked him to command the National Guard troops in the parade and he consented.

"I have no intention of taking charge of the march," said the general. "It is the veterans' parade. We were invited to participate, and I told the veterans the conditions which had been laid down by the secretary of war. My hands are tied in the matter."

Get Up Steam for Congress to Quit June 10

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—With President Roosevelt reported to be eager for congress to leave Washington before the international economic conference begins at London next month, leaders in both houses today began an intensive home stretch drive toward a prospective adjournment on June 10.

Seven major measures on the administration's reconstruction program remain to be enacted. Several require only final action by either the house or senate to speed them to the White House, while others are just beginning what promises, in at least two cases, to be a stormy journey through the congress.

Bill Before Committees.

The industrial control-public works bill, regarded by the administration as the most important measure still to be approved, is now being considered by committees in both houses. The house ways and means committee, which is charged with devising a tax program to raise 220 millions needed for interest and amortization of the bill's three billion 300 million bond issue, completed its open hearings today and will go immediately into executive session. Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], says that he intends to report the bill to the house on Monday with the necessary tax program included.

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, said his committee will begin hearings on the bill Monday.

Avalanche of Proposals.

The tax program, according to Representative Doughton, has not yet been decided upon. The committee has been subjected to an avalanche of taxation proposals.

It was considered possible, as the committee closed its hearings, that the program will consist of a low sales tax with the so-called necessities exempted, to be augmented by one or several of the various other plans now under consideration. Opposition to the sales tax continued to be heard.

Appearing before the house committee today, Fayette B. Dow, representing a number of oil producers' associations, declared that the proposal to increase the federal tax on gasoline by ¾ cent a gallon virtually would cripple the oil industry.

Urges Estate Tax Increase.

Chester Gray, representing the American Farm Bureau federation, told the committee that a "slight increase" in estate taxes alone would provide the necessary 220 million after five years have elapsed. He also submitted an alternative program contemplating a reduction of the married man's income tax exemption to $2,000 and an additional tax on net income of 1 per cent on incomes below $10,000 and 2 per cent on incomes above that amount.

Meanwhile the Glass and Steagall bank reform bills moved forward as house leaders prepared to push through a special rule governing its consideration tomorrow or the next day.

The tax features of the industrial control bill and the bank deposit guarantee provisions of the banking measure are regarded as controversial matters likely to encounter some difficulty in getting the two bills through.

Cotton Valued at $500,000 Is Destroyed by Fire

Columbus, Ga., May 20.—[U. P.]—As Cotton week in Columbus came to a close today 9,300 bales of cotton were destroyed at an estimated loss of $500,000 when fire swept the Columbus branch of the Southeastern Compress company.

FAIR TRIUMPHS IN DEPRESSION; PAYS OWN WAY

No Public Cash Aids Vast Enterprise.

A page of pictures starting a photographic tour of A Century of Progress grounds is on the back page of Part Two of this issue.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A Century of Progress, biggest single enterprise undertaken by private industry during the depression, will open its doors for business next Saturday.

Unique among world's fairs, this Exposition has been conceived and financed entirely without governmental subsidy, either federal, state, or local.

The 26 million dollars that has been poured into the building of this great project has come out of the pockets of people who expect to get it back and who haven't asked any public body to help them do so.

The management of the Fair itself, the men who either guaranteed or purchased the 10 million dollars of notes which made A Century of Progress possible, expect no profit.

A "Not for Profit" Institution.

A Century of Progress itself, in fact, is incorporated under the laws of Illinois as a "not for profit" institution. Any money left in the till after the Fair is over must, by contract, be apportioned among various agencies that have coöperated to make it a success, the south park board, the Rosenwald Industrial museum, the Art institute, the Adler planetarium and others.

The companies, large and small, that have taken space for exhibition purposes and the hundreds of concessionaires, however, have gone into this thing because they are convinced that they can by doing so build up their sales sufficiently to justify the outlay.

And there has been a prodigious outlay. Fifteen thousand workmen this week will put the finishing touches upon a plant into which there has been poured approximately 26 million dollars since the Fair was first conceived back in December, 1927. In addition, there is being moved into the grounds by truck and train some 6 million dollars' worth of exhibits.

In Nation's Worst Depression.

A vast expenditure of money in the nation's worst depression. And yet the depression itself may turn out to be an important contribution to the success of the Fair. It has made possible the elimination of the usual extravagances and the shaving of all expenses.

There has been wonderment here and there over the country as to "why a city crippled by unpaid taxes and owing salaries to public employés can hold a World's Fair." This critical impression seems to be widespread. The fact is A Century of Progress is built without the customary handouts from federal, state, and local governments and also without recourse to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The management confidently expects the Fair to pay out—with a little left to turn over to the south park board and other coöperating agencies. And just for good measure the taxpayers in the south parks district will be pleased to learn that next fall after the Fair is over the management is to pay for the removal of all buildings that are not wanted by the parks and that the parks will receive as a gift some 2½ million dollars' worth of improvements—trees, shrubs, gardens, sewers, water lines, roadways, and sidewalks.

No Burden on Taxpayers.

Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, who directs this zone of activity from his desk in the Administration building, yesterday took time out to explain the financial plan of the Exposition.

"In 1928 when A Century of Progress was being planned we decided the celebration of Chicago's hundredth anniversary ought not to result in an added burden on the taxpayers and that there should be no subsidy from the city, state, or federal government.

"We said that in such an expression of the pride of city the people ought to pay only voluntarily and by private contribution. If it was to the advantage of corporations engaged in industry to participate then they should pay in proportion to the benefits they secured.

"It was decided that A Century of Progress should be a test of the life left in the community; that it would be more successful if it were the expression of pride and citizenship.

"We never said that it would be the biggest thing ever," continued A Century of Progress president, [illegible]

ing his fist emphatically on his desk. "We couldn't, by the very nature of our method of procedure, make any such advance pretensions.

"The plan was to create the best possible celebration out of the amount of revenues anticipated. If there was to be only enough for a concert, a speech, and a parade, well and good. We'd have that. But we wouldn't spend more than we could reasonably expect to take in."

The interview was interrupted while the director general of the Fair was informed that the services of the special protocol officer imported from the state department at Washington would be needed during the afternoon to escort a visiting Japanese dignitary about the grounds, that somebody wanted a pass, that two tardy but angry business men were demanding that they be granted concessions, despite the expiration of the time limit, that the water was again off in the men's wash room, and that it was time for lunch.

Six Million in Concessions.

"When we first began to build we wondered how we could fill out all the concessions," Mr. Dawes finally resumed. "We've got $6,000,000 of them now, more than any other Fair in history, and with the opening of the Fair only a week off many new applicants have to be turned away daily."

The money raising drive, Mr. Dawes explained, began with the sale of 125,000 memberships in the "Legion" of World's Fair supporters. Each membership is exchangeable for ten admission tickets. This brought in about $600,000. This was not an integral part of the financing scheme, however. It was more in the nature of advertising.

The big chunk of financing consisted of the sale of 10 million dollars of notes to be secured by the first 40 per cent of gate receipts and guaranteed by wealthy Chicagoans. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the finance group, turned in the necessary guarantees in a few days.

Bonds Sold to Investors.

Within two months after issuance $6,000,000 of the bonds were sold to investors or to guarantors. Some of the rest were sold subsequently and others were used [never at less than par value] to pay contractors.

The money thus raised got things going and provided a revolving fund. Water and sewer lines were put in and roads and buildings built. The Hall of Science, the Travel and Transport building, and the Electrical building were erected.

Then as corporations signed up for space they were induced to pay cash in advance and this new money kept the revolving fund going.

Although A Century of Progress broke all World's Fair traditions by not seeking governmental subsidies the management on May 1 had $887,000 cash in the bank, $360,000 deposited to secure performance bonds and $762,000 accounts receivable. On the other side of the ledger were $718,000 accounts payable and $513,000 notes payable after the opening date.

Look For 50 Million People.

Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress, said yesterday that the plant had been laid out on the basis of an expectation of 50 million attendance. But when pressed he admitted that that was the most conservative guess and that the figures from other big expositions had led the management to believe that 75 million admissions would not be too much to expect.

A gate of 26 to 27 million paid admissions, he said, would put the Fair in the clear. Between 13½ and 14 million dollars are needed, 10 millions to retire bonds, 3 millions to cover operating expenses and 1¼ millions for miscellaneous debts.

He points out that the first Chicago World's Fair enjoyed almost that big a gate, total admissions being 26 millions of which 22 millions were paid. The admission fee is the same, 50 cents for adults.

How It Came Out in '93.

The Fair of 1893 paid all expenses plus 11½ millions which covered construction costs and left enough for an 8 per cent dividend on the $5,000,000 stock subscribed locally. Nothing more was paid on the stock. The city and state combined subsidized the Fair of 1893 to the extent of 5 millions and the federal government contributed another 2½ millions.

In view of the fact that the population of metropolitan Chicago has tripled since the last World's Fair the management of A Century of Progress is confident it will be a financial success.

Two Foreign Beauties Already on Way.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

They're on their way—the vanguard of charming girls who'll swarm into the city this week from every point of the compass to form a court of honor for A Century of Progress at its grand opening on Saturday. All 51 of the girls are to be in Chicago Thursday.

Since Friday the two foreign entrants for the crown of queen have been on the high seas, pacing the decks of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, which they boarded at Southampton and Cherbourg.

As thousands of readers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE scan their photographs this morning in the third group of ten winners in the competition, published in the rotogravure section, the English and the French girl are playing tennis or shuffleboard, splashing in a vast marble pool, or admiring the spacious lounges and restaurants of the big ship that is plowing the waves toward Quebec.

Ship Racing to Port.

On this, their initial sea voyage, the auburn haired little Londoner and the slim blonde Parisienne have found themselves celebrities aboard this floating palace. Ship's gossip revolves around them, and for them the gallant Empress is putting forth her best efforts to make a record run into Quebec. They have been, since they set foot on board, the observed of all observers.

Every courtesy usually accorded a diplomat or a member of royalty has been tendered them. They have a chaperon, Mrs. M. L. O'Brien, personally selected by the skipper of the Empress, R. G. [Jock] Latta. They have invitations to all the social diversions that make an ocean journey the delightful experience it has become in these modern days. They are permitted to visit the bridge, and they have seats at the captain's table—ultimate privileges for which so many travelers maneuver vainly.

May Fly to Chicago.

E. A. Kenney and Thomas J. Wall, general passenger agents respectively of the Canadian Pacific steamship and railroad lines, have extended every possible means of coöperation to get the two girls to Chicago on time against the handicap of the shortened schedule they must observe because of the opening of the Fair five days sooner than was anticipated when their passage was booked. Not only have they asked the captain to make a record run between Cherbourg and Quebec, where the European girls are due to dock May 24. They have also prepared against every emergency from that point on into Chicago.

Should the liner fall a bit behind the schedule the girls will be put ashore at Rimouski, Canada, where a high powered automobile will be waiting to speed them toward Quebec, a matter of five hours' run for the steamer, and on to Montreal.

If foggy or otherwise bad weather delays the Empress of Britain it may even be necessary to make the trip to Chicago by air, in which event it has been promised that the Canadian Pacific company will have a plane waiting to fly them southward. They will be joined at Quebec or at Rimouski by a TRIBUNE representative.

Pacific Coast Girls on Way.

This morning, too, a quartet of their competitors from the Pacific coast is taking off for Chicago in the opposite direction. Two San Francisco girls who managed to reach the finals and two Portland lassies are starting their eastern journey in order to be here when the lists are checked on Thursday.

Two girls selected from the Atlantic seaboard have their luggage all ready for departure tomorrow or Tuesday. Both are from the precincts of Boston, one naming her home as Malden and the other as Dorchester, Mass. Others who will be listening to the "All aboard" signal about the same time are the candidates from San Antonio, Tex.; from North Holston, Va., and from New Orleans, which, like Kansas City, San Francisco and Boston, garnered two finalists.

TRIBUNE cars will meet all the girls at the train and deliver them to the hotel to which they have been assigned. The seven hostelries on the list are the Drake, Palmer house, Sherman, Allerton, Chicago Beach, Stevens, and Congress.

Counselor for Each Group.

Each girl will be directed to one of the groups of seven, each of which will have a counselor, an older woman who will assist and advise the group during their entire stay in the city.

Next Sunday's TRIBUNE will contain the photographs of all the remaining twenty-two finalists who achieved places in the court of the Century of Progress Queen.

Through the courtesy of Niles Trammell, vice president of the National Broadcasting company in Chicago, a radio hookup of from thirty-five to forty stations will be utilized Friday night to broadcast the program of the Queen's coronation dinner in the grand ballroom of Hotel Sherman.

Contest directors were advised yesterday by Col. Robert Rossow, commandant of cadets at Culver Military academy, that the Black Horse troop of the school, which is to be the official escort for the queen, will leave Culver on the Pennsylvania lines in time to arrive in Chicago at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

STRAW HAT DAY FLOPS, EVEN AT THE CITY HALL

The official opening of the straw hat season, proclaimed by Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st], was a failure in the city hall yesterday. Not a single straw hat was to be seen in the building.

Ald. Coughlin obeyed his own proclamation by wearing a white pith helmet, which he announced as the standard headgear for the season. But he did not go to the city hall.

Mayor Kelly, who violated the proclamation, explained that the day was too chilly for straw hats. A few were seen on the streets, one man wearing a white Panama.

Foresters Will Observe 50th Anniversary Today

The Catholic Orders of Foresters will observe the 50th anniversary of its founding today. The celebration will be in the Holy Family church, 1076 Roosevelt road. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil will preside, and the Rev. Thomas Dondanville, pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas' church, will deliver the sermon. The order has paid out more than $100,000,000 in insurance and benefits since its founding.

ROSE OF HEAVEN PETUNIA CHOSEN AS FAIR FLOWER

Readers of Tribune Vote for Brilliant Annual.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Readers of THE TRIBUNE, by a popular vote taken during a 3 weeks period which ended last night, have selected a rose pink petunia named the Rose of Heaven as the official flower of A Century of Progress Exposition.

This delicately hued annual, which will continue to bloom in attractive settings at the Fair throughout the summer, received nearly twice the votes of any other flower nominated in the balloting. Zinnias, nasturtiums, marigolds, gladioli, and other flowers were given support by large numbers of voters.

Prepare to Plant Flowers.

Promptly upon learning the result of the vote count by judges appointed by THE TRIBUNE, preparations were made for planting the official flower in quantities on the exposition grounds. A bed of the petunias will be maintained throughout the Fair in Horticultural hall on Northerly island, under supervision of John Servas, director of Horticultural Exhibitions, Inc.

From these beds will be cut the bouquets which will adorn the tables at official functions of the Exposition. Notable guests of the Fair will admire them at luncheons and dinners in the Administration building of the Fair.

The Rose of Heaven petunias will also form an attractive corsage which will be worn by the queen of A Century of Progress Exposition when she appears with the 50 other international beauties at the Exposition's opening on the evening of May 27. Each of the young women of the court will receive a corsage of the official flowers by Chicago florists.

A Brilliant Rose Color.

The winning flower in THE TRIBUNE balloting brought responses from flower lovers in hotels, on trains, and in homes as far removed as Boston, Denver, and New Orleans. This petunia, a somewhat new type of an old favorite variety of flowers, is a rich, brilliant rose in color with an inconspicuous white throat.

The Rose of Heaven is a small flowering petunia, growing as a bushlike plant that is covered with the blooms and buds which keep coming on throughout the summer and early fall. Each flower is about the size of a large pansy and possesses a delicate fragrance. Petunias thrive in the warm sunlight.

NOTES OF THE WORLD'S FAIR

The world's largest map of Canada forms the background of the dominion's comprehensive exhibit installed in the Travel and Transport building. The map is 30 feet high and 130 feet long. The exhibit will include colored dioramas illustrating choice vacation spots in Canada, models of Canadian ships and trains, mounted game animals, and representative products.

Stalwart lumberjacks of the northwest will perform at log rolling and block turning for visitors to the Fair in a 28 foot square tank. Heading the experts of their art will be Pete Hooper, four times world champion log roller, and Sam Harris, champion block turner, both from Long View, Wash. The latter walks on cubic blocks of wood, turning each over in the water as he passes.

A reproduction of Atlantic City's famous beach is being prepared for World's Fair visitors on Northerly island, south of the planetarium. There will be a board walk, four bath houses, shops and shows, the only ferris wheel on the Fair Grounds, slides, greased poles, and a huge swimming and diving pool surrounded by an amphitheater seating 5,000. The Jantzen company is transforming the beach, which is almost a third of a mile in length.

U. Grant Smith of Washington, D. C., a veteran in the diplomatic service, yesterday was selected as chief of protocol for the World's Fair. He will pass on the proprieties of official receptions and precedence at dinners attended by distinguished visitors to the Fair.

The Boy Scouts' exhibit for the Fair, on which scouts throughout the middle west are working, will be completed during Youth week, which begins today. Rustic fencing, signal towers, mountain shacks, and other camping and woodcraft exhibits will be located on Northerly island east of the Sky Ride tower.

Prof. Jean Piccard, twin brother of Prof. Auguste Piccard, who last year made a record flight into the stratosphere—53,856 feet—arrived at the World's Fair grounds yesterday. He is making arrangements for a flight from Soldiers' field early in July, which either he or his brother will make in an attempt to break the record established in Switzerland. Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle of the United States navy will pilot the balloon.

The 12 murals in the "History of Man" series, painted by John Norton of Chicago, will form a part of the exhibit of the Logan museum, Beloit college, in the Hall of Social Science. The Logan museum collection had its beginning at the Columbia exposition, when Frank G. Logan, Chicago, purchased the H. N. Rust prize winning collection for Beloit college. Ten cases of evidence of man's antiquity will be shown.

Lou Kreicker, philatelist, has been given the stamp collectors' concession at the fair. He has the exclusive right to make and sell officially marked first day covers, with the new Century of Progress 1 and 3 cent stamps, as well as special event covers, for stamp collectors.

A full sized structure of varicolored glass blocks, the first of its kind to be erected, is nearing completion on the Fair grounds. Two years of research and experiment were required before the Owens-Illinois Glass company produced this type of building material. The hollow, glass blocks, made in all colors, are designed for beauty and utility, and they permit the rays of the sun to shine through.

The Pioneer, one of the earliest commercial locomotives, built in Boston in 1851, was run under its own steam from the Pennsylvania yards at Normal avenue and Garfield boulevard to the Fair Grounds yesterday. The ancient wood burner is one of the exhibits of the Pennsylvania road and will be operated on the grounds during the Fair over tracks of the Illinois Central line.

The U. S. S. Macon, sister ship of the ill fated Akron, may come to Chicago on the opening day of the Fair, Saturday, Capt. Alger H. Dresel said yesterday in Akron, O. The ship, which has already had one test flight, is scheduled for a 48 hour cruise over the week-end and Capt. Dresel said the journey would be made along the lakes toward Chicago if weather conditions permitted.

The record for construction on the Fair grounds goes to the 120 by 108 foot building for Spoor's Spectaculum, in which three dimension color movies will be shown on a 38 by 64 foot screen. The building was started on May 4 and will be turned over to George K. Spoor, movie pioneer, by the contractor today.

Jascha Heifetz, the famous violinist, and his wife, Florence Vidor, visited the Hollywood theater yesterday while on their way to California by automobile.

DENTIST SENTENCED FOR SLAYING.

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 20.—(AP)—Dr. Lafayette J. Dull, 73, retired dentist convicted of the second degree murder of his son-in-law, Horace M. Randels, former star football player at the Kansas State college, was sentenced to 20 years in state prison by District Judge Allen G. Thurman today.

TRAFFIC RECORDS ALREADY BROKEN BY WORLD'S FAIR

Exposition Prepares for Visiting Hordes.

BY HAL FOUST.

The World's Fair has broken Chicago's automobile traffic records more than a week before the official opening next Saturday. Additional facilities are being rushed to completion to accommodate a concentration of motor cars without precedent in America.

With A Century of Progress closed last week to all but business visitors, as it will remain until the official opening, there was an average of approximately 10,000 vehicles parked all the time each day inside and immediately outside its fences.

The cars belonged to the 7,000 workmen engaged in finishing the exposition buildings and grounds and to the large number of business callers on The Fair management and concessionaires. By comparison, football games at Soldiers' field attract between 7,000 and 8,450 automobiles.

When The Fair is opened to the public it is estimated that 2,550,000 visitors from outside the metropolitan area will arrive in 1,000,000 motor cars during the 158 days of A Century of Progress. This is 70 per cent of the total arrivals expected from out of town. Chicago is a highway hub as well as the world's largest railroad center. There is a population of 60,000,000, owning 12,000,000 automobiles, within 500 miles, or a long day's drive, of the city.

Maj. E. S. J. Irvine of the United States corps of engineers, loaned by the war department to supervise transportation for the World's Fair, expects an attendance of 250,000 persons at Saturday's opening, to be followed by a gate of 350,000 on Sunday.

"The bulk of these crowds," said Maj. Irvine, "will be Chicagoans. The number from out of town will grow when the schools close for the summer, when the large conventions get under way, and when the more popular vacation season arrives.

Making Traffic History.

'We are going to make traffic history. We have studied all previous large expositions as a basis for our planning, but the automobiles and highways have been improved so rapidly in the last few years and the popularity of motor car transportation has grown so much that our most careful calculations can be little better than our best guesses."

Paid admissions before the opening of the fair exceeded previous estimates so much that a general widening of walks and roadways was started last week and will be finished well before Saturday. Last Sunday, with the public still admitted to the grounds, 47,915 paid to enter and see little more than the exteriors of the buildings. Crews of laborers are engaged night and day, not excepting Sunday.

Build Pedestrian Ramp.

On the outer drive east of the Fair grounds is the scene of the greatest activity in the preparations for handling the traffic. As an extension of the 11th street bridge over the Illinois Central tracks, columns of steel were raised yesterday for a passerulle to the exposition entrance. On Friday, with the materials just being delivered, Maj. Irvine predicted that this pedestrian ramp over the vehicular driveway will be in service next Saturday. That's typical of the dispatch of A Century of Progress preparations.

The Chicago Surface Lines, within 24 hours after city council authorization, put three crews to work on eight hour shifts to extend the 22d street tracks eastward over the 23d street viaduct and thence north just east of the Illinois Central railroad for a loop terminal at the 18th street entrance to the Fair. Maj. Irvine estimated that this new line will be in operation about June 1 and that the Roosevelt road extension eastward on a viaduct to be built over the Illinois Central railroad will be finished about July 15.

Bus Line Shuttle Service.

Bus shuttle lines will operate from the loop, from the Union and North Western railroad stations, from the elevated's enlarged station at Roosevelt road, and from the north, the south, and west sides directly to the Exposition entrance. A taxicab and bus stand with a capacity of 1,000 vehicles has been provided at the Fair grounds.

On railroad property just west of the drive, the Seventh Street Garage company is finishing a pay parking lot with a capacity of 7,000 automobiles. Ramps are at 19th and 27th streets, with a pedestrian bridge over the drive to the Fair grounds at 20th street. Other parking lots are opening immediately west of the tracks.

Other passerules, over the I. C. and over the outer drive, are receiving their finishing paint at 18th street, at 23d street and at 31st street. The one at 18th street will also serve new loading platforms for the railroad. Another pedestrian ramp is being built at 35th street by the south park board, but it will not be ready for service next Saturday.

Drill Army of Attendants.

An army of attendants is being drilled to handle the crowds at the Exposition. There are 1,500 guides, 300 policemen, 36 firemen and 80 Pinkerton men on duty at the grounds. The city of Chicago has added 200 men to its traffic police division.

The motorist visitor approaching Chicago will encounter A Century of Progress route markers approximately 75 miles from the city. These blaze preferred trails into Chicago and to the Exposition grounds. Their general scheme is to keep visitors away from loop congestion.

Fifteen to thirty miles from the loop, the visitors will pass official information booths. There information can be obtained on hotels, tourist camps, and rooming houses, as well as directions to the addresses of friends or relatives. Ten of these booths are to be finished by Saturday and others are under construction so that they will soon be found on all the main highways converging at Chicago.

On the outskirts of the city 8,000 modern tourist cabins are nearing completion. They will offer accommodations, such as linen and maid service, rarely found in older automobile camps. Sanitation will be under close state and city supervision. Rates are advertised as low as $18 a week.

SPEEDY MODERN DAYS SAFER THAN BACK IN POKEY '93

Death Rate Is Halved Since Old Fair.

The visitor to A Century of Progress will be twice as safe in respect to health and accidents as was the venturesome fellow who attended the Columbian Exposition in Chicago forty years ago. This was revealed in a report made public yesterday by Dr. Frank J. Jirka, director of the state department of health.

The death rate from all causes in Chicago in 1893 was 21.6 per 1,000 population, as compared with 9.8 per 1,000 population in 1932. Chief among the hazards of the Columbian Exposition were typhoid fever and diphtheria. Then, too, accidental death from horse-drawn vehicles and by asphyxiation rated high among the perils of the Fair of 1893. A great number of the asphyxiation cases, Director Jirka pointed out, were due to blowing out the gas lights of the time.

Typhoid Rate Declines.

The death rate from typhoid fever has declined from 53.5 per 100,000 population in 1893 to 0.4 per 100,000 population in 1932. Diphtheria claimed a death rate of 117.1 per 100,000 population as compared with 1.9 per 100,000 population in 1932.

More than 6,000 persons had typhoid fever in Chicago in 1893 and 670 died of the disease, the report said, as compared with 102 cases of typhoid fever and 14 deaths in 1932. There were 68 deaths and 1,266 cases of diphtheria in Chicago last year as compared with 1,467 deaths and about 5,000 cases of the disease in 1893.

"Railway accidents caused 31 deaths per 100,000 population during 1893," says the report, "while automobiles were charged with a total accident rate of 26 per 100,000 in 1932. The aggregate fatal accident rate from railroads, wagons, street cars, and other forms of transportation in 1893 was 41 per 100,000 people. Last year the aggregate mortality rate from accidents involving railroads, street cars, automobiles, trucks, buses, and other forms of transportation was 30.

"Even the risk of personally inflicted violence has declined. While the homicide rate was put down at 8 per 100,000 in 1893, suicide was charged with 28, the two together making a rate of 36. In 1932 the recorded homicide rate was 12.8, while suicide was charged with 16.9, giving an aggregate of 29.7. The combined rate is seen to be much lower than in 1893."

Other Death Rates Drop.

The report also pointed out that the rate of death by accidental asphyxiation has dropped from 7.2 per 100,000 population in 1893 to 1 per 100,000 in 1932, and the fatalities from accidental burns from 9.6 per 100,000 people in 1893 to 3.6 last year.

"The greater safety results from work accomplished and plans made by A Century of Progress management and by the city and state health departments," Dr. Jirka said. "All eating places, foods and drinks and all comfort stations on the Exposition grounds will be under strict supervision from the sanitary standpoint. Automobile tourist camps both within the city and elsewhere in reach of the exposition will be required to maintain definitely specified sanitary requirements by the state department of health. Inside Chicago the city health department will see to it that no avilable risk to health will result from a lack of sanitation."

Mercury at 82 in New York; 9 Degrees Under Record

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—With the mercury rising to 82, or 20 degrees above the normal for May 20 and just nine degrees under the record of 91 for that date established in 1903, New York experienced today the warmest weather so far this year.

Trade Activity Is Better, Says Bankshares Report

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20.—[Special]—The Wisconsin Bankshares corporation, which has holdings throughout Wisconsin, today announced that "since the end of March, business activity has scored a good recovery."

ALL BUILDINGS OF FAIR PROPER ARE COMPLETED

Opening Parade of 10,000 Fully Arranged.

All plans have been completed for the two mile parade and opening ceremonies of A Century of Progress next Saturday, and by that time the great physical plant, covering 424 acres, will be ready for the 300,000 visitors expected on the first day, officials of the Exposition announced yesterday.

Some 7,000 workmen have been on the job continuously since the grounds were closed to visitors last Tuesday and perceptible changes have been wrought each day as building after building has been completed, new colors have appeared in the three mile stretch of modernistic blues, greens, yellows, reds, and silver and fresh sod has been laid over the landscaped grounds. The buildings of the Fair proper are all finished and most of the exhibits have been installed, Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, managing director, said. Work remains to be done on some of the commercial buildings and private concessions.

10,000 to Be in Parade.

The two mile parade, in which 10,000 persons will march, will form at Chicago and Michigan avenues and start south at 10 o'clock. Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is to open the Fair on behalf of President Roosevelt, Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Harry S. New, United States commissioner to the Fair, and Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, will ride in the first division, escorted by the Chicago Black Horse troop. There will be army, navy and marine corps, civic and fraternal organizations, national groups and many bands in the procession.

Mr. Farley is scheduled to make the opening address in Soldier's field, where a great 4 level stage has been constructed at the north end, at about noon. He will be introduced by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition, and following his address Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly will speak.

Pageant by 40 National Groups.

Back of the main platform a stand seating 500 has been erected and 40 national groups, wearing their native costumes and carrying the flags of their homelands, will take their places here before the arrival of the official party and parade. They will file out from the west stands as the band of the Chicago Board of Trade post of the American Legion plays bits of their national anthems, and then place their standards around the United States flag. With the army, navy and marine corps they will stand at salute while the band plays the "Star Spangled Banner."

The big moment of the opening day is to occur at about 9 o'clock in the evening, when a beam from the star Arcturus, which has been traveling earthward since the Columbian exposition 40 years ago, will be caught at Yerkes observatory and flashed to the Hall of Science. Instantly the entire fair grounds will be flooded with varicolored lights from the millions of electric bulbs and miles of neon, krypton and helium tubes.

Following this ceremony there will be a concert by a huge symphony orchestra and Lawrence Tibbett, noted baritone, will sing. The day's ceremonies will close with a spectacular fireworks display.

DEBTS, TARIFFS 2 BIG PROBLEMS FOR ROOSEVELT

Wants Legislation Passed by June 15.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Two difficult problems—war debts and the tariff—were thwarting President Roosevelt today as he planned to insure an early adjournment of the congress.

The President has shown an awareness that business can not forge ahead rapidly until business men can feel secure against the passage of wild laws, and he is anxious that congress should adjourn quickly as soon as it has acted upon the program he has devised for economic recovery.

Thus far Mr. Roosevelt feels that his batting average with congress has been 1.000—the bills he has sent to the capitol have come back ready for his signature in much the same shape as he sent them.

Program Still Uncomplete.

But the President and his advisers are frankly fearful of what may result when he sends his proposals for tariff and war debts legislation, and even at this late stage he is represented as undecided upon the recommendations he will make.

For the last week, it was learned today, various senators and congressmen at the President's request have been sounding out their colleagues on just how far they would go in voting to give authority on tariff and debt settlements to the President. The result of this survey, it was reported, was not encouraging.

Mr. Roosevelt has been represented as holding no hope that any of America's foreign debtors will make payments on June 15, the next due date on the war debt. His advisers declare the President is of the opinion that in order to avoid a strained feeling at the world economic conference, upon which he has built such high hopes for world betterment, it would be better if the United States agreed to a reëxamination of the debts question and postponed the June 15 payments pending such reëxamination.

Many Against Yielding.

But he has been informed that many congressmen and senators are definitely committed to a stand against yielding any further to the European debtors, and the President has been made aware that if the debt issue is raised a big battle will ensue, involving splits in the Democratic ranks, which he has held fairly secure up to now.

The President until a short time ago had planned to ask for full authority to deal with the foreign debtors and to settle with them as he felt best, and he is still anxious to obtain as extensive a power over the debts as can be gained from congress. But some of his advisers are counseling him now, it is known, to ask for no authority beyond that sufficient to permit him to postpone the June 15 payment without in any way prejudicing the rights of the United States to demand full payment.

The tariff question presents an equally serious hurdle for the President to clear, and, unlike the debts question, it is admittedly one which can not be evaded.

The President is determined to have his delegates go into the London conference backed with power vested in him to adjust tariffs as he sees fit, and even should the London meeting end in complete failure the President still would desire the power so that he could start immediate separate negotiations with foreign nations toward the signing of reciprocal trade agreements.

But the attitude of congressmen, as discovered in the survey made for the President, is one of extreme reluctance to give up jurisdiction over a matter which has provided much "sugar" for them over many years.

FRANCE EXPECTED TO DEFAULT ITS JUNE 15 DEBT PAYMENT TO U. S.

PARIS, May 20.—(AP)—Belief that France will default on her $40,738,000 debt payment due to the United States June 15 approached certainty tonight in quarters close to the government. In the same quarters it was expected that Great Britain and other debtor nations would also fail to make their debt payments to the United States on June 15.

Premier Daladier was described as being convinced President Roosevelt will not modify his demand that France must pay the interest installment defaulted last December before the American government will make any move for a new settlement.

The head of the French government is likewise convinced, it is understood, his parliament will decline to pay either the interest or the principal, since it no longer has any hopes for

BRITISH FIGURES HOLD PEDESTRIAN A HIGHWAY PERIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—The pedestrian who is killed on British streets and highways usually has himself to blame.

A report compiled by the National Safety First association, based on the examination of 3,029 fatal accidents in England and Wales during the second half of 1932, puts 85.7 per cent of all deaths down to the human element. Out of this figure pedestrians are culpable to the extent of 39.2 per cent.

Motorcyclists caused no fewer than 18.4 per cent of fatal accidents, while motorists are let off with 13.5 per cent. Bicyclists are the most innocent users of the streets, for their figure is only 13.1 per cent of fatal accidents caused by human negligence.

Many of the deaths which occur in Britain could be avoided if more people stayed home between 10 and 11 p. m. This is the most dangerous hour of the twenty-four. The period from 5 to 8 p. m. is the next most dangerous.

U. S. WILL NOT GET SNARED BY EUROPE—LEWIS

Willing to Give Advice, but Not to War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] today vigorously denied on the senate floor that the United States has entered or will enter any "consultative pact" with other world powers under which the armed forces or economic influence of this country will be brought into play to prevent war between foreign nations.

Desiring, he said, to correct a false impression being presented to the world by the Europen press, the senator declared that while this country is willing to give friendly counsel in the settlement of international disputes, "it must not be assumed that our President has lent himself to any arrangement that would bind this nation to make herself a party to a war."

Join in Family Harmony.

To the purpose of a consultative pact under which this country would agree merely to join in a "family harmony" effort to settle conflicts, the Illinois senator declared himself amenable.

"But under no circumstances," he said, "does the United States agree or will it agree to enter any pact or be a party to any pact that shall decide as to the duty of one foreign nation to another foreign nation, or to adjudge one guilty of omission or commission in its relation to another foreign nation. And under no circumstances now presented to civilization will the United States enter into an understanding or be a party to an agreement that places the army and navy of the United States behind any conflict between European or Asiatic aggressors in any controversy."

Statements made by the press in Europe, said Senator Lewis, "leave the impression that the United States has reversed its historical policy of all the past and proposes now to take upon itself the direction of European countries along the lines of political morality and international virtue—and wherever either of these is violated, according to the judgment of those who sit in consultation, there shall be punishment inflicted as may be directed or concurred in by the United States.

Must Not Arouse Suspicion.

"This punishment is intimated as being something in the form of withdrawal of credit, withdrawal of commercial association and the supplying of necessary force if conflict is brought on through the assault of what is called the aggressor.

"At the outset, as we enter upon consultations looking to the amelioration of trade operation," he continued, "there must be nothing done or said with the purpose of arousing the suspicion of nations against the United States. The United States enters upon the career of a good friend to all peaceful and well meaning nations, but it in no wise becomes the agent of any people in any foreign world to take on their military conflict."

Senator Lewis demanded that the war debt settlement question be divorced from all other world problems. Any conference looking toward their amelioration, he said, should be held in the United States in an unprejudiced environment.

War Debts Parley Separate.

"As to the conferences that may come on as to the mollifying terms of the war debts which are now due, or any extenuation or changes in the present status of these debts, let it be understood that this particular subject matter should be taken up independently of the other questions now at issue and should be assured of a conference free of the influence of prejudice or an adverse environment admitting or looking to any new status of the debts.

"Such a conference should be held in the United States and appropriately at Washington." In this manner, he said, "all countries will be represented in a land and within a surrounding where no past prejudices or any ancient conflicts could influence or bend the surroundings into an entanglement that deprives all engaged in the consideration of every fairness and of all justice."

EVANSTON TO CALL IN 'EIRMA' MONEY AND GIVE UP PLAN

The Evanston "Eirma" money plan, which was started last winter to aid in the sale of the suburb's tax anticipation warrants, is to be abandoned gradually and the money called in, Peter Rapp, head of the Evanston merchants' organization, said yesterday. The net result has been to dispose of $2,000 worth of city warrants through the sale of stamps which merchants were required to buy and affix to the money each time it was used.

The backers of the plan insist that it would have worked with complete satisfaction if it had the coöperation of the merchants. It was used chiefly by city employés and has been less and less in evidence as opposition developed. Money is in the bank to redeem each Eirma dollar when the requisite number of stamps are on it.

The Eirma money plan was offered to the ways and means committee of the national house of representatives on Friday as a method of raising 220 million dollars to finance the public works industrial control bill. It was suggested to the committee by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university.

The Eirma money takes its name from the initials of the Evanston Independent Retail Merchants' association, which sponsored its issuance.

100,000 PETITION WHITE HOUSE FOR ARMS REDUCTION

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—International agreements for universal total disarmament, and drastic cuts meanwhile in appropriations for the army and navy were urged today in nation-wide petitions presented at the White House and in addresses delivered today by Senator Borah, Miss Katherine Devereaux Blake of New York, Alma Gluck, and Dr. Harlow Shapley, under the auspices of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The petitions, bearing more than 100,000 signatures collected in a month's campaign by league members in 35 states, were presented by Mrs. Gerard Swope of New York, chairman of the league committee on disarmament, to Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt.

Senator Pittman, chairman of the foreign relations committee who accompanied the peace envoys to the White House, told Mr. Howe that women in all the states represented by the petitioners were "urging and sustaining the President's efforts for world disarmament."

The "widespread sentiment for disarmament," Mrs. Swope said, was indicated by the widely varying interests of the petitioners, among whom were governors, mayors, economists, writers, artists, scientists, teachers, bishops, social workers, and labor leaders.

After leaving the White House the delegation assembled in Farragut square for an open air peace meeting.

THREE JUDGES ARE QUIZZED ON RECEIVERSHIPS

Defend Appointments in Their Courts.

The Sinnett legislative committee, which is seeking remedies for receivership and foreclosure evils, yesterday heard three of the five chancellors of the Cook County Circuit and Superior courts whom it had invited to give testimony. The three judges who testified were Robert E. Gentzel of the Superior court; and Stanley H. Klarkowski and Michael Feinberg, both of the Circuit court.

The two judges who did not testify were William J. Lindsay of the Superior court and Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court. Soon after the hearing began Judge Lindsay entered the city council chambers, where the session was held, but he departed a few minutes later. Judge Fisher did not appear.

Follow Bar Questionnaire.

The questions asked the three judges who testified were included in a questionnaire sent to all judges nearly a year ago by the Chicago Bar association when it was preparing its report on receiverships and fees.

Judge Gentzel also was questioned about the failure of receivers in his court to pay delinquent taxes in full before receiving fees.

Judges Feinberg and Klarkowski charged that the Chicago Bar association, which refused to indorse them in a recently published report on judicial candidates for the June 5 election, had been influenced by a "receivership ring."

State Representatives Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville and Ole E. Benson of Ottawa, the two Republican members of the legislative committee, were joined at yesterday's hearing by Representative Thomas P. Sinnett, Rock Island, Democrat, who is chairman of the committee. Sinnett had nothing to say and left before the hearing closed. His attitude was interpreted as giving support to the rumor that the Democratic party has lost interest in the investigation.

Key Questions Listed.

The questioning of the judges was conducted by Assistant Attorney General James G. Skinner. The key questions as propounded by him from the bar association notes, to which he frequently referred, were:

1. In hearing applications for receivers do you appoint your own receiver or do you allow the parties in the suit to choose the receiver if there are no circumstances to arouse the court's suspicions of fraud in the case?
2. Do you choose the attorneys for the receiver or do you allow the appointee to choose his own lawyers?
3. Do you allow the parties to the suit to choose their own masters-in-chancery, or do you send cases to masters whom you choose?
4. Do you believe the system of allowing a percentage of the total amount involved in a foreclosure or receivership is proper in determining fees?
5. Do party affiliations or political considerations enter into your choice of receivers, attorneys, or masters-in-chancery?

Gentzel Is First Witness.

The first witness was Judge Gentzel. He said that he knew personally only 10 cut of 394 receivers he had appointed during 1930 and 1931 when he was beginning his service in the chancery division. The judge said that he made no distinction betwen appointment of individual or corporate receivers, providing the latter were banks or trust companies.

Judge Gentzel said that his appointments were usually made at the suggestion of counsel who appeared before him. The receivers' attorneys always were appointed by the receivers in his court, he said. With reference to masters-in-chancery, the judge said, he followed the same practice he used in appointing receivers.

"The exceptions to this rule I make only when I deem the case before me of importance to the public," said the judge. "Then I appoint a master in whom I have the greatest confidence."

Lists Names of Masters.

Skinner asked the names of the masters to whom most of the Gentzel appointments had gone. The judge replied that Howard K. Hurwith had received 33 cases; James B. Kaine, vice president of the First Trust and Savings bank, 22 cases; Frank J. Spencer, 57 cases; Logan L. Mullins, a brother-in-law of Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, 15 cases; William Garrison, 25 cases, and that a "large number" of cases had been assigned to Louis J. Behan.

Garrison, known among political workers as "Billy" Garrison, is the Republican committeeman of the 27th ward. He is known as a Homer Galpin man. Galpin was the political sponsor of Judge Gentzel when the latter was first placed on the judicial ticket. Behan was committeeman of the same ward before Garrison was elected a year ago.

Skinner did not mention Garrison's name. He asked, however, how it happened that Behan was given so many cases.

"I have known Louis Behan for many, many years," replied Judge Gentzel. "I consider him one of the best lawyers in the city and I have great respect for his ability. He was my classmate in school, and was my former law partner."

Cross Carries On Quiz.

The questioning was continued by Representative Cross.

Q.—Do you make an effort to have your receiver pay taxes as a first lien on properties under their control? A.—I entered a blanket order last December and threatened to summarily remove any of them who failed to pay taxes.

Q.—Did you enforce the order? A.—Yes, I had several of them in before me.

Q.—Have you ever encountered any examples of receivers who got a commission on ice boxes or any other purchases? A.—I've heard of it but never encountered it myself.

Q.—Why are there so many "professional" receivers in Cook county? A.—Conditions bring it about. The professional receiver is a man who is experienced and trustworthy.

Q.—Is there any appointment of receivers for political reasons? A.—I don't think so.

At this point there was a burst of laughter from the galleries of the council chambers which were crowded with spectators.

Q.—Do you appoint people close to you politically? A.—No. I do like to appoint some one I know rather than some one I don't know, however.

Judge Gentzel was excused and Judge Feinberg followed him on the stand. Judge Feinberg had issued a statement charging that the bar association had attacked him during the primary in April, 1932, because of political reasons. Without waiting for questions he enlarged on this statement.

"In 1929," he said, "I was appointed chairman of a judges' committee in the Circuit court to investigate the assets of all receivers. To my astonishment I found that over 400 were then in the court and that among the number were some absconders, and in three or four cases men who had lost their real estate licenses were acting as receivers.

"I reported my findings and made my position plain. When I became chancellor soon afterward I believed it highly dangerous to appoint a receiver as chosen by counsel and unknown to the court. I made it a rule that attorneys would have to propose a bank or trust company or outstanding individual.

Charges "Receivership Ring."

"In 1930 I called my receivers into my chambers and asked them how they picked their counsel. I told them to be frank with me. To my astonishment they were. They said that when a lawyer prepares to file his foreclosure bill he goes to the man whom he wishes to have appointed receiver and announces the fact. Then he demands that the proposed receiver choose a law firm—say B firm—as his attorney.

"The lawyer then goes into court and has the receiver appointed and B firm is chosen as the receiver's attorney. The B firm reciprocates by doing the same thing for the first lawyer or his firm."

Judge Feinberg said he then proclaimed himself against any "receivership ring."

"In doing so," he declared, "I antagonized some of the members of the bar because I refused them the right to control not only the complainant but the receiver and his attorney in cases they handled. Maybe that is why I am not in the good graces of the Bar association."

Judge Feinberg denied that he ever had appointed a receiver or lawyer because of political reasons. He said that the percentage fee method of fixing fees was good if scaled down. He said that receivers and their lawyers should not be chosen by the complainants, since friendly relations between these parties led to collusion.

Questioned by Legislator.

Judge Feinberg was questioned by Representative Cross.

Q.—Did you follow the Bar association schedule of fees? A.—Well, the bar association adopted their schedule of fees just to criticize chancellors. After all, the members of the bar benefit most from fees.

Q.—What is your idea of the fees allowed masters? A.—The statutory fee of 15 cents a portfolio [a page of evidence or a single exhibit] for masters is a monstrosity. It should be corrected and perhaps $1 or $10 allowed masters for certifying all exhibits. It would stop the practice of putting every one of thousands of bonds into evidence and piling up fees.

Q.—Did you make any appointments because of political affiliations? A.—Absolutely no. Insinuations were made against me for political reasons.

Klarkowski on the Stand.

Judge Klarkowski took the stand. His first statement in answer to the question of how he appointed receivers was:

"I generally use my own judgment because I found I couldn't trust the suggestions of lawyers who came before me. I think the Chicago Bar association ought to keep its own skirts clean before attacking others."

Skimming rapidly over questions asked other judges Assistant Attorney General Skinner asked Judge Klarkowski if party affiliations had entered into his appointments. Klarkowski denied this. The other questions follow:

Q.—But surely men influential politically asked you for such appointments? A.—Of course they did. They ask all judges. But I told them that appointments were my own problems.

After a few more questions the hearing closed, adjourning until next Friday.

U. S. CONDUCTS SECRET INQUIRY INTO MILK WAR

Move for Control of Chicago Supply Reported.

Madison, Wis., May 20.—[U. P.]—Federal authorities are conducting a secret investigations of causes behind the Wisconsin milk strike. That was learned from an authoritative source today.

Information that the strike was part of a program to obtain control of the supply and distribution of the Chicago milk market for certain individuals rather than to raise the price received by the farmers came to authorities during the course of strike activities and furnished the basis for the investigation now in progress.

Immediately before the strike truce was declared a delegation of 50 farmers, announcing they were "no longer" members of the Wisconsin Coöperative milk pool which engineered the strike, sought aid in protecting their Chicago market.

Warfare Lasts 6 Days.

The strike, which saw gas bombs, bayonets, and armed forces of civil and military law used to quell disturbances and riots caused by picketing farmers, came to an end after six days' duration.

Gov. Albert G. Schmedeman treated with leaders of the pool, and the strike was called off after they reached an agreement on a future program which will give consideration to the pool's demands.

While the strikers claimed to have won a victory and termed the respite a truce which will be broken unless their demands are met after further consideration, the governor's position seemed to have been to end the strike troubles as soon as possible without regard for other than immediate consequences.

Farmers See Governor.

A committee of more than 50 farmers from five counties conferred with Gov. Schmedeman today on a projected plan for establishement of "law and order" organizations to protect non-striking farmers.

They sought official organization to sue strikers for damages resulting from dumping or destruction of milk and to halt threats from strikers.

While the state is recalling National guardsmen stationed throughout the state to prevent disorders, the pool laid plans for defense of about 300 strikers being held on riot charges and for organization on a national scale and affiliation with the National Farmers' union and the American Federation of Labor.

CANNON TO OPEN 'LET'S GO!' WEEK HERE TOMORROW

Mayor Urges All to Join in Noisy Salute.

The booming of guns tomorrow will announce the official opening of "Let's Go, Chicago" week. And in anticipation of the week's activity, which, it is hoped, will speed the return of better times, Mayor Kelly yesterday urged every resident of Chicago to plan to take some part in the program for business restoration.

So that every one will be apprised of the start of the prosperity campaign the mayor has arranged for a cannon salute at 9 a. m. and he asks all Chicago to join in a "sound" salute at noon. Factories, railroad engines, and water craft, he said, should blow their whistles; all churches and other institutions should ring their bells, and all automobilists shoud toot their horns for one minute.

Inspiration for Visitors.

"'Let's Go, Chicago'," the mayor said, "on a week of buying and hiring and cleaning up which will be an inspiration to the thousands of visitors coming here for the great Exposition.

"On Monday Chicago undertakes a period of activity which, all of us hope, will speed the return of better times. During this week I urge every resident of Chicago to do his bit in the program of business restoration.

"Buy something now while prices are still low.

"Hire some one now while jobs are badly needed.

"Clean up and dress up the city in preparation for the opening of the World's Fair next Saturday."

City Furnishes Posters.

The city, the mayor promised, will be doing its part. Merchants have been asked to display large posters advertising the prosperity campaign in their windows. These posters are being furnished free by the city. They have been given to policemen with instructions to request the shopkeepers on their beats to display them.

George M. Cohan, veteran actor, who is playing at a local theater, pledged the mayor his aid in making the campaign a success. Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, a friend of Mayor Kelly's, who was in the office when Mr. Cohan called, also spoke enthusiastically of the prosperity drive.

POLICEWOMAN CAPTURES 2 BOYS IN STOLEN AUTO

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 82; recovered, 72 [from police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Friday].

Two youths in a stolen automobile were arrested yesterday after a chase by Policewoman Alice McCarthy of the south park police. The youths, who are held at the Woodlawn station, are Chris Maropolis, 19 years old, 1515 East 70th street, and Clifford Ryan, 16, of 6322 Stony Island avenue. Miss McCarthy, standing on the Jackson park golf links, saw the youths get into the automobile and drive away. She commandeered a car and arrested them two blocks away. The automobile was stolen from Thomas Whennan, 7116 St. Lawrence avenue, who was playing on the links.

FRENCH TO TOAST LINDY TONIGHT; 6TH YR. OF FLIGHT

LEBOURGET, France, May 20.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's landing at Lebourget, after his epochal flight, will be celebrated tomorrow, the sixth anniversary of his arrival.

Glasses will be raised in a toast to him at 10:26 p. m., the recorded minute of his descent, by members of the National Aeronautic association, Paris chapter. A number of trans-Atlantic fliers, Coste Bellonte, Assolant, Lefevre, Lotti, and others of the famous high seas navigators are expected to attend.

By order of the air ministry the field where the American flyer landed will be flooded by lights. Searchlights will sweep the sky and a military airplane will drone down to earth so that guests on the field will get a real sixth anniversary sensation.

A dinner will be given in the building overlooking the airfield. From the windows of the restaurant many of the guests saw Lindbergh land six years ago.

MISSOURI BOY IS WINNER OF ORATORY TITLE

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—John Milton Phillips, of Kansas City, tonight was declared the winner of the national oratorical contest, for which sectional trials previously have been held in high schools in various parts of the country. Grace Mary Colliflower of Washington, D. C., was second, and George W. Oliver of Lake Wales, Fla., third.

NEW APPEAL DELAYS TOM MOONEY RETRIAL SET FOR TOMORROW

San Francisco, Cal., May 20.—(AP)—Legal complications arose here today to delay the opening of the newly granted trial of Thomas J. Mooney on an old murder indictment remaining against him as a result of the 1916 Preparedness day parade bombing.

Superior Judge Louis H. Ward, who granted the trial several weeks ago on motion of defense attorneys, announced a one day continuance of the case, which was to have started Monday. The delay was caused by an appeal filed with the State Supreme court yesterday by John O'Gara, law professor and former assistant district attorney, seeking to force the dismissal of the indictment.

Judge Ward said if the high court issued an alternative writ—an order necessitating further Supreme court proceedings on O'Gara's petition—Mooney will be returned to San Quentin prison pending a final decision.

5 MEN DROWNED IN LAKE WHEN BOAT CAPSIZES

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—(AP)—Five men were drowned in Lake St. Clair tonight when a motorboat which had rescued three men from a sinking sail boat upset. The victims were not immediately identified.

There were six men in the motorboat which upset. The only man rescued was William Miller of St. Clair Shores, a Detroit suburb.

Police said that there were three men in the motorboat passing nearby when a sailboat, which also contained three men, upset. The men in the motorboat rescued the men, and the overloaded motorboat upset. Three of the men swam part way to the shore before going down.

GETS 30 DAYS FOR $1.50 ROBBERY.

Judge George V. McIntyre in the Des Plaines street court yesterday sentenced Frank Short, 36 years old, to 30 days in the House of Correction on a charge of robbery. Edward Knapp, 20 South Des Plaines street, testified that Short took $1.50 from him last Wednesday at Washington boulevard and North Des Plaines street.

J. W. HARRIMAN STABS HIMSELF; FLIGHT IS TOLD

chased aspirin, bicarbonate of soda and a patented household remedy for indigestion.

Convinced by Newspaper.

The first hint that Mr. Welles had that his guest was Mr. Harriman, he said, was when a newspaper reporter telephoned him to ask if the banker were staying there. After reading a newspaper this morning with the account of the banker's disappearance Mr. Welles said he became convinced that Mr. Harriman was there under an assumed name.

Mr. Welles took no steps to inform the police, however, but said he was relieved when Inspector King, who had been informed of Harriman's suspected presence in the inn, arrived to be shown to the room occupied by Mr. Thomas.

Find Banker Is Ill.

Inspector King, with Lieut. Magee, a detective, and Joseph J. Manning, an agent of the department of justice, found a man in bed. He insisted that his name was Thomas.

"How are you feeling?" the inspector asked him.

"Not very good," Inspector King said the man replied. "I've got an upset stomach and the stuff I bought at the drug store doesn't seem to do any good."

The inspector found a hat with the initials J. W. H. The inspector called two doctors of Roslyn. They said the supposed Mr. Thomas was suffering from a slight attack of nervousness and indigestion.

Inspector King found the initials J. W. H. on labels in the man's coat and his trousers, and on his handkerchiefs.

While the inspector was debating what to do, Mr. Harriman's lawyers and son-in-law arrived. Mr. Wright identified his father-in-law officially.

Then followed the incidents that led to the suicide attempt. Mr. Wright's wife was the daughter to whom Mr. Harriman had left his longest "suicide note."

Letter to His Daughter.

The letters left yesterday by the banker at the nursing home indicated that he planned suicide. One to his daughter said:

"I do not know how to turn. I have been thinking so much day and night all these weeks, months, and years my head is in a whirl and I crave rest—just rest. And there is only one place it is to be found. I don't know what to do. I cannot tell you what this parting means. I am certainly irresponsible and the disgrace I have brought on you all must be attributed to that.

"However, if there is a 'hereafter' we must all be together again. But I want you to know, dear Peta, that regardless of any charges by bank officials, not one cent has ever been taken by me in any way. On the contrary, all I had saved, my life savings for mother and you, have gone into the bank. It has been my pride and 'monument,' so to speak, and it has all been swept to a miserable failure. Our boy—your brother—gone. My health gone. My entire fortune—gone. My bank—my pride—gone. My friends—gone.

Everything Is Gone.

"My reputation and good name—gone. All in four years. Gold bless you. Try and always to think kindly of me. My last request and prayer to you is to tenderly watch over your sweet mother, upon whom all this misery falls. She has always been so loving to me and thoughtful over my slightest desires. It drives me out of my mind to leave her this way—but I am out of my mind and irresponsible. Take care of her.

Affectionately and devotedly,
"Father."

A letter to Larry Burke and another to Sally Burke had the same note of despondency. In the letter to the former he wrote:

"Every cent I had in the world went into it," meaning the bank. To Sally Burke he wrote: "I have struggled on. But fate seems against me. And there is a limit to endurance. The limit has arrived and I must meet it."

Harriman is a son of the late John Neilson Harriman and a nephew of the late E. H. Harriman, railroad financier. He and his father helped to found the private banking firm of Harriman & Co. Later he withdrew from it to found the Harriman National bank, now in the hands of a conservator.

MANY BONUS VETS SIGN UP TO JOIN REFOREST ARMY

Radicals Call Those Who Sign Traitors.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—The "die-hard" element in the bonus camp at Fort Hunt, Va., where the more than 2,800 veterans demanding payment of their bonus certificates are encamped, outmaneuvered the "conservatives" this afternoon and forced adjournment of the mass meeting called to formulate plans for evacuation of the camp on Monday.

Their leaders promised the administration, host to the men since they arrived here, that they would depart for their homes at that time, but there is a small minority who are opposed to returning home and also to joining the reforestation camps.

Committee Disgusted.

Although the minority continued to charge those who signed tentative pledges to accept work in the reforestation corps as "traitors," large numbers today signified their intention of joining the forest camps when Fort Hunt is turned into a condition camp on Monday. Almost 1,600 marchers have signed up and officials at the camp believe that others will register before Monday morning.

Two members of the laison committee, disgusted with the number of men signing up as "axe swingers" today telephoned to Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, that the government was violating its agreement with the leaders by keeping open the registration tent at the camp. Gen. Hines gave them little encouragement and the registration continued.

The plan to stage a parade today to Arlington National cemetery and to the graves of the two bonus marchers who were killed in rioting here last year was abandoned in favor of a mass meeting. Disorder prevailed throughout the meeting.

150 Arrive from Chicago.

Several hundred new arrivals were reported during the day. In our group there were 150 from Chicago and western cities. They found the registration camp maintained by the veterans' administration at 6th and Pennsylvania avenue closed for good and had to hike to the camp, 14 miles distant.

When this was called to the attention of camp officials, they said it was "just too bad"

"The convention is over and you know it," they explained. "The men have presented resolutions to the President and are about to return home; but we will not refuse admittance to any man with an honorable discharge when he reaches the camp."

Insist It's Political Move.

Opponents of the reforestation offer charged that registration of men for the camps was a "political move."

The disorder evidences during the day caused government officials and Virginia state police to increase their surveillance of the camp.

Radicals Closely Watched.

The few of known radical tendencies are being closely watched, and new arrivals are being carefully examined to determine their status. Five men who heretofore have enjoyed the privileges of the camp have been advised to remain away hereafter because of "discrepancies" in their war records.

POLICE, FIREMEN PROTEST DOCKING OF 78 DAYS' PAY

After hearing the protests yesterday of members of the police and fire departments against being docked in pay for time they actually work, Mayor Kelly said that they have a just grievance and informed the delegation that he would ask the city council finance committee to remedy the condition if possible.

City employés are docked 78 days a year as an economy measure. Those outside the fire and police departments are docked for Sundays and Saturday afternoons when they do not work, which totals 78 days. The policemen and firemen, however, do not have 78 days off during the year and, consequently, are docked for time that they work.

"These departments, as others, have been loyal during our desperate financial situation," said the mayor, "and should be treated the same as other employés. I will ask the members of the finance committee to determine if there is anyway that this condition can be rectified."

GATHERS FUNDS FOR A CITY PAY DAY THIS WEEK

City Controller Szymczak yesterday sent out pleas to public utilities that have city franchises to make payments immediately of compensation due in June. Through the compensation payments, tax collections and sale of $500,000 tax warrants, the controller hopes to pay city employés this week for the month of February.

Payment of $450,000 to judges and clerks of election in the city for their services in the registration and canvas of voters last fall was begun yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough. Each judge receives $27 and each clerk $37. In addition the treasurer mailed out checks totaling $21,840 to the country town judges of election.

PROPOSED LEVY HITS MODERATE INCOMES HARD

House Gets Plan to Finance Public Works.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Increased income tax rates suggested to the house ways and means committee by Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, as a means of raising revenue needed to finance President Roosevelt's public works and reëmployment programs would add 50 to 100 per cent to the amount of tax now paid by persons of moderate incomes.

Under the present law the tax is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of normal income and 8 per cent above that amount, with surtax starting at $6,000. Under the suggestions of Mr. Douglas, the rates would be 6 per cent or 8 per cent on the first $4,000 of normal income, and 10 per cent or 12 per cent on amounts above that.

Table of Proposed Rates.

With the exemptions now allowed remaining the same, $1,000 for a single person and $2,500 for a married person and $400 for each dependent and the surtax rates remaining the same, the tax paid by a single person and by a married person with one dependent under the present law and under the Doulgas proposals would be:

Says Woman 'Froze' Plane 'Stick,' Causing Fatal Crash

Deputy Coroner J. J. Woeltjens, in charge of inquiries into airplane fatalities, expressed the opinion yesterday that Roy Wilson, 34 years old, owner of a flying field at Schiller Park, was killed Friday night when Mrs. May Olsen, a student pilot, "froze" the controls of the three place Waco biplane in which the two were flying. The ship crashed on the Peter Van Bergen farm near Park Ridge. Mrs. Olsen is expected to recover. The inquest was continued until July 14, pending Mrs. Olsen's convalescence.

DEMAND $25,000 FROM BROKER ON KIDNAP THREAT

Bronxville, N. Y., May 20.—(AP)—An attempt to extort from $25,000 to $100,000 from Henry Lyons, an official of the New York Life Insurance company, on pain of kidnaping his son, James, 4, was disclosed by police tonight after several attempts were made to trap the writer of the extortionist letters. Lyons is a member of the brokerage firm of Hornblower & Weeks.

Neighbors said the Lyons family was spending the week-end in Boston at the home of Mrs. Lyons' father, the wealthy James J. Phelan, financier and only American Catholic layman to be knighted by the pope with the order of the Malta.

The first of the letters was received by Lyons ten days ago and was postmarked New York City. Lyons consulted with New York City detectives and, following the instructions, this advertisement was inserted in a newspaper:

"Dutch—I am willing to pay a reasonable price if you will leave me alone.—Bobby."

The extortionist answered, setting a time and place for meeting. Detectives were placed at the spot, but no one showed up. A similar meeting was arranged later, but it, too, was fruitless.

Wrecking Contractor Dies as Wall Falls Upon Him

Anthony Madonia, 37 years old, a wrecking contractor, was killed yesterday when he was caught under a falling wall in a building at 326 North Ashland avenue, which he was tearing down. He lived at 2738 Chicago avenue. The structure which he was wrecking had once been a three story office building. The front had been ripped away to permit the widening of Ashland avenue several years ago. Madonia was directing work on the ground floor when the wall collapsed.

250 ATTORNEYS TO TAKE STUMP IN BENCH BATTLE

Speakers on Trucks Will Address Crowds.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The judicial campaign for the June 5 election is set to spring into action this week, with prospects that much of the platform discussion will be through members of the Chicago Bar association. The Democratic and Republican organizations are preparing to start affairs moving by Tuesday, both parties planning activities in behalf of the joint ticket of repeal delegates to the convention July 10 to ratify repeal of the eighteenth amendment, as well as for their judicial tickets. Both sides plan on a concentrated drive for the final ten days.

Some 250 lawyers who have volunteered to make speeches met yesterday at the bar association headquarters and planned a street corner campaign directed especially against the sitting Circuit court judges who were refused indorsement in the recent bar primaries. Batteries of talkers are to speak from the rear end of trucks at corners where crowds can be gathered, and the plan is to have the campaign going full tilt by the end of the week.

Get Radio Dispensation.

Meanwhile announcement was made of a dispensation from Washington whereby the bar association lawyers can speak over the radio without reciprocal opportunity for the opposition. The rule has been that in partisan talks by or against candidates both sides should be heard. Yesterday's ruling was that the association is not a political party, and is exempt from the restriction.

The truckend speechmaking was opened by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, yesterday noon. He addressed stockyards employés in front of Armour's employment office in the yards in behalf of the candidates sponsored by the bar association.

Explaining first how members of the association ballot on judicial candidates, Mr. Loesch then talked on the merits of those refused endorsement by the association—naming Judges Stanley Klarkowski, Michael Feinberg, Harry M. Fisher, John R. Caverly, D. J. Normoyle, D. M. Brothers, and George Fred Rush.

"Judge Fisher," said Mr. Loesch, "sustained the dog tracks against police efforts to put them out of business. He should not be returned to the bench. Judge Caverly is 'Hinky Dink' Kenna's man. Klarkowski and Feinberg are henchmen of former State's Attorney Crowe. In the bar association balloting Klarkowski was defeated six to one, Fisher by five to one, and the others four and three to one."

Mr. Loesch was introduced to the workers by Warren H. Sapp, general manager of Armour's.

Plea for Two Candidates.

The bar association has been asked by 461 of its members to include in its recommendations for Circuit court judges the names of Rupert F. Bippus and Harry C. Kinne, Republicans, who were only a few votes shy of landing among the winners in the recent bar primaries. The round robin points out that both men were indorsed as qualified for judicial office in the association's report.

Twenty judges of the Circuit court are to be elected June 5. Also two judges of the Superior court and a Probate judge to fill Gov. Henry Horner's old position are to be elected, while in the Seventh Supreme court district, which includes Cook county, Justice Frederic R. De Young, indorsed by the bar, is running for reelection without opposition.

In the bar primaries, the suggestion points out, Bippus and Kinne both ran ahead of seven sitting Circuit judges. The twenty highest candidates for Circuit judge are given a cross in the marked ballots of the association, and the round robin asks that the association in its literature point out that both Bippus and Kinne were only a few votes below the line. Harry S. Ditchburne, low man among the 20 high candidates, got 1,159 votes; Bippus was just below the border with 1,153 votes, and Kinne came next with 1,115 votes.

A Narrow Margin.

The statement of the 461 lawyers points out that Bippus got within six votes and Kinne within 44 votes of the vote received by the 20th candidate on the indorsed list, and it says:

"May we respectfully suggest that on all your sample ballots and other campaign literature the following notation appear below the list of candidates for the Circuit court:

"'In the above list a cross appears in the square before the names of the 20 candidates receiving the highest vote in the recent bar primary. Rupert F. Bippus and Harry C. Kinne, whose names also appear, received a very high vote, and the association considers them well qualified for judicial office.'

Raise Question of Policy.

"Surely the membership of the association as a whole do not consider Mr. Bippus or Mr. Kinne less well qualified than candidates who received practically the same vote.

"If these facts are not called to the attention of the public in your marked ballots, the association will be charged with attempting to force a list of only 20 candidates upon the public instead of merely advising the public which of all the 69 candidates are qualified for the offices they seek.

"We believe that our suggestion will place the association in a more favorable position before the public generally in that it will be apparent that the Bar association is recommending to the public as fit candidates all those men whose character, experience and personal attainments fit them to hold judicial office, instead of attempting to designate a slate of only 20 candidates."

CANDIDATES FOR CIRCUIT BENCH

(Election June 5)

EDGAR A. JONAS

Edgar A. Jonas, Republican candidate for the Circuit court, is 46 years old and was born in Manitowoc county, Wis. He taught school four years at Manitowoc. He was graduated from Chicago Law school and was admitted to the bar in 1909. He was a trustee of the Chicago public library board, 1918-'19. He was an assistant corporation counsel from 1919 to 1921.

For two years Judge Jonas was first assistant state's attorney of Cook county—1921 to the end of 1923. For three years he served as president of the board of the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, an honorary position.

For more than nine years Judge Jonas has been a judge of the Municipal court. He was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Municipal bench by Gov. Small in December, 1923, and in 1924 he was elected for a six year term. He was reëlected in 1930.

Judge Jonas was sponsor of the bail bond court and was its first judge. This court is estimated to have reduced bail bond evils one-half. For a year he presided over the Boys' court. He has served in all branches of the Municipal court, including a year and a half in the Court of Domestic Relations. Here he revised and rebuilt the social service. He worked for the establishment of the Felony court of Chicago and presided as its first judge. In four months this court reduced grand jury indictments one-half.

In the bar primaries in 1924 Judge Jonas received the highest vote in a field of 24 candidates, and again in 1930 he led the field of 24 candidates. In the recent bar primaries he was top man of the candidates who are not present Circuit judges. He landed in seventh place among the 20 indorsed, which included 12 sitting judges.

The bar association report said of Judge Jonas: "His public service has been of a high order; he is well qualified to be a judge."

Judge Jonas is married and lives at 5510 Sheridan road. He is president of the board of the Illinois Masonic Hospital association of Cook county.

TWO HOODLUMS ASK JURY TRIALS; ANOTHER IS FINED

James Catura, 27 years old, 2540 Emerald avenue, a bombing suspect now under indictment, was fined $50 and costs yesterday by Judge Joseph H. McGarry in the South State street court. He was charged with disorderly conduct by Sergt. Edward Waller of the detective bureau, who picked him up as a suspect on May 13 at West 23d street and Wentworth avenue.

After Catura was fined, two other hoodlums who were scheduled to face Judge McGarry asked for jury trials. Sam Hunt, known as the golf bag gunman, who is charged with carrying concealed weapons, was granted a jury trial, but his bond was raised by the judge from $2,500 to $10,000.

Anthony [Red] Kissane, west side hoodlum, who told the judge he is now a peanut machine vendor, was granted a jury trial on a charge of disorderly conduct. Both cases were sent to the jury branch of the court with a request from the state's attorney's office that they be tried as speedily as possible.

YOUTH IS KILLED AS GIRL DRIVER LOSES CONTROL

Frank De Wolf, 22 years old, 119 West Jefferson street, Wheaton, was killed early yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding went off the pavement in Roosevelt road, south of Lombard, in Du Page county. Ruth Leesley of Naperville, who was driving, and her sister, Arva, were slightly injured. Ruth Leesley said she lost control of the car.

There was one automobile death in Cook county yesterday, raising the total for the year to 349. The victim:

George Cartwright, 50 years old, 819 East 39th street. Died at the Michael Reese hospital. He was struck by an automobile at the outer drive and Oakwood boulevard on Nov. 22.

William Schemmels of Chicago was fatally injured early yesterday when the truck he was driving from Chicago to Grand Rapids left the road a mile south of South Haven, Mich. Schemmels, who was married, lived at 5535 Aberdeen street.

Bulgaria Condemns 4 Reds to Die; 5 Sent to Prison

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 20.—(AP)—A military court at Plovdiv today imposed death sentences on four communists, sent five others to prison for fifteen years, and acquitted two. The two defendants, all ex-soldiers, were charged with furthering a communist conspiracy among the troops and with stealing arms from barracks.

Dine in an environment that even before you are served, convinces you that here is excellence extraordinary. Charm, gentility, exquisite good taste. Quiet, restfulness—meticulous and alert service. Menus that provide a varied selection—food of extra-fine quality—and skillful preparation. In short, a lovely room to dine in, such as one would expect to find in the hotel-home catering to so many of Chicago's most distinguished people. Yet prices are invitingly moderate.

HOW TO OBTAIN MORTGAGE HELP TO SAVE HOMES

Pending Federal Program Is Explained.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—If you own a $15,000 home with a $10,000 mortgage on it, this is the way you would go about getting relief under the administration bill approved today by a senate subcommittee.

Although the bill is still subject to change, the procedure will be about the same in its final form.

You, or the holder of your mortgage, may approach a government agency to be created under the bill known as the Home Owners Loan corporation and ask for refinancing.

If you are paying 6½ per cent interest on your mortgage, but are unable to continue, the holder of it may agree to accept bonds issued by the corporation in exchange for the obligation.

Interest at 4 Per Cent.

He would only get 4 per cent interest, but it would be guaranteed by the government and would be tax exempt. In return for the sure interest payments and tax exemption he might agree to accept $9,000 in bonds for the $10,000 mortgage.

In either case, you would agree to repay the government corporation over a fixed period of years at 5 per cent interest.

In addition, the government would advance you cash for taxes and repairs, if necessary, which would be added to your debt, provided the total obligation did not exceed 80 per cent of the appraised value of your home.

If you are out of a job and temporarily unable to pay anything, the corporation could give you a three year postponement.

Interest Payments Cut.

Under these circumstances, in addition to any moratorium and any reduction in total agreed to by the holder of your mortgage, your annual interest payments would be reduced from $650 a year to $500.

If you own a $15,000 home and have worked the mortgage down to say $5,000, but are now out of a job and can not pay on that, the bill has a further provision to help you.

In this case, the holder of your mortgage probably would not exchange it for bonds because your home is such good security that he would rather foreclose.

To prevent this, the corporation could extend to you cash up to 40 or 50 per cent of the value of your home to pay off your debtor. You would turn the mortgage over to the corporation for security.

Instead of foreclosing immediately, the corporation then would give you time to get on your feet.

Gloria Swanson to Return to Europe with Husband

Hollywood, Cal., May 20.—(AP)—Gloria Swanson and her husband, Michael Farmer, Irish sportsman, are going back to Europe. "We wish to visit my children who are attending school in Switzerland," the film star said. "I will not be starting my next two pictures until fall, so we will spend the summer abroad."

WEST PARKS PUT GOLF LEASE ROW UP TO ADVISERS

President Says Horner Approves Action.

The question of what should be done about the two golf courses in the west park system has been placed in the hands of the citizens recreation advisory committee, Harry Joseph, president of the park board, announced last night. The leasing of the courses in Columbus and Garfield parks to a concessionaire raised opposition from various groups on the west side.

The group, which advises the park board on recreation matters, includes: Avery Brundage, Dr. Philip L. Seman, Miss Lea Taylor, Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, and Walter P. Powers.

"I talked the matter over with Gov. Horner informally several days ago," said Mr. Joseph, "and told him what had been done. He said that he was content with this disposition of the matter and the way we were running the board."

Denies Beer Is Sold in Parks.

Charges that beer is being sold in the park system are unfounded, according to Mr. Joseph. He declared that if beer has been sold on the grounds the board had not been informed. If there is any licensing needed, he explained, it will be taken up at the next board meeting. The city does not have license powers in the park system since it is a separate corporate body with its own police powers.

Mr. Joseph revealed that the former park board, headed by W. R. James, had signed five year contracts just before leaving office for concessions to run the comfort stations, a restaurant, checkroom privileges, ice cream, and wardrobe checking.

Answer Old Boards Lawyer.

"And now I have seen a statement," continued Mr. Joseph, "that Dan Roberts, former west park attorney, has said that the board cannot make concessions. He has effrontery to say this in the face of the fact that the past board, with his legal advice, tied us up on contracts for five years."

The west park board lost $17,000 on operating the golf courses last year. Under the concession plan, the board will not only save that sum, but in addition will obtain $5,000 for the privilege. Prices, according to terms of the contract, are to remain the same as in previous years.

RESCUE KIDNAPED POLICE SERGEANT, SEIZE CAPTORS

Two men who attempted to kidnap Sergt. Roy Scherdel of the Blue Island police were arrested yesterday by the suburban police as they were driving toward Chicago. The men held are Harrold Saward, 28 years old, 1506 East 62d street, and Edward Roberts, 29 years old, 1333 West 71st street.

The men seized Sergt. Scherdel, who is the desk sergeant at the police station, when he approached their trunk on Vincennes avenue in Blue Island after he had noticed them accosting several girls. As the truck drove north in Western avenue a Blue Island police squad car followed it. Sergt. Scherdel wrenched himself free from the kidnapers and turned off the truck's ignition. Before the men could start the car the squad car had overhauled them and they were taken into custody. Sergt. Scherdel said the men had threatened to kill him.

MISSOURI TOWN HIT BY TORNADO, DAMAGE IS HEAVY

Theater Unroofed; Light, Power Lines Down.

Brookfield, Mo., May 20.—(AP)—A tornado and a violent rainstorm struck Brookfield late today, causing widespread property damage. The city was plunged into darkness tonight because of wrecked electric lines. Telegraph and telephone wires also were down. A heavy rain fell.

The west end of the Brown shoe factory, in which 500 persons work, caved in, but no one was injured. A Burlington railroad roundhouse was unroofed. Two locomotives were buried under the debris.

A skating rink was wrecked. The roof was blown off the Plaza theater. Windows in stores were shattered and large trees felled.

Storm Swells Illinois River.

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—(AP)—Central Illinois tonight was swept by a rain, wind, hail and electrical storm that caused property damage and raised the crest of the Illinois river to a threatening stage.

A girl in Springfield was seriously injured by lightning. Quincy, Richfield, Carlinville, Staunton, Petersburg, Winchester 1 other towns reported heavy rains and high winds. Three persons were injured at Quincy.

Leaks were reported in the Illinois river levees eight miles west of Winchester. Families were said to be moving to higher ground for fear the levees would break. Sandbags were being piled around the dikes.

Wind Twists Off Church Steeple.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—(AP)—A terrific thunderstorm tonight spread damage throughout the Philadelphia area, and ended the year's hottest day. The temperature reached 86. The roof of the Berachan tabernacle here was struck by lightning and the steeple of the Trinity Lutheran church in Reading, Pa., was blown off. Throughout Pennsylvania and New Jersey roofs were ripped off by the wind.

MURAL BARRED BY ROCKEFELLER TO BE REPAINTED

New York, May 20.—(AP)—With portraits of Eugene V. Debs, Abraham Lincoln, and John Brown added to it, Diego Rivera will paint once again the proletarian mural barred from Rockefeller Center because the Mexican artist refused to delete a head of Lenin.

The Rand School of Social Science announced tonight Señor Riviera will place the mural on the walls of its building as a contribution to a drive for $17,000 to lift a mortgage and prevent foreclosure.

The portraits of Lincoln and Brown will dominate a panel symbolising the emancipation of the American Negro.

With the use of Debs' portrait in the mural, the Rand school said, special emphasis will be placed on the growth of the American labor movement under his leadership.

While the artist and his assistants work on the scaffold admissions will be charged to swell the mortgage fund.

CHILDREN AT PLAY IN OLD HOSPITAL FIND GIRL'S BODY

Houghton, Mich., May 20.—(AP)—Ontonagon county officials tonight were searching for a solution to the mystery surrounding the discovery of the dismembered body of a girl, apparently 15 to 17 years old, in a trunk in the basement of a former hospital at Mass City.

The Body was found by children playing in the basement of the frame building which had been unoccupied for more than seven years.

John Bennett, Ontonagon county prosecutor, said the features showed oriental characteristics. A certificate from a Chicago hospital was found near the trunk, and Bennett wired the hospital to discover whether it bore any relation to the body.

Minister to Colombia on Way Back to U. S.

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 20.—(AP)—Jefferson Caffery, United States minister to Bogota, left today for the United States on leave.

FALL FATAL TO BRICKLAYER.

CANADA STIRRED BY STORIES OF PRISON CRUELTY

Prisoners Testify About Inhuman Treatment.

BY GEORGE SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KINGSTON, Ont., May 20.—With fearsome tales of whippings, of being shackled for days to cell bars, days and months and even years in "the hole" in solitary confinement, Kingston penitentiary convicts on trial for participation in last October's penitentiary "riots" have succeeded in focusing the Canadian publicity spotlight upon penitentiary conditions which they claim to be inhuman.

Sixteen convicts are to be tried. But one case has been disposed of in three weeks and it resulted in the acquittal of an eastern Ontario lad who, according to testimony, went to the penitentiary at the age of sixteen, crying because he did not know who would look after his dog during his incarceration. His first cell mate, he said, was a "lifer," a murderer. Later he was put in a cell with a bank robber.

The penitentiary "riots," as they were called at the time, and which were deemed by the the authorities to be of a character to justify the hustling of half a battalion of militia to the penitentiary yard, are being represented by the convicts in Criminal court as merely "peaceful demonstrations" to call the attention of the Canadian people to the alleged inhuman practices behind the gray stone walls of the Kingston "pen."

Preferential Treatment.

The preferential treatment accorded about that time to half a dozen broker-swindlers, who were sent off to the green grass hills of Collin's Bay "preferred" penitentiary to serve their terms, and who met their wives in tête-à-tête during their alleged incarceration, is represented as having had a psychological effect upon the minds of the convicts in the Kingston penitentiary in precipitating last October's events.

The prisoners "rioted," according to most of the testimony to date, because they wanted "abolition of persecution, segregation of contagious disease cases, cigaret papers, newspapers, and an end to the censoring of better class magazines; abolition of the torturous "paddle" in the warden's court, and a fair chance to lay complaints before the prison authorities. They laid down their tools at 3 o'clock one October afternoon and gathered in the yard. The guards and warden were orderd up to "the mail bag room" for conference. And subsequent barricading of doors, and marshaling of guards in front of the three hundred rioting convicts, they said, occurred only when bullets from tower guards' rifles began to splotch the pavements and the walls of the penitentiary yard. The guards were to take whatever bullets were directed at the convicts.

Ottawa's penitentiary authorities ordered the court trials of those who are believed to have been the ringleaders. A former Ontario attorney general, William F. Nickle, K. C., has transformed what was to have been a prisoners' trials into a trial of the whole penitentiary system. All Canadians and former Canadians will remember Nickle as the member of Canadian parliament who two decades ago brought a cessation to the granting of titles to Canadians by the king. With his lawyer son, he is conducting the defense of these sixteen outlaws of society without hope of a dollar of remuneration because, he told THE TRIBUNE, "somebody has to look after the interests of the poor devils."

Cuts Into Flesh.

As a prelude to the tales of lashings, of assaults by guards upon helpless prisoners, of prisoners with sickening diseases using the same cups and dishes with others, of refusal of medical treatment to desperately sick men, and quick shackling to bars of men for speaking out of turn, Nickle produced in the Kingston trial court a penitentiary "paddle."

And how be produced it! Nonchalantly drawing the six foot thong of perforated leather out of his bag during examination, he examined its thirty-two suction-holes, uncoiled it and brought it down with a resounding whack.

The "paddle" has a wooden handle for better propulsion, and Nickle proceeded to draw into evidence the fact that its victims are shackled over a table; it can be twitched or "pulled" as it contacts the bare human body and made to tear flesh; or it can, and allegedly has been, given a direction in its application never intended by its inventor, which may send a man mad.

Nickle produced a prisoner who has been in penitentiary two years and has never been out of the dread "solitary confiment." He is "Two Gun" O'Brien, an admittedly dangerous holdup man, whose eyes, blinking from behind horn rim glasses, bely his reputation. O'Brien told the court he went to "the hole" the day he came in in 1931 for talking "pig Latin" to other prisoners. The warden charged him with planning to escape. He said the "pig Latin" was all the evidence that was necessary.

"I've been begging and pleading for work to do," said O'Brien in court, "but they haven't given me any."

He said he had passed his two years by walking up and down his cell, lying down in the cell, and for a while had occupied himself by skipping with a rope he had made out of rags. But the guards took it away from him."

O'Brien escaped from a Michigan institution and came to Canada, he said, "to go straight."

CLINIC REVEALS NEW LOW COST HOSPITAL PLAN

All-Inclusive Daily Fee Is Fixed at $4.50.

Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, president of United Medical Service, Inc., announced yesterday that his organization has completed plans to provide its patients with complete hospitalization at a cost of $4.50 a day.

This new service is arranged, he said, because of the increasing volume of work brought to the United Medical Service, and because of the refusal of the hospitals of the city, under medical society domination, to accept patients sent to them by the United Medical Service.

Typical of the low charges to be made under the new hospitalization plan, Dr. Berkowitz said, is the charge for obstetrical cases. For nine months' prenatal care, confinement, including ten days in the hospital, the services of trained physicians and nurses, and all laboratory and other items, the total fee will be $45, he said. This includes the physician's compensation, he pointed out.

"Fair to Public and Doctors."

Discussing other details of the hospitalization plan, Dr. Berkowitz said: "The $4.50 fee per day includes not only all hospital charges, such as medication, regular and special nursing care, laboratory and consulting facilities, but also includes the fees for physicians' and surgeons' services. Our hospitalization plan is not only fair to the public, but is fair to the medical profession as well.

"Our new service will compare very favorably with the average cost per day per patient at the county hospital, which is $2.60, and the average cost per day per patient at large private institutions, which runs from $6 to $8. We believe that the cost of medical care is capable of tremendous reduction—to the point that the only charity patients in hospitals will be those who are also receiving food, lodging and clothing from charitable agencies."

6,000 Patients in 4 Months.

The United Medical Service, situated at 23 East Jackson boulevard, has been in operation for four months. During that period, Dr. Berkowitz said, patients have been referred to the clinic by more than 1,200 physicians, and more than 6,000 persons have applied for treatment. The staff has been increased from 20 to 30 physicians.

Dr. Berkowitz said he was not ready to announce the name of the hospital which is now providing beds for clinic patients. He said the hospital service will be available, on application, to all physicians in the city, just as the facilities of the clinic itself are available. There is no attempt, he said, to force patients to leave their own physicians to receive the reduced rates being placed in effect by the clinic.

MARITIME DAY IS PROCLAIMED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today issued a proclamation designating May 22 of each year as "National Maritime day."

In issuing the proclamation the President called attention that on May 22, 1819, The Savannah left Savannah, Ga., on the first successful transoceanic voyage under steam propulsion.

Members of the Georgia delegation had urged the presidential action in commemoration of the voyage of The Savannah.

The proclamation said:

"Whereas in public resolution 7 approved May, 1933, it is stated that on May 22, 1819, the steamship The Savannah departed from Savannah, Ga., on the first successful transoceanic voyage under steam propulsion, thus making a material contribution to the advancement of ocean transportation; and

"Whereas by said resolution the President of the United States is authorized and requested annually to issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to observe May 22 of each year as national Maritime day;

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me, do hereby issue my proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to observe May 22, 1933, as national Maritime day by displaying the flag at their homes or other suitable places, and I hereby direct that goverment officials display the flag on all government buildings on that day."

CITY IS WARNED TAXI MONOPOLY BARS FARE CUTS

Public Company Makes Profit at Low Rate.

Lee Daniels, attorney and president of the Public Taxi Service, Inc., yesterday asserted that Chicagoans will continue to pay peak taxicab fares for years if the proposed new taxi ordinance, granting a virtual monopoly to the Yellow Cab company and its affiliate, the Checker Taxi company, is passed.

"The Public Taxi Service," he said, "wants to operate cabs at a rate of 15 cents for the first one-third mile and 5 cents for each third of a mile thereafter. The Yellow and Checker rate is 25 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each succeeding half mile.

Make Money at Lower Rate.

"Our rates are 30 per cent under those of the Yellow and Checker companies, yet our drivers are making money. They pay into the company treasury only $1.25 a day each, for which they receive garage space, telephone and stands. They own their own cabs and they take in from $10 to $15 a day each.

"Each cab is safe. It must pass tests by the company. Drivers must have had at least five years' driving experience. Each cab is covered by a $5,000 insurance policy and damage judgments can be collected.

"We say, and are willing to prove, that '15 and 5 service' can be and is just as satisfactory to the riders as the higher priced service. In April we had to turn down 12,000 calls for taxicabs simply because we were unable, under the prevailing license arrangement, to operate enough cabs.

Ask Three Months' Trial.

"All that we ask is that we be given 500 licenses and a trial. If three or four months proves the experiment unsuccessful, or detrimental to the public in any way, the licenses can be revoked."

The council sub-committee on taxicabs has ordered the corporation counsel to draft a new ordinance, specifying that it shall follow the recommendations made in a report by Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., collaborating with Ald. John Toman. These recommendations retain the autocratic powers now given the public vehicle license bureau, and would cut the minimum "flag charge" of the high priced cabs 5 cents—from 25 to 20 cents.

This reduction, estimated at about 7 per cent for the average passenger, would still leave Chicago with the highest rates of any metropolitan center. But the Kelker-Toman report suggested that a charge for extra passengers be restored, so the average cut would be still smaller.

Resist Even Minor Cut.

Attorney George F. Barrett, representing the Yellow Cab company, has forwarded to Ald. Toman a letter protesting against the 5 cent reduction and also against a 2-5 of a cent a mile tax on cabs. He asserted the company, even with the present high rates, profited only 1⅓ cents a trip, and the nickel cut would put its finances in red ink.

The Public Taxi organization now holds only 24 linceses legally issued. The remainder of its 130 cabs are operating illegally. Drivers frequently have been arrested, but usually win their cases in court. Their organization now has before Judge Gentzel an application for an injunction to restrain the police from interfering with Publix drivers and a hearing on this is to be held Tuesday.

SCAFFOLD HITS POWER WIRE; 4 INJURED AT FAIR

Two workmen were seriously injured yesterday when the steel scaffolding they were moving in the Hollywood theater, one of the exhibits on Northerly island in the World's Fair grounds, came in contact with a high tension electric wire.

The men, who were taken to the Chicago Memorial hospital, are Antonio Fonte, 6536 West 28th place, and Mike Shuta, 2219 West Huron street. Two other men, who were slightly injured, are Otto Schuman, 30 years old, 2106 Barry avenue, and William B. Parrott, 31, of 4420 Dover street.

The accident occurred while the four men were pushing the scaffolding, which is 30 feet high, to the center of the building. The rollers ran across a power line on the floor and cut through the insulation.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

TWO FAMILIES

THE ARENS FAMILY, 7125 N. PAULINA ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

THINGS are looking up for the Arens family. The new bottle-cap Mr. Arens is selling is going great guns. And out at the curb . . . when Mr. Arens doesn't have it out on the road . . . is the family's new Standard Plymouth.

Is there a thrill in that? Ask the boys! They both want to sell Plymouths! And Mrs. Arens. She's keen about its good looks.

As for The Family Budget-Book . . . it was heard to sigh with relief when their old "big car" drove away to stay!

That's one thing about the Standard Plymouth. Drive it awhile . . . get the "feel" of it . . . and you forget completely it is one of the lowest-priced cars on the market.

Its patented Floating Power engine mountings have ended forever the annoying vibration of other low-priced cars. Hydraulic brakes . . . sure, safe, always equalized . . . are a "big car" luxury if there ever was one. You'll feel SAFER in a Plymouth.

Bodies are big and roomy. Rigid-X, double-drop frames make them solid and substantial. Safety-steel construction gives you confidence on crowded roads.

And because Plymouth engineering eliminates needless dead-weight . . . gas and oil bills stay low!

You ought to see the Standard Plymouth. See how Plymouth matches competition on price . . . and beats them on value. See how good-looking a low-priced car can be. And never forget this . . . Standard Plymouth 4-door sedan is the lowest-priced 4-door six you can buy today!

Just to satisfy yourself, go take a fresh look at all three . . . and see how Plymouth sets the pace in giving value.

STANDARD PLYMOUTH SIX

with Floating Power engine mountings. Duplate Safety Plate Glass, optional at slight extra cost. 2-door sedan, $465; 4-door sedan (below), $510; rumble seat coupe, $485; business coupe, $445. All prices F. O. B. Detroit. Easy terms.

Standard Plymouth Six, Four-Door Sedan . . . 108-inch wheelbase . . . $510 F.O.B.

THE OAKES FAMILY, 9 W. MELROSE ST., CHEVY CHASE, MD.

THERE'S going to be fun in the Oakes family . . . and some neat family questions to be settled over the breakfast coffee. All because there are two cars now . . . and one is a De Luxe Plymouth.

Daughter Margaret is learning to drive. She'll want the car that's easiest to handle. The heavy car makes Mrs. Oakes nervous in traffic. She likes Plymouth better, too.

But Mr. Oakes drives to his office in Washington. And the Plymouth gets him around a whole lot faster and easier.

Question: How are three people going to drive one Plymouth at the same time?

It doesn't take many minutes behind the wheel to convert a "heavy car" owner to the De Luxe Plymouth. To begin with . . . it's a big car . . . 112-inch wheelbase and the biggest six in the low-priced field.

There's Free Wheeling, for one thrill. And Floating Power for smoothness. The transmission is all silent and automatic clutch is only $8 extra.

Then there are springs that never need oiling . . . valves that go 30,000 miles without grinding. Seats upholstered in real broadcloth or mohair. Duplate Safety Plate Glass windshield.

Dig down deep and you'll find no less than 30 places where the De Luxe Plymouth has the edge in quality over competing sixes.

And as for upkeep . . . Plymouth is the low-priced car from which gas-wasting dead weight has been scientifically removed. Upkeep bills are low and stay low always.

See the De Luxe Plymouth, whether you drive a big car or a small one. You may learn how to save money.

$2,372,643 PAID COUNTY ON BACK TAXES IN WEEK

Skarda Receivership Act Boosts Receipts.

Delinquent taxes totaling $2,372,643 were collected by County Treasurer McDonough last week, according to a report issued yesterday.

A substantial portion of this total was paid as a direct result of proceedings before County Judge Jarecki under the Kerner-Skarda act, which permits the appointment of the county treasurer as a receiver to collect the income from tax delinquent properties.

During the preceding week, $10,915,139 in taxes were collected by the county treasurer, but $8,425,903 of this total was personal property taxes, which are not affected by the county receivership drive. The total taxes collected during that week, therefore, which might be attributed to the tax collection campaign, were $2,489,236.

The following table shows last week's daily collections and the years for which the taxes paid were due:

	1928.	1929.	1930.	1931.
May 15—	$ 9,361	$150,394	$151,190	$ 499,701
May 16—	5,432	92,222	56,512	98,035
May 17—	4,058	26,639	50,782	147,903
May 18—	43,360	94,717	165,068	169,682
May 19—	34,918	96,135	133,725	119,954
May 20—	8,863	23,180	62,319	128,433
	$105,902	$483,287	$619,596	*$1,163,768

*Includes $928,778 in real estate and $234,990 in personal property tax payments. The personal property tax total is for five days, yesterday's receipts not having been tabulated.

In the first 20 days of May, the county treasurer's office has received $32,653,771 in 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931 taxes, the report showed. Most of this total was in 1931 personal property taxes, the collection of which totaled $25,282,819 in that period, leaving a total of $7,370,952 collected in delinquent real estate taxes for the four years. The 1931 real estate taxes became delinquent last April 3.

Skarda Act Aids Collections.

The collection of 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes has increased noticeably since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act, the report revealed. In the week preceding the passage of the act, the collection of delinquent taxes for the three years was $350,233 in comparison with the collection of $1,208,875 in taxes for the same years last week.

Two hundred and ninety-seven petitions for receivership have been filed under the Kerner-Skarda act, a check-up showed. Only six receiverships under the law are now in effect, but a number of orders for receivership were vacated when the taxpayers paid at least 75 per cent of delinquent taxes.

The Palmer house, against which an application for county receivership had been filed, proved to Judge Jarecki on Friday that more than 75 per cent of its taxes have been paid and the judge dismissed the receivership proceedings. The remainder due has been protested as excessive and a hearing is to be held before Judge Jarecki Tuesday.

Mr. McDonough was appointed receiver of a north side department store and two other properties yesterday, with authority to collect all income until delinquent taxes are paid in full. County Judge Jareckit entered the orders over the protests of attorneys.

Demands 75% Payment.

Lawyers representing the Wieboldt store at 3249 Lincoln avenue contended that the city of Chicago owes enough to the property because of condemnation proceedings to pay the 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes, which total $28,929.

"That doesn't help us," said Judge Jarecki. "I insist upon a payment of at least 75 per cent of delinquent taxes on all income producing properties. The county treasurer will take possession of the property."

A county receiver also was appointed for the building at 401 Melrose street, owned by A. W. Swayne, which owes $66,886 in delinquent taxes to the county. When asked how much he was willing to pay the attorney representing this property hesitated and asked for a delay, and the court immediately ordered the appointment of the receiver.

The third receiver was ordered for the Colvin M. Jones' property at 216 West Randolph street upon which delinquent taxes total $13,379.

Shows Lawyer Mistake.

When the claim was made by Attorney Morris Schaeffer that the property at 222 West Randolph street, was vacant and produced no income, Judge Jarecki ordered the lawyer to inspect the property and determine if he was not mistaken. Attorney Schaeffer came back chastened and said that the entire $29,593 delinquent tax bill would be paid on Tuesday, after a ruling on objections to the assessment.

Attorneys representing the Stanley Field property at 12 West Washington street, James Simpson, trustee, objected that a receiver had already been appointed by Superior Judge Gentzel for the property. Delinquent taxes total $29,832 on the parcel.

"I don't care if a receiver has been appointed by the Circuit, Superior or any other court," said Judge Jarecki. "We are out here to collect taxes."

He directed Assistant State's Attorneys Hayden Bell and William T. Crilly to prepare an information which will ask the receiver why the delinquent taxes have not been paid.

Avoids Receivership.

Aaron Colman, owner of the property at 57 West Randolph street, saved his building from a receivership by paying $5,655 on delinquent taxes, bringing his total payments above 75 per cent.

Attorney Schaeffer offered to pay $7,500 of the $39,089 owed upon the property at 4626 Sheridan road, and to pledge the income thereafter for the payment of delinquent taxes.

"A lovely recitation," commented the judge, after listening to the lawyer's review of the building's plight, "but I think we should have a complete statement of the income and disbursements. Bring it in Tuesday."

The representative of the Apollo theater said that all 1928 and 1929 taxes had been paid and that the $52,087 delinquent tax bill for 1930 had been partly paid. He asserted that the petition for a receiver was in error. He was given a continuance while the records were checked.

Pays $13,000 on Tax Bill.

Attorneys for the 100 East Ohio street building offered a check for $13,000 in part payment of $22,450 in delinquent taxes and offered to prove that "a grave error" existed in the assessment. They will be given a hearing May 25 on their claims.

An information was ordered filed against the receiver of the Medinah Athletic club, 505 North Michigan avenue, asking why $95,919 in delinquent taxes have not been paid.

"I expect to find out if attorneys and receivers' fees in all receiverships have been paid ahead of taxes," said Judge Jarecki. "If so, that money is going back to the county. No receiver or attorney has the right to take the people's money." He ordered the case set for hearing tomorrow.

Circuit Judge Hugo Friend refused to appoint a county receiver after representatives of the 2130 Lincoln Park West Property had paid $5,000 on $30,000 delinquent taxes and pledged $1,000 a month thereafter.

30 More Suits Are Filed.

Thirty suits for a county receiver against properties which owe $794,850 in delinquent taxes were filed in the County court yesterday. The defendants and taxes delinquent follow:

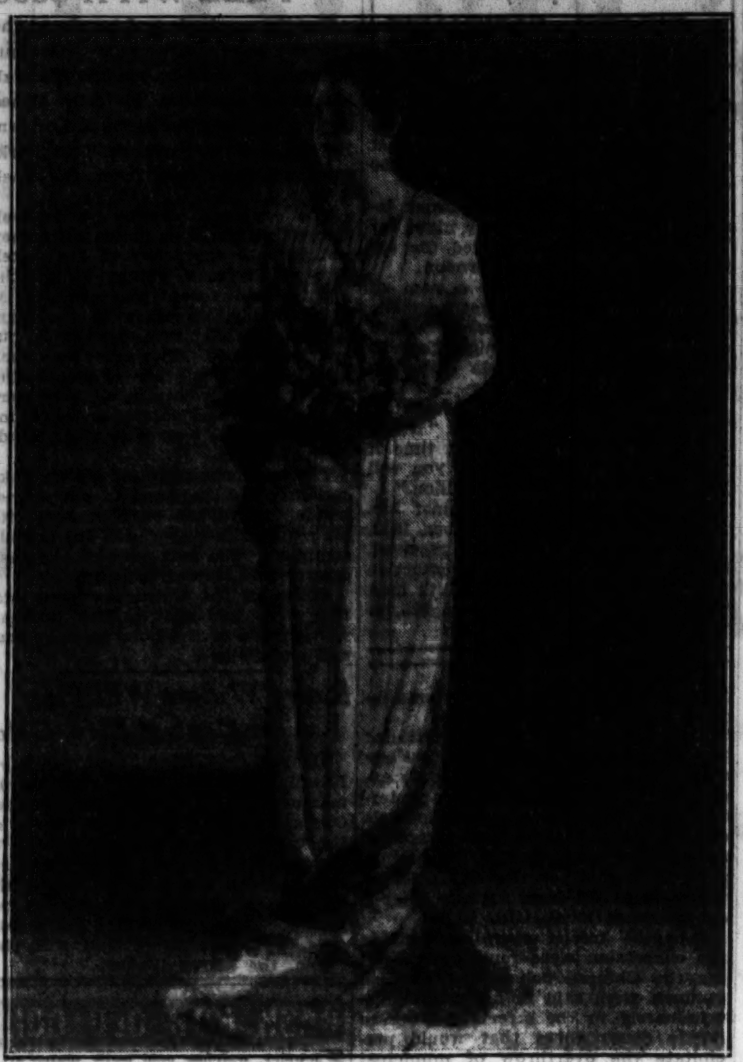
Crowned as Rockford College Queen



Miss Katharine Rawson of Rockford, who was yesterday crowned as May queen of Rockford college at the 39th annual festival while her mother, a graduate, looked on.

CROWN ROCKFORD GIRL AS QUEEN OF MAY AT COLLEGE

Katharine Rawson Chosen for Scholastic Work.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Down the iris and tulip bordered path that leads into the historic quadrangle of Rockford college came folk from far and near, this afternoon, to witness the annual event this pioneer women's college has made famous in the middle west, the May festival and crowning of the queen.

The registration book today bore the names of Mrs. Charles B. Wood of New York, and Mrs. J. H. Lensch of Portland, Ore., and hundreds of graduates and relatives of students who had driven here from Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana and Nebraska, to witness the crowning of the queen.

It was not until afternoon, however, that the new queen's identity became known.

Crowned by Former Queen.

As she came into view preceded by a herald, the queen of last year, and attendants, the 2,000 guests perched on a side of the natural amphitheater buzzed excitedly and then clapped vigorously their approval of selection of the college's most outstanding young woman.

The new queen, stately in the regal white satin gown worn by her predecessors, was Katherine Rawson of Rockford.

Miss Rawson was preceded to the throne by Jane Burrill of Wilmette, last year's queen, attendants and pages. Miss Burrill took her place on the throne beneath a lilac canopy and while the court looked on, placed the crown of violets on Miss Rawson's head. The new queen was then enthroned and in turn placed a wreath of forget-me-nots on the old queen's head.

Selected by Classmates.

The May queen is selected by her classmates. She must meet the requirements of versatility, talent, generosity and have made a constructive contribution to student government. Miss Rawson is a charter member of the college chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensic society, and has appeared in Rockford's debating team on the platforms of Yale, Wisconsin and Northwestern universities. She is president of the College Y. W. C. A., a member of the dramatic club and a permanent member of Socratic Honor society.

Three Bandits Rob Store in Heart of Springfield

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[U. P.]—Herding two employés and five customers into a back room, three bandits robbed the Whelan Drug company of several hundred dollars last night. The robbery occurred at the busiest intersection in the city, and the bandits escaped in an automobile and were lost in traffic before pursuit could be given.

FIND CITY COURT DIVIDED ON 1933 BUDGET DEMAND

Only Half of Judges Sign Sonsteby Order.

Chief Justice Sonsteby's demand for an increase of $90,042 in the 1933 appropriation for his office has been supported by only one-half of his 36 associates on the Municipal court bench, the court records revealed yesterday. Only 18 signatures, besides that of the chief justice, are appended to the court order directing the city council to boost his appropriation.

Under the law the council is required to appropriate for the Municipal court as the court directs. Chief Justice Sonsteby has demanded an appropriation of $523,500 for the operation of the court during the current year. Last year he was given $433,458. He spent $432,888, salvaging $570.

Asks $76,000 for Own Office.

To carry on the work of his own office, the chief justice has demanded that the following positions and salaries be authorized by the council for 1933:

Chief justice	$15,000
Assistant to chief justice	7,500
Three assistants at $6,000 a year	18,000
Two assistants at $2,500 a year	5,000
Secretary to chief justice	5,000
Special assistant to chief justice	10,000
Two court reporters at $3,500 a year	7,000
Two law clerks at $3,000 a year	6,000
One law stenographer	2,500
Total salaries	$76,000

This makes $61,000 for the chief justice's office force. His predecessor in 1930, the last year he was in office, had an appropriation of $30,500 for his staff. This doubling of the appropriation for the chief justice was criticized recently by Judges Edward B. Casey and Edgar A. Jonas.

View of Judge Casey.

"In these times, with suffering and starvation on all sides, it is unthinkable that $76,000 should be spent on running an office where the work is nominal," Judge Casey remarked. "I don't know what the work of all these assistants, special assistants and secretaries can be."

Judges Casey and Jonas also expressed the opinion that $5,000 is considerable to pay a girl secretary. With the chief justice seldom holding court, they voiced curiosity concerning the work performed by the court reporters, law clerks and stenographer.

ROOSEVELT OFF ON AN OVERNIGHT YACHT CRUISE ON POTOMAC

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt left Washington shortly after 3 o'clock today for an over night cruise down the Potomac on the yacht Sequoia.

In the party were Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry L. Roosevelt; Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, and Mrs. Douglas; Louis M. Howe, the President's secretary, and Miss Marguerite Lehand, a member of the White House staff.

For the first time Mrs. Roosevelt did not accompany the President on one of his cruises. She was in Massachusetts where she had gone to see her son, John, row in the regatta at Groton.

Before his return to the White House tomorrow the President planned a thorough study of government reorganization plans.

Women Ask Roosevelt to Slash Army and Navy

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Representatives of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom took to the White House today a petition they said was signed by 100,000 asking the President for further drastic cuts in military and naval costs and for international agreements on total disarmament.

...WHAT DO YOU GET FOR Your Money?

There is the biggest question this year.

And we take it for granted that you know what you want for your money.

As to pianos, let us look at them from an angle you may not have considered.

Entirely aside from the all-important facts of the enjoyment latent in a fine piano—entirely ignoring its cultural value in the home—

Your carefully poised dollars will never again have such a condition-created opportunity to do double duty.

Here's why:

Kimball has been all through the economic stresses and recoveries of the last seventy-five years. This is not the first time they have had to fit the prices of Kimball Pianos to the times—it is the first time they have been able to offer almost two hundred cents worth of piano for one dollar. That's provable history. Take their word for it.

Thinking, then, of this year—come to our showrooms—and make us prove to you that the particular Kimball that fits your pocketbook is the outstanding bargain in the history of the industry.

LINCOLN'S TOMB NOW SHRINE OF DIGNITY, BEAUTY

Interior Is Reconstructed; Relics Are Gone.

and that on the left the Gettysburg address—the first uttering the plaintive music of a fond and aching heart; the second majestic and solemn, yet exultant. Their melody fills the tomb.

The Magic of the Lights.

A soft light falling from hidden lamps in a ceiling overlaid with gold envelops the cenotaph. That light is met and made mystical by other rays proceeding from a window behind the cenotaph. It is not a dismal barred window but is set with a delicate bronze grill which repeats the exuberant corn theme and with golden hued glass. In the cornice of French black marble above the window are carved the words spoken by Secretary of War Stanton when Lincoln breathed his last—"Now he belongs to the ages."

Then the message of the flags!

These nine flags are to my thinking the supreme inspiration of Charles Herrick Hammond, architect of the reconstruction. He wanted touches of color, of life, in the sepulcher of a man who was the most colorful figure in American annals and who still is a living influence. From his long tarrying in Paris as winner of the traveling scholarship of the Chicago Architectural club, Maj. Hammond had vivid memories of the battle flags that sentinel Napoleon's tomb with glory, and by his reading of Ida Tarbell's "In the Footsteps of the Lincolns" he was instructed in the march of the family during two centuries from commonwealth to commonwealth between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi valley.

Commonwealths on Guard.

The inspiration has been beautifully worked out. In a semicircle behind the cenotaph there hang from staffs tipped with silver spears the silken state flags of Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois. They make a pageant of white, yellow, dark blue, and blue and gold silk richly embroidered with the arms and mottoes of the seven states. Half way along the semicircle hang the national colors, their staff tipped with a golden eagle, and at the right end of the semicircle is the blue flag—heavy with gold—of the President of the United States.

The effect, artistically and historically, is finer than tremendous. It is thrilling. Mighty commonwealths seem to be standing eternal guard in that quiet place.

The state flags were the gift of governors of the indicated states, the national colors the gift of Illinois, and the President's flag the gift of Herbert Hoover.

Tribute from a Washington.

On one side of the base of the cenotaph still remain wreaths placed there many months ago by Mr. Hoover, Franklin Roosevelt, and Richard Washington of Virginia, a great-great-grandnephew of President Washington. On the other side, not visible to visitors, are eight wreaths bestowed at various times by St. Louis school children.

The body of Lincoln lies about two feet behind and ten feet below the new cenotaph. The coffin containing it rests in the center of a block of concrete—reinforced with steel bars—which is twelve feet long, nearly ten feet wide, and six feet thick. The concrete was poured around the coffin thirty-two years ago at the suggestion of Lincoln's son, Robert, who had seen a similar expedient employed to safeguard the body of his chief, George M. Pullman. In wall tombs facing the cenotaph lie the bodies of Abraham Lincoln's wife and his sons, Eddie, Willie and Tad, their father's pet names for them being perpetuated in the inscriptions on the marble tablets recording names and dates.

In the Emancipator's coffin remains to this day, it is said, the leaf of a prayer book on which the only legible word is "martyr." It was found by the arctic explorer, Capt. Parker Snow, beside the skeleton of a member of Sir John Franklin's polar expedition, and it was placed in the coffin at the captain's request when Lincoln's body lay in state in New York City.

The Lincolns and the Hammonds.

Wonderfully do the threads of history intertwine! In 1630 ancestors of Charles Herrick Hammond, supervising architect of the state of Illinois and architect of the rebuilt tomb, settled in the hamlet of Hingham on Massachusetts bay. In 1637 ancestors of Abraham Lincoln followed the Hammonds from England and settled in that same Hingham. In 1863 Herrick Hammond's grandfather, John Hammond, fought at Gettysburg as colonel of the Fifth New York cavalry. In the days of the cheap and blundering custodianship of the tomb, Herrick's grandfather, Charles L. Hammond of Chicago, was foremost among those who ended the scandal of charging visitors an admission fee. And now the son, a gifted architect, a man of lofty feeling and an honest man, has completed the reconstruction of the tomb. I added the words "an honest man" because in a time of governmental waste he stayed within the legislature's appropriation of $175,000 for the rebuilding. For once, at least, politicians had sense and right feeling enough to let a good man alone.

Inspiration After Inspiration.

Maj. Hammond worked like a man inspired. What were damp, earth floored cellars beneath two sides of the base of the outer granite platform encircling the memorial's obelisk he has converted into noble marble approaches to the burial chamber—approaches 72 feet long and 7½ feet wide. As a result of his standing in the American Institute of Architects the heirs of Augustus St. Gaudens and the sculptors Daniel French, since deceased, Lorado Taft, Leonard Crunelle, and Adolph Weinman gladly coöperated with him by making facsimiles in half life size of their great Lincoln statutes which adorn the cities of Chicago, Washington, Lincoln, Neb.; Urbana, Ill.; Dixon, Ill.; Freeport, Ill., and Hodgenville, Ky. Fred M. Torry coöperated by casting in bronze his heretofore unexecuted statues of "Lincoln the Ranger" and "Lincoln the Circuit Rider."

Those nine facsimiles representing seven American cities, now occupy commanding positions in the new entrance hall—the old relic room—and in the corridors of the tomb. For the adornment of the exterior of the memorial, Gutzon Borglum cast a replica of his magnificent head of Lincoln, the original of which is in the national capitol. The late Robert Lincoln considered it one of the best likenesses of his father ever made.

An Outdated Abbreviation.

As to the exterior of the memorial, Maj. Hammond made no changes in Larkin Mead's original design—even the long outdated abbreviation, "On." for Oregon not being tampered with in the bronze roster of states on the walls, although chambers of commerce in Oregon wished it changed to "Ore." Maj. Hammond did, however, see to it that the walls were strengthened and "trued up," and the stained granite was thoroughly sand blasted. An honest piece of work all the way through.

I return briefly to the burial chamber because it so profoundly touched my imagination. There all is so beautifully subdued, yet not sepulchral. There is no dismal note. It is more like a happy altar than a tomb—a shrine not to myth or superstition, but to essential human virtues that make the world happier and better; a shrine to patience, fortitude, self-restraint, wisdom, humility, and to far, far vision of the brighter day that Abraham Lincoln helped to bring.

CHINESE ATTACKS JAP SENTINEL AT PEIPING LEGATION

'Big Sword' Man Acts as Planes Circle City.

PEIPING, May 20.—[U. P.]—Evacuation of 1,000 Japanese from their homes in sections of north China not now under Japanese military dominance to the Peiping legation quarter may be necessary to save them from the fury of Chinese mobs, the Japanese legation announced today.

While 11 Japanese bombers flying in formations circled Peiping, an unidentified Chinese wielding a "big sword" attacked a sentinel in front of the Japanese legation barracks.

Planes Fly Low.

The Japanese military announced that the attack had precipitated a grave situation. The legation then made its announcement that general evacuation of Japanese residents is being considered.

The Japanese airplanes circled Peiping repeatedly, flying so low that the eight bombs attached to the lower wing of each, and the machine guns in the cockpits, were clearly visible. Hundreds of Chinese piled into dugouts. No bombs were dropped.

Frank Lockhart, United States consul-general in Tientsin, reported to the Peiping legation that three Japanese planes reconnoitered over that city at 10 a. m. The population was panic stricken.

More Explosions in Tientsin.

TIENTSIN, China, May 21.—[Sunday.]—[U.P.]—Two heavy explosions heard here today were attributed, unofficially, to a Japanese bombing plane which was reported to have circled the city. The rumor that the plane had dropped two bombs was not verified, and it was not learned immediately whether anybody was injured.

Japanese residents have barricaded themselves within their concessions as the result of a series of bomb explosions which swept the city yesterday. The explosions came on the heels of an abortive attempt by troops of the Chinese general, Shih Fing-ming, to seize control of the city. Shih's troops retreated from the city after a sharp engagement with police.

Japanese troops operating outside the concession were reported disarming the Chinese police, and Chinese gunmen were said to be firing indiscriminately in the streets, hoping to create disturbances that would precipitate the overthrow of municipal authoritities.

3 EXTORTION NOTES DEMAND $30,000 OF DULUTH CAPITALIST

Duluth, Minn., May 20.—(AP)—Authorities revealed tonight that M. W. Alworth, Duluth capitalist, has received three extortion notes, the latest on Thursday and demanding $30,000 with a threat of "long ride."

Mr. Alworth, it was reported tonight, left Duluth Thursday night for West Virginia. He received the extortion note Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff's officers placed a sum of money at a designated spot near the interstate toll bridge between Duluth and Superior Thursday night, but no apparent effort was made to collect the money.

In the latest note, it was reported, Mr. Alworth was warned that "if you fail to go through, the next time it will cost you 100 grand, and you will be lucky if it don't cost a million."

An extortion attempt against Mr. Alworth was made in September, 1932, when a similar letter was received, demanding $75,000. The first extortion plot directed against the Duluth man was in the fall of 1931, when $25,000 was demanded.

HOLDS TWO IN COUNTERFEIT CASE.

United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday held William Dupont, 35 years old, a Detroit gangster, and Patricia O'Connell, 24 years old, who was arrested with him, to the grand jury on bonds of $15,000 each on charges of possessing and passing counterfeit money.

4 GUNMEN RAID SENECA HOTEL; FLEE WITH $350

Twenty employés and guests of the Seneca hotel, 200 East Chestnut street, were lined up against the wall yesterday afternoon by four armed men, who forced the clerk, J. Lorigan, 736 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, to hand over $350 from the cash drawer.

The robbers, young and well dressed, attracted no notice when they walked into the lobby of the hotel. Two of the men walked behind the counter and forced the clerk, Miss Carol Cundy, secretary to the manager, and a telephone operator to put up their hands. The other two men rounded up the other employés and guests, about twenty in all, who were in the lobby, and ordered them to line up against the wall with their hands upstretched.

The telephone operator did not take seriously the command to put up her hands. A robber prodded her with his revolver, however, and she quickly complied. The men emptied the cash drawer and started to leave.

Police of the Chicago avenue station were told that a fifth gunman was outside of the hotel as a lookout and chauffeur.

Pomegranate Juice Is Drink of Movie Stars

Keeps Them Slender; Much Easier to Take Than Beatings from Sylvia.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — [Special.]— Hollywood, always on the alert for something new in beauty culture, has a new elixir of youth. Orange juice and tomato juice have had their day, and the new thing that one finds filmland beauties drinking on all sides and on every occasion is pomegranate juice. Its rage seems to have started when it became noised about that Patricia Farley, who recently won a contract at Paramount by losing 18 pounds and six inches off her hips in a month, gained her result mainly by resorting to this exotic elixir.

PATRICIA FARLEY.

Pomegranates are a fruit that has never been very popular with Americans for eating. If bought at all, this fruit formerly was used by American hostesses for decorating. The fruit, however, has been used in oriental countries for thousands of years, and its medical properties were well known in the days of the Greeks and the Romans.

One man who has sponsored this rage in Hollywood, which is an extremely pleasant way of reducing, is a Dr. Maurice Lebell, who seems to be this season's successor to the famous Sylvia who knew a lot and told some of it, much to the embarrassment of many picture folks.

Easier than Beatings.

The treatment consists of drinking one glass of pomegranate juice every hour for one day a week. From five to fifteen pounds, it is claimed, can be lost in seven days, and measurements will go down from two to four inches. Sylvia's patients did not have nearly so comfortable a time, for they had to endure severe beatings [under the title of massage] by the heavy handed little blonde to get rid of any such amount of flesh.

"Many girls came to me in tears, says Dr. Lebell. "Not only do I have motion picture stars who must lose weight as a matter of business, but I have a strange parade of wives who come to me who must lose weight or they will lose their husbands. A prominent radio announcer brought his wife to me and told me frankly that if I could not reduce her he intended to seek a divorce. Generally, I prefer motion picture actresses as clients because they are willing to follow directions implicitly. As a group I think they have amazing will power."

The fact is the Brown Derby, two other Hollywood boulevard restaurants and the night clubs are now serving pomegranate juice to cater to the new rage. Colleen Moore, Priscilla Dean, Princess Troubetzkoy, Blanche Ring, and Phyllis Haver have all taken the pomegranate juice diet

Shapely, slim dancers of this year's stage hit, "Of Thee I Sing," drink Pomegranate Juice between acts to keep from getting fat.

Will You Try This Easy, Safe Way to Lose Ugly Fat?

No drugs, no laxatives, no salts—no medicines to ruin your health—no weakening, starvation diet to make your skin and muscles sag and your complexion pale and sallow. Entirely different—a totally new way, for otherwise perfectly normal men and women to take off pounds of ugly, excess fat. The Hollywood Pom-o-granate Juice Way, as this new method is called, is as safe, harmless, easy and delicious as drinking orange juice or tomato juice—and beneficial, too! Start today to improve your figure. Take off ugly, excess fat. Increase your strength and energy—and as you lose excess fat, and become more attractive, you may add ten years or more to your span of happy, healthy life. Make your test at once.

WHAT YOU DO

Extremely delicious, simple and easy—the Hollywood Pom-o-granate Juice way of safely losing excess fat, consists of drinking a small (3 oz.) glassful of Pom-o-granate Juice whenever you feel very thirsty, and before each meal. It also consists of eating plenty of good, wholesome food of the right kind, containing all the vitamins and minerals so necessary to health and the building of firm tissue. Eat whatever you want excepting too much starchy foods, fatty meats and sweets. If you lose more than 2 or 3 pounds a week, eat more of the starchy foods and sweets, and drink less Pom-o-granate Juice. This is advised because the skin and system might not perfectly adapt themselves to a greater loss than 2 pounds a week. The more gradual the loss of weight the greater the benefit. Very simple and easy, isn't it? And as you lose excess fat you should gain in strength, energy, and become far more attractive.

MAKE THIS NO-RISK TEST

Will you try this easy, pleasant, safe way to get rid of ugly fat? It started in Hollywood, and has now become the rage. Will you simply drink a small glassful of delicious, iced Hollywood's Pom-o-granate Juice whenever you are thirsty and before each meal? See if it will not cause you to lose pounds of excess fat. Test Hollywood's Pom-o-granate Juice under our positive guarantee that it must satisfy you in every way, or your money back.

WHERE TO GET IT

You can get it at any grocery, delicatessen, department store or drug store, including Stop and Shop, Kunze's, National Tea Stores, Jewel and Loblaw Stores, Hillman's, Royal Blue Stores, I. G. A. Stores, The Food Depts. of The Fair, Boston Store, Wieboldt's, Goldblatt's, Walgreen's, Liggett's, and all other good dealers. Large bottle costs only 50c. If your dealer does not handle, tell him to order from his wholesaler at once, or send 50c to Hollywood's Pom-o-granate Juice Co., Warehouse 15-A, 365 E. Illinois St., Chicago.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

EDUCATION FOR CITIZENSHIP.

"Education for Citizenship" is the title of a pamphlet published recently by Superintendent Bogan's committee on civic education. At first reading the report offers little, perhaps because of the difficulties which the layman finds in comprehending the jargon of educators. A second reading, when the language difficulties have been somewhat lightened by familiarity, demonstrates that the authors not only have difficulty expressing what they have on their minds but have precious little to express.

The report is filled with tall talk about projects, integrations, approaches, questionnaires, techniques, skills, and so on. The subject is needlessly complicated and the heart of it is overlooked.

The simple truth is this: The teaching of civics in the public schools of Chicago is not all bad, but it is in great need of improvement. Its principal fault is an error of emphasis. Stress is laid on what governments do whereas it should be laid on what no American government may do. In short, the primary emphasis should be everlastingly upon the rights and liberties of the citizen which no government and nobody may invade. The duties of citizenship are secondary. The American who does not know what his liberties are can have no comprehension of what his civic duties are, because his duties flow from his liberties. Contrary to the notions of those who reported to Mr. Bogan, a good citizen does not have to participate actively at all times in the affairs of his government. He need not even vote, though he will probably wish to. His overwhelming obligation as a citizen is to defend his constitutional rights and those of his fellow citizens. He will defend them against individuals and he will be on guard particularly against the encroachments of his government.

The first goal of education in civics in the public schools should be to instill in each child's mind so keen a sense of his rights as a citizen that any invasion of them in future years will, as Von Jhering said, produce a sense of moral pain akin to the physical pain that follows a physical blow.

This concept can and should be taught in the elementary grades. It can be told first in story form by recounting the deeds of the heroes and martyrs of liberty. If no textbook containing this material is available, one must be written. As each item in the charter of liberties is developed, the child, of course, should be taught the corresponding duty. No one may stop him, when he is a man, from speaking his mind, but that imposes upon him the duty to think and speak temperately. No one may deprive him of his property and therefore he must use his property with a decent regard for his neighbor and at the same time respect his neighbor's property rights. And so on.

The details of how governments are organized, officials elected, and taxes collected can be taught as the child's mind is able to digest them. No citizen can afford to be uninformed on any of these matters. It would be well, of course, if prospective citizens could be given in addition a sound understanding of party government, but it is doubtful if the majority of teachers are competent to handle the material.

Ideally, the high school course should be topped off with some instruction in what might be called demagogics. We should have public officials of a much higher type if our voters were quicker to detect the demagogic note in campaign speeches. In Chicago this is of particular importance because of the proved susceptibility of our citizens to the demagogue's appeal, a susceptibility that has cost the taxpayers many millions of dollars and is today threatening to close the schools themselves.

A generation of Chicago school children who had been exposed to the training in civics here outlined would be prepared morally and intellectually for adult life in society, and it is reasonable to expect that when their voting influence began to be felt some improvement in the quality of local government might be observed.

A WORLD EVENT.

Probably the most thrilling event of A Century of Progress will be the arrival of the great squadron of Italian planes which will fly from its home base across the Atlantic to our inland sea. Will arrive, we say, because they will arrive. Italian aviation is now in the foremost rank of aviation. Only the other day Warrant Officer Agello flashed in his Italian plane, the Red Bullet, over Lake Garda to set a new record of speed in the air. He placed his mark at an average speed of 423.822 miles per hour, 15 miles better than the previous highest rate set by Lieut. Stainforth of England. In the fourth of five laps Agello reached a speed of 432.8 m. p. h. His plane was a Macchi 72, product of Italian make, and reminds us that the ships which will make up the squadron for Chicago will represent the Italian science and mechanical skill which have for years carried Italian aviation ever forward in the race for primacy in the air. Pilot Agello has been invited to come to the exposition and it is hoped he will bring his plane. Two views of the plane are given in the rotogravure section of today's TRIBUNE.

The planning and organization of the great cruise has been under the personal direction of Gen. Italo Balbo, air minister of the Italian government, who will himself lead the squadron of 20 Savoia-Marchetti amphibians. He is a distinguished flyer. The expedition, it is expected, will start about May 24, taking off from the Orbetello airport north of Rome, proceeding by easy stages, following the Rhone and Rhine valleys, to Holland, Scotland, Iceland, Greenland, and along the St. Lawrence to the great lakes and the Chicago harbor. The distance covered will be about 6,280 miles.

Preparations are already under way to give the squadron a royal reception. Chicago and the whole nation are honored by this visit and the world will look on with awe and admiration. No such ambitious undertaking has before been launched and its successful accomplishment will mark a new victory in the conquest of the air. As a splendid gesture of friendship between Italy and America it has a welcome significance, and as a demonstration of the great achievements of Italian science and the high virtues of one of the great races of human history, still vigorous and moving onward to new triumphs, it will win the applause of all generous minds and the envy of all peoples.

CONTROL OF INDUSTRY.

In nearly all the legislation of this new deal there are apparent contradictions. They may be inherent in the character of the emergency, but they certainly reveal a flexibility of approach to the problem.

For instance, in the industry control bill President Roosevelt proposes to relax some of the present restrictions on business while he is extending the supervision in other directions. Things which industry is now forbidden to do will be permitted. Things which the government has not been authorized to do will be included in the new authority. A few years ago it would have been regarded as equally dangerous to grant either the government or industries the proposed power.

Evidently the release from restrictions has persuaded many industrialists to accept the proposals for increased government authority.

Presumably, to take one instance, the new scheme works as follows: The Illinois mine fields have been in a turmoil for several years. Considerable of the trouble can be traced to conditions in West Virginia and Kentucky mines. The West Virginia operator based his operation upon wages which he could induce or force the primitive mountain people to take. Such labor conditions would be intolerable in the Illinois field, but where the two mining regions meet in competition the West Virginia conditions must be faced by the Illinois producer. Presumably under the industry control bill the government would permit the Illinois coal industry to make combinations and agreements to strengthen its position and at the same time enter the West Virginia field to establish working conditions preventing a cutthroat competition. If necessary, the commissar could allot markets to certain fields and hope that the industry thus released from restriction in one direction and brought under control in another would be able to recover.

To old ideas of proper government function the proposal in its entirety is another astonishing revelation of the complete make-over of the American system, but many industrialists apparently see in it an escape from private piracy under the big guns of the government power. They must be convinced that they will gain more where they get a free hand than they will lose by having the new commissar over them, regulating marketing, prices, and costs of production. It is the fellow who thinks that he can meet all the requirements the government will make of him who is willing to concede that the other fellow shall have the requirements imposed on him, and, of course, no one overlooks the fact that this is still a political system.

Although congress seems to be merely the stamping machine which puts its O. K. on White House decisions, it is still a body through which the political privileges are obtained. Ultimately the administration of any law will be affected by log rolling in congress. The persons responsible for the radical innovations in the American conduct of affairs will not long be able to overlook the fact, if they are now forgetting it, that this is a political government in which exercise of favor has a political motive.

Editorial of the Day

NO GENERAL RULE.
[Detroit Free Press.]

A special writer in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, after explaining that she had been looking over a number of articles on the subject, reported wide divergence of opinion on the subject of parents and children. One "expert" said that modern children need more discipline, another insisted that they get too much. One thought it better for boys and girls if their mothers are in business or in a profession, another that a child needs its mother at home. In the opinion of one, a nursery school is the place for a juvenile, a second declared a nursery school a poor substitute for a home. One warned against sensational movies, another seemed to approve of them as a part of a hardening process.

In short, the opinions of the self-constituted experts on child training and education differ among themselves as flatly as the expert dietitians do; and in all probability for much the same reason, which is that "one man's meat is another man's poison."

It is foolish to try to tell the world what are the proper things to eat, because the needs of individuals are widely different. Just so it is silly to try to make any general rule for the training of children. What is good for one is ruinous for another. One needs a strict hand, another is far better under a loose rein. One becomes a prey to all sorts of horrors after seeing or hearing sensational things; another never thinks of a thriller a second time except to joke about it.

Every child is a separate case and must be studied separately, and the only rule of much use to a parent is to use common sense and patience.

TAX EXEMPT SECURITIES

BY THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

[Author of "The Constitution: Its Sources and Applications," "Losing Liberty Judicially," etc.]

In our Pandora's box of tax evils there was probably none that did more mischief when it was released than the exemption with which the national government favored Liberty bonds and some pre-war bonds and that which many imitative states accorded to their own issues.

Before the world war there had been issued Panama canal bonds, postal savings bonds, consols, and others, to the amount of over 800 million, all of which were fully exempt from the payment of income taxes on their interest, and all of which are largely yet outstanding. Of the Liberty bond issues beginning in June, 1917, and ending in October, 1918, there are outstanding over eight billion. Of these the First is entirely exempt from all income taxes on interest, and the others enjoy lesser exemptions, some from the normal income tax and others from the surtax. Some of them have special value for use at par in the payment of federal estate or inheritance taxes and also in meeting income taxes. And, of course, all issues, pre-war and Liberty, are exempt "from taxation by or under state or municipal authority." Bonds of states and their subdivisions, aggregating over ten billion, many carrying exemptions of one kind or another, are not considered here.

When either the nation or the state needs money it should go into the market and hire it and pay for it precisely as the man in the street is obliged to do. It is an undue use of power for a borrower thus to favor itself in the market against other borrowers. And, as is usual when sound principle is disregarded, the advantage which the United States conferred upon itself as a borrower contributed greatly to its existing misfortune.

To exempt a bond partly or wholly from taxation is to add a value to it which it cannot in fairness possess and to put a discriminative tax burden on other payers who must make up through their taxes the loss of revenue occasioned by the exemption. A tax exemption is a rebate to those able to avail themselves of it, and therefore discriminative to those who cannot. It benefits the big investor who does not need the aid, for the full advantage cannot be reaped by the small buyer. Thus, when the First Liberty $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent bonds were issued it was computed that they would be worth as much as 7 per cent or more to the enormously rich man who might want to tuck his money away in a safe place and bid good-by to the risks and annoyances of commerce or industry. Considering exemption from income tax, from estate or inheritance tax, and from state taxes, as well as the thirty-year life of the issue, other authorities put the yield as high as 8 per cent. That, while the run of people could get only 3 per cent in savings banks not certain to remain solvent.

Such money does not employ men, and the employment of men is the prime requisite of American prosperity through home markets. Of course, somebody's money would be in the bonds, but with the favor of exemption lacking it probably would be the money of smaller investors seeking a safe place instead of the funds of those who in other circumstances would look to industry and trade for profit.

Recently the national government offered 300 million dollars of notes at a low rate and nine billion dollars was bid to get them. That illustrates the inordinate desire of money to keep out of work and to live without risk on a dole of interest provided by taxpayers without exemptions.

During the early times of development in our country enthusiastic state legislatures offered tax exemptions for the construction of railways, irrigating projects, and the like, but in practice the inequity of such favors became plain to all, and so there gradually crept into state constitutions provisions against exemptions, or clauses requiring the uniform levy of taxes. The courts had aided these changes by construing strictly tax exemptions as to their extent, for example, and also by holding whenever possible the privilege to be personal and therefore not transferable to a successor owner or company.

When, during the housing shortage of the world war, some legislatures offered tax exemptions for a term of years to the builder of a home or an apartment, other property owners assailed the legislation and it was held void for conflict with provisions in the state constitutions requiring uniformity of levy or equality of treatment. The fourteenth amendment to the national constitution forbids the state to "deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws," and where the run of people cannot get the benefit of a tax exemption and the very wealthy can the effect is bad sociologically, apart from legal or pecuniary prejudice. While it is open to the man of moderate means to buy a tax exempt security and it may therefore be said that the equality of treatment clause is not disregarded by a state, in practical operation the special privilege goes very largely to (and can really be enjoyed only by) big money, which needs no special favor. Although the national government is not bound by an equality of treatment clause in the constitution, the Supreme court has often construed acts of congress with that sound principle in view.

If it be said that the tax exemption accorded to Liberty bonds and pre-war bonds aided the nation in its financing plans, the answer may be made that the civil war bond issues did not carry such exemptions; that they paid 6 per cent, and that that war was our most severe trial.

Even before 1929 there was large unemployment which our philosophers attributed to the machine. Who knows whether that was caused by the machine or by more than eight billion of dole-consuming money which had done no work for ten years? When money doesn't work men can't. We had been able to absorb all the machines that were devised since the time when the reaper superseded those who had cut and bound grain by hand and who found work in manufacture, transportation, milling, and other employments to which the reaping machine itself gave impetus. Doubtless the shortage of manpower during the world war accelerated some of the development of the machine. But it is significant that our acute alarm over the "machine age" manifested itself after nation and state had been pouring out exempt securities and thereby retiring capital from industry and commerce for upwards of a decade.

The tax exemption also bred the municipal extravagance which weighs us down. On the score of this extravagance President Coolidge recommended in his first annual message an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the issue of tax exempt securities by both the nation and the states.

When we depart from sound principle or fair play an accounting cannot be escaped.

SHE ALWAYS HAS.

WHEN we are in the midst of discussion of the cost of medical care and various ramifications some wise man interrupts to say that the money spent for that purpose is a mere trifle when compared with the cost of cosmetics. This sometimes brings the rejoinder that beautification is a luxury. Luxuries are being cut out, the speaker adds, and before long beautification, as a wasteful procedure, will soon be eliminated. And right there the argument breaks down.

Beautification is the oldest profession, notwithstanding the claims of another to that distinction. In comparison with it the practice of medicine is youthful and Hippocrates and his cult are babes in arms. There have always been beautifiers or, at least, a profession that claimed to be such and who were able to get away with it. Women always have spent more money on it than they did on food and there are reasons for thinking they always will. Dr. Charles Lerner considers what they now spend is trifling as compared with what they once spent, relatively speaking.

He draws his illustrations from the spendings of the queen of Sheba, Cleopatra, and other luxurious queens who, of course, outdid the twentieth century society women. Had he been able to quote the per capita expenditure of the entire population, including peasants, serfs, and slaves, the sum would not have equaled the present per capita expenditure.

But even if we start with Cleopatra and compare her bill for cosmetics with that of the present day women, the rate of decline shown would indicate that the beauticians will not starve for the next thousand years—and that is longer than is our interest in the subject. The Papyrus Ebers is an Egyptian document in the original. According to Dr Lerner there are items in that document that prove that cosmetics were in general use twenty thousand years ago. It gives recipes for wrinkle removers, mole removers, hair dyes, and for chemicals to take off superfluous hair.

Six thousand years ago Queen Shubad was proficient in the use of cosmetics. There are references to the use of beautifying procedures in the book of Genesis, and those of Isaiah and Jeremiah, written not much later, have a good deal to say on the subject. Cleopatra made use of at least sixteen kinds of perfumes.

The very ancient Egyptian women now being dug up appear to us to be the last word in ugliness, but around them we find ample evidence that they wanted to be beautiful and, to that end, they lavished money. From the Egyptians the Greeks got their devotion to beautification. Plato worked hard to develop his philosophy, while the women of the period worked on their skins. When Rome borrowed a civilization from Greece it left much behind, but not the cosmetic art. Regardless of whether it is a luxury, the cost of skin and hair treatment will remain.

HEADACHE DOSES.

Mrs. A. N. writes: 1. What is the effect of frequent but mild doses of a popular effervescent powder used to relieve frequent headaches?

2. Is saccharine, two or three grains daily, in coffee, injurious? If so, what effect will it have?

3. What causes a flushed appearance in the upper part of the cheek, disclosing numerous small veins to show on surface?

4. What causes heavy and irregular breathing at night?

5. Are three eggs in the morning and three in the evening injurious?

REPLY.

1. The powder contains a small dose of a coal tar remedy. This remedy relieves many headaches, but used habitually it causes changes in the blood which, in turn, may cause headaches. Much depends on the dose used and whether it is used habitually or not.

2. Probably not. A very small amount supplies enough sweet taste to fit the demands of a normal palate.

3. Overeating, overdrinking, exposure to the weather—these are the principal causes.

4. Mouth breathing, snoring, and obesity are the most frequent causes.

5. There is a fair chance they are. Much depends on the age, the soundness of the organs, and the other foods consumed. Six eggs a day are a good many. If the person gets other protein foods he probably eats too much protein.

CHANGE IN DIET.

F. S. writes: I have a friend who has an offensive mouth odor. This is not due to teeth decay or gum troubles because a dentist has recently examined him. I told him it was probably due to his stomach and that it was not serious. He is in perfect health otherwise.

REPLY.

Your friend appears to have halitosis, a disorder well advertised by the use of printer's ink and otherwise. If this trouble is not due to causes lying in the head region the organs of digestion are reasonably certain to be the source of the abnormality. Prevention consists in some rather marked changes in diet, in eating habits, and other habits relating to the abdominal and pelvic organs.

FISTULA.

D. W. writes: 1. What is fistula?
2. The cause?
3. The cure?

REPLY.

1. The fistula you refer to is a suppurating tract opening into the anal canal at one end and through the skin at the other.

2. Infection and abscess formation. In most cases the infecting microbe is a pus coccus. Sometimes it is the tubercle bacillus.

3. Operation.

PRIVATE SERVICE REQUIRED.

Chicago, May 11.—[Friend of the People.]—Behind my home on Kingston avenue is a vacant lot fronting on Essex avenue. This place is becoming a dumping ground for ashes, tin cans, and garbage, and is a very unsightly as well as unhealthy spot. The owners of buildings in the neighborhood should be warned against any further dumping and should be made to clean up what is there at present. Please direct this complaint to the proper department of the city. T. J. W.

Report is made that notices have been served on agents of buildings on Kingston and Essex avenues to have a private scavenger remove accumulation of ashes and to discontinue further dumping on vacant lot referred to. Location will be kept under observation to see that notices are complied with. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

RENT PAYMENTS.

Waukegan, Ill., May 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I live in an apartment that is being foreclosed. Some months ago the landlord offered me a discount if I would pay several months' rent in advance. I accepted his offer and on Jan. 3 paid four months' rent. A receiver was appointed about Feb. 1 and he tells me I must pay the rent over again to him. He says he can evict me and take possession of the property even though I have paid my rent and have receipts to show for it. 1. Can he do this? The landlord tells me the receiver can take no action against me. 2. Who is right? H. B. G.

1. Yes, you were chargeable with notice that your landlord's title was subject to a recorded mortgage. In paying money to him for a period extending beyond his default you were taking a similar risk to the one that would have been involved in paying to an occupant who had no title.

2. The receiver is right.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 21, 1893.

CHICAGO. — A hundred thousand people swarmed into the illuminated White City last night. It was a mighty multitude that swept through the wide streets and spread out over the broad plazas and massed itself around the great central basin. It was far away the largest attendance of visitors since that memorable day when President Cleveland set the machinery of the exposition in motion.

The Court of Honor was filled with the glory of the mysterious genius of electricity. The MacMonnies fountain, whose serene beauty daily grows upon the people, was bathed first in white and then in softest green and then in red. But through it all Father Time, his scythe lashed to the helm, still steered his white-armed rowers through the night to meet the rising sun. The great Administration dome was again outlined in stipple work of flame against the shadows and about it thousands of people were grouped.

Among the black, moving mass that crowded the Court of Honor were sailors from half a dozen royal fleets, who will take back with them to strange lands splendid memories of the night. There were queer peoples from Midway in their native costumes, elbowing pretty girls dressed in the height of modern fashion. Out from the seclusion of their harems came Turkish dancing girls, their black eyes staring behind veils. Two half-naked blacks from the Dahomey village, half a dozen queer little Esquimaux, and a couple of jabbering Turks mingled in the crowds.

Four hundred of the finest young soldiers of the world are coming to camp at Jackson park. Not content with its display of wax major generals and imitation Indians the United States government has practically decided to send an exhibit to the exposition which will excite at once the interest and admiration of every one. West Point cadets will be sent to the World's Fair about June 1, and will live in their tents in regular military fashion for two weeks.

Venice, the thousand-isled, is prepared to resume its olden supremacy in one of the most ancient of arts. For the Columbian Exposition the lace makers of Venice have prepared an exhibit which they confidently claim will give again to the Queen of the Adriatic its former position of preëminence. The contents of this lace-house in the Italian section are valued at more than $40,000.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 21, 1917.

WASHINGTON. — Approximately 100,000 American soldiers will take part in the fighting in France before the close of the 1917 operations, if the government is able to carry out its present plans. The division of regulars under the command of Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing will be in action before additional troops are sent forward, and the solution of the problem of transportation in the case of this first contingent is expected to make it possible to maintain a steady stream of reinforcements by the end of the summer.

PARIS.—It is known now that there has been friction between the French and British commands. The relations between Gens. Nivelle and Haig were far from pleasant, and when David Lloyd George was in France a month ago the real purpose of his visit was to smooth over these difficulties.

LONDON. — The morning newspapers feature the approaching dispatch of Gen. Pershing with a division of American troops to France, giving the news a prominent place in their columns under appropriate headings. The Daily Telegraph in an editorial says: "Washington is not taking a narrow view of the service Americans can render in the war, and it is evident that the American people are rallying round the President."

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports a German attempt against advanced posts near Epehy was broken up. Berlin reports renewed activity near Arras. English attempts to advance were repulsed. Rome reports the extension of positions on the Vodice, and that massed Austrian attacks were smashed. Vienna claims repulse of the foe on the whole front with sanguinary losses. U-boats sank three grain laden Swedish ships, released under reciprocal agreements.

CHICAGO.—Instructions to prepare for active service, probably in France, were received by Col. Joseph B. Sanborn, commanding the First Illinois infantry, from the war department at Washington. The regiment is the first among the National Guard units in Illinois to be called upon for possible service with Gen. Pershing.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Teachers' federation, one of the chief storm centers in the school system of the city for nearly two decades, severed its connection with organized labor.

THE VOICE OF KANSAS.

Wichita, Kas., May 16.—If, as appears likely at the present time, the eighteenth amendment shall be repealed and freedom restored to those states affected thereby, Kansas is likely to be isolated as the only dry state in the Union. This does not mean that our people are less informed or less sophisticated than those of other states. The people of Kansas are unquestionably ready at this time to vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and also repeal of the bone dry state law, but the machinery of government is in the hands of the fanatical drys who refuse to allow the people to vote upon the question.

The governor and a majority of the legislature, to say nothing of judicial appointments made at the behest of the Anti-Saloon league, control this situation. We, therefore, may anticipate the anomaly of the state of Kansas practically seceding from the Union of states so far as prohibition is concerned, and the unfortunate part of the program is the promise of the federal government to sustain the state in its dry program. This will mean a gathering in Kansas of the bootleggers released elsewhere and of law enforcement agents inconsistently employed by citizens of other states to enforce a law which has everywhere else been condemned as bad.

Already the racketeer has appeared, one gang selling beer in Wichita at one price and an opposition gang demanding that a different price be maintained. Bloodshed is, of course, likely to occur at any time. The case price for beer is now double the ruling price in Kansas City, just over the line, and this, of course, provides just the opportunity which the bootlegger desires. Last month one court decision imposed a heavy fine upon a Wichita man who brought a few bottles of beer into the city from Colorado, while another court decision in Wichita fined a man $100 with jail sentence of one month for having sold some of the new beer. It is outrages of this kind which bring all law into contempt and are responsible for the lawlessness now so prevalent.

HENRY WARE ALLEN.

THE JAPANESE BUILDINGS.

Chicago, May 9.—Several days ago I visited Jackson park [site of the World's Fair of 1893], one of the most beautiful parks in the city. I crossed the bridge to the wooded island, which was very popular during the Fair. The three original Japanese buildings are still standing, but my, O my, what a frightful condition they are in. Vandals have broken most of the woodwork on all sides of them.

In a short while a new World's Fair will open in Chicago and I presume there will be thousands of people who attended the Fair in 1893 who will also want to make a trip out to Jackson park to renew old acquaintances out there.

I believe the south park commissioners could still improve the condition of these buildings at very little cost so as to make them presentable to our visitors.

One more thing occurred to me. Markers could be placed in various parts of the park indicating where such and such a Fair building stood. These could be attached to the nearest tree at no great expense, I believe.

A CHICAGOAN.

A DEFENSE OF MR. M'DONOUGH.

Chicago, May 11.—County Treasurer McDonough's plan which he broadcast over the radio on two occasions, by which payment of delinquent taxes might be made in installments, would have brought in back taxes from both large and small taxpayers. It offered the only workable plan so far offered of collecting back taxes.

For some reason this plan did not receive the sanction of the legislature, although it was a definite and just plan, fitted equally well for collecting back taxes from the small and large taxpayer.

The blame for failure to collect lies at the door of the politicians who ignored Mr. McDonough's plans—but not with the county treasurer. A TAXPAYER.

A BLOODTHIRSTY CROW.

St. Charles, Ill., May 16.—I have often heard the crow maligned as a crop destroyer and a thief who robbed the nests of other birds, but until today have always watched him soar majestically, his glossy black feathers glinting in the sunlight, with a great deal of admiration and a feeling that he just couldn't be as bad as he is painted.

This afternoon I was attracted by a great deal of chattering, and mingled with it a bird's cry of distress. Hurrying to my window I saw on the lawn a huge crow [the large type which is known as the raven, I believe] and grasped firmly in his beak was a baby robin. Surrounding him were six grown robins combining fruitless efforts to effect the release of the young one.

I ran out, thinking to startle the crow so that he would drop his prey, but he at once arose from the ground and flew away with the robins in pursuit, darting down at him from overhead, evidently making no impression on him, for he continued on his way to a grove of trees at some distance, at which place I have no doubt the little robin furnished a meal for his own brood.

This is more tragic to me because during the last few weeks I have watched the mother robin build her nest under the eaves of the cottage next to mine, and noted her untiring adherence to her duty in setting on the three little blue eggs. Then when the little birds were hatched I watched with much interest how devotedly she cared for them. Yesterday two of them were strong enough to leave the nest and flew away. But one little fellow, weaker than the others, stayed behind. This morning he too left the nest, but his wings were not strong enough to carry him far, and he fell an easy prey to the crow.

I am a bird lover, but now I wonder if there should not be a bounty on crows.

GRACE S. BADGER.

A COMMUNITY AND ITS RAILROAD.

Franklin Grove, Ill., May 16.—Our President is thinking of helping the railroads. It seems to me if the people would appreciate and patronize them as they did years ago that they could carry on.

Before 1855 the farmers had to haul their hogs, wheat, and all farm produce to Chicago by team. Then the C. & N. W. came through Lee county, causing the building up of towns and cities and making this one of the most prosperous sections of the state. The railroad has paid millions of dollars in all kinds of taxes, some years 42 per cent of the school tax, and has paid out many thousands of dollars to our Lee county boys and the fathers who helped build the road and maintain it for the last 75 years.

I can name over 70 boys from this town alone, most of them old schoolmates, who started out to work for the railroad. We have now the best track system through this town we ever had. I can't help but notice how smoothly, noiselessly the trains now pass through our town as compared to the jolt and racket of years ago. W. A. GIRTON.

INTEREST RATES.

Chicago, May 14.—Chicago owes far less and has a better record of making its payment than other large cities and pays more than twice as much interest. Light of publicity would soon melt the interest rate to about $2\frac{3}{4}$ per cent, a rate paid by other cities. That would mean savings of about $30,000,000 a year.

C. E. BROWN.

A CONTRAST.

Chicago, May 11.—The Illinois Central railroad surely presents a shabby picture in contrast to the brightly colored Fair buildings. All of Chicago is sprucing up for the big event, so as to put its best foot forward. May I suggest a few buckets of paint and several members of the vast army of unemployed as a remedial measure for the I. C. R. R. to use?

WORKER IS LOST IN LABYRINTH OF FORGOTTEN SUITS

Can't Find Way Out of County Building Vault.

Into the cavern of forgotten suits of the Superior court, on floor three and one-half of the county building, a recruit of the building's rehabilitation army from the Illinois free employment bureau was thrust one morning recently by Custodian John F. Cavanaugh. He was given a broom and a mop and left in the vault with the admonition "Make the dust fly until you hear the clock in the Methodist temple across the street strike five."

The recruit, George William Paul, 1939 West Van Buren street, surveyed the field of his activities. He found himself surrounded by row upon row of battered file cases reaching almost to the ceiling eight feet above the cement floor. The files bulged with documents which once brought joy and sorrow to hosts of litigants now dead.

A Labyrinth of Steel.

As the cases have been added under various administrations they do not form ordered rows, but resemble a labyrinth of steel and wood. Paul saw two windows but years of grime took from them what little opportunity they might have afforded for light. Small electric bulbs threw strange shadows in the gloom.

Paul went to work with a will. When he heard twelve muffled notes of the church bell at noon he unwrapped his lunch, ate and returned to work. When five notes sounded he started for the vault door. After several paces he came to a wall. He attempted to retrace his steps to find another wall. He tried one passage after another with the same result.

Paul was lost.

He was lost in the county building four blocks from the busiest corner in the world. To add to his difficulty the lights suddenly went out.

Calls for Help Unanswered.

He called for help; there was no answer. He renewed his search with the aid of matches. As the flame of the last match died he came upon the exit to find the vault door locked.

In black despair he saw a gleam of light from one of the begrimed windows. He reached it, to come upon a barred window. With desperate strength he opened the window and called for help. A scrubwoman was attracted by his cries and summoned Cavanaugh. Paul told his story

Cavanaugh was unable to open the door not knowing the combination of the vault. He found a clerk of the court who opened the door. Paul dashed past his rescuers and out of the building.

Cavanaugh went to his office and phoned the employment bureau.

"Send around a new man in the morning," he said. "The last one found the work too confining."

7 Fugitives from Penal Colony Find Sanctuary

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, May 20.—(AP)—Seven fugitives from the French penal colony of Devil's island landed at Trinidad today, sunburned and emaciated from a voyage of more than a month in a small boat on the open sea. The fugitives, who left the colony April 17, were almost exhausted as the result of their labors in working the small boat and their subsistence on scant rations. There is no extradition arrangement between Trinidad and the French colony.

Kentucky Judge Orders Inheritance Tax Refund

Frankfort, Ky., May 20.—(AP)—Circuit Judge H. Church Ford today ordered State Auditor J. Dan Talbott to refund $521.92 in inheritance taxes to the First and Merchants National bank of Richmond, Va., and W. Hill Urquhart, co-executors of the estate of Mrs. Ira A. Urquhart. Judge Ford sustained contentions of the co-executors that the tax was paid under protest under a state law later held to be invalid.

PRESIDES OVER LILAC PAGEANT

8,000 View Pageant

More than 8,000 persons braved chilly weather last night to witness the fourth annual Lilac pageant in Lombard, sponsored by the Lombard Lilac league.

Some 200 men, women, and children participated, putting on a realistic tableau and show representing a fifteenth century English village market. L. S. Whitbeck, president of the league, appeared in the rôle of the county lord, and Samuel W. Norton portrayed the lord mayor. Miss Mildred Fryer, a Lombard beauty, was the lilac queen.

Two blocks, one known as Lilacia park, were gaily decorated, and filled with people. The park, on the old Flum estate, bears 350 varieties of lilacs. After the pageant a colorful carnival was held with games, street dancing, singing, and bonfires. The pageant was directed by Miss Harriet Taylor.

SENATOR REED ATTACKS BILL TO AID TRADE

Morrisville, Pa., May 20.—(AP)—Attacking President Roosevelt's industrial recovery bill, Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania today predicted it will be "bowled out of the courts as unconstitutional."

"This industry recovery bill will put powers in the President's hands which I think are beyond any man's capacity," he declared in a speech here.

"I concede Mr. Roosevelt's sincerity and honest desire to rehabilitate industry, but I do not think any one man, or any group of Washington bureaucrats can manage the commerce and industry of this nation.

"Unless all our established constitutional principles fail, the bill will be stricken down by the courts."

PRUSSIA SEIZES 1,000 TONS OF 'POISON' BOOKS

25 Copies of Marx's Works Saved.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 20.—One thousand tons of books which the Nazi government charges are "poisoning the souls of the German people" have been confiscated by the black hussars, or Prussia's secret police. They have been piled up in stables in Berlin. The confiscated literature includes communistic books and magazines and works of Jewish authors.

Twenty-five copies of the works of Karl Marx and other famous communist treatises will be saved and entrusted to universities and ministries. Only "trustworthy men of science" will be permitted to use them. The books were seized from public libraries and included volumes written by "leading intellectuals of past régimes."

Spare Historical Books.

Many rare volumes have been confiscated, although the police say that books and documents of historical value will be spared. The black hussars searched cellars, stables and private homes in the raids.

A complete file of the Rheinische Zeitung, edited by Marx from 1848 to 1849, was seized by police and will be presented to a museum.

Meanwhile, newspaper circles are filled with apprehension over a new censorship decree.

The new law extends the penal provisions for treason from purely military to diplomatic affairs and provides that "whoever obtains objects or news that the welfare of the reich or a state requires shall be kept secret from other governments, with the intention of transmitting them to another government or publishing them, will be punished with imprisonment at hard labor up to ten years."

Authorities were unable to agree today on whether this law is applicable to foreigners or not. There is some doubt whether a foreigner can commit treason against a country of which he is not a citizen. This point must be settled by the courts, but foreigners have been sentenced on treason charges in Germany before.

Monarchists Excited.

Nomination of Prince Philip of Hesse as governor of Hesse-Nassau by Chancellor Hitler, has created a sensation in monarchist circles. They point out that Premier Mussolini has been hoping to place one of King Victor Emmanuel's daughters on a new European throne. So far he has succeeded in Bulgaria and he may endeavor to encourage Hitler to appoint Prince Philip as regent should President von Hindenburg retire. Prince Philip's wife is Mafalda, the Italian ruler's second oldest daughter.

German legitimists declare this is utterly out of the question. They say they will not accept an indirect descendant of the Hohenzollerns as long as members of the direct line are still living. Hitler's associates declare the subject is "not timely now because more important tasks face us."

Jail 220 as Profiteers.

MUNICH, Genmany, May 20.—(AP)—Two hundred and twenty persons were arrested here today and many stores were closed in police action against shopkeepers who were accused of charging excessive prices for groceries.

The persons held included 100 women who were taken to the Stadelheim prison while their husbands were transported to the Dachau Political Concentration camp. One of the inmates of the Dachau camp was shot dead yesterday while allegedly attempting to escape.

HITLER GETS HIS NAME IN 'WHO'S WHO' OF GERMANY

BERLIN, May 20.—[U. P.]—Adolf Hitler will see his name in the German "Who's Who" for the first time this autumn, when the tenth edition is issued. In previous editions Hitler apparently was not considered to have achieved sufficient importance in public life to get into the list of Germany's outstanding men.

The new "Who's Who" will include such leading Nazis as Capt. Hermann Goering, premier of Prussia; Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and hundreds of others who now hold office.

Neither Jews, Communists nor Socialists will be excluded from "Who's Who," provided "their importance in national affairs" warrants their presence. A new distinction will be made, however; all biographies will carry the notations "Aryan" or "non-Aryan."

Former Air Bootlegger's Wound Is Laid to Holdup

The Rogers Park police yesterday discarded the theory that Frank J. Parker, 40 years old, once known as the millionaire aviator bootlegger, had been put on the spot by gangster enemies. Parker was slightly wounded early yesterday in Ashland avenue while driving to his home at 1614 Jonquil terrace. The police said that they believed his story that he was shot by one of three bandits, when he resisted a hold up.

Seeks to Change Map of Europe

The map indicates Germany's proposal for settlement of the Polish corridor dispute, which for years has been considered one of the most potential causes for a new European war. The map shows:

1. Memel, where Poland would be given access to the sea through a customs or political union with Lithuania.

2. Shaded area indicates new territory which Germany would cede to Poland and Lithuania, thus giving them complete control of Memel and its approaches.

3. Pomorze (the Polish corridor), which separates Germany proper from East Prussia. Under the settlement Poland would return this territory to Germany. Germany would give guarantees of freedom to the Poles in the corridor and also in the free city of Danzig.

4. Vilna, which Lithuania claims is its capital and which Poland seized in 1920. Lithuania is reported to be willing to consider the German plan if Poland would agree to make Vilna the capital of the federated states.

LEAGUE TO ACT ON PLEA TO HALT NAZI WAR ON JEW

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 20.—(AP)—The league of nations decided today to give "urgent treatment" to a petition charging mistreatment of the Jews in Germany. The petition, signed by Franz Bernheim, a German Jew residing in German Upper Silesia, complained that the anti-Jewish activities of Chancellor Hitler's Nazis constituted a direct violation of the German-Polish convention which guaranteed complete protection to the life and liberty of all inhabitants without reference to race or religion.

The council was asked to nullify all discriminatory laws against the Jews, and the petition applied for the reinstatement of the rights of Jews and adequate compensation.

The necessity for quick action by the league was stressed on the ground that an enormous number of Jews would be ruined if "the tendencies prevailing in Germany continue, as every Jew in Germany will have suffered permanent injury, making reparation impossible." The German government has been asked to present its observations.

Two additional petitions protesting against alleged discrimination treatment of Jewish minorities in Upper Silesia were distributed to members of the league council tonight. The first was signed by L. Motzkin, president of the committee of Jewish delegations at Paris, and Emil Margulies, president of the Jewish party in Czechoslovakia.

BROTHERS SHOT; IDENTIFIED AS GARAGE ROBBERS

James Iaccino, 2121 Kendall street, yesterday identified two brothers, both suffering from gunshot wounds, as the men he fired on early in the morning when he discovered them breaking into his garage. The men are Edward and Philip Ferrara, 20 and 22 years old, respectively, of 1023 South Seeley avenue.

Edward Ferrara is in a critical condition at the county hospital. Philip Ferrara was taken to the Bridewell hospital after he had appeared at the county hospital, and police doubted his story that he had been shot by men whom he discovered stealing accessories from his car.

Capt. Al Mikes of the Marquette police station said that the brothers are members of the so-called "42" gang, and have police records.

ALFONSO'S SON TO WED CUBAN GIRL IN LAUSANNE

PARIS, May 20.—(AP)—Friends of the prince of Asturias, eldest son of former King Alfonso of Spain, said today that he planned to marry Edelmira Campedro y Robato, beautiful Cuban girl, at Lausanne within the next few weeks.

They added that he would renounce his royal rights as his father continued to disapprove marriage to a commoner.

According to his friends the prince will call himself the Count de Cavadonga.

Find Railroad Undermined Just Before Train Is Due

Rock Island, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—A few minutes before the Golden State limited of the Rock Island line was due at Moline, Ill., today, a crossing policeman, William Bartlett, noticed several small holes in the ground beneath the ties. His investigation revealed a pit, ten feet deep, caused by the collapse of a sewer for a considerable distance. All Rock Island line's west bound trains were routed over other than the main line track throughout the day.

HELD FOR KILLING BROTHER-IN-LAW.

Fairfield, Ill., May 20.—(AP)—Ebner Rigg, 45, was in jail today charged with slaying his brother-in-law, Milo Hoffee, 40, a farmer and father of eight. Riggs allegedly struck Hoffee with a club, killing him, during a quarrel. Riggs also is the father of eight children.

Hawaii Fights Appointment of Outsider as Governor

HONOLULU, May 20.—(AP)—Alarmed by reports that the Washington administration was contemplating appointment of a mainland man to be governor of Hawaii, the legislature adopted a resolution today memorializing congress not to change the organic law of the territory, which requires three years' previous residence here by an appointee. The resolution was cabled to Lincoln L. McCandless, congressional delegate at Washington. Simalar action was taken by the chamber of commerce.

NOW FRENCH SAY GERMANY PLANS TO INVADE RUSSIA

Deal with Mussolini for Expansion Claimed.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 20.—The mystery of why France continues to fear for her safety despite Chancellor Hitler's assurance that he will not seek to revise the peace treaties by force has a deep explanation that has not yet been brought out. At first glance it would appear to be just an example of old world orneriness.

Making due allowance for propaganda effects, it appears that the French army intelligence service recently acquired a wealth of information which the people here sincerely believe. This information reveals that two European powers have definite programs of territorial conquest. These two powers are Italy and Germany.

No Designs on France.

Oddly, the French feel reasonably sure that neither of these powers cherishes any designs on French territory or French colonies. Neither are the French as seriously worried as they pretend to be about the fate of their control in Europe, with their allies, except for the Jugo-Slavs, who have the misfortune of being in Italy's way.

The fact is that the concept of the next war has radically changed in the last few months. It is no longer taken for granted that the next war will blaze through the efforts of the defeated powers to readjust the Versailles map of Europe. Technical difficulties in the way of treaty revision, particularly as it concerns the Poles, appear to be greatly diminished.

The trouble comes from the fact that the alternative to forcible dispossession of the principal war victors is their consent to Germany and Italy carving out new empires for themselves in the east by dismembering Russia.

Plan Concerted Invasion.

On the basis of their secret information, the French believe that Italy and Germany have worked out a plan for a concerted invasion of Russia—Germany occupying White Russia and Italy the Ukraine and Crimea.

It is believed the French have been approached to give their consent to the scheme. It was pointed out to them that this would satisfy the alleged imperialist appetites of Italy and Germany and relieve all pressure on the frontiers of the new post-war countries—except Jugo-Slavia, which the Italians need as a road in their march east.

Poland's territorial integrity would be respected—perhaps she would even join in the spoils—and Czechoslovakia would be safe. With Russia to colonize, Italy and Germany would have room for surplus populations and would be too busy to bother their western neighbors.

The French dislike the idea of their two big neighbors becoming so powerful. When the French chamber of deputies ratified the Franco-soviet nonaggression pact Thursday, France definitely lined herself up against the empire builders, who see the salvation of western Europe in expansion to the east. Closer military coöperation with the soviets is expected to follow naturally the nonaggression pact. In fact, it is broadly hinted that such is the case.

By blocking the ambitions of the Germans and Italians, the French realize that they have increased the tension in western Europe. They believe Hitler is sincere in not wanting to fight France, but fear he would not hesitate to strike a crushing blow at her first in order to have his hands free for the Russian conquest. Thus, even if Germany convinces them of her sincerity in not wanting to attack France or Poland, the French will not feel perfectly secure.

It is understood that Premier Daladier's dream is to realize the much discussed project of a military alliance with Germany if Hitler will give up the idea of colonizing Russia.

The premier would actually like to see a German military mission working in Paris in close collaboration with the French army staff and would be willing to make serious concessions to obtain this.

CONVENTION OF U. S. CREDIT MEN WILL BE HELD IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20.—[Special.]—Plans will be completed Thursday night at the Schroeder hotel for the national convention of credit men, which will be held in Milwaukee the week beginning June 19. At this same meeting the Milwaukee association will name its delegates and elect officers for the coming year.

James G. Roamer, executive manager of the Milwaukee credit division, declared today that "credit problems and the elimination of credit abuses and the ills of distribution will comprise the chief topics of discussion during our convention."

William Adams is general chairman of the committee on arrangements. Other members are James G. Romer, F. J. Stenz, R. P. Boardman, W. C. Grimmer, A. H. Lambeck, S. C. Greusel, R. S. Shannon, and I. B. Davies.

Stop Wondering Where Roads Go! Get a CHICAGO TRIBUNE 1933 CHICAGOLAND MAP

NO OTHER MAP SO HELPFUL!
The 1933 Chicagoland Map represents an investment of thousands of dollars and years of painstaking effort on the part of the Tribune to provide motorists with the best map of the Chicago territory available. To keep the map up to date the Tribune maintains a complete map-making department and an entire fleet of "checking cars" which actually travel all roads and check conditions, changes, and mileages. No other map receives such careful attention in the making.

Details of 1933 Edition
Four-lane pavements shown in red
Danger signs and road numbers also in red
Accurate mileages
Grade crossings and danger points
Roads under construction
Special care in indicating curves
New city pavements and through streets
Underpasses and overpasses
Chicago boundaries and street numbers
Complete indexes and easy place-finding system which shows
Buildings at A Century of Progress
299 golf courses
305 lakes and streams
677 adjacent towns
Schools, churches, beaches, parks, 39 airports, and landmarks

NOW you can put an end to all the road uncertainties of motoring! The Tribune's 1933 Chicagoland map—the most accurate, complete, and informative map of the Chicago territory—is now available.

This map shows every surfaced, improved, and unimproved road—every grade crossing—all road markers—all landmarks—all danger spots—and hundreds of other valuable facts about the territory around the lower end of Lake Michigan and for more than forty miles into the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin!

It tells what you'll find along the roads—parks, beaches, picnic grounds, lakes, golf courses, forest preserves, sites of historical interest, and places of natural beauty in all parts of Chicagoland.

Get a copy of this map today. Plan a new kind of week-end motor trip—over new, seldom-traveled roads to old favorite haunts—over new roads to places of interest you've never visited. See for yourself how easy it is to avoid congested, fume-laden highways! By mail 30c—25c at the Chicago Tribune

RUSSIA IN GRIP OF FAMINE; MANY DIE OF HUNGER

Soviet Leaders Conduct Secret Probe.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 20.—Mikhail I. Kalinin, Russia's peasant president, and Commissar V. M. Molotov, president of the council of people's commissars, have left Moscow on an urgent trip of investigation in the lower Volga districts and the Kuban.

Ostensibly on a speechmaking tour to speed up the sowing campaign, the two are making secret investigations of prevailing famine conditions. The famine is becoming worse and Russia is threatened with an even greater catastrophe than that of 1921, according to reliable information.

Cannibalism Reported.

Deaths from starvation and cases of cannibalism are reported not only in the entire Volga region, the Caucasus, the Kuban and Ukraine, but even in Siberia. Despite the allegation of increased grain sowings, bolshevism is facing the most serious famine in its brief history and Moscow is beginning to buy foreign grain before news of the desperate situation reaches abroad.

Correspondents in Moscow are more tightly muzzled than ever. The soviet censor is making every effort to prevent reports of true conditions becoming known.

An immediate rise in grain prices is predicted by Baltic grain merchants, who are close students of Russian crop conditions. These men, who have informants in all the most important grain regions of Russia, regularly receive letters relating terrible conditions.

Last autumn, the seed delivered for spring sowing was eaten in most districts, these grain men declare. Although plowing is near completion, the fields of Russia's richest grain districts this year will grow nothing but weeds, they add.

Yesterday THE TRIBUNE correspondent received a letter from a Kuban province village which was formerly inhabited by 4,000 Kuban Cossacks. Almost completely exterminated in the war with Moscow, this village, like many others, has been settled by peasants from other districts.

"On our street there are 15 houses where deaths from starvation have occurred in the past fortnight," the letter says. "From five to six persons are dying daily and others are so weak it is impossible to dig proper graves. The bodies are left in the graveyard for the dogs.

Keep Cow in Kitchen.

"I am now caring for the property of Karl, who is in jail for failing to deliver the stipulated quantities of grain last winter. The situation is so bad we must keep his cow in our kitchen at night to prevent the animal from being stolen and slaughtered. Milk is all that keeps Karl alive, since the prisoners are not being fed enough. When some one dies there during the night, prisoners carve away the fleshy parts of the body for food.

"Your Easter food package contained the first meat we had tasted for seven months. Please do not send us flour or granulated sugar the next time. The postal workers bored holes in the packages and stole the contents. Send us macaroni. We can grind it to make bread and lump sugar.

"A crop failure for the Kuban is assumed this summer. Still peasants are journeying here from other provinces seeking bread. They report similar conditions in their villages."

Like every letter arriving in Latvia from Russia, this one closes with the usual appeal to send more packages of food.

Many Food Packages Mailed.

Still another confirmation of famine in Russia is the increasing number of food packages being handled by postoffices of the Baltic states. In Latvia the postoffice department has a special agreement with the soviet government which enables the sender immediately to pay the soviets the customs duties upon mailing.

The soviet charges are enormous, averaging four times the value of the actual contents of the package. It is interesting to note that the customs thus realized in Latvian postoffices are paid in Latvian currency and deposited in a local bank to the credit of the soviet trade delegation.

A serious epidemic of typhus has struck Kiev. The disease usually accompanies famine. Conditions in the Ukraine, formerly the granary of Europe, are extremely bad and Russia will be importing instead of exporting grain this year.

ZINOVIEV BEGS COMMUNISTS FOR REINSTATEMENT

MOSCOW, May 20.—(AP)—Gregory M. Zinoviev who, like Leo Kameneff, brother-in-law of Leon Trotzky, has twice been expelled from the communist party for oppositionist activities against Joseph V. Stalin's leadership, today followed Kameneff's lead in abjectly confessing his errors and pleading for reinstatement. Kameneff on Thursday addressed a letter to the soviet party's central committee appealing for "a chance to expiate" his errors.

In a long letter to the party's central committee which filled four columns in the newspaper Isvestia, Zinoviev praised "Comrade Stalin" and his leadership of the party.

"My political mistakes were very great, and, of course, the party had to expel me," he said. "If the party will reinstate me, I am ready to prove my good faith. I give my word as a revolutionary, I will do everything possible to expiate my crimes."

Until his expulsion for the second time last October, Zinoviev had been a member of the communist party 31 years.

DIES IN BED OF HEART ATTACK.

Bernard Sangerman, 77 years old, 1351 North Irving avenue, was found dead in bed of a heart attack yesterday.

JUSTICE HEARD FACING FIGHT FOR THE BENCH

E. R. Shaw, G. T. Liddell Rivals in 6th District.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Freeport, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Justice Oscar E. Heard of the Sixth Supreme court district faces grave chances of defeat for reëlection on June 5.

The ouster of a member of this state's highest tribunal by the voters is almost unheard of since the court's creation, particularly in this district, a rockbound Republican area including twelve counties in the north central and northwestern section of the state within which lie several large cities such as Rockford, Aurora, Elgin and Freeport.

Heard's Two Rivals.

For six decades it has been almost a custom here to elect a Republican without opposition. But this year the Democrats have nominated Elwyn R. Shaw, an active, energetic Freeport lawyer. For the first time in history, it is believed, there is an independent running by petition—County Judge George T. Liddell of Winnebago county, a lawyer, newspaper publisher and editor. Both Shaw and Liddell are comparatively young men. They are waging active campaigns.

Justice Heard has been placed on the defensive on several counts, each of which is proving a factor in the unusual contest. For years he has been regarded as a Len Small follower. He will be 77 years old next month, so that he would be 86 at the close of the new term he seeks.

In addition, Judge Liddell is the beneficiary of a widespread church and dry vote movement in a section that is considered about equally divided among wets and drys. As he is a Republican and as most of the dry votes come from the Republican camp, it is believed that he will cut into Justice Heard's vote materially and will not cut into the Democratic strength which, it is said, is largely anti-prohibition.

Drys Backing Liddell.

It is said also that the drys of most of these counties are working day and night to make a strong showing on the 18th amendment repeal vote to be cast the same day as the judicial election.

Some Republican officeholders and leaders say under these conditions Liddell has a chance of winning, but the consensus of all camps is that any one of the three may be the victor.

This judicial district went Republican by 33,195 last year, despite the Roosevelt avalanche, and gave Hoover a plurality of 102,418 in 1928.

An anonymous letter signed "a taxpayer and voter" has been mailed broadcast throughout the district. It alleges that although Justice Heard gave a formal appointment as his secretary—a post receiving $5,000 a year from the state treasury—to Ray T. Luney, a Freeport lawyer and business man, the state vouchers have been turned over regularly to the justice's son, Oscar E. Heard Jr. This is a total of $45,000 for the nine year term just closing.

In addition to this the younger Heard, who shares his father's law offices in Freeport, still receives $3,600 a year as official reporter for the Circuit court of the Fifteenth circuit, of which his father was a judge from 1909 to 1924.

Says Public Knows.

"Everybody knows about this," Justice Heard said when he was asked why Luney's name appeared on the pay roll instead of his son's.

Justice Heard recalled that he had told the April 10 convention that nominated him that his son was invaluable to him as an expert on evidence and pleading.

Mr. Luney, who is secretary of the Johnson High Test Oil company of Freeport, referred all questions on this subject to Justice Heard.

The general conception of Justice Heard as a Len Small judge is said to be based not only on the fact that he sought and obtained many political favors from the former governor, including patronage in this district, but also on the belief that he was the author of the minority opinion in the Supreme court case in which Small was held to account for interest received on public funds in Small's hands while state treasurer.

Minority Opinion Recalled.

That opinion was signed by Justice Heard and Justice Warren W. Duncan. Justice Duncan, whose term expires this year, is not seeking reëlection. The minority opinion held, among other things, that it made no difference whether the "Grant Park bank" was a real bank or a myth. The majority of five held that the so-called bank was a fiction used to defraud the state of interest on its own funds. Attorneys said that the minority opinion overlooked important points in the evidence concerning the disposition of approximately $1,000,000 of that interest.

The opposition to Justice Heard has pointed out that he has been on the public pay roll for forty years as a state's attorney of Stephenson county, Circuit judge, and Supreme court justice. He was nominated for the latter by district caucus after Justice James R. Cartwright died between the time of nomination and election in 1924. At the last election he had no Democratic opponent.

"Law of Nature Is Grim."

Democratic Nominee Shaw has stressed the advanced years of his Republican opponent ever since his speech of acceptance at Dixon on April 15.

"The law of nature is grim and inexorable," he then said. "The law of nature is that when a man gets to be around eighty years old, if he has not sooner done so, he begins to fail in body and mind. And, regret it as we may, it cannot be helped."

Mr. Shaw is 45 years old. He grew up on his father's farm near Lyndon in Whiteside county. In that village is his father's grain and coal business. He was graduated from the University of Michigan law school in 1910. Since that he has practiced law in Freeport. His reputation is of the highest. He never has sought nor held political office, either appointive or elective.

Judge Liddell Is 43.

Judge Liddell is 43 years old. Old line Republicans in Winnebago county like to charge him with being a "radical." But he has fought and beaten the organization in county elections—being nominated for his present office as an independent—and in the city elections of Rockford.

Prior to his admission to the bar in 1915 his only occupation was that of a newspaper reporter. He was employed on the Globe of Joplin, Mo., the Nebraska State Journal and the Omaha Bee. He has been active in his paper, the Rockford Journal, with the demand, "Take the Supreme court out of politics."

EXPECT '5 AND 10' HEIRESS TO WED PRINCE IN FALL

PARIS, May 20.—(AP)—Friends of Miss Barbara Hutton, granddaughter of the late F. W. Woolworth, said today it was most likely that she and Prince Alexis Mdivani, son of a Russian prince who served as aid to the czar, would be married in the fall.

The family refused to discuss the wedding. Franklyn Hutton, father of the heiress, referred to his statement yesterday that the engagement is not "official," but that he might have something to announce the first of next week.

Delay Inquest to Hunt Cause of Inventor's Death

The inquest into the death of Victor C. Goodridge, 40, inventor and chemist, was continued to June 2 yesterday. Dr. Thomas L. Dwyer, coroner's physician, examined the body and asked the continuance to make tests to discover what chemical gas had caused the death. Goodridge was found dead yesterday in his apartment at 6942 Kimbark avenue, in the midst of an array of chemical apparatus through which a lethal gas had been generated.

AUTO AND TRAIN CRASH; WOMAN DIES.

Goshen, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Benjamin Ruhling, 55, of Elkhart, was killed today when she was pinned beneath the wreckage of an automobile as it collided with a New York Central train.

PRINT WARRANTS OF $10,400,000 FOR TEACHERS

The board of education will have available $10,400,000 worth of 1933 tax anticipation warrants in small denominations to pay back salaries of teachers and other school employes in lieu of cash early this week. Supt. William J. Bogan was forced to withdraw a poll on this question last week when teachers indicated strong opposition to the paper pay day.

The teachers' opposition was based on the uncertainty as to the market value of the securities and a belief that they would have to part with them at heavy discounts. The school board may take action on the warrant pay day at its meeting Wednesday.

Warrants to the extent of $6,150,000 in $50 denominations and $4,250,000 in $25 denominations are being printed at a cost of $43,950.

In keeping with the request of a recent city council resolution, the school attorneys have started to draft an amendment to the school law which would authorize the issuance of $10,000,000 in bonds. Receipts from the bond sales would be used to retire outstanding 1929 tax warrants, would improve the credit of the board and give it free tax money, in the belief of the attorneys.

Mrs. Margaret T. O'Grady, 1418 North Mayfield avenue, a teacher, was robbed of three months' salary amounting to $610, shortly after she had cashed her checks at the Pioneer Trust and Savings bank. Two bandits seized her purse and knocked her husband, John, to the ground when he attempted to fight in front of the Garfield Park postal station at 4028 West Harrison street.

Probe North Side Garage Bombing; 2 Children Hurt

The police yesterday were investigating the bombing of a private garage in the rear of a 3 story apartment building at 5741-43 North Spaulding avenue. Two girls in the building, Eleanor and Ellen Shaffer, 13 and 9 years old respectively, were injured by glass from windows shattered by the bomb. Earl Dowes, 5747 North Spaulding avenue, an assistant in the corporation counsel's office, said the bomb might have been intended for him. He said he had made enemies in his prosecutions before the civil service trial board.

MOLEY WARNS LONDON PARLEY IS NO CURE-ALL

Makes First of Talks Over the Radio.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—The American people were warned tonight not to expect the impossible of the world economic and monetary conference and not to forget that domestic policy is of paramount importance, our foreign trade being only a small percentage of this country's entire commerce. The warning came from Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state and one of President Roosevelt's principal advisers.

Mr. Moley discussed prospects for the London conference called for June 12. It was his first radio speech as a member of the administration.

Borah Praises Roosevelt.

Senator Borah at the same time, in an address before the Women's International League For Peace and Freedom, praised President Roosevelt's success "in bringing disarmament back into the center of the stage."

"It will be difficult, if not impossible," Mr. Borah told his audience, "to stabilize currencies, adjust tariffs, open up markets and to bring trade and commerce back to normal, while nations are piling up armaments, making all preparations apparently for war and pauperizing their people to pay the expenses."

Mr. Moley asserted that "any general process of trading comes rather from dealings within the international markets than from an economic conference looking to the general rehabilitation of the world on a sounder basis."

Seek National Advantage.

"It must be remembered," he added, that "each delegate at London will have come from a nation over which the icy atmosphere of economic fear has prevailed. Their conclusions always will be modified by what their respective parliamentary bodies will approve."

For that reason, he argued, it must not be expected that trade barriers will be removed, though they may be modified, for they result from the desire of the nations, including the United States, to be self-dependent; to obtain from themselves favorable trade balances.

He denied that the depression had spread from country to country "by contagion," despite the Republican campaign contention that the trouble started with the failure of a bank in Austria. Mr. Moley did believe, he said, that the London conference would result in closer measures between central banks of the various countries and moves for the stabilization of currencies. He hoped, also, for "alleviation of economic difficulties," through "wise international coöperation."

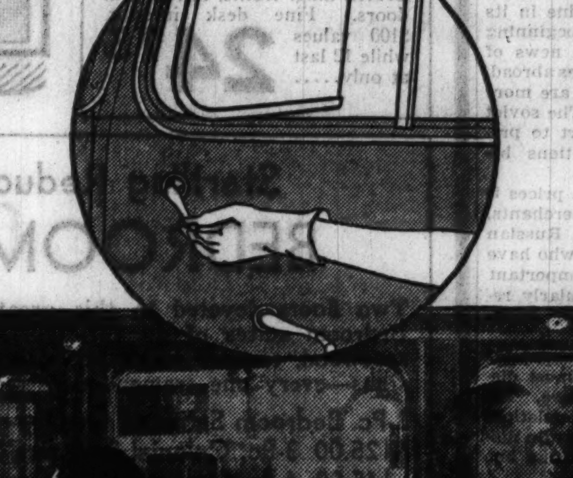
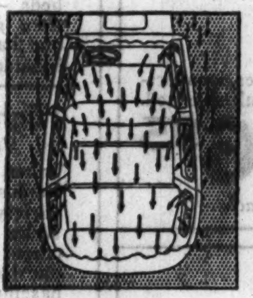
TRAVEL THE COOL WAY ON THE HOTTEST DAY



FISHER NO DRAFT VENTILATION SYSTEM CREATES ITS OWN BREEZES



Scoops in Air

Hot days! The sweltering calm of mid-summer! Oh, for a breeze and a chance to cool off in comfort! Fisher No Draft Ventilation system catches a refreshing breeze as you ride and literally scoops it into every corner of the car.

This remarkable ventilation system, which is built into the body, is scientifically designed to provide thoroughly comfortable ventilation every day in the year. Not an accessory or a gadget, but a real system of closed car ventilation, it overcomes the discomforts of hot-weather driving as well as it provides perfect ventilation and protection in bad weather. Moreover, Fisher No Draft Ventilation is individually controlled. One passenger may have breezes while his seat-mate has none; every occupant of the car can have ventilation to suit his own desires.

Under all driving conditions Fisher No Draft Ventilation maintains a perfect flow of air within the car—without a single annoying, harmful draft. It never allows smoke and used air to remain in the car but carries them outside instantly. And it keeps the windshield and windows clear of dangerous mist at all times—yet never lets rain or snow enter the body.

There is only one way to appreciate fully the Fisher No Draft Ventilation system. That is to try it in actual driving. Once you have experienced the pleasure and safety it affords, you will never again be satisfied with any car without this ventilation system.

And look into the exceptional quality and luxury of Fisher Bodies—the strength, resilience and durability of Fisher's hardwood-and-steel construction and "bow-and-slat" type roof and many other valuable features. Weigh carefully what your automobile dollars buy and you will invest in a General Motors car—for only General Motors cars have Bodies by Fisher.

SOUTH AMERICA PUTS ECONOMIC FATE UP TO U. S.

Expects "Protection" at World Parley.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 20.—Although the principal South American countries have been invited to send delegates to the world economic conference in London, this continent as a whole is looking to the United States to protect its interests there and ensure benefits from the ameliorative measures that are expected to be taken.

South American economic hopes are placed in the keeping of the United States because the Latin nations are convinced that Washington will not neglect a foreign trade field in which Americans have made huge capital investments and with which they have built up an interchange of products whose total normally is reckoned in billions of dallars. It is also believed that American support will be forthcoming if only in an attempt to save something out of the defaulted bond wreckage.

Censure Attitude of Nations.

Many South American newspapers, especially the conservative section, censure the attitude of the Chilean, Argentine and Brazilian governments toward the conference, pointing out that the participation of these nations is dominated by the one selfish motive of "getting something for nothing."

"We shall be making a great mistake in assuming that the London conference is going to be a mere prize distribution where, the smallest children will be awarded the biggest gift," El Mercurio said. "The United States, Great Britain, and the principal convening powers intend that everybody shall donate something, sacrificially, to ensure the success of the conference."

The same paper hinted that the United States would help South American delegations in London only provided certain conditions were fulfilled. First and foremost it would require that there be an immediate relaxation of the pernicious exchange control restrictions imposed in Chile, Argentina, Brazil, Peru and practically every other country south of Panama, the paper said.

U. S. Is the "Goat."

Latin American governments have all been informed that Washington is definitely opposed to the existence of these restrictions, whose powers are so far reaching and dictatorial that they not only have suffocated business and caused great personal hardship, but have created much international friction.

Also, in the case of every major power, the United States is buying the bulk of the exports and the dollars thus available, instead of being utilized for liquidating American frozen credits or imports, are for the most part distributed among foreigners who specialize in dumping, which is supported by depreciated currency.

Another South American sacrifice which may be necessary to secure a share of the expected London benefits is in the realm of government and commercial debts. Spending goes merrily on in this continent without the slightest concern for the creditors, chief among whom is the United States. Argentina and Brazil are the only major powers making an effort to meet their obligations; the rest are not only in default, but refuse to make propositions to their creditors. Chile has passed a law legalizing the position of private debtors in foreign currency.

Urged to Increase Imports.

South Americans will be asked to think in terms of imports as well as of exports, because several countries have abolished importation altogether, in the mad scramble to build up foreign money balances or finance war supplies. Balanced budgets, reduced armaments and the abolition of internecine warfare will also be expected of them in the new economic era.

The delegates who left for London this week have been warned regarding these points, and told to take special precautions to see that they are not "left out in the cold," when the United States and other big powers settle down to serious negotiations.

GIRL STOWAWAY FOUND IN PLANE IS TAKEN HOME

The girl stowaway found in an airplane at the municipal airport early last week was identified yesterday as Josephine Barber, 12 years old, 382 North Hamlin avenue. The girl had given the police a fictitious name, but her picture in the newspapers was recognized by her father, Stanley Barber.

The girl was turned over to her parents yesterday by authorities of the juvenile home. Barber said that his daughter had run away from home three times within the last two weeks. The first time she was intercepted at Lima, O., and the second time she was found in the Union station. She disappeared again last Monday, and was found in the baggage compartment of a United Airlines airplane just before it left for Omaha, Neb.

VIVIAN DOWNEY, MUSICAL COMEDY ACTRESS, WEDS

Hollywood, Cal., May 20.—(AP)—Vivian Downey, former musical comedy actress of New York, married David A. Friedman, motion picture executive, today with only two friends as witnesses.

Miss Downey, daughter of Dr. H. H. Downey of Rochester, N. Y., disclosed at the wedding that she and Friedman have been engaged more than two years, but only recently planned the marriage for today.

The romance started when Miss Downey was working under the direction of Friedman, who is an assistant director at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. A year ago she played the feminine lead opposite Ian Keith in the stage production "Copperhead."

FEDERAL DRIVE ON RACKETEERS NEARS CLIMAX

Business Men Called as Witnesses.

The first step in the federal government's campaign to break up racketeering in Chicago will be taken tomorrow when twenty witnesses, summoned in subpœnas issued yesterday, will appear at the federal building to recount the story of racket-ridden industry. Indictments charging income tax violation will be sought, it is reported, against Murray Humphries, public enemy No. 1, and at least three of his chief henchmen.

News of the impending action became known yesterday in the federal building at the conclusion of a six weeks' investigation of labor rackets in Chicago. It was said that none of the subpœnas named known gangsters. Practically all of those called as witnesses are reputable business men who are expected to tell of the graft they have paid to labor racketeers so that their businesses might continue.

Other Hoodlums Under Scrutiny.

In addition to Humphries, who has replaced Al Capone as the dictator of Chicago's liquor, vice, gambling, and graft industry, several underworld leaders are under federal scrutiny. These, according to reports in the federal building, include William [Three Fingered Jack] White, William [Klondike] O'Donnell, Marcus [Studdy] Looney, Sam Hunt, the golf bag gunman, and Gus Winkler. Several union officials also are reported to be facing federal action.

The six weeks' investigation of the incomes of the gangsters and labor leaders concerned in a large measure, it is said, the Trucking and Transport exchange [T-N-T], 138 West Washington street, which is reputed to levy tribute on employés and unions alike. The report of this investigation has been placed in the hands of United States Attorney Dwight H. Green.

According to the reports, the investigation disclosed that Humphries and his associates were taking a profit of $40,000 a month out of the T-N-T alone. Humphries himself is said to have squeezed $500,000 a year in tribute out of the labor and trade associations his gang controls.

Labor Rackets Probed.

The federal inquiry into activities of the present gang leaders was conducted by the same investigators who broke the power of Humphries' predecessors, sending Al and Ralph Capone, Frank Nitti, Sam and Jack Guzik, Terry Druggan, and Frankie Lake to prison for income tax fraud. Under the direction of A. P. Madden, chief of the special intelligence unit of the internal revenue bureau, and Assistant Attorney General Leslie E. Salter, the federal agents have made a thorough investigation of all phases of the labor racketeering in Chicago.

While District Attorney Green refused to comment on the investigation, it was learned from other sources that the government is confident of sending the present gang leaders to prison. The agents are reported to feel they have such a mass of evidence that the cases will reach the point of decisive action by the end of this week.

WATCHMAN SLAIN; PONDER MURDER, SUICIDE THEORIES

The Chicago Heights police yesterday were undecided on a murder or suicide theory in the death of Bert Denyer, 57 years old, 1625 Oak street, who was found shot to death between two buildings in the closed plant of the Northwestern Terra Cotta company, 16th and State streets, Chicago Heights, where he was the night watchman.

The police found knife wounds on Denyer's throat and hands, but a physician said these wounds were not the cause of death. There were powder marks on Denyer's head, indicating that the gun, which lay near by, had been fired from close range. The weapon belonged to Carl Diehl, 29 West 32d street, Steger, day watchman at the plant, who found the body, and said that his locker had been broken into and the gun taken. Denyer's gun was not found. There was a pool of blood 100 feet away from the body.

Diehl said that Denyer had recently complained that ex-employés of the plant had threatened him because he drove them from the yards.

Doctors Find a Squirrel with Rabies Bites Boy

Indianapolis, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—Results of a state board of health examination tonight disclosed that a squirrel which bit Junior Craig, 9, living on a farm near Clinton, was affected with rabies. Dr. J. L. Axby, state veterinarian, said it was the first time he has heard of a squirrel having rabies and that it carried serious possibilities for live stock and other animals.

CUBAN MILITARY RULE PREVENTS FREEDOM FIESTA

Police on Guard; Streets Are Deserted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 20.—Cuba's 31st independence day observance today was devoid of traditional festivities and celebrations because of the rigid enforcement of martial law.

To Cubans opposed to the régime of President Machado, the roaring of guns welcoming independence day marked the close of his eighth year in office and the beginning of the additional two years allowed him by constitutional amendments, which, oppositionists contend, were illegal.

No Disorders in Havana.

It has been rumored that a new rebellion would be launched to protest Machado's continuance in office, but nothing happened in the capital.

Police patrolled the streets and prevented crowds from forming. The usual throngs of merrymakers in parks, boulevards and other public places were conspicuously absent. There were no parades. Business houses were closed and Machado and other officials left Havana over the holiday.

Dispatches made public today by the Union Nacionalista, official name for the oppositionists, that Gen. Mario Garcia Menocal, former president, was leading an expeditionary rebel force of 350 men to Cuba from Miami appeared to be greatly exaggerated.

According to information from Miami, Gen. Menocal is ill and confined to his bed. Dispatches from there added that practically the entire Cuban exile colony was still in Florida.

Bodies Hanging from Trees.

Another report issued by the opposition headquarters here said that the bodies of 18 insurgents were found hanging from trees along a highway in Santa Clara province. The oppositionists charged that troops of Maj. Arsenio Ortiz, Machado's military strategist and right hand man, had executed them at dawn.

Maj. Ortiz arrived at Moron in Camaguey province tonight to assume command of 450 hand picked soldiers assembled to fight rebel bands. The federal force clashed with the insurgents for three hours in guerilla warfare. Military leaders said that the rebels used poison gas bombs.

An army staff bulletin tonight said that Lieut. Evilio Arias' force defeated rebel bands at Jiquiral, Ramones and Guadalupe. Many were reported killed. Col. Erasmo Delgado has been appointed to investigate the desertion yesterday of the Jatibonico garrison, which assisted in the attack on Maj. Ortiz' troops today.

KINNEY ASKED BY HORNER TO EXPLAIN BOOKS

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—[U.P.]—Gov. Henry Horner announced today that Garrett D. Kinney, Peoria, former director of the state department of finance, has been requested to come to Springfield to explain several entries in the department's records made during his tenure of office.

The entries, for which it is alleged no explanation is made in the department records, were found when an auditing firm, engaged by Joseph J. Rice, present director of the department, made its audit of the department books before Rice took over the office at the beginning of Horner's administration.

Kinney so far has not complied with the request that he come to Springfield, but this failure to do so is said to be due to his being confined to a Peoria hospital by a severe illness.

Woman Kept from Safety Box Makes Scene in Bank

The First National bank was thrown into confusion yesterday when Mrs. Anna Lavett, 40 years old, 852 North Cicero avenue, threw herself to the floor and screamed when she was refused admission to the safe deposit vaults. Mrs. Lavett was barred from the vaults when she was unable to produce her keys or identification. She was taken to the South State street police station. Her son, Robert, said that the keys had been taken from her by his father, who feared she intended to dispose of securities.

E. D. Lawson Police and Fire Chief of Park Ridge

Edward D. Lawson, 20 North Merrill avenue, Park Ridge, yesterday assumed his duties as police and fire commissioner in the village. He was appointed by the village council on Friday night. Mr. Lawson is chairman of the marine committee of the Chicago chamber of commerce and manager of the western department of the Firemen's Fund Insurance company.

Famous Surrey Mill Badly Damaged by Fire

Burned out upper story of the famous Castle Mill on the River Mole, near Dorking, Surrey, England, after recent fire. The ancient wooden water mill is believed to date back to the Domesday book. The mill, which was a favored spot among artists, had been in operation for 500 years. [Acme Photo.]

ACTOR OFFERS TO GIVE AWAY GAS STATION

Hollywood, Cal., May 20.—[Special.]—After four years of operating a gasoline service station opposite one of the major motion picture studios Charlie Bickford, actor, today published this want ad in Los Angeles newspapers: "Free—Garage and filling station business to a responsible person. No catch. Charles A. Bickford, Culver City."

The gas station is located opposite Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, where Bickford used to be featured as an actor and from which he departed, giving up a lucrative contract, following a difference with a studio executive.

In explaining his want ad Bickford said: "I received satisfaction for my investment in the filling station by having my name in big letters directly opposite the studio where Irving Thalberg (a film studio executive) could see it every day; there are no strings on my offer. I am giving the business away, but I am giving myself the right to select who shall receive it. All I want is to give it to a responsible party, willing and able to continue to operate the business successfully."

BURNED FIGHTING FIRE; DIES.
Max Schwenghauer, 60 years old, 725 West Ohio street, died yesterday in the county hospital of burns suffered May 14 when he tried to extinguish a fire which broke out in the kitchen of his home.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In Saturday's TRIBUNE the name of the Flossmoor girl winning the school health championship at the World's Fair was given in both news item and picture captions as Betty Hall. The name should have been Betsy Doll.

In a picture caption the name of the grandson of Capt. Frank P. Tyrrell, Haymarket veteran, was given as Cyril Tyrrell. This name should have been Cyril Farwell.

Seeks to Quash Indictment for Murder of Heiress

Pontiac, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—A motion to quash the murder indictment returned by the grand jury in the court of Stevens R. Baker against Asher Earl Bentley was filed today. Judge Baker ordered a written motion to be filed. Bentley was indicted for the death of Aldine Younger, Pontiac heiress, who was found dead on a lonely road near here last March.

Former Judge G. F. Haid Stricken While on Train

Peoria, Ill., May 20.—[U.P.]—Former Judge George F. Haid, 65, of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, is in St. Francis hospital after suffering a paralytic stroke on a train near here yesterday. He was reported improved today. Judge Haid was en route to Pekin to visit relatives when stricken.

ANOTHER INDIANA INGRAM ENTERS NAVAL ACADEMY

Annapolis, Md., May 20.—[Special.]—William T. Ingram 2d passed his examinations for admission to the naval academy today. He represents the second generation of the Ingrams, Jeffersonville, Ind., athletic family, to enter Annapolis.

The newcomer is the son of Commander Jonas H. Ingram, formerly athletic director at the academy, and namesake of Bill Ingram, now head football coach at the University of California.

The other navy Ingram, coming between Jonas and Bill, was Homer, now deceased. All three men were noted football players and oarsmen. Bill 2d has made a reputation as a prep school football player.

Urbana, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Franklin G. Emrick, Helmer, Ind., a junior in the college of commerce at the University of Illinois, has been named student colonel of the R. O. T. C. brigade for next year, it was announced today. He will take command of the brigade during the annual military day exercises next Thursday.

BOLIVIA READY TO O. K. LEAGUE PLAN TO END WAR

Paraguay Agrees to Arbitration Proposal.

GENEVA, May 20.—(AP)—Without definitely committing himself, the delegate of Bolivia, Costa Durels, gave the impression to the league of nations' council tonight that Bolivia would soon accept the council's recommendations for settlement by arbitration of the Gran Chaco conflict with Paraguay.

The council's recommendation was immediately accepted on behalf of Paraguay by Ramon Caballero de Bedoya.

May Appoint American.

It is understood that a citizen of the United States will be a member of the arbitration commission, if the commission is created.

Representatives of every nation on the council addressed an urgent appeal to Bolivia to accept the council's report. The council adjourned with its members expressing confidence Bolivia would accept their report, and expressing satisfaction that the old dispute now seemed in a fair way to be settled.

Although Dr. Durels for Bolivia first demanded the application of article 16 of the league covenant against Paraguay, he abandoned this position after several members of the council, including those of Spain, France, Germany, and Great Britain, indicated there could be no question of applying this punitive provision.

Stand of Neutrals.

These neutral members took the position that hostilities had been going on a long time during which neither party submitted the conflict to the league, and that the country which declares war is not necessarily the aggressor.

(Durels asked for the application of article 16, which calls for economic and military penalties to enforce the authority of the league, on the ground that Paraguay had declared war on Bolivia.)

The neutral members remarked also that Paraguay's acceptance of the report meant that Paraguay would withdraw her declaration of a state of war.

Members of the council are urging Peru to accept the formula they have proposed as a means of settling Peru's dispute with Colombia.

LIGHTNING WRECKS TWO BUILDINGS.
McGregor, Ia., May 20.—[Special.]—In a storm in northeastern Iowa and southwestern Wisconsin last night, the Eberhard Butter Tub factory at Guttenberg, Ia., and the Milwaukee depot at Muscoda, Wis., were both struck by lightning and burned. Train service was halted by washouts near Wauzeka, Wis., and Clayton, Ia.

UMPIRE SCANS DATA OF THE BATTLE OF MATH., ARMY VS. HARVARD

West Point, N. Y., May 20.—(AP)—It's all over at West Point—the mathematical contest between Harvard and the cadets. No one knows yet who won.

Prof. Arnold Dresden, of Swathmore, president of the Mathematical Association of America, must struggle through pages of figures to tell.

He probably won't know for ten days. The battle of brains opened yesterday. Impartial observers seemed to think the Crimson had the edge.

Robins Pick Boom of Crane for Nest; Hatch 2 Young

Morris, Ill., May 20.—(AP)—Cock Robin and his wife picked out a precarious perch for their nest on the boom of a crane operating day and night at a strip coal mine near here. Their two youngsters hatched out despite the constant hoisting and jiggling of the boom.

'BIG 4' OF EUROPE NEAR AGREEMENT ON 'PEACE UNION'

Germany and Italy Make Concessions to France.

ROME, May 21.—[Sunday.]—(AP)—After a two and a half hours secret session, at which Premier Mussolini discussed his plan for salvaging his proposed four-power peace pact, the Fascist grand council was dismissed early this morning until Monday, when the discussion will be resumed.

[The Mussolini four-power peace plan provided that Great Britain, France, Germany, and Italy pursue a common policy for peace. France and its allies, the little entente, raised the objection that the pact might result in a four-power dictatorship over Europe, to the detriment of smaller nations.]

A brief communique issued at the close of the meeting did not disclose the status of the negotiations, but merely said that the debate would be resumed at 10 p. m. Monday.

Report Concessions to France.

This attitude of secrecy lent importance to reports that Italo-German concessions to the French objections had been submitted to the French and British governments. In that case the duce would be unable to make a public statement on the subject until answers had been received from London and Paris.

Shortly before the meeting of the grand council, Premier Mussolini had held conferences with Capt. Hermann Goering, Chancellor Hitler's right hand man, and with the British and French ambassadors.

The official communique issued after the meeting studiously avoided mention of the pact and likewise any reference to President Roosevelt's peace initiative or Chancellor Hitler's speech to the reichstag Thursday.

Agreement Said to Be Near.

It was learned in diplomatic circles that Capt. Goering's presence in Rome today was primarily to coöperate with Premier Mussolini in efforts to rehabilitate the four-power peace scheme. The German attitude upon this project has been changed within the past few days, informed persons said.

Diplomatic circles regard the last minute decision to continue the council meeting on Monday as a result of the duce's conferences with Goering and the British and French ambassadors. They are inclined to the view that strong hopes are held that the Italo-German attitude will now satisfy France and that a far reaching agreement will be possible shortly.

MIKADO REPLIES TO ROOSEVELT'S PEACE APPEAL

TOKIO, May 20.—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito today dispatched a brief personal message to President Roosevelt acknowledging the latters' world-wide peace appeal. The message read:

"I thank you for this communication, inspired by a desire of assuring peace for the world and overcoming universal depression. I have caused your message to be transmitted to my government for its earnest consideration."

The government's more definite reply is expected next week. Indications have been that the reply will accept the President's proposals "in principle," but with strong reservations.

Amazement was expressed in Tokio upon the receipt of President Roosevelt's message addressed directly to Emperor Hirohito. A spokesman for the foreign office explained that the emperor never communicates directly with the heads of other states on political matters.

DECREES JUDGES CAN'T POSTPONE MORTGAGE SUITS

New York, May 20.—In a decision differing from rulings in other parts of the country declaring moratoria on mortgage suits, Supreme Court Justice William H. Black ruled today that a judge who does so violates the federal and state constitutions, as well as his own oath of office.

The decision granted a summary judgment for $24,117 for the Loma Holding company against the Cripple Bush Realty company on a mortgage covering unimproved land near Mineola, L. I. The foreclosure of the mortgage was not sought, the defendant contending that the plaintiff merely asked a judgment and then intended to try to collect from other property owned by the defendant.

In granting the judgment the court upheld the contention of the plaintiff that the answer, relying mainly on the plea of the economic depression, did not contain a valid defense.

VICTIM CALLS OFF HIS ONE MAN WAR ON ROBBERS

Daniel Weitzman, 32 years old, 3424 Douglas boulevard, minor west side politician, railed at police inefficiency yesterday morning after three men had robbed him in front of his home.

They took jewelry valued at $150 and $50 in cash, Weitzman told the Fillmore police, and added: "Police protection doesn't seem to be much good. I'll have to protect myself."

Dr. Maurice Knopp called the police later in the day and said a man was in his office at 4207 West Madison street, suffering from a gunshot wound in the left hand. There the police found Weitzman, sadder and wiser.

"I decided to carry a gun to protect myself," he explained, "but it was discharged while I was loading it. I guess I'll entrust the safety of the city to the police again."

Jury Fails to Fix Blame for Crash Fatal to Five

Clinton, Ill., May 20.—[U. P.]—An open verdict was returned today by a Dewitt county coroner's jury which investigated an automobile accident in which five Lincoln residents were killed and two Indianans injured near Weldon yesterday. The jury placed no blame on anybody for the fatal crash.

MOVES FOR CITIES TO COMPROMISE PART OF DEBT

Roosevelt Asks Help from Rail Director.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Actively participating in a movement to permit debt ridden municipalities to compromise their debts, President Roosevelt today conferred on the proposition with Senators Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] and James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] and Dean Acheson, assistant secretary of the treasury.

It also was learned that the President has called in a young captain of industry, W. Averell Harriman, of the railroad Harrimans, to make a study of various proposals for permitting municipalities to escape full payment of their outstanding indebtedness.

Director of Railroads.

Mr. Harriman, who is a well known polo player and lives in New York, is a director of various railroads, including the Union Pacific. At the President's request he has collected data on the subject, including two bills now pending before congress, and he is expected shortly to present a report for Mr. Roosevelt's guidance.

The proposals which have been made generally follow the bankruptcy bill passed at the last session of congress, under which private corporations and railroads particularly are permitted, under the permission of federal courts, to make agreements with creditors for compromising indebtedness. Under the bill if 75 per cent of the creditors approve the agreement the court may enforce the agreement upon the minority creditors without dragging the corporation through expensive bankruptcy proceedings.

The bills pending in congress contemplate the same procedure with cities which are unable to meet their obligations. The courts would determine the ability of a municipality to pay, receive the consent of 75 per cent of the bond and note holders to accept a proposed compromise and then make a formal finding requiring that all creditors accepted the reduced rate of return.

Waste in Government.

The plan originated with Frank Murphy, former mayor of Detroit, now governor general of the Philippines who interested President Roosevelt. Considerable criticism has been received by congressional committees from organizations who have taken the position that the best way for a municipality to meet its obligations is to reduce expenditures, and that allowing public bodies to escape the responsibility for extravagances at the expenses of security holders would serve only to encourage waste in government.

It is expected, if such legislation is adopted, that cities in such financial straits as are Detroit, Chicago, Philadelphia, and other smaller ones, would move to take advantage of it.

President of Closed Bank at Farmington Indicted

Canton, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Alfred C. Steenburg, president of the Steenburg Banking company at Farmington when the institution closed its doors, was indicted by the grand jury today on a charge of having received deposits after the bank was known to be insolvent. Steenburg is now at Plainfield, Wis. Unless he voluntarily returns extradition proceedings will be started by State's Attorney Joseph P. Martin.

HUNT HUSBAND WHO SHOT RIVAL.

The Stanton avenue police yesterday were searching for Stanton McDay, 32 years old, colored, 3456 Giles avenue, who shot Isaac Anderson, 31 years old, also colored, in his flat at 340 East 38th street when McDay discovered his wife with Anderson.

FEES STRICTLY ON GOLD BASIS IN FOUR HOLY CITIES

Moslem Priests Gather Riches from Pilgrims.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—Whatever may happen to mediums of exchange elsewhere in the world, trade in veneration of Allah's prophet in Mohemmedan holy cities of the Arabian desert still is conducted strictly on the gold standard.

Four holy cities of the Shiah section near Bagdad, Najaf, Karbala, Kidhimain, and Samarra contain uncounted stores of gold and precious stones, marvelously wrought jewelry and one of the richest collections of rare carpets to be found anywhere in the world.

Najaf and Karbala alone own treasures that would balance the budgets of many countries. At Najaf the huge dome of the great mosque of the venerated saint Ali, adopted son of Mohammed, is covered with beaten gold. Minarets are inlaid with millions of turquoise stones, which reflect the deep blue of the Arabian sky.

Priceless Copies of Koran.

Inside is a collection of oriental art which can be matched in few parts of the world. There are gold and silver tables, desks, and lecterns. The door knobs and bell handles are of inlaid ivory. There are great copies of the Koran, hand inscribed on vellum and bound with gold covers studded with diamonds, sapphires, and emeralds. Priceless copies of the Mohammedan Bible of this description are to be found on every table. All around are brocaded hangings of fabulous price; silken carpets and rugs are to be seen everywhere on floors and walls.

All this wealth is amassed through donations of pilgrims visiting the shrine of Ali, through bequests to the mosque by the wealthy, or it is part of the funerary payments made on behalf of those who wish to be buried near the shrine, for Najaf is one vast cemetery. From all parts of the world come bodies of Shiahs. The corpse traffic, as it is officially known, is examined at the frontier by doctors, to prevent epidemic infection, and by the customs officers to prevent smuggling. In each case a tax is imposed.

Heaven Near and Far.

Once within Iraq the coffins are taken by automobile, or more often by donkeys to Najaf, where further fees are payable to the shrine authorities. Burial fees in any case are high, but the figure depends upon how close to the shrine the Shiah wishes to be buried. The nearer the body lies, the swifter will be passage to paradise; the less one pays the farther away the grave. This has been going on for a thousand years, and the number of graves around Najaf cannot be computed.

The mullahs grab most of these fees, and the majority of these Moslem priests are enormously wealthy. Their riches, in the absence even yet of any banking system, is stored in hidden vaults. Besides the traffic in burial plots, the mullahs take huge sums from the pilgrims who visit the shrine each year. In an atmosphere of religious credulity and ignorance, it is a simple matter for the mullahs to extract huge sums from the pilgrims, who are milked according to their means. It is safe to say that no pilgrim goes to Najaf without parting with every cent in his possession.

Pilgrim Feels Relieved.

But the Mohammedan pilgrim feels better for his loss, and if he is wise he has left a carpet or two in Bagdad, which he can sell on his way back home.

The same circumstances are true of Karbala, where there is a different shrine of equal sanctity. The two cities are twins of corruption and vice, the Sodom and Gomarrah of the twentieth century.

The two smaller cities of Kadhimain and Samarra, just because they are smaller, have fewer opportunities for the extortion of money from pilgrims, but they are nevertheless very wealthy.

It is only about 100 years ago since the Wahabis, who are puritan Moslems and anti-Shiah by religious conviction, raided Najaf and Karbala and stripped them of part of their treasures. Today Ibn Saud, the present Wahabi king, whose kingdom is bankrupt through the failure of the great Mecca pilgrimages, no doubt deplores the internal strength of Iraq which prohibits a similar raid.

Boy Steals Ride to See Fair and May Lose Hand

Vernon Roberts, 14 years old, 603 Nap street, Milwaukee, was taken to the county hospital last night suffering from a crushed hand, the result of trying to beat his way back home on a freight train. Amputation of the hand is likely. With Maynard Owens, 14, of 3309 North Cass street, Milwaukee, Vernon came to Chicago two days ago. The boys hopped a freight train at Kedzie avenue last night. Vernon fell and a wheel passed over part of his hand.

STRAWN OFF FOR VIENNA C. OF C. SESSION MAY 29

New York, May 21 [Sunday.]—[Special.]—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen embarked for Europe early today carrying 1,010 passengers.

Among the passengers were Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the committee which will represent American short term creditors at the conference called by Hjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, for May 26; Silas H. Strawn, Chicago, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a member of its senior council, who is heading a committee of 16 bound for the seventh congress of the International Chamber of Commerce to be held in Vienna from May 29 to June 3; George Arliss, the English actor, and Mrs. Arliss, and Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson, contract bridge experts.

Edward A. Filene, prominent Boston merchant, who is a member of the committee headed by Mr. Strawn, expressed his confidence in the work of the International Chamber of Commerce and declared he believed its session might prove of great benefit to international harmony.

FRANCES CORBIT, LINCOLN'S FRIEND, DIES AT AGE OF 96

Mrs. Frances Low Corbit, who, when a young woman, was a close friend of Abraham Lincoln when the Emancipator was a struggling lawyer riding the central Illinois court circuits, died at her home at 415 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, early yesterday. Mrs. Corbit was 96 years old. She met Lincoln while residing at Havana, Ill., with her first husband, Francis Low, a banker. Following the death of her husband Mrs. Low removed to Oak Park in 1893. There she met and married Elwood P. Corbit. His death occurred many years ago. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at her home. Burial will take place at Havana the following day.

YOUTH IS SLAIN BY POLICEMAN AT PARK DANCE

Samuel Andalina, 21 years old, 2170 Moody avenue, was shot and fatally wounded last night by Northwest Park Policeman Ray Timms during a brawl outside the Riis park fieldhouse, North Meade and Fullerton avenues. Nearly 600 young men and women were at the dance at the time.

Police said that Andalina and a dozen other youths caused a disturbance and attacked Park Policeman Charles Kronke when he ejected them from the floor. Policeman Timms ran to Kronke's aid and shot Andalina in the back. The youth died in Belmont hospital.

MAY OFFER REWARD TO SPUR SEARCH FOR SLAYERS OF RIDLEY

New York, May 20.—(AP)—Permission to offer a reward for apprehension of the slayers of Edward A. Ridley, eccentric millionaire, will be asked Monday by the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, administrator of his estate, Surrogate James A. Delehanty said today.

Meanwhile, spurred on by the arrest of two young accountants, George Goodman and Arthur J. Hoffman, who admitted swindling the old man and aiding his slain secretary, Lee Weinstein, in faking a will, police redoubled their efforts to solve the puzzling slayings.

Although the accountants have denied any connection with the slayings, Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings said he was not "satisfied that these two men do not know a great deal more about the murders."

1,500 SURRENDER UNLICENSED GUNS TO LONDON POLICE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 20.—Following an appeal by the police commissioner to persons having firearms, 1,500 guns have been surrendered in the metropolitan district in the last month. At the Bow street station alone an average of a dozen weapons weekly has been handed in. A further appeal from Scotland Yard today reminded the public that immunity from proceedings would expire May 31.

"Until then, if anyone in the metropolitan police district, in unlawful possession of a firearm without a certificate or dispensation, surrenders it, together with any ammunition, no action will be taken," the announcement said.

"The police commissioner is most anxious to reduce the number of unwanted firearms, more particularly pistols and revolvers, in possession of private persons, and hopes that everyone who has a firearm not really required for some valid purpose will take the opportunity of surrendering it."

BURY CAPT. GROSS AND 3 RELATIVES HERE THIS WEEK

The bodies of Capt. Christian Channing Gross; his mother, Mrs. Charles W. Gross; and his two children, Peter and Barbara, all of whom were killed in an automobile accident near Fort Lauderdale, Fla., last March 26, will arrive here early this week for burial in Mount Hope cemetery, it was announced yesterday. Funeral services will be at the Church of the Redeemer at Mount Hope chapel.

Capt. Gross' father, Charles W. Gross, formerly with Swift & Co., is recovering in Fort Lauderdale from injuries received in the accident. Capt. Gross, who was an author and a diplomat, was involved for many years in divorce litigation and a fight over the custody of his two children with his former wife, Virginia Harrison Gross, daughter of a former governor general of the Philippines. Capt. Gross won the divorce in Chicago.

Richard Reynolds, Retired Broker, Robbed in Home

Two armed robbers yesterday entered the apartment of Richard Reynolds, 1500 Farwell avenue, 73-year-old retired investment broker, and fled with $35 after terrorizing Mr. Reynolds and a maid. The two victims were locked in a closet from which they escaped after about fifteen minutes.

DRUNKENNESS IN TUCSON CUT BY RETURN OF BEER

Saloon Has Not Followed Legal Beverage.

Tucson, Ariz., May 20.—[Special.]—So far as the sale of beer is concerned, officials of this city believe that the return of the saloon, dreaded by many even among the wet sympathizers, has been prevented by the widespread licensing system permitted here in Arizona.

Figures show that the general sobriety of the community has been greatly enhanced in the month and a half that has passed since beer was legalized. Arrests for drunkenness have dropped 50 per cent in this time, it was revealed today by Police Chief Jack Dyer.

Evils that were forecast to return with the sudsy brew have failed to materialize, Chief Dyer pointed out. The saloon has not reappeared and no disorderly or riotous conduct has marked the local sale of the product. The advent of the 3.2 per cent fluid has hardly stirred a ripple.

Easy Availability.

Reasons for the quiet reception accorded beer are said to lie in its easy availability in almost any corner of the city. With a population of around 40,000 Tucson has licensed approximately 150 places to sell the new authentic brew, according to Callie B. Vinson, deputy license collector. This number contrasts with a total of fourteen saloons that served around half the present population when prohibition went into effect.

Everywhere one goes or turns he may purchase beer. Restaurants, grocery stores, drug stores, and barbecue stands all have it for sale.

Persons interested in the welfare of the city welcome the new order. They assert that if the beer situation continues as peaceful and quiet in the future as it is in the present that every effort should be made to defeat the attempts of a few, who seeking special privilege, are trying to change the existing order and return to the old days of strict limitation and high license.

Liquor in Politics.

As long, it is stated, as the sale of beer does not become a costly privilege to be secured by political favor, the chances are there will be no cause for the return of what they deem the evil domination of the liquor interest in politics.

In the old days saloons were subject to heavy license fees, it is recalled. As a result their number was limited. Because this privilege proved so valuable it became a subject of political consideration and domination of the liquor interests in politics ensued.

With the generally free sale of beer there is no real need for the saloon, advocates of the present system say. License fees of from $40 to $50 a year afford its sale in the diverse number of places which have rendered the old public bar obsolete.

42 DETECTIVES SHIFTED; DRIVE ON GANGS FAILS

Forty-one policemen and one lieutenant were transferred out of the detective bureau in an order, effective over the week-end, issued yesterday by Police Commissioner Allman.

The shakeup, it is understood, results from Chief of Detectives Schoemaker's dissatisfaction with the failure of his men to campaign more successfully against notorious hoodlums. Recently the chief lectured the men, placed them "on probation" for a week, and then, still dissatisfied, drew up the transfer list made public yesterday.

In the order, Albert Mikes, temporary lieutenant of detectives, is put back to his civil service rank of lieutenant of police, and goes back to the Marquette station. Sergt. John I. Howe of the state's attorney's office is promoted to temporary lieutenant of detectives.

Two captains, five sergeants, and several other men are also shifted, but not because of the failure of the hoodlum campaign, it is said. Capt. Thomas Pilkington goes to his old command, Gresham, and is replaced at the bureau by Capt. Joseph Palczynski of North Racine avenue. Lieut. John J. O'Brien, who has been acting captain at Gresham while Pilkington was at the bureau, goes to North Racine avenue in a similar capacity.

Ex-Prosecutor Ruvell Starts Private Practice

Nat S. Ruvell, for nearly five years an assistant state's attorney, has opened private law offices at 33 North La Salle street. He served four years under former State's Attorney Swanson and until recently under State's Attorney Courtney. Among the important cases he prosecuted were those of Frank Jordan, killer of two policemen, who was electrocuted, and William Putscher, who received a life sentence for the "ribbon" murder of Mrs. Mildred Helsing. Mr. Ruvell lives at 5042 Woodlawn avenue.

ITALY TO PROTECT RAILWAYS; PLANS AUTO 'DISCIPLINE'

Cheap Rates Hold Deficit Down.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, May 20.—How Italy's state railroads have been able to operate during the past year, in spite of the economic crisis, on a traffic basis only 36 per cent lower than that of the year 1929-'30, was explained to the chamber of deputies by Count Ciano, Premier Mussolini's minister of communications.

The feat was accomplished, according to Ciano, by keeping up the volume of travel through excursion trains, cheap rates of travel and strict disciplining of the budget. The roads will show a deficit in operation for the current year of about $35,000,000, the minister said, but he thought this might be reduced somewhat through the important movements of passenger traffic which the holy year and the exposition of the Fascist revolution are bringing about and for which reduced rates are given.

Auto Competion a Problem.

Count Ciano said one of the biggest problems which Italian railroads confront now in their effort to operate at a profit is the rapidly growing competition of automobile and truck traffic. Short distances which characterize the peninsula make this type of transport all the more likely to develop. Ciano said it would be necessary to submit automobile and truck traffic to the same kind of discipline and control and regulations as is now applied to the railways and also to render the railways more elastic in their functioning in order to meet competition.

Some help will come to the roads from the extensive operations now being carried out in electrifying them. When the present program is completed, all the principal lines in Italy will be operated on hydro electricity, saving great expenditures for coal, which Italy has to import. Count Ciano estimates that there will be about 4,000 miles of electrified lines in the peninsula, comprising about 41 per cent of all lines.

Communications Show Profit.

The minister announced that Italy's state telegraph, telephone and postal services were operated at a $9,600,000 profit for the current year. He said a new telephonic cable would shortly be laid through Modane, assuring better communications between Italy and France.

In another line of communications, that of the operation of the merchant marine, the figures were not so good. During the last year, according to Ciano, the volume of freight handled dropped 67 per cent below that of the previous year. The tonnage of ships laid up this year totals 13,000,000, as compared to 12,000,000 a year ago, and the tonnage of ships constructed during the last year was 726,591, or 50 per cent lower than that registered in any previous year.

SERGT. CONLON OF LINCOLN PARK POLICE IS DEAD

Sergt. John Conlon of the Lincoln Park police force died yesterday in the Frances Willard hospital after an illness of a week. He was 46 years old, and resided at 4553 North Claremont avenue.

Sergt. Conlon joinned the park force twelve years ago and was considered one of its leading and most popular members. He was well educated, and frequently he represented the department in legislative matters at Springfield. He was scheduled for a lieutenancy. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Surviving Sergt. Conlon are his widow, Jean and son, John. Funeral services will be announced today.

MOTHER DISAPPEARS; BALKS OPERATION TO SAVE LIFE OF BABY

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20.—(AP)—An extensive search was under way in southern California today for Mrs. Vera Hilliker, 21-year-old widow, whose permission is sought for a delicate throat operation on her baby daughter, 22 months old, which physicians say is necessary to save the infant's life.

The aid of police was enlisted by Mrs. Hilliker's brother-in-law, William H. Coslett, who came here from Denver in search of her. Mrs. Coslett is in Denver with the baby.

Although saying the operation is necessary to save the child surgeons refused to take the responsibility with out the mother's consent.

Mrs. Coslett said Mrs. Hilliker came to southern California several weeks ago in search of employment.

JOHN T. RUSSELL FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services for John T. Russell, 72 years old, former president of the Meat Council of Chicago and former national president of the United Master Butchers' association, will be held from his home at 7441 South Shore drive at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Mr. Russell died Friday night after a long illness. He retired three years ago as the head of the Russell Packing company, but was chairman of the legislative committee of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers at the time of his death. He was a former alderman of the old 29th ward.

Mr. Russell was born in Cleveland and spent his youth on the western ranches. He opened a chain of meat markets here in 1895.

He is survived by his widow, Josephine, two sons, and two daughters—James T. Russell and Mrs. Harlow Dunbar, who live at the South Shore drive address, and William C. Russell of Milwaukee, and Mrs. George Mason Jr., 603 Addison street.

RENEW DEMAND FOR RECORDS IN BEER PRICE QUIZ

Legislative Group Chafes at Inaction.

Five state representatives ended a session of their investigation into the cost of producing beer yesterday with declarations that they would subpœna the records and books of the brewers. The decision, however, was not novel to the committee, it having gone on record for the same procedure just a week previous.

Apparently, the committee had done nothing after its first subpœna threat. A few brewers appeared at their session yesterday but the table in the council finance committee rooms at which the committee sat was bare of books and records. The slim audience brought forth some protests from the assemblymen.

Declare Quiz Isn't Joke.

"Do the brewers think this committee is a joke?" asked William V. Connors [Dem., Chicago]. "If they want us to go out and bring them in by the neck, we can do it."

"I'll have to insist on a motion to subpœna all their books and records," interposed Representative Albert J. Mancin [Rep., Chicago]. And turning a deaf ear to pleas that it would take three trucks to haul the records of one brewery to the city hall, he continued: "I was courteous enough not to insist on a subpœna a week ago, but I'll have to now. We want the records of all the officers, bondholders, stockholders, and the cost of production."

Then it was the turn of the chairman, George Garry Noonan [Dem., Chicago].

"Last week we found out nothing," said Mr. Noonan. "It appears that the brewers don't know what their costs are. Still, I don't believe that they are dummies. We'll go through with the subpœna, the time and place to be subject to the call of the chair."

Quiz Brewer 30 Minutes.

Several brewery representatives were excused by the committee when it was learned that their firms are not yet manufacturing beer and then the committee devoted itself to a thirty minute quiz of George H. Kiefer, vice president of the United States Brewing company.

"I could bring our books down here," stated Mr. Kiefer, "but you couldn't analyze them. We haven't filed our complete returns for income tax purposes for 1932 yet, and don't know our return for these past months in 1933. We don't know the cost per barrel yet of manufacturing the new beer."

"How is it then that the brewers are charging about the same price?" queried Representative Connors.

"We were guided by the prices of near beer, and by watching the reports on other breweries," answered Mr. Kiefer. After talking over pre-prohibition times with Chairman Noonan, Mr. Kiefer told the committee that nickel-a-glass beer can't be sold with present taxes, and expressed his willingness to have the representatives visit the brewery. They indicated that the invitation would be accepted and adjourned. Other members present were Michael Ruddy [Rep.] and Mason S. Sullivan [Dem.] of Chicago.

INDIANA HIGH COURT GRANTS WRIT ON BEER

Indianapolis, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—The State Supreme court today granted Philip Lutz Jr., attorney general, a writ of prohibition restraining Judge E. Niles Norton of Lake county court from proceeding further in an action brought by John Tenkely, member of the East Chicago City council.

Tenkely had obtained an order from Judge Norton restraining officials from interferring with his sale of draught beer, which is forbidden by the state beer law passed by the legislature.

The hearing on the Supreme court's order was set for next Thursday.

KENILWORTH TO HALT BEER SALES TONIGHT; LACKS LICENSE LAW

Prohibition was revived in Kenilworth at midnight last night after a temporary demise. From now on any one selling 3.2 per cent beer in the suburb will be subject to arrest under state laws.

The warning was given by Police Chief W. C. Yackel. The chief explained that beer cannot be sold in any community without a state permit, and that a state permit cannot be obtained without first procuring a license from the community involved. Kenilworth has not yet provided for beer licenses and this, Yackel said, amounts to prohibition because dealers are thus halted from getting state permits, without which they cannot sell beer.

Two drug stores, four groceries and one beer distribution shop are affected. They had been selling the new brew without permit or license for more than a month.

SEES N. Y. SAVE 300 MILLION YR. BY DRY REPEAL

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—A saving of at least 300 million annually in state and federal taxes would be effected for taxpayers in this state through repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Mrs. Charles S. Sabin, national head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, declared today, urging voters to roll up a large vote for delegates pledged to repeal at the special election on Tuesday.

In tables appended to the statement Mrs. Sabin, quoting figures taken from statistical reports of the United States department of commerce, shows that out of a total of $2,428,228,754 of federal internal revenue receipts in 1931, taxpayers in this state contributed $677,171,400, or 24 per cent, and that last year out of a total of $1,557,729,042 the contribution of taxpayers in this state was $394,989,203, or 25 per cent, with a total of $1,465,047,323 the estimated receipts of the federal government from prospective liquor taxes.

Using 1917 figures as a basis, Mrs. Sabin estimates that the proportion of saving to New York state taxpayers would be $366,261,830.

QUICK ISSUANCE OF BEER PERMITS SOUGHT BY KELLY

The difficulties that confronted the proprietors of a Bavarian schnitzelbank at 1023 North State street in serving beer although a beverage license had been applied for resulted yesterday in an announcement from Mayor Kelly that he would try to speed up the city's license-issuing processes. Beer was served at the opening Friday night after the mayor had been petitioned by the first nighters.

The license application for the schnitzelbank was filed with the city collector's office on May 10. It was approved by the zoning board of appeals as not conflicting with the zoning law. Commissioner of Police Allman approved the application yesterday and it was then referred to the health and building departments.

"I was convinced that everybody connected with the place is respectable," the mayor said in answer to reports that he had intervened to permit beer to be served before the license was issued. "I am going to try to devise a system which will expedite the issuance of licenses."

Hold Friend of Maid in Joliet Threat Letter Quiz

Joliet police yesterday were holding John J. Colbert, 37 years old, of Morris, Ill. on a disorderly conduct charge while they searched for the writer of three threatening letters received by Mrs. Clyde G. Calkins. Colbert admitted jewelry found in his room was given him by Hilda Demming, former maid in the Calkins home. Mrs. Calkins discharged the maid recently and filed petty larceny charges against her. In the letters Mrs. Calkins was threatened with harm to her 5 year old daughter if she did not drop the charges against the maid.

CLEANERS START THE 'NEW DEAL'; ONLY 1 HOLDOUT

New Schedule of Prices Goes Into Effect.

The reorganization of the cleaning and dyeing industry to eliminate racketeering and price cutting wars has been perfected and agreed to by all concerns except one. This was announced yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli, who has been selected to supervise the industry and drive out the racketeers.

At the same time it was announced that the cleaners' new price will be $1 a garment for pickup and delivery service and 85 cents if the garment is taken to the cleaning plant and called for by the customer.

"New Deal" for All.

Joseph DeFay, one of the largest cleaning plant operators on the south side and a leader in the fight to chase the racketeers out of the industry, said the new deal will assure employés of a living wage and customers of better work. The employés, he said, are to be graded and paid according to their skill. A campaign of education of the public, showing the difference in cleaning methods and where the money goes, will also be conducted.

"We recognize that to win public confidence and bring all the cleaning and dyeing concerns into operation under this agreement, we must be fair to all interests," said DeFay. "We must remove all uncertanties in every phase of the business and we must put all the cards on the table."

One Holdout Concern.

The one holdout against the new agreement is a north side concern, Judge Borrelli said. The head of this company, according to the judge, is a holdout because of personal animosity toward another cleaner as a result of price cutting during the warfare in the industry. It is hoped, however, that the difficulty can be settled this week, Judge Borrelli said.

APPROVE SALE OF BEER AT BARS IN N. Y. HOTELS

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—The sale and consumption of beer and wine at bars in licensed hotels, restaurants, clubs, and beer gardens was authorized today under additional regulations issued by the state alcoholic beverage control board.

Under the supplementary rules the sale of beer and wine will not be allowed at beverage and sandwich stands in New York City and other parts of the state. The sale of beer and wine at bars will be prohibited unless the bars or counters are incidental to restaurant service. This prevents the sale of beer and wine after June 1 at thousands of beverage and sandwich stands in New York City and roadside stands throughout the state.

Chairman Edward P. Mulrooney of the state board pointed out that under the regulations the term restaurant means only a room regularly and in a bonafide manner used and kept open for the serving of meals to guests for compensation which has suitable table accommodations for at least 20 guests at one time and a kitchen connected therewith containing conveniences for cooking sufficient to provide meals for 20 guests at one and the same time.

33 STATES' REVENUE FROM TAXES ON BEER IS ALREADY $4\frac{1}{2}$ MILLION

According to a national survey, completed yesterday by the Associated Press in Chicago, thirty-three states have collected $4,500,000 in beer tax since the sale of brew became legal. Illinois shows a collection of $163,569 in the last four days of April during which the tax was in effect.

Since the sale of 3.2 per cent beverage became legal the federal government has collected $9,139,687 in taxes and licenses. Of that sum the $5 a barrel beer tax netted $8,269,052. The state beer tax varies from 10 cents a barrel in Kentucky to $4.65 a barrel in Sopth Carolina, with seven states not placing a tax on the beverage.

Ohio collected the largest sum, $1,304,000, with $1,254,000 of the collections coming from license fees. South Carolina, despite having the highest tax, collected only $40,000, far down in the list of collections.

RHODES OFFICIAL VISITS HOLDERS OF SCHOLARSHIPS

Sir Francis Wiley, for 28 years, until his retirement in 1931, secretary of the Rhodes trust at Oxford university, arrived at the home of Attorney James H. Winston, 1231 Asbury avenue, Evanston, yesterday noon. He announced that he is here to visit the twenty Rhodes scholarship holders in this territory. Attorney Winston is a Rhodes scholar.

Sir Francis, who is accompanied by Lady Wiley, is finishing a six months' tour of the United States, visiting the eight hundred Rhodes scholars in this country. He will leave for his home in Oxford on July 21. He said that the approximate cost of a Rhodes scholarship is about $1,500 a year.

Sir Francis said his purpose in visiting the Rhodes scholars is to obtain suggestions and constructive criticisms. He finished a nine months' tour of the British dominions prior to starting his visit in this country on Jan. 24. He said the scholarships are about equally divided between the British dominions and the United States.

Beauty Knows No Powder Line

MAVIS FACE POWDER
THE POWDER LINE
MAVIS TALCUM

POWDER for the toilet is not merely a matter of shoulders, neck and face. People to whom beauty of skin is a profession, people of the stage and screen, know this.

And so they use, as you probably do also, Mavis Face Powder—the final invisible touch for the complexion, for its unmatchable soft texture and fragrance.

But—from shoulders to heels, Mavis Talcum is the vogue. Here is new comfort, new beauty of skin all over. The same soft clinging quality, the same subtle fragrance, and all day long protection.

Make the use of Mavis Powder your daily habit. Mavis Face Powder above the shoulders—Mavis Talcum below.

Multitudes of women—and men—use Mavis Talcum this way. They start the day with a Mavis Talcum bath before dressing. They use it invariably when preparing for a strenuous evening when they wish to look their best. It protects and guards the skin, prevents irritation and is a pleasant deodorant.

BAR CITY WASTE FROM FREE DUMP; COSTS INCREASE

State Acts to Preserve Abandoned Canal.

The cost of garbage disposal in a number of south and southwest side wards increased yesterday following receipt of an order from Henry H. Kohn, state director of purchases and construction, directing the city to cease dumping garbage and other refuse in the abandoned Illinois-Michigan canal.

The canal was one of three free dumps which Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, was utilizing in a program to save the city over $600,000 a year in disposing of waste. As a result of the order refuse must be hauled either to Lincoln park or to 104th street and Lake Calumet, the other two free dumps. In Lincoln park the city can dump only noncombustionable refuse for use as fill.

Trucking Cost Increased.

Temporarily the city has curtailed garbage collection in the wards that used the canal as a dumping ground. The loads from the 12th ward, for instance, have been cut from six to three because of the longer haul involved. The city is using only its own trucks in garbage disposal work, but if normal collections are to be maintained additional trucks must be hired. For hired trucks the city pays $35 a day. City owned trucks are operated at a cost of $18 a day.

An alternative suggested to city officials was the use of pay dumps. One of those nearby—19th and Lincoln streets—is controlled by the Industrial Refuse Disposal company, in which Paul V. Colianni, sanitary district trustee, is interested.

If the 5,400 cubic yards of refuse that has been dumped daily in the canal were taken to Colianni's quarry hole the cost to the city at 50 cents a yard would be $2,700 a day. That would wipe out practically, the figures show, the $2,900 a day saving that has been made by using the "free" dumps.

The city has been dumping in the canal since January, when the late Mayor Cermak became enraged because of a strike of city dump employés that was called by Michael Carrozzo, head of several unions of city laborers. At the time city officials remarked that it was strange that the strike did not affect Colianni's dump.

Protests from State.

Permission to dump in the canal was granted by the sanitary district after Corporation Counsel Sexton had given an opinion that an old legislative act conferred that power upon the trustees. State officials, including Gov. Horner, objected over the telephone and through the mails. They were sent copies of the Sexton opinion.

In return Commissioner Hewitt received the order from Mr. Kohn to cease dumping in the canal. He said that an opinion of Attorney General Kerner holding the canal dumping illegal would follow. Then city trucks began the long hauls to the other free dumps, and the garbage collection service was curtailed.

Another blow at the city's economical system of refuse disposal is contained in a bill pending before the legislature. Under the terms of this measure the city would be prohibited from dumping noncombustionable waste in Lincoln park, again adding to the city's garbage disposal costs.

LOUDERBACK TO CONCLUDE HIS CASE TOMORROW

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—An effort to conclude their case by Monday was promised the senate today by attorneys for Federal Judge Harold Louderback of California as they hammered into his impeachment trial more evidence that none of the fees paid officers of his court went to him.

From two more witnesses today the senate heard that no share of the amounts they received as attorneys in receivership cases before the judge went to Louderback.

Guy H. Gilbert, telegraph operator and a receiver in four cases involved in the impeachment charges, and John Dinkelspiel of the firm of Dinkelspiel and Dinkelspiel, which served as counsel for Gilbert in some cases, were the two who said no part of the fees paid them was given to Judge Louderback.

WORLD PARLEY WORRIES LONDON HOTEL OWNERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—London hotels, which first hailed the economic conference as a solution to their financial troubles, are beginning to wonder where they are going to put all the guests.

The conference, which opens June 12, will bring delegates, experts, and newspapermen from 66 nations. The government hospitality committee has been trying to estimate the hotel accommodations available. Already some hotels have refused conference reservations.

Another feature worrying a few luxury hotels is the question of state banquets. There is no profit because the government supplies its own wines at such functions. The government maintains one of the world's finest cellars for this purpose in Lancaster house.

Dr. Meta Glass Head of University Women Society

Minneapolis, Minn., May 20.—(AP)—Dr. Meta Glass, president of Sweetbriar college, Sweetbriar, Va., was elected president of the American Association of University Women at its biennial convention today. Dr. Glass succeeds Dr. Mary E. Wooley of South Hadley, Mass. Los Angeles was chosen for the next convention of the association.

Senate Confirms Roosevelt Army Staff Selections

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—The senate today confirmed the nominations of Cols. Claude Ernest Brigham as chief of the chemical warfare service, Edward Croft chief of infantry, and Creed Fulton Cox, chief of the bureau of insular affairs.

FLOOD LEVEL DROPS AFTER LEVEE UNITS ON ILLINOIS BREAK

Peoria, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—With broken levees and two flooded drainage districts along its course, the Illinois river is expected to continue a gradual fall today. The flood stage here dropped to 24.95 feet this morning, down .15 of a foot.

Unable to withstand pressure of flood waters of the Illinois and Spoon rivers, the top of more than a mile of the Livers drainage district levee in Waterford township, Fulton county, gave way and more than 1,000 acres of farm land was inundated.

The five mile levee along Spoon river had been protected with sandbags and when high water reached these, the top section gave way. The broken levee is on the west side of Thompson lake. The break caused a fall from two to three inches in the stage at Liverpool. Unless there is another rise, levees at Liverpool and in the East Liverpool district will hold, it is said by Maj. J. R. Fuller, engineer.

Levees in the Thompson lake district are being patrolled day and night and thus far only minor seepage is reported.

GIVEN 5 YEARS IN OHIO PRISON FOR ESTATES FRAUD

Xenia, O., May 20.—(AP)—McClain Catterlin, 56, convicted of violating the state securities act in connection with a scheme to recover huge sums from ancient estates, today was sentenced to five years in the Ohio penitentiary, fined $2,000 and ordered to pay prosecution costs of $900.

Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy granted a 30 day stay of execution to allow defense attorneys time to appeal. Catterlin is free on $5,00 bond.

Catterlin, of Brazil, Ind., was found guilty May 4 on two counts of a four-count indictment charging violation of the state securities law.

The conviction was based on Catterlin's connection with a plan to obtain for members of his organiaztion, shares in rich old estates.

The state charged Catterlin, who was president and treasurer of the organization sold certificates of membership at $50 each without a state license.

GREAT LAKES BASE CLOSING ORDER LIFTED

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—The navy department altered today its original order discontinuing the Great Lakes Naval reserve aviation base and placed the station on a "reduced basis."

The amended order will permit voluntary training for members of the aviation reserve on a basis of 15 hours flying annually without pay in place of 45 hours annually with pay previously given in full time stations.

Mortgagor Must Make an Effort.

TO THE EDITOR: In August, 1930, we took out a five year mortgage on our home, a small frame cottage, for $3,000. The notes are made out for semi-annual payments of $90. I paid $76 as a part payment on interest due in August, and still owe $14. Next payment of $90 was due in February.

The real estate mortgage firm has placed this matter in the hands of an attorney for collection of $5 a week and threatens to foreclose. This attorney was the present of the —— bank, now closed. I would like to know the name of the mortgage holder, but they refuse this information.

I have been striving hard to keep up my home. I am willing to try and work out my own salvation and continue paying off the indebtedness providing the mortgage holder will coöperate with me. I am only earning $5 to $7 a week working short hours, and find it difficult to make both ends meet, living with my wife and two children. I am unable to meet the interest payments. Taxes for 1931 and alley assessments are unpaid.—J. R.

ANSWER: We are informed by the company that the proposition to pay $5 a week on account of interest "seemed O. K. to the mortgagor, but payments are not forthcoming, taxes are unpaid, special assessments are unpaid and nothing but darkness is seen by the legal holder of this mortgage." Furthermore, says the company, the mortgage holder is unemployed himself and may have to sell his mortgage at a discount to some one else, who may be inclined to foreclose.

The company itself says it would prefer some amicable arrangement satisfying both sides to foreclosure. "We are even willing to cut the rate of interest down if Mr. —— can obtain the cash from some source." The company has definitely stated that if the mortgagor would pay even $3 a week on account of interest, there would be no danger of the mortgagee's disposing of his mortgage in a way disadvantageous both to himself and the debtor.

The point we want to make to the debtor in this is that he has a good chance to keep his property if he makes an effort to pay something as regularly as he can. If that is out of the question, we can only suggest quitclaiming the house in return for a sum of money or free occupancy during a year or so.

So far as we know, under present law no practical way has been demonstrated for a debtor on an individual mortgage to force the trustee or broker to divulge the name of the note holder. How the new federal bankruptcy provision would affect such cases seem still uncertain to lawyers. A bill has been introduced into the house at Springfield making it possible to force such information, but that is not yet a law.

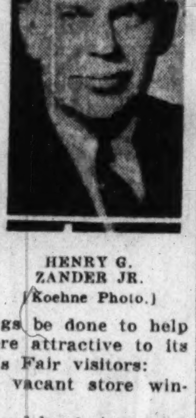
ZANDER URGES CO-OPERATION OF BUILDING OWNERS

Empty, Unlighted Windows Called Wasteful.

"Nothing gives a visitor such a bad impression of any city as empty windows, or, for that matter, unlighted full windows. Every empty window in the downtown district, the near north side, and the principal outlying business centers should be filled with something attractive, either merchandise from the next store, from some tenant in the building, or from some big concern; or else exhibits from some of Chicago's great manufacturing concerns."—Karl Eitel of the Bismarck hotel.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

When A Century of Progress opens its gates to the world next Saturday, there'll not be a vacant or unlighted window in the downtown or close in north and south sides, if present plans are carried out, Henry G. Zander Jr., president of the Chicago Real Estate board, predicted yesterday. In a statement to all Chicago real estate dealers and property owners, as well as the business men of the loop and outlying communities, Mr. Zander requested that the following things be done to help make Chicago more attractive to its millions of World's Fair visitors:



HENRY G. ZANDER JR.
[Koehne Photo.]

"1. Trim up all vacant store windows.

"2. Keep all ground level stores and offices lighted until at least 2 a. m.

"3. Create unique and effective displays so as to get the greatest advertising value out of window space."

Already, as a result of an announcement in THE TRIBUNE last Monday in which J. Soule Warterfield, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, advocated a move to dress up and brighten Chicago's store windows, a careful survey is now under way in the loop and all leading neighborhood business centers to find out how many vacant store windows there are.

Survey to Back Drive.

When completed, the survey will be used to back a concerted drive among both store owners and property owners to persuade them to fill all empty windows with merchandise or exhibits and keep them well lighted during the World's Fair months.

Meanwhile the problem of getting together the property owner with an empty store window to fill and the man who has something attractive to put in it, apparently has been solved. A. H. Buck, president of the B-G Restaurant company, head of a subcommittee of the "City Appearance Committee" of the Association of Commerce, yesterday announced that a clearing house for getting together the owners and window fillers has been established.

"A. E. Holt, advertising manager of The Chicagoan, who has been active for the last two months in a move to brighten up Michigan avenue, has consented to act as a middleman or clearing house for the development of a city-wide window brightening campaign," said Mr. Buck.

Much Already Accomplished.

Mr. Holt stated last night that when his campaign started along Michigan avenue there were at least fifty empty windows. Yesterday, he said, half of these have been either rented or filled with attractive merchandise or exhibits and the other half now is assured of occupancy and lights.

"From today's developments I can safely say that there'll not be an empty or unlighted window along Michigan avenue from the Drake hotel to Roosevelt road by the time the Fair is open," he said. "But it's different back in the loop; action is needed there to brighten things up. There are plenty of empty windows and also plenty of full windows with no lights burning during evening hours."

Mr. Holt said that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana is to fill its entire first floor window space in its building at 9th and Michigan with elaborate displays.

President Zander's Statement.

Following is President Zander's statement to Chicago property owners and realtors:

"Millions of people are coming to Chicago this year, and many of them have heard unfavorable comment about our great city. We want to prove to them that this detrimental propaganda is false and that we have the highest type of business men, merchants, property owners and realtors. We want to show them the pride that we have in our respective communities. And we want to make the most of our opportunities.

"'Every night thousands of valuable advertising hours are not being taken advantage of by these interests. Particularly in the outlying communities, business men are prone to shut off their store lights as early as possible in the evening. Others are permitting valuable advertising space to be wasted by not using vacant store windows for merchandise displays.

"Even some smart merchants are guilty of this offense. They just haven't thought of it, or of the many possibilities for capitalizing on this space. It's our hope to bring this matter to their attention.

"Chicago will be in a business and buying mood this summer and fall, and intelligent merchants will get the business. By keeping vacant store windows cleverly trimmed and stores and offices well lighted, they stand a much better chance to get the business.

"We are urging all real estate men and property owners to get into the spirit of this plan and make for a more attractive Chicago."

CHINA'S EXHIBIT AT A CENTURY OF PROGRESS

Burnham Brothers are the architects of the above walled Chinese village at A Century of Progress, now under construction just south of the Bendix Lama temple. In the center of the village will be a Chinese garden, with a pool and teahouse and several bridges. There also will be a theater. Displays will consist of merchandise sent by Chinese merchants and oriental art, including a seven story carved jade pagoda which required ten years to complete. The cost of participation in the Fair is being borne by the government and the exhibitors.

MORE ACTIVITY SEEN IN LOCAL INDUSTRIAL REAL ESTATE MARKET

Demand for Chicago industrial sites and property reached the highest point during the last week that has been experienced for a year and a half, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Not only have local real estate brokers felt this new demand for Chicago industrial property, but there has been a noticeable influx of prospective buyers here to look over conditions at first hand.

Among those who have been directly in touch with the Association of Commerce have been representatives of companies with headquarters in New York and others scattered through the western states.

Officers of one of the largest realty companies, which is operating several properties under receiverships, also inform the association that the last fortnight has seen a strengthening of practically all types of realty values, including those of residential and apartment properties.

Several realty authorities attribute much of the increased interest to the spurt that is anticipated as A Century of Progress gets into full swing. The majority, however, appear satisfied that the Chicago real estate bottom has been passed and that the long uphill swing is under way.

REPORTS LAKE SHORE DRIVE HOTEL 91% FULL

Harry W. Solomon, now operating the Lake Shore Drive hotel for the bondholders' protective committee, reports that from a low of 35 per cent in 1931 the occupancy has steadily risen until recently it touched 91 per cent. Prior to taking over the hotel the highest occupancy reached had been 50 per cent. The low of 35 per cent was in the summer of 1931. Mr. Solomon took charge in December, 1931. It was then 45 per cent full.

During the first six months of 1932 the percentage rose to 56 per cent and the average for the year was 64 per cent. The occupancy for the first four months of 1933 exceeded 83 per cent and at times has touched 91 per cent, it is stated.

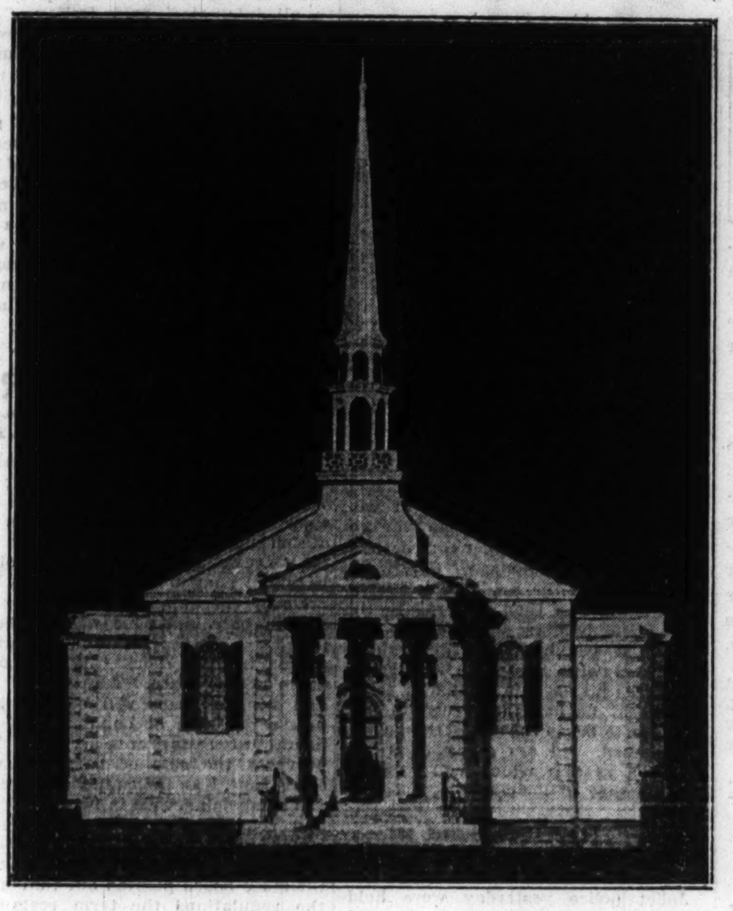
WINNETKA'S NEW CHURCH



Winnetka's new Christian Science church, shown above, will harmonize architecturally with that suburb's group of public and semi-public buildings—all designed along early American lines. S. S. Beman is architect. The new church, now under construction at the southwest corner of Ridge and Cherry, will be of common brick, painted white, with green shutters, a small New England steeple, and roof of thatch shingles. It'll have a main auditorium seating 525 and Sunday school rooms. Contracts for the first unit, now being built, were awarded to William S. Ahern. Completion is set for Sept. 1. The total cost will be about $85,000.

Four Out of 120 Bondholders Block Reorganization Plan

Four bondholders out of 120 by their refusal to join with the other 116 have blocked the reorganization of the Paxton apartments at the northeast corner of 69th and Paxton, according to Martin C. Haedtler, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee. The original bond issue, underwritten by the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank, was for $125,000, since paid down to $95,000. Of the latter sum $90,000 of the bonds have been deposited by owners who agree to the reorganization plan.

MARTIN C. HAEDTLER.
[Waters Photo.]

Three women and one man, owning $5,000 in bonds, refuse to go along with the majority. One woman declines to deposit her bonds until she can secure a reduction in the interest on the mortgage on her own home. A second woman has promised several times to bring her bonds in, but has failed to do so, Mr. Haedtler states. The third feminine member of the small minority group owns two bonds. She has deposited one, but refuses to bring in the other.

Wants to Be Last.

The sole male member of the recalcitrant quartet explains his attitude by stating that he wants to be the last to step off the sinking ship into the lifeboat. He'll deposit when every other bond is in and not until then, he declares.

"The bonds were called for deposit last fall when it was apparent that the owners would be unable to pay off the issue in the amount of $95,000 on the maturity date, Nov. 2, 1932," explained Mr. Haedtler. "Funds to meet the interest at 6 per cent due on the same date were deposited with us subject to the stipulation that it be paid out to bondholders only as they deposited their bonds for extension and reorganization.

Plan Extension.

"The committee made a complete survey of the property and after negotiations with the owners plans were drawn up for an extension of the loan for five years with interest at 4 per cent for two years and 5 per cent for three years.

"The next interest date, May 2, 1933, has now passed and the lack of support of these four bondholders is all that stands in the way of the interest payment and complete reorganization. The plan of extension has been carefully worked out and is entirely reasonable."

REDMOND HEADS BUILDING GROUP FOR FIFTH TERM

Less Public Spending Is Only Way to Cut.

Real estate taxes can be reduced only through reductions in public expenditures and the adoption of such rational measures as will transfer a part of the property tax to other forms of tax paying capacity, according to John T. Redmond, who was reëlected president of the Building Managers' association for the fifth consecutive year at the thirty-first annual meeting, held at the Union League club.

JOHN T. REDMOND.

Others elected with him were Aldis J. Browne and Graham Aldis, vice presidents; James B. Kaine, treasurer, and Eolmes Onderdonk, Judson F. Stone, George Richardson, Gilbert Scribner, and William O. Trainer, directors.

The Chicago association is the oldest organization of its kind in the country. It was established in 1902 and throughout its career has had the active support of the leading operators of downtown property.

Comments on Taxes.

In his annual report Mr. Redmond reflected the position of his association on the subject of taxation when he said: "We're a tax paying group. We believe in the support of government and have insisted that all taxes uniformly assessed should be paid.

"Our interest in taxation problems arises out of the fact that the tax bill is the largest item of expense in the operation of our properties. In the case of a modern office building the real estate tax amounts to more than the annual pay roll.

Called Unsound Condition.

"This is a condition that is economically and fundamentally unsound. Our taxes are disproportionate to our gross income. They threaten the security of property rights. Unless they are radically reduced, taxes will continue to discourage real estate ownership and will in time completely destroy real estate values."

RECORDER SAYS HE'S ALL SET FOR 'LET'S GO' SLOGAN

Clayton F. Smith, recorder of deeds, announced yesterday that his department is ready to adjust itself permanently to the new slogan, "Let's Go, Chicago," and care for the increased business he expects will develop soon in the recording of deeds, mortgages, etc. He points out that if Uncle Sam carries out his proposed federal aid plans for the small householder, a great many homes will be refinanced and remortgaged. The work of the recorder, he states, in that event will increase in volume.

CLAYTON F. SMITH.
[Edward Fox Photo.]

Mr. Smith stated that when he took his office most of the records were not up to date and in some departments were as much as two and a half years behind. It took from four to six weeks to return deeds after recording. New methods introduced by Mr. Smith have cut this down to from 3 to 5 days.

"The service in this respect is the best given in the last twenty-one years," said Mr. Smith, "and is being given notwithstanding the fact that the expenses of operating the recorder's office have been reduced by approximately 60 per cent since I assumed office."

Mr. Smith stated that a bill was now under consideration at Springfield which will extend time for filing documents in the recorder's office to 5 p. m., instead of the present 4 o'clock. This will be an advantage to those who close real estate transactions late and wish to have their deeds recorded the same day in order to protect their rights in the property.

All but One Store Rented in Uncompleted Building

Although the one story store building now under construction at the southeast corner of Broadway and Granville will not be ready for occupancy until July 1, five of the six stores already have been leased, according to Milton Moses, agent. Negotiations are under way for renting the sixth store. The A. & P. have rented the two corner stores for five years on a minimum and percentage of profit basis. John B. Bezazian, manager of the rug department of the Tobey Furniture company, is the owner. Edward V. Baron is architect. The building is 75x100, and will cost a reported $20,000.

BUSINESS GROWS DURING DEPRESSION; BUYS LARGER PLANT

Rapid growth of the General Machinery and Manufacturing company, which it is claimed has shown a steady increase in production each year during the depression, is given as the reason for the purchase of larger quarters by that concern in the Healy Industrial district. According to President Stephen Junckunc, the company, which makes steel hardware, steel card tables and chairs, is now working day and night shifts to keep up with orders.

It has purchased the one story building at 2634 North Keeler avenue, from George B. Hild and James W. Barrett Jr., for a reported $25,000, and is now occupying it. It contains 10,000 square feet of floor space; the lot contains 22,500 square feet. The building is of steel and concrete, with face brick on all exterior walls. The buyers were represented by J. J. Harrington & Co. and the sellers by J. H. Van Vlissingen & Co.

TRIO OF LEASES REPORTED FOR FURNITURE MART

Three new furniture exhibitors, using approximately 10,000 square feet of display space, have been added to the list of American Furniture mart tenants, according to W. H. Wilson, vice president. All three exhibits were formerly in Grand Rapids, Mich.

The firms are the Smith Cabinet Manufacturing company of Salem, Ind., makers of radio cabinets, dining room and bedroom furniture; the H. T. Cushman Manufacturing company of North Bennington, Vt., early American reproductions, and the Hedstrom-Union company of Gardner, Mass., producing baby carriages and children's vehicles.

With the Davis-Randolph corporation, also moving to Chicago, these new tenants will use more than 21,000 square feet of space. The increased activity at the Furniture mart is said to reflect a marked improvement in the furniture field during the last three months. All of the new exhibits will be in readiness for the opening of the national furniture show June 26.

DE WOLF-BARKER ARE MERGED WITH HOOKER-SLOSSON

Hooker & Slosson announce that the De Wolf-Barker Realty company has been merged with their firm. J. L. Barker, president, is now manager for the combined firms of all properties outside the central business district. The De Wolf-Barker Realty company originally was W. L. De Wolf & Co., one of the oldest realty firms in Chicago, established in the early '90s by the late Wallace L. De Wolf and the late Clarence Buckingham. J. L. Barker has been with the firm since 1913. Hooker & Slosson have specialized for many years in central business property as managers and brokers.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago for the week of May 12 to 18, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled forty-four, with a combined total cost of $163,200. Of these, eight contracts, totaling $47,500, were at the Worlds' Fair. Outside the Fair there were thirty-six, totaling $115,700. There were seventeen permits issued at the city hall calling for an expenditure of $60,575.

STORM EXPECTED TO BREAK OVER PRESBYTERIANS

Fundamentalists Revive for New Battle.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

When the commissioners of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America meet on Wednesday for annual sessions of general assembly at Columbus, O., the peace of the church will be threatened with what conservative leaders of that church call a revival of the fundamentalist versus modernist warfare. The issue has been politically dead since the St. Paul general assembly five years ago, when Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, then of Chicago, decisively defeated the fundamentalist Princeton seminary candidate for moderatorship.

However, according to Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney of Pittsburgh, former moderator of the church and fundamentalist whip, the time again has come when fundamentalists must reenter church politics and demand that the church stand forthright for the old faith. Since the defeat of the Princeton group the fundamentalists withdrew from active controversy and formed a new theological seminary at Philadelphia where the truth as fundamentalists see it may rightly be taught. The new school was formed by Prof. J. Gresham Machen, who took with him from the Princeton seminary the bulk of the fundamentalist professors.

The Pearl S. Buck Incident.

The first hint of the political resurrection of fundamentalism was disclosed May 1 with the announcement of the resignation of Pearl S. Buck, novelist and former missionary, from the Presbyterian board of foreign missions following Dr. Machen's attack on Mrs. Buck's views of missionary procedure. She had written in a magazine article that American missionary boards sent poorly equipped missionaries to foreign lands. These missionaries, she charged, are ignorant, arrogant, and superstitious, and she suggested that apologies should be made to Chinese and other peoples for such representatives. Mrs. Buck also charged that missionaries are intimidated by their governing boards into saying "the right thing" to get money for the board's maintenance.

It is stated by observers that Dr. Machen and Dr. Macartney are smarting under the criticism of fundamentalist missionaries by the recent laymen's missionary inquiry. Mrs. Buck's statements confirmed the inquiry's criticisms at many points. This combined to consolidate fundamentalist opinion which Dr. Machen delivered in the recent attack resulting in Mrs. Buck's retirement. But from Pittsburgh, where Dr. Macartney preaches in that city's leading Presbyterian church, a still broader attack on modernism recently was launched.

"Struggle with Apostasy."

Dr. Macartney contends that Mrs. Buck should not have been allowed to resign, but should have been fired. He praised Dr. Machen for his courageous "open indictment of the board of foreign missions" in connection with Mrs. Buck's statements. The indictment, he added, has not yet been answered. "Men like Dr. Machen," said Dr. Macartney, "are the hope of the Evangelical churches in their present struggle with apostasy."

Dr. Macartney prophesied that the churches of America are approaching a division and that rationalists are boring from within the churches "whose bread they eat but whose doctrines they derogate." He remarked, however, that "at present the conservatives show a noble unwillingness to be driven into the wilderness."

"There are groups within the Presbyterian church holding interpretations of Christianity and the scriptures which are absolutely hostile and irreconcilable," Dr. Macartney declared. "This preposterous union and fellowship cannot continue."

Board Election Battle.

It is predicted that the fundamentalists will concentrate on the election of members of the board of foreign missions. This board, headed by Dr. McAfee, will be subject to fundamentalist attacks on the ground that Dr. McAfee defended Mrs. Buck and also because he called Dr. Machen "an extreme fundamentalist." It is also hinted that if the fundamentalists cannot dominate the board elections they will withdraw their support from the present foreign board and create a missions board of their own. This action will be similar to their creation of a new theological seminary when fundamentalists lost control of Princeton seminary.

The powerful fundamentalist presbytery of Philadelphia, confirming the belief that fundamentalists will concentrate on foreign board elections, has prepared an overture to the assembly in which the qualities of the new board members are described.

The overture warns that care should be taken "to elect to the foreign board only persons who are determined to insist upon such verities as the full truthfulness of scriptures, the virgin birth of our Lord, his substitutionary death as a sacrifice to satisfy divine justice, his bodily resurrection, and his miracles as being essential to the word of God and as being necessary to the message which every missionary under our church shall proclaim."

Expects Stormy Session.

Dr. Henry Seymour Brown of the Presbyterian board of extension of the Chicago presbytery yesterday said that he did not regard the threat of the fundamentalists as serious. He indicated, however, that the conservatives are persistent in their attempts to enforce their views on the denomination and that they are girding themselves in preparation for stormy sessions at Columbus. Problems involved both in home and foreign missions are considered to be the most acute to be faced by the assembly this year.

Suburb Awakes to Find Red Flag on Park Pole

Residents of Blue Island awoke yesterday to find a red flag waving from the top of the 50 foot flagpole in Central park in the suburb. The flag, which was securely wired to the pole, was removed by the Blue Island fire department. Officials of the village and park said there had been no labor trouble nor demonstration recently.

YANKEE ADVISER OF BRITISH BANK SEES ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—After hurrying to Washington from the steamer on which he arrived at New York from London yesterday, Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, financial expert, conferred here today with President Roosevelt and Secretary Woodin. Connected with Harvard university, Dr. Sprague since 1930 has been an adviser of the Bank of England.

It is believed he will consult with the administration on currency stabilization.

Dr. Sprague first called on Secretary Woodin at the treasury department and accompanied him to the White House. There the President, Mr. Woodin and Dr. Sprague held a long private conversation.

Since 1913, Dr. Sprague has held the Harvard chair, endowed by Edmund Cogswell Converse, as professor of banking and finance. He is the author of authoritative works on banking.

Dr. Sprague went to the Bank of England only a year before Great Britain went off the gold standard.

Dr. Sprague was about well started as an economist when Franklin D. Roosevelt graduated from Harvard. Dr. Sprague was professor of economics at the Imperial university of Tokio from 1905 to 1908, otherwise all his teaching was at Harvard.

This Michigan Chicken Has Three Legs and Four Wings

Coldwater, Mich., May 20.—[Special.]—Poultrymen are baffled at the existence of a freak chicken just hatched on the farm of Mrs. Elmer Kaufman, near here. The chick has three legs, two of them in normal position, the other protruding from its back, and four wings, two in the usual position and the other two directly behind the former and upside down. The chick apparently suffers no inconvenience from its defects.

SHURE, AN' IT'S THE HISTORY OF PADDY WAGONS

Policeman Roddy O'Brien Explains Things.

BY JAMES GAVIN.

The patrol wagon assigned to the South State street police station was parked in the rear of police headquarters at 11th and State streets yesterday. Things were quiet. Policeman Roddy O'Brien pulled over a chair and sat down beside the wagon. He lit his pipe and started to puff away.

"Say, Roddy," a friend asked, "how did the patrol wagon get the name 'paddy wagon'?"

Every day for twenty-two years Roddy has ridden the patrol. He puffed a moment or two before replying.

"Well," he began, "there was a little man who came out from Ireland many years ago. He wasn't long out—for he still had green horns—when he became a policeman. His name was Patrick O'Sullivan. They called him Paddy for short.

And Paddy Met Bridget.

"Paddy met Bridget O'Malley. She was from the same county as Paddy in the old country. Then came the wedding night. It was a big affair. Everybody was there. Towards morning all the guests were feeling dandy. They were singing: 'If Casey calls Kelly a liar, they'll be moider here tonight.'

"The singing was interrupted now and then by a few short fights. Bridget, the bride, put her head out the window. She didn't have to raise the window. The glass had been knocked out long before. She saw the patrol wagon coming up the street. Bridget hollered in delight:

"'O! here comes Paddy's wagon.'

"And that," said Roddy, "is the story of the night the patrol was christened the paddy wagon."

The Changing Times.

"Roddy, things have changed since then," remarked an old timer on the force. "I remember one night you were off. There was a call from Mrs. Murphy's house. Mrs. Murphy had to be taken to a hospital. The wagon went in a hurry, but didn't make it in time. It was a boy—born in the wagon. At the hospital, Mrs. Murphy promised to name her son after the wagon cop.

"The day of the christening came. When Mrs. Murphy found out that her boy was to be named Casmir she protested. She said: 'I thought all policemen were Irishmen.'

"The cop that took your place that night, Roddy, was named Casmir Smulzewski."

Roddy's Proud of His Wagon.

"Everybody shuns the paddy wagon," said Roddy. "They should not. Even the kids in the streets when they see it coming holler: 'Jiggers, here comes the paddy wagon.'

"The wagon's done a lot of good in this world. It takes the sick and injured to hospitals. Sometimes it delivers old clothes to the poor. It's only the prisoners that ride in it that are bad, and not all of them by a long shot. Many of them are just unlucky."

"I was talking with James McSweeney, the secretary of police, and Sergt. John McCann the other day and they told me all about the history of patrol wagons.

"They said the first patrol wagon in Chicago came in 1880. It was an open wagon and drawn by a horse. Before that if a cop made a pinch he'd have to put the prisoner on his back and carry him to the station. Or he'd put him a wheelbarrow and push him in. Sometimes they hired a grocer's wagon or an express wagon and paid a dime or 15 cents for the hauling. There were only 502 cops then. Now we have 6,071.

17 Wagons the Next Year.

"The next year there were 17 wagons. Then they passed a law that the wagons must be closed, because people didn't like to be seen riding in them.

"The first auto patrol was made in the city's shops in 1908. The cops called it 'Calamity Jane.' At the end of 1913 it was good-by horses. The department was fully motorized. Now there are 53 wagons. The oldest has been in service 11 years. The most miles made by a wagon is 173,440."

... AND ANOTHER WOMAN CHANGES TO CALUMET!

YOU'LL hear the same thing every place—city or country—"Calumet gives better baking!" Cakes, cookies, waffles and muffins made with Calumet have a new perfection of texture, a new lightness and tenderness.

Why is Calumet so successful?

Because this fine, modern baking powder has Double-Action. Not just one action in the mixing bowl—but a second action, held in reserve until your batter or dough is in the oven. This remarkable second rising holds your baked things high and light—makes them smooth-crusted, tender and velvety.

This Double-Action is so efficient that you use less Calumet—only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour in most recipes.

CALUMET CUP CAKES

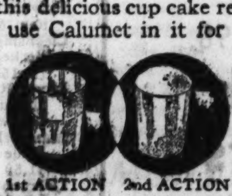
1 1/3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour	1 cup sugar
1 1/3 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder	2 eggs, well beaten
1/3 cup butter or other shortening	1/2 cup milk
	1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring. Pour into greased cup-cake pans, filling them 2/3 full. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 minutes, or until done. Makes 2 dozen cup cakes.

(All measurements are level.)

Perfect baking—reasonable price—and you use less . . . The three reasons why women change to Calumet!

Try this delicious cup cake recipe. Be sure to use Calumet in it for success!



1st ACTION 2nd ACTION

GET PROOF! See Calumet act twice! These pictures illustrate the famous Calumet Double-Action Test. You'll find full directions for making this easy test inside every Calumet can. Try it! See for yourself how Calumet acts twice to make your baking better.

MICHIGAN RETAINS TITLE IN BIG TEN TRACK

CUBS WIN, 3-1; WARNEKE HOLDS DODGERS TO 5 HITS

LON DRIVES IN FIRST TWO RUNS WITH A DOUBLE

Billy Herman Stars in Field.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lon Warneke, still a bit angry because the Brooklyn Dodgers last year accorded him his fourth and fifth lickings in successive games, took full charge of matters when the Cubs and Dodgers met yesterday in their first game of 1933. The Cubs won, 3 to 1, and the first two Cub runs, the one that tied and the one that won, were batted in by Mr. Warneke with two out in the fifth, thereby gaining him No. 5 victory for this annum.

Since Lon is a pitcher first and a slugger only when he has to be, it is well to mention early that he held the Dodgers to five hits, no two of which were made in the same inning. The fifth hit was made with one out in the ninth by Hack Wilson, who doesn't get his bloomers as soiled sitting on the Dodger bench as he used to on the diamond while accomplishing great things in behalf of the Cubs. Having given Pinch Batter Hack his big moment, Lon promptly made Joe Judge hit into a double play, which ended the contest.

Cubs Make Only Six Hits.

Lon's wildness in the first inning helped Brooklyn to the only run, which looked very large for the first four innings, in which the total hitting off Benge was a single by Woody English in the first inning.

The Cubs made only six hits themselves. Warneke's double, which won the ball game, and a line single which Lon knocked in the seventh; a single by English in the first inning and Woody's double which led to the Cubs' third and superfluous run in the sixth; and important singles by Koenig in the fifth and sixth innings.

This left the so-called power boys with nothing at all. Babe Herman, Gink Hendrick and Frank Demaree failed to get the ball out of the infield. Taylor Douthit, Bill Herman and Gabby Hartnett each got one ball out where an outfielder could get a chance to do some work. The two runners driven home by Warneke were on base because they forced mates with infield fizzles. It certainly was a sickly attack save for the fine work of Lon and Woody and Mark.

What a Play! What a Play!

The defense afforded something to cheer about, especially as regards Bill Herman. In the second inning, with two down and Benge on first, Bill made a diving stop of Stripp's line drive to the right of second base. Bill, lying flat on his back and with his soles toward second, tossed to Koenig in time to force Benge for the third out. With one out in the seventh he made another circus play to grab a line drive from the bat of Pinch Batter Outen.

Danny Taylor, erstwhile Cub, scored the Dodgers' only run and just to punish him, Lon fanned him the next two times he came up. In the first inning Danny walked and went to second while O'Doul was bouncing out to Hendrick. Frederick walked; then Cuccinello's grounder got past Koenig for a single, Taylor scoring and Frederick reaching third. Wright ended further Brooklyn production possibilities by flying to Babe Herman.

In the fourth Wright got the third safety and only extra base hit off Warneke. He doubled and went to third while Judge was going out, Hendrick to Warneke. Lopez' fly to Douthit ended what really was the Dodgers' last threat of the day.

Squeeze Play Flops.

And now for the record of the way the Cubs struggled in the latter half of the fifth before Warneke took charge. Hendrick walked and took second on Koenig's single to left. Demaree forced Koenig at second, Stripp to Wright, Hendrick reaching third and Demaree first. Hartnett and Hendrick sought to stage a squeeze play, which was perfectly executed by these large gents except that Gink didn't start running with the pitch and Hartnett bunted sharply straight at Benge. As a result Hendrick was out, Benge to Lopez, by about half the distance between third and home. Happily Lopez had to wait so long for

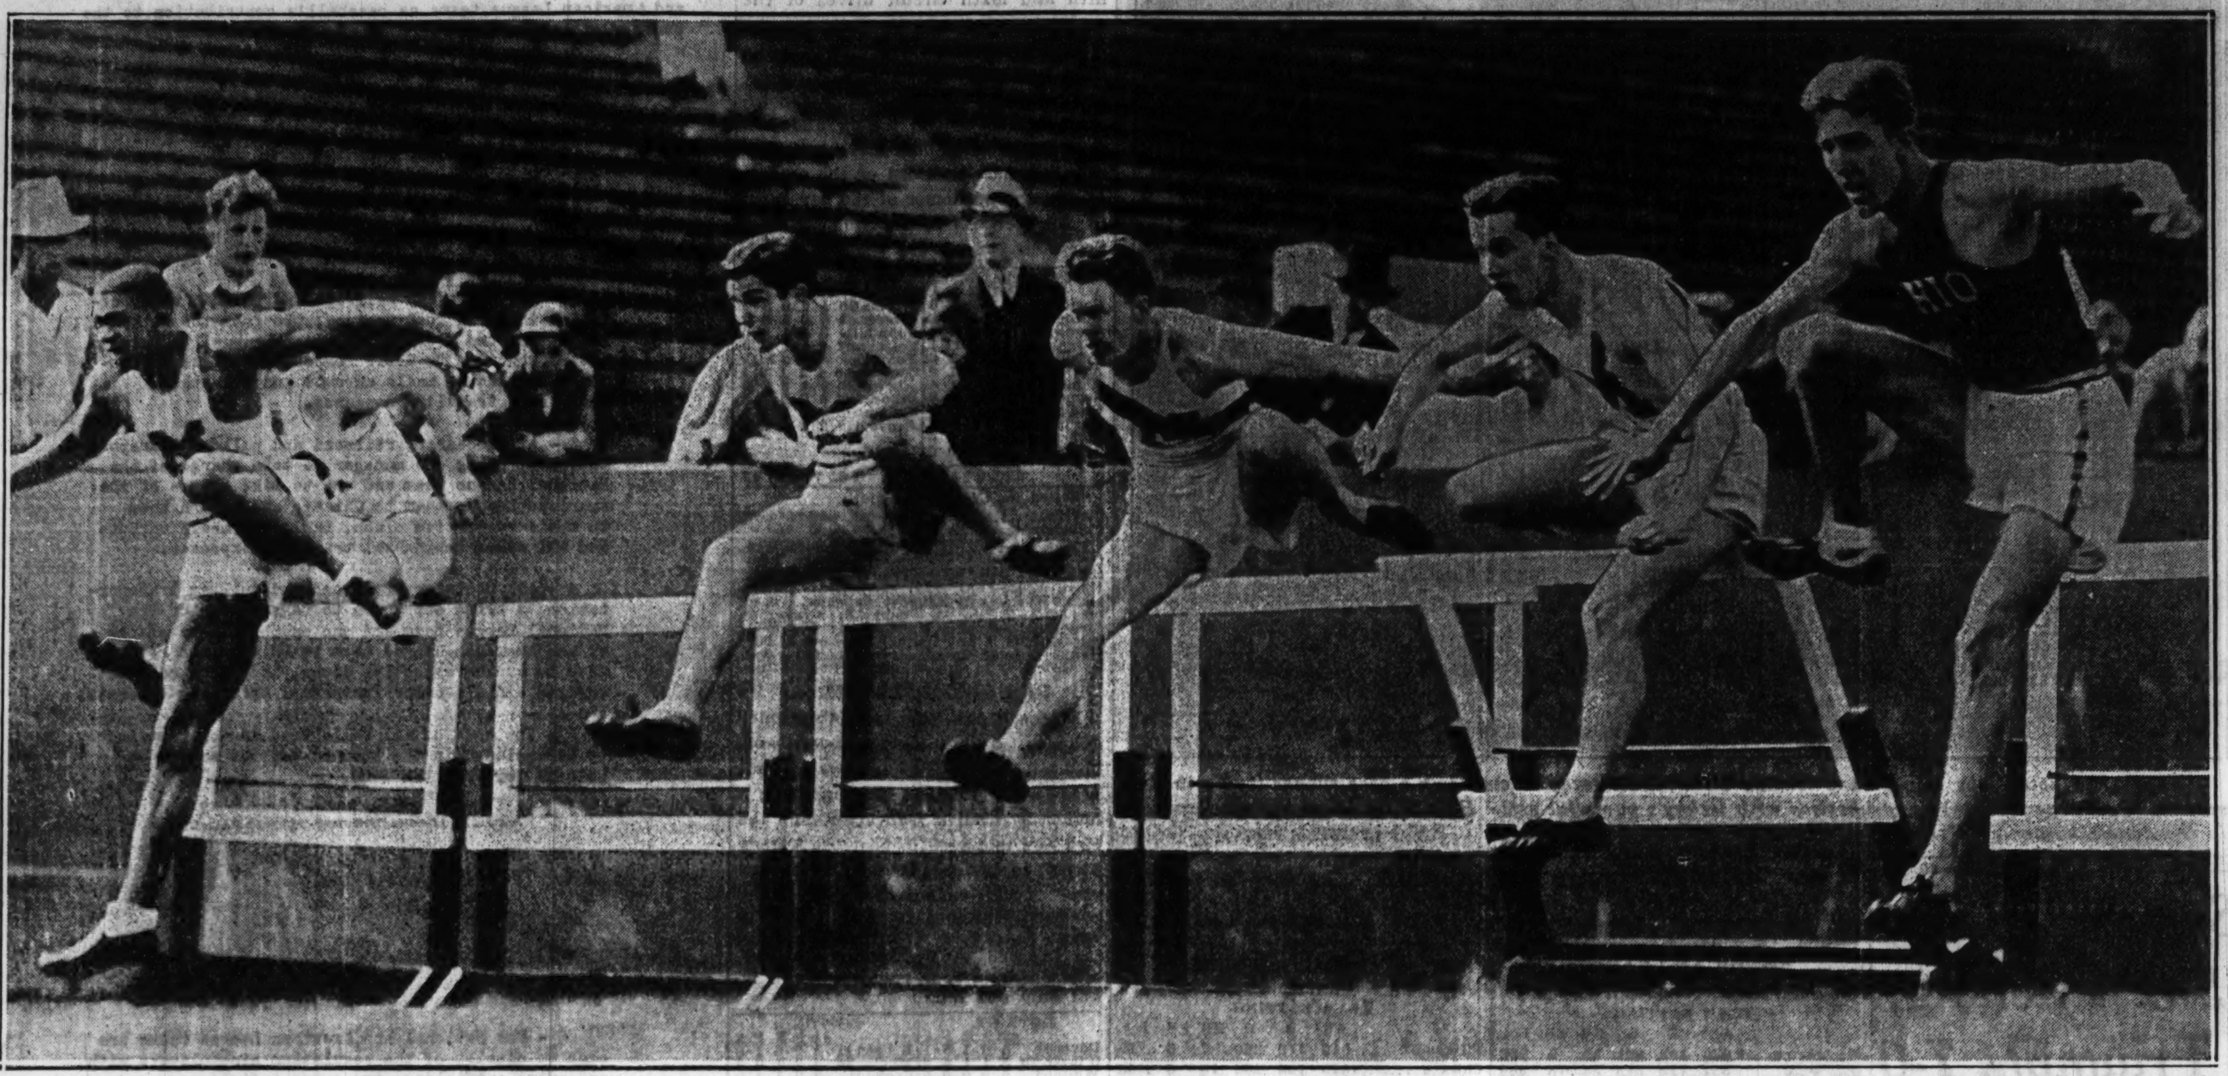
CLIMBING FENCES IN WORLD RECORD TIME



On way to a record. Jack Keller (extreme right) of Ohio State and other finalists soar over barriers in 120 yard high hurdle race at Big Ten meet at Dyche stadium yesterday. Keller broke the accepted world's record of 14.2 seconds held by Percy Beard by covering the distance in 14.1. Votes Pour In on Baseball's Biggest Game

BY ARCH WARD.

Baseball leaders have no reason to fear that interest in their sport is waning. The enthusiasm in the wake of the announcement that the greatest game ever scheduled will be played in Chicago July 6 has dispelled all doubt.

Last Friday morning THE TRIBUNE printed a story that the strongest team the American league can place on the diamond will meet the strongest lineup that can be recruited from the National league in baseball's contribution to A Century of Progress Exposition. The fans of the nation are invited to help choose the teams.

Other Papers Join in Poll.

America's response has been overwhelming. From every part of the land have come requests from newspapers to conduct ballots in their territories. THE TRIBUNE has welcomed the coöperation of other journals. Polls to determine the National and American league teams are now being conducted in nearly every state from New York to California. The consensus will determine the players who will appear at Comiskey park or Wrigley field on July 6 in the game of the century.

Many newspapers are offering prizes to the fans who come closest to picking the starting lineups. THE TRIBUNE alone is giving away $500 in cash awards. The first prize of $250 will go to the reader who comes closest to naming the lineups of both teams with the three pitchers in the order they work. Each club, it has been explained, will use three pitchers.

Pick That Lineup.

Two prizes of $100 each will be awarded to the fans who come closest to picking the starting lineup for each league with the starting pitchers. Fifty $1 awards will be distributed among those who are able to name the six pitchers, three for each team, who will be chosen to work. In event that more than the allotted number qualify for any of these prizes the award will go to those whose selections reach THE TRIBUNE first.

Address all communications to the Sports Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The game will be played at 1:30 o'clock, world series starting time, to enable American league players to return to eastern centers in time for the following day's contests. Although many have urged world series ticket prices, because the game has more appeal than a world series contest, the scale will be the same as prevails every day at Comiskey park and Wrigley field. Box seats will sell for $1.65, grandstand seats for $1.10, and bleachers for 55 cents, tax included.

No ticket applications will be accepted until the playing site has been decided.

Rules for Umpires.

Representatives of the two leagues will meet with Commissioner K. M. Landis within a few days to pick the location. Both parks are available and the owners of both clubs would like to have the game for their park. A toss of a coin probably will decide.

Rules of the game provide that the National league ball will be used for half the game and the American

HURLERS, HITTERS FAIL; SOX LOSE TO SENATORS, 7-0

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—The White Sox today lacked all the items essential to success. There was no pitching, fielding or hitting to speak of, so they were slapped around in much the same fashion they themselves slapped the Senators yesterday. The score was 7 to 0, making the third time this season the Chicagoans have been kept away from the plate.

Because of the feebleness with which the Sox maneuvered against Monte Weaver, the pitching mathematics professor, it probably didn't make much difference that they gave away runs with reckless abandon. Weaver needed only one and the Senators earned more than that.

Kress' Error Starts Trouble.

The redoubtable Ted Lyons started against Weaver, but at about the half way mark the Chicago ace discovered treachery in his own ranks. It broke out at first base, where Red Kress messed up the easiest sort of a chance which should have been the second out. Two runs grew from this, mainly because old Sam Rice, playing because of an injury to Fred Schulte, made the second of his four hits. Then some more things, among them a sleepy time play by Kress, happened in the sixth to score four runs. This flurry brought a vehement protest from Lyons against Umpire Brick Owens' decision on a close play, and Ted was banished from the game.

Sox's System Fails.

It was bad enough for Manager Fonseca to see his understudy floundering around at first base, but that was only part of his disappointments for the day. Vic Frasier was another. After Joe Heving had relieved Lyons and then had been stabled for a pinch hitter, the pitching was turned over to Frasier for one inning. The silent Texan was using a new delivery, taught him with the hope that it will bring back some of his 1931 effectiveness. It didn't seem to help much. He was blasted for four hits, but only one Senator scored because of daffy base running.

The Sox started off by trying to hit

BILLY LAUDER, FORMER COACH OF SOX, IS DEAD

Norwalk, Conn., May 20.—[Special.]—William Lauder, 59 years old, former major league baseball star, died from a heart attack at his home here early today. Born in Norwalk, he began his baseball career while a student at Brown university. He played in the old Connecticut league and was third baseman for the New York Giants from 1901 to 1906, an infielder with the Philadelphia Nationals from 1906 to 1908, and later was head baseball coach at Brown, Columbia, Williams, and Yale universities.

While at Columbia he coached and developed Eddie Collins, and in 1925, when Collins became manager of the Chicago White Sox, he engaged Lauder as a coach.

He was with the Sox for two seasons. He was the author of a book on "How to Play Baseball," and the writer of numerous newspaper articles on baseball.

MONTE PARKE IS ROBBED OF 50c, DUMPED IN DITCH

Monte Parke, leading jockey at the Exposition Park race track and second ranking rider in the country, was found in a ditch on the outskirts of Aurora yesterday morning. His arms and feet were bound.

He had been kidnaped by three men who had robbed him of 50 cents and then dumped him out of an automobile, he said. He was set upon as he was entering his boarding house near the heart of Aurora. The men who found Parke, Julian Hankes and Louis Esser, both of Aurora, had been run off the road and robbed at a point near where Parke lay. Hankes and Esser were robbed of $3.

CADDIES STRIKE AT WAUKESHA; MOB WEAKLING

Waukesha, Wis., May 20.—[Special.]—Golfers on the Waukesha Country club course were obliged to carry their own golf bags today because of a caddy strike called in protest against the fees paid for caddying. One hundred and twenty-five boys picketed the course today to prevent any one from aiding golfers with their clubs.

A semblance of violence broke out when Philip Strong agreed to pick up golf balls for Mrs. W. H. Hardy on the practice course. The striking caddies told Strong to "lay off," but he refused and they mobbed him, tore his shirt and sent him scurrying to safety.

Autos entering and leaving the club were halted and searched for outlaw caddies.

WARD SCORES 18 OF WOLVERINES' 60½ POINTS

Indiana Is Second, Illinois Third.

Table of Points

Michigan	60½	Northwestern	16½
Indiana	47½	Iowa	6
Illinois	41½	Chicago	6
Ohio State	34	Wisconsin	5
Purdue	19	Minnesota	4

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Willis Ward, University of Michigan sophomore, led the Wolverines to their thirteenth Western conference track and field championship yesterday at Dyche stadium. Ward was the individual point winner as well as Michigan's only victor in any of the sixteen events. He accounted for 18 of Michigan's 60½ point, 5 more than his team's margin over Indiana, which finished second with 47½ points.

Illinois was third with 41½ points and Ohio State fourth with 34. The six other competitors were distanced in the race for team honors.

Ward won the 100 yard dash and the high jump and finished second in the broad jump and the 120 yard high hurdles. Despite his 196 pounds, the Michigan Negro had no difficulty beating Hudson Hellmich of Illinois in the sprint in the extraordinary time of 9 6-10 seconds over a track slow and spongy from rains Friday and early yesterday morning. He won the high jump, his best event, with a leap of 6 feet 2¾ inches. This was far below his best performance, but by the time he had reached the jumping pits he already had done a day's work.

Ward Presses Keller.

Ward forced Jack Keller of Ohio State to break the accepted world's record of 14 2-10 seconds for the high hurdles. He finished less than 2 yards behind Keller. In the broad jump, John Brooks, Chicago's defending champion, outdistanced Ward, but only when he cleared 24 feet for the first time this season.

Ten thousand, a record crowd, watched the meet. For the first time in the thirty-three year history of the competition, the events were staged strictly for the benefit of the spectators. The ceremonies, copied from the Olympic ritual, were largely responsible for the coherence of the show. No two events overlapped and following each, buglers called attention to the platform where Miss Jean Hoch, Northwestern May queen, and her court awarded the medals.

Changing three events from the straightaway to the circular track accounted for three of the five records broken. The 220 yard dash, the low hurdles, and the quarter mile can be run faster under the former condition, but the crowd showed its appreciation of the change. Two bona fide records, in the high hurdles and javelin throw, carried on the attack which annually has seen several all time marks discarded.

Keller Breaks Record.

Keller's high hurdle effort was the best of the list, although Ward, because of his versatility, received the conference medal for proficiency. Keller ran the distance last year in 14 seconds, an almost unbelievable time, but this mark was not accepted because of the favoring wind. Yesterday he covered the 120 yards in 14 1-10 seconds, one-fifth of a second faster than the accepted world's record held by Percy Beard of the New York Athletic club.

The late George Saling, Iowa's famous hurdler, who won the 110 meter hurdle race in the 1932 Olympics, has a mark of 14 1-10 seconds up for consideration by the International Federation at its next meeting. Officials of the conference meet yesterday announced Keller's time also would be submitted for approval.

Keller's mark, of course, will be recognized as the conference record, and it will replace the mark of 14 4-10 seconds established by Lee Sentman of Illinois in 1931.

Four Are Double Winners.

Four men dominated the championships. In addition to Ward and Keller, double winners, Charles Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua of Indiana, also won two titles apiece. Hornbostel captured the half and one mile races, and Fuqua took the 220 yard and 440 yard dashes. These men also ran on the championship Indiana relay team.

The other outstanding meet record was established Friday in the javelin throw preliminaries by Duane Purvis of Purdue. He tossed the spear 208 feet 5¼ inches. He had two throws over the 200 foot mark in the finals yesterday, but he was unable to better his record effort of Friday.

The change in the running of the events gave Fuqua opportunity to set a new quarter mile record of 48 6-10 seconds. Keller also established a new mark in the low hurdles around one turn. Fuqua then came back with an all time Big Ten mark in the 220 yard dash around one turn.

Indiana scored in 11 of the 16 events, while Michigan counted in 13. But Indiana won eight of the individual titles as compared to the two which Ward acquired for Michigan. Fuqua and Hornbostel accounted for four. Biddinger was the winner in the hammer throw, concluded Friday, with a toss which failed by less than four inches of a new record.

Watson Wins Easily.

Cliff Watson was easily the best of the two milers. He had more than a 100 yard lead on Dean Woolsey of Il-

Victory Moves St. Louis Into Fourth Place.

St. Louis, Mo., May 20.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean mixed eleven strikeouts with as many New York hits today and managed to keep out of trouble enough for the Cardinals to defeat the Giants 4 to 1. The victory moved the Cards into fourth place ahead of Cincinnati. The Cardinals collected only nine hits off Hy Bell and George Uhle but they included a homer by Jimmy Collins and three triples, two of which led to runs. Score:

Warneke Stops Dodgers; Cubs Victors, 3-1

Hendrick to get to the plate that he had no chance to make a play for Hartnett at first.

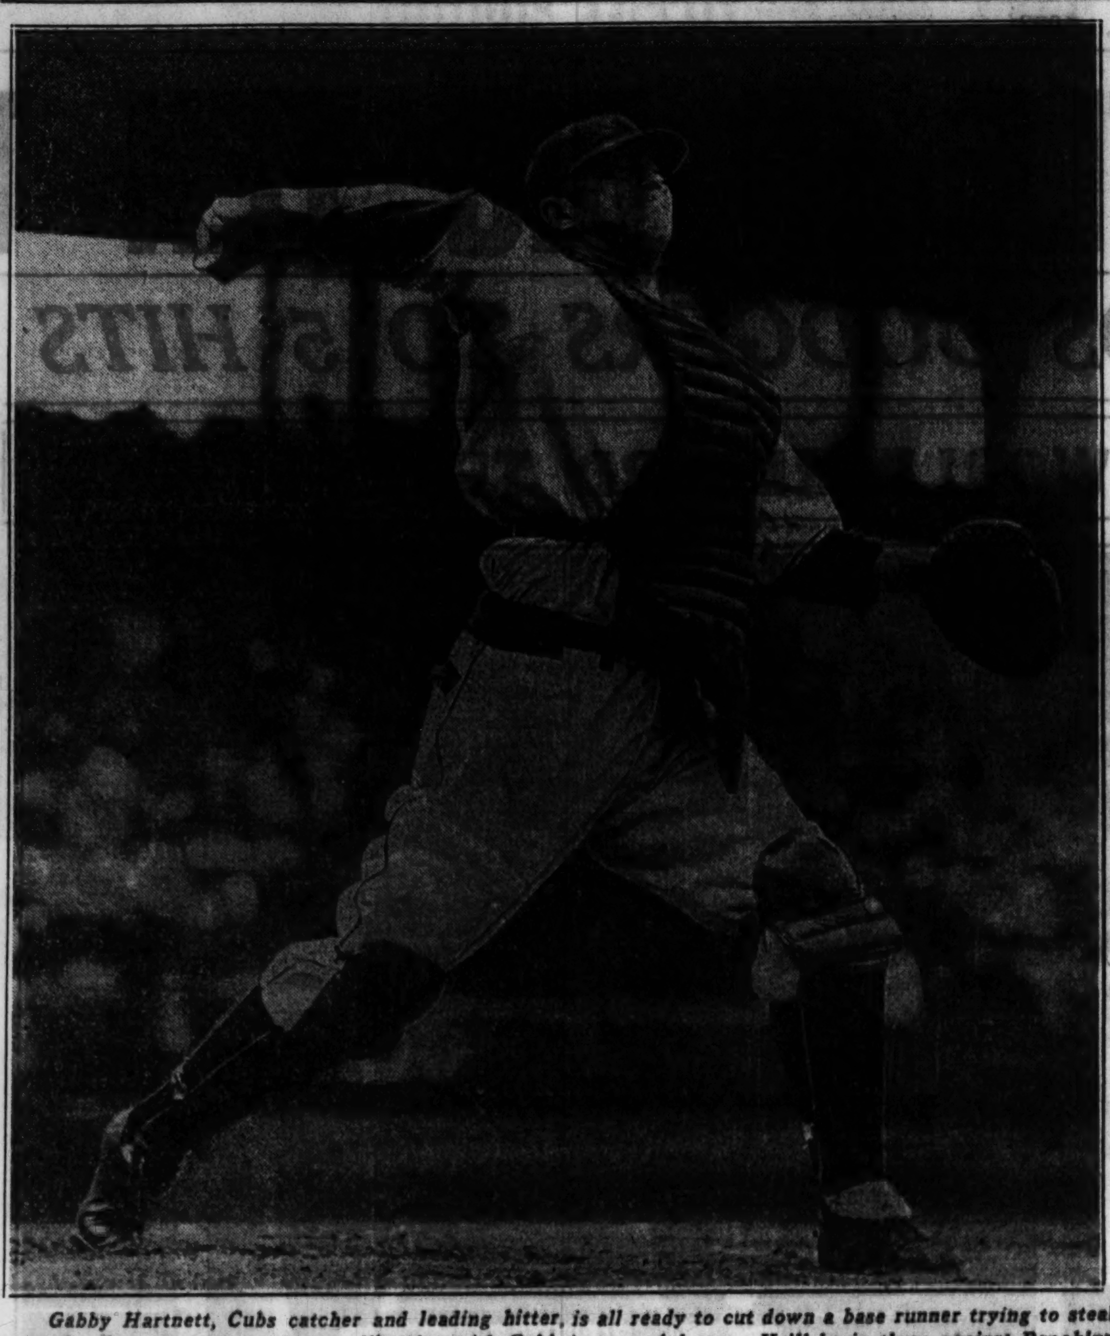
So there were two out, Demaree was on second and Hartnett on first and Warneke was at bat. Lon promptly socked as pretty a line drive to dead left center as you ever saw in any ball park. Demaree breezed in from second to score the tying run and Gabby barged in all the way from first for the winning counter. Warneke stopped at second, without even feinting a longer trip. He seemed to know that those two runs were all he needed. Lon died on second because Douthit popped to Stripp.

Two Games Today.

English doubled with one down in the sixth and Babe Herman walked. Hendrick forced Herman, English taking third, where he scored when Koenig caromed a single off Judge's glove. Demaree was out, Judge to Benge.

The team this afternoon will wind up their series with a double header, the first game of which will start at 1:30 o'clock. Malone and Root are scheduled to pitch for the Cubs and Clark and Thurston were indicated as the Brooklyn choices.

READY—AIM—FIRE!



Gabby Hartnett, Cubs catcher and leading hitter, is all ready to cut down a base runner trying to steal second. Few opponents take any liberties with Gabby's powerful arm. He'll be in there against Brooklyn in the double header at Wrigley field this afternoon. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Senators Like Sox Pitching; Triumph, 7-0

Weaver's first pitches, but three innings of this didn't net anything worth while, so they changed their tactics. Meanwhile the Senators were having a little fun with Lyons, but it proved harmless. Kuhel led off in the second with a single and the next three men couldn't even budge him off first base. In the third Rice singled and died stealing for the second out.

Sewell was put out to start the fifth, and Kress then fumbled Weaver's ordinary grounder. There was trouble almost immediately. A low fly off Rice's bat fell for a single in short center. Manush was disposed of on a fly to Simmons, and Lyons then made the costly mistake of letting Goslin have a pass. The full house was a sort of challenge to Manager Cronin, and he accepted it. He slashed a single into center, scoring Weaver and Rice, after which Manush hoisted to Simmons for the third out.

Another Pass; More Runs.

Travis drew a pass to open the sixth, and there was immediate action. Myer bunted in front of the plate and beat Grube's throw for a hit. Sewell was dismissed on a fly to center and Weaver rolled to Kress, but the redhead, with only a few feet to travel to reach the base, stood still and waited for Lyons to cover. Umpire Owens decided Weaver reached there ahead of Lyons. Rice then doubled to score two.

Rice's drive hadn't been picked up by Simmons before Lyons began pouring some choice oratory into the ears of Umpire Owens. Ted was in a rage because he figured he had beaten the play on Weaver who had been called safe. The Sox star said a lot of things but when he called Owens a "Guinea" it was just too much. Owens ordered him to leave. It was Ted's first banishmenet in his ten years as a big leaguer.

Heving appeared and stopped the fuss after Manush's single had scored another pair.

The first thing that happened when Frasier appeared for the eighth inning was a two-bagger to right by Sewell. Weaver bunted and Sewell was trapped between third and second. Then the Sox doubled Weaver between second and first. Rice followed with a double to center and scored when Manush singled.

FOXX'S 2 HOMERS HELP A'S BEAT INDIANS, 7 TO 2

Jimmy Hits Fifth and Sixth Long Drives.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, aided by two home runs by Jimmy Foxx, swept the two game series with the Cleveland Indians, capturing today's contest, 7 to 2. They were Foxx's fifth and sixth circuit drives of the season.

Both Jimmy's clouts sailed over the right field wall, an unusual thing for him. The first began a three run assault in the second inning and was followed by a similar drive by Cochrane, the latter's third of the season. Foxx's second homer of the day came in the seventh with two on base. Score:

Boston, Mass., May 20.—(AP)—Henry Johnson, Boston right hander, wobbled all through today's game, but held Detroit to eight hits, including a homer by Charlie Gehringer, and the Red Sox managed to beat the Tigers, 6 to 5, in the second game of the series. Twice during the game Johnson's wild pitches enabled Detroit to score. Another freak performance was turned in by Johnny Hodapp, who drove in four runs, although he got only one hit.

Votes Pour In on Baseball's Biggest Game

league ball for the other half. A National league umpire will call balls and strikes for four and a half innings and an American league official will serve the rest of the game. There will be four umpires, two from each league, on duty. President William Harridge of the American league and President John Heydler of the National will appoint the officials a few days before the game.

Both leagues are preparing for the biggest test of their existence. Never has the entire strength of one league been pitted against the other. The American league, thanks to the powerful New York Yankees, scored a brilliant victory in the 1932 world series. Their exhibition left no room for argument about the relative class of the championship teams. But the National league had a much closer race and its adherents contended that player talent was more evenly distributed than in the American.

Chicago's Greatest Baseball Crowd.

The National league can regain much of its lost glory by whipping the pick of the rival league July 6. The American clubs can make victory complete by repeating the success of the New York Yankees.

That is why Chicago's greatest baseball crowd will be in attendance. The fans know there will be real rivalry. Only the best players will appear. The leagues could not afford to have it otherwise. For that reason all regularly scheduled games which conflict with the transportation of the stars to Chicago have been postponed.

The big battle on July 6 will have the baseball stage to itself. There will be no other game played in the major leagues that afternoon.

TERMS FOR BIG GAME

All details of baseball's biggest game—the battle between National league and American league stars in Chicago July 6—are covered in the agreement between presidents of the leagues and The Tribune, which suggested the game and is underwriting the expenses. Here is a photograph of the agreement:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
PROFESSIONAL BASE BALL CLUBS
STRAUS BUILDING
CHICAGO

May 19, 1933.

Mr. Arch Ward
Sports Editor
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

My dear Mr. Ward:

Referring to conversation with you in Chicago yesterday in regard to the proposed exhibition game between the National and American League teams as baseball's contribution to the Century of Progress, to be held in Chicago on Thursday, July 6th.

After talking with you, it is our understanding that the game will be conducted under the following arrangements.

The Chicago Tribune will underwrite the game and guarantee all operating expenses, including:

1 - All necessary railroad and pullman transportation to bring the players to Chicago and return them to their respective clubs, including meals enroute and all other incidental traveling expenses.

2 - All necessary railroad and pullman transportation to bring four umpires, two from the National League and two from the American League, to Chicago and return them to their respective League assignments, including meals enroute and all other incidental traveling expenses.

3 - All necessary railroad and pullman transportation to bring one manager to take charge of the National League team and one to take charge of the American League team to Chicago and return them to their respective clubs, including meals enroute and all other incidental traveling expenses.

4 - All necessary railroad and pullman transportation to bring one coach to take charge of the National League team and one coach to take charge of the American League team to Chicago and return them to their respective clubs, including meals enroute and all other incidental traveling expenses.

5 - The cost of all balls used in the game is to be included in the item of expense and is to be paid for from the fund.

AMERICAN LEAGUE PROFESSIONAL BASE BALL CLUBS

Mr. Arch Ward May 19, 1933.

2.

6 - The National and American League teams are each to consist of the regulation nine players with one extra outfielder, two extra infielders, one extra catcher, and a total of three pitchers, also one manager and one coach. It may be found necessary or advisable later on to increase this number but this can be mutually agreed upon by both Leagues.

7 - The National League ball is to be used for the playing of half of the game and the American League ball for the playing of the other half.

8 - One National League umpire will officiate behind the plate during half of the game and an American League umpire during the other half.

9 - The players who will participate in the game will bring with them their own club uniforms and bats.

10 - The game will be played under the jurisdiction of Judge K. M. Landis, Commissioner of Baseball.

11 - The selection of Wrigley Field or Comiskey Park for the playing of the game will be decided by lot.

12 - Play will begin at one-thirty P.M. Chicago daylight saving time.

13 - If, on account of bad weather or for any other reason, the game is not played, the Chicago Tribune will guarantee all of the expense incurred in preparation for the game. We understand that they will protect this expense by the taking out of necessary insurance. This expense to include the refunding of money paid in advance for tickets.

14 - If the game is started and called before it becomes a legal game, in accordance with the rules, the admission price will be refunded and the Chicago Tribune will guarantee the loss, as above.

15 - If the game cannot be played on Thursday, July 6th, the date now selected, the game will be definitely cancelled and no other date will be chosen.

AMERICAN LEAGUE PROFESSIONAL BASE BALL CLUBS

Mr. Arch Ward May 19, 1933.

16 - It is our understanding that, after all necessary expenses have been deducted, the balance of the fund is to be awarded to the Association of Professional Base Ball Players of America, for the purpose of providing for distressed ball players.

17 - We would suggest that before any of the expense bills are paid, or any distribution made of the fund to be allotted to the Association of Professional Base Ball Players of America, a meeting between the officials of the Chicago Tribune, Commissioner Landis, the President of the National League and the President of the American League be held.

Sincerely yours,

John A. Heydler
President, National League.

William Harridge
President, American League.

IRISH TO SELECT FOOTBALL LINEUP IN GAMES TODAY

Sixty Gaelic football stars will take part in two games at Normal Park stadium, 61st street and Racine avenue, this afternoon, to determine the makeup of the Chicago team that will face the All Ireland champions in a World's Fair game at Soldiers' field June 10. The first game will be at 4 o'clock.

SPARTA OUT TO CLINCH TITLE IN BATTLE TODAY

The Sparta Soccer club, runnerup for the western championship, will attempt to clinch the National Professional league title this afternoon when it meets the Maccabee All-Stars, Triner cup holders, at Kuppenheimer stadium, 18th street and Keeler avenue. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

The Brickies will meet the Norwegian Americans of the International league in a quarter final game of the Peel cup series at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue.

HERE'S HOW YOU FIGURE WINNING, LOSING PITCHERS

Save a Phone Call; Glance Over These Rules.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The manner of determining the winning and losing pitchers in games where two or more pitchers are employed by each side is one which seems the most elusive not only to baseball fans, drunk or sober, but to players, young and old.

Any telephone boy in the sports department of a morning newspaper will tell you that 80 per cent of the queries he receives after 10 p. m., and obviously from participants in saloon or house party debates, will be centered around the winning and losing pitcher phase of baseball rules. Radio announcers, when they become confused, frequently get tangled on the problem. And any group of ball players will debate for an hour on any incident of the kind you want to cite.

A Surprise for Burleigh.

In a game in Philadelphia recently Burleigh Grimes finished a game under the belief that he was the winning pitcher only to discover that Roy Henshaw, who had pitched to one man in the fourth inning and three in the fifth, all while the Cubs were behind, 5 to 4, was the winning pitcher. In the sixth inning Grimm walked and Jurges and Campbell, who batted for Henshaw, both flied to Klein. Then followed a rally which resulted in the Cubs going in front, a lead which Grimes went in and protected the rest of the way, allowing only one hit and two walks. The game was awarded to Henshaw because he was the pitcher of record when the winning run scored.

In order that you, if you are a National league fan, may have the regulations framed and hung in your favorite saloon, smokeshop, or other debating arena, the official instructions of President John Heydler of the National league are quoted herewith:

1. When one pitcher is relieved by another with runners on base, charge up all such runners, in case they score, to the the first pitcher. Be sure to make special mention in the proper place on the official score sheet of all runs so charged.

How to Figure Counts.

2. The relieving pitcher, coming into the game possibly "cold" and in the midst of a batting rally, should not be charged with the first batter he faces reaching first base if such batter had any advantage because of the poor pitching of the first pitcher. With the count two or three balls and one or no strikes, if the batter reaches first base, charge to first pitcher; if he strikes out or is otherwise retired, credit relieving pitcher.

Count three and two — same as above.

Count two and two—charge to relieving pitcher, whether batter is retired or gets on base.

3. Where the relieving pitcher goes in with the score tied on even innings he must win or lose the game regardless of the number of innings or how effectively the first pitcher may have pitched. If the first pitcher is relieved with the score in his favor, and later the score is tied up off second pitcher, then the latter wins or loses. A tie game at any stage [with no one on base] must be considered to all intents and purposes as the start of a new game for the second pitcher.

Benefit of Runs.

4. When the first pitcher is retired after pitching, say, seven innings, he is entitled to the benefit of all runs scored by his side in an equal number of innings. For instance, Brown of the home club has pitched seven innings with the score 2 to 0 against him. He is taken out when his turn at bat comes in the seventh and before the close of that inning his team has scored two runs. Brown retires with the game a tie and the next pitcher becomes responsible.

5. Do not always give the first pitcher credit for a game won, even if score is in his favor, unless he has pitched at least five innings. If, however, he is taken out because of his team having secured a commanding and winning lead in a few innings, or is forced to retire through injury or illness, or is removed from the game by the umpire when his team has a commanding lead, then he is entitled to be credited with the victory. The good judgment of the scorer must determine in such cases, as much depends on whether the pitcher was relieved because of ineffectiveness or for other reasons.

Of course, scorer must use his own judgment interpreting this rule when a game is terminated in less than the regulation number of innings for any reason whatsoever.

6. Regardless of how many innings the first pitcher may have pitched, he is charged with the loss of the game if he is retired with the score against him and his team is unable thereafter either to tie or overcome the lead.

7. If pitcher retired from the game, say at the end of eight innings, with the score against him, but his team comes first to bat in the ninth and scores enough runs to win, give the win to the retiring pitcher and not to the one who pitches out the last half of the ninth. Where such a condition arises prior to the final inning, award the game to the pitcher who did the best work. If in doubt about this, give it to the man who pitched the most innings.

Champaign, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Rockford High school won the state interscholastic track and field meet today after one of the closest struggles in the history of the meet which was run off at the University of Illinois under the auspicies of the Illinois State High School Athletic association. Forty-three schools scored points. The result was in doubt until the last event was run off.

Rockford, coached by the veteran Charley Beyer, won the title with 18 points, holding a narrow margin over Proviso of Maywood, the runner up, with 16½. Glenbard of Glen Ellyn was third, with 10½ points chiefly because of the prowess of Bob Grieve, sprinter, while Tuscola, Atlanta and Centralia followed closely.

Packard Leads Victors.

Rockford's victorious squad was led by Bob Packard, sophomore sprinter, who won the 220 yard dash and placed fourth in the 100 yard dash, and Benny Behr, another of the family which has furnished star athletes at the University of Wisconsin, who placed second in the shot put after a close brush with Freeston, and was third in the discus. Don Nelson was third in the javelin. Coach Beyer's relay team landed third.

Proviso's challenge for first place was made possible when its relay team tied for first place with Oak Park and by Phil Doherty's victory on the low hurdles, and Watters' second place in the 100 yard dash and his third in the 220.

Three New Records Set.

After last year's record breaking meet when seven new track records and one field mark were established, it was not expected that many records would fall. However, three new marks were set today.

Wayne and Blaine Rideout, twins of Tuscola, went home to the Douglas county capital in possession of new records. Wayne ran the half mile in 1:59.4, which bettered the former mark of 1:59.6 set by Pierce of West Aurora last year.

Blaine Rideout won the fastest of the two sections in the mile in 4:25.2, which bettered the record of 4:25.6 made by Longman of Mount Morris last year.

Spurgeon Breaks High Jump Mark.

The third record of the day was set by Lowell Spurgeon of Centralia who cleared the bar at 6 feet 5⅛ inches. The former record of 6 feet 3⅝ inches set by Miller of Elmwood and Wiggins of Eldorado had stood since 1926.

Spurgeon, also victor in the broad jump and Jack Freeston of Atlanta who stands higher than six feet and weighs 200 pounds, were the leading point winners of the meet, each with two firsts. Freeston won the shot put and discus throw. His shot put effort, 51 feet 4 inches, was within seven inches of the record.

Halcrow and Vested, Hyde Park's pair of quarter-milers, tied for first in the recent Chicago high school district meet and each was striving. Today they ran in different sections of the event which was decided on time. It was found that their times were identical and again they shared first honors.

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY

Ward Leads Michigan to 13th Big Ten Track Title

linois at the finish, but he failed in his drive for a record. Wesley Busbee won the discus championship and Indiana's relay team, which finished third in the indoor race, won handily.

Iowa's quartet was disqualified in the relay and when the Hawkeyes were forced out, Illinois moved up to fourth place and Purdue took fifth. The Iowa anchor man was accused of shoving on the last turn. Fuqua, running last for Indiana, staggered and nearly fell, but he recovered to defeat Ohio State: Michigan's team of Ellerby, Allen, Lemen and Turner, was third.

The difficulty in the mile relay probably was occasioned by the fact that all ten conference universities competed. This can not be offered as excuse in the mile run, however. In this event, won by Hornbostel, Woolsey, fell on the last turn but recovered in time to finish fifth. Bill Howell of Michigan, came in second. Popejoy, of Purdue nosed out Bott, of Iowa, for the third place, Woolsey, indoor mile champion, redeemed himself partially by his second place in the two mile run.

Pole Vault a Tie.

The pole vault ended in a tie at 13 feet 6 inches between John Wonsowitz, Ohio State's defending champion, and Irv Seeley and Capt. Ike Lennington of Illinois. Illinois also won the shot put when Chin Kamm thew the weight 47 feet 3¾ inches. Cook, a teammate, who is the indoor champion, was second. Summaries:

SHOSTROM KEEPS STATE NET TITLE IN PREP MEET

Champaign, Ill., May 20,—[Special.]—John Shostrom of Parker High school, Chicago, retained the state interscholastic singles championship today when he defeated Bickel of Oak Park, 6-3, 6-2. C. Shostrom and Jorgenson, also of Parker, won the doubles championship, defeating Finley and Armour, Oak Park, 6-4, 6-2.

CHICAGO TIES MINNESOTA FOR BIG 10 NET TITLE

Champaign, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Davidson and Weiss of Chicago won the doubles championship and Charles Britzius of Minnesota took the singles title in the Big Ten conference tennis meet today. The Maroon pair defeated Tetting and Sink of Northwestern, 6-4, 6-1, and Britzius conquered Davidson, 6-0, 6-1.

In the doubles semi-finals Davidson and Weiss won from Paul and John Scherer of Minnesota, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, while Tetting and Sink eliminated Bailie and Siegel of Illinois, 6-2, 6-3.

Minnesota and Chicago tied for the team championships, each scoring 14 points. Illinois was third with 9½; Northwestern fourth with 7½; Michigan fifth with 5; Wisconsin sixth with 4; Purdue seventh with 2, and Ohio State eighth with 1. Indiana and Iowa failed to score.

LEWIS, STEIN MEET TUESDAY AT COLISEUM

Ed [Strangler] Lewis, who for 20 years has been one of the country's leading wrestling performers, meets Sammy Stein at the Coliseum Tuesday night.

Lewis has grown heavier with the years and now weighs 250 pounds. He comes to Chicago from a recent victory over Jumping Joe Savoldi in New York.

Stein, New York Jewish youngster, relies on speed and endurance in the two out of three falls, two hour time limit match. He recently threw Marin Plestina here. Stein has been wrestling professionally for only two years.

North Central Defeats Lake Forest Nine, 6-0

North Central defeated Lake Forest, 6 to 0, yesterday at Lake Forest. Drakeman was beaten after pitching five consecutive victories. Oesterle and Yutnis were the heavy hitters for the winners. Score:

North Central	000	000	204—6	9	0
Lake Forest	000	000	000—0	4	4

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EIGHT RACES DAILY.

EIGHT races daily is now the regular card on Chicago race tracks. This is an increase of one event from the former prevailing programs.

When the number of races was changed from six to seven several years ago we remarked, "That's fine! It gives a fellow six chances to get even after the first race instead of only five." The same theory holds good for the eight race card, if, indeed, it is sound theory.

Back in the early years of this century six races was the ordinary program, with occasionally a seventh race on some big day. "Conservative" tracks, however, rather prided themselves on adhering to the six race program on the ground it afforded enough chances for the ordinary speculator to undertake.

In Chicago there was a theory, but only a theory, of five races. That is, racing associations paid purses for five races and bookmakers prorated the cost of the sixth race purse among themselves in addition to their "cut in" fee of $100 per day.

With the advent of pari-mutuels at many points seven race programs became the rule. There were two arguments against more. One was the time necessary between each race to allow bettors to place their money. Votaries of turf chance like to "talk things over" and also obtain, if possible, some idea of the approximate odds to be paid against the various entrants in event of victory.

There was also sentiment among the so-called "conservative" tracks that extra races savored of greed. Except for the extra purse, track overhead and maintenance is the same for seven races as for eight. On the other hand, the track's "take" or percentage of the mutuel handle for the extra race far exceeds the cost of the purse. Palpably the more races each day the greater the association's return.

This first objection concerning time has been partially eliminated by quicker approximate odds reckoning and by the various machines being used to show the betting. New inventions are in the making for printing and recording the tickets as sold.

As to the greed contention, even those tracks which operate on the sportsmen's basis of "not for profit" discover it is not pleasant to operate in the red during this period of lessened volume of speculation. In their case, however, that probably is subordinate to their discovery that the public likes more action with shorter time between races. That has been proved at dog tracks, where ten events are conducted in less time than seven races at a horse track.

The Wake holds that patrons approve eight races, if conducted in the same elapsed time as seven formerly. That number should be the limit, for the present at least.

Two Exhibition Matches at Allerton Courts Today

Two exhibition matches will be played at the Allerton tennis courts, Huron and St. Clair streets, this afternoon. Jay Cohn, former national junior champion, will meet Lee Smith of the Chicago Town and Tennis club. Miss Lois Jaques and Cohn will oppose Miss Eugenia Sampson and Smith in a doubles match. Play starts at 2:30 o'clock.

STATE NORMAL WINS LITTLE 19 TRACK HONORS

Carbondale Is Second; Hutton Sets 2 Records.

Galesburg, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—State Normal university, defending champion, won the Little Nineteen conference track meet here today with 42 points. Southern Illinois Teachers of Carbondale were second with 33 1-3 points.

Lyle Hutton, State Normal junior, broke two records—the only marks which fell. He clipped four seconds off the mile record when he covered the distance in 4:20.6. In the half mile Hutton set a mark of 1:57.3, three-tenths of a second better than his own time last year. Hutton, who also ran on the winning relay team, was awarded a desk set for the best individual performance of the day.

State Normal jumped into an early lead which was never threatened. It scored first place in five events and took minor points consistently. The victory is the second for Normal in 14 years of Little Nineteen track competition.

Third place in the meet was won by North Central with 21 points. Other colleges placed as follows: Carthage, 17; Wesleyan and Monmouth, 16½ each; Macomb Teachers, 12½; Bradley, 11 5-6; Elmhurst, 10; Illinois college, 16; Shurtleff, 9; Eurka, 7; Wheaton, 4; Knox, 4½; De Kalb Teachers, 3, and Augustana, 3.

NEBRASKA WINS BIG SIX

Lincoln, Neb., May 20.—(AP)—University of Nebraska athletes retained the Big Six track and field championship today by scoring 70 1-3 points. The University of Kansas Jayhawkers won 10 events and compiled 60 1-6 points for second place. They won all except one of the track events and took first place in two field events, but failed to match the point total of the Huskers, who placed 17 men in the field events.

Kansas State had 31; Oklahoma, 30¼; Iowa State, 22, and Missouri, 9¼.

Two conference records fell and another mark was better than the record but was not allowed because of a favorable wind when it was made in the preliminaries yesterday. Bill Newblock of Oklahoma put the high jump record up to 6 feet 3¾ inches, one-eighth inch better than the old mark. Don Gray of Nebraska won the broad jump but his mark of yesterday's leap of 24 feet 7¾ inches, better than the record but disallowed.

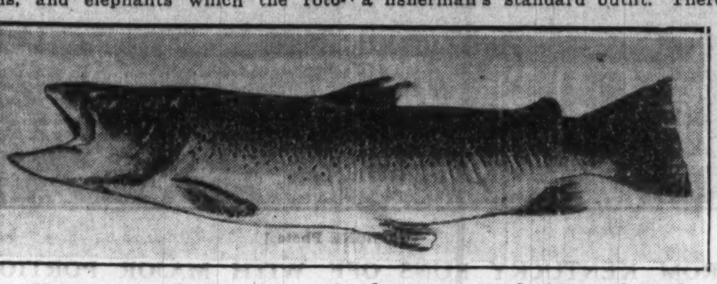
The star of the meet was Glenn Cunningham, whose legs carried him to three first places, individual scoring honors, and a Big Six record of 1:52.2 in the 880 yard run. He held the former record of 1:53.5.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Westbrook Pegler

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—In view of the difficulties which surround the fundamentally simple business of snatching a fish out of the water, it seems strange there are so few fish left to catch. They have the protection of the law and of many other conditions which harass or deter their enemies, and they appear to have little else to do but grow and propagate and go swimming in the lake or creek. Yet all my attempts to establish sporting relations with them in recent years have been failures, leading me to believe that there are few, if any, fish remaining. It may be that the fish are bashful or aloof, but that is not likely. If there were as many of them as there ought to be, surely there would be a certain proportion of roughnecks among them who would not stand on ceremony. I have encountered no such fish.

Of course I do not allude to the piscine bumblebees, wildcats, percherons, and elephants which the rotogravure fishermen of the famous sportsman and adventurer type, have traffic with in the waters off the coasts of Florida and around New Zealand. These fish seem an undesirable lot. They stick you with stingers or lather you over with offensive goo, or maybe they snap at you or roll over on you and squash you. I do not see how any one would consider such fishing to be any fun whatever. Nor have I any interest in the Florida types which I am told are very democratic and have to be slapped down with a paddle or oar and compelled to take their turns on the hooks when people go fishing in the canals and lakes of the Everglades.



Here is an exclusive picture of a brown trout which once leaped out of the water, looked our angler in the eye, and went away from there, leaving no forwarding address.

Moccasins and Rattlers Are Friendly, Too.

I am informed that these fish, including even the bass, are too soft for eating purposes, and, anyway, I like a decently reticent attitude in my fish—something between this vulgar gladhanding and the utter austerity of the sardine which goes by the name of trout in New England streams. Anyway, people tell me that in the Florida canals and lakes the moccasin and the swimming rattler are just as chummy as the fish and are likely to come sliding over the gunwales, too. One thing at a time. When I go fishing I wish to fish. If I want to snake I will go snaking, although it is unlikely that I shall want to snake.

When I speak of fishing I refer to fishing within a reasonable distance of New York, where my disappointments of the last few years have occurred.

The first problem is the equipment. This comes to something. It calls for a rod, a dandy bit of jewelry called a reel, a large variety of expensive bits of feather and silk called flies, all with proper names which you are supposed to know by sight, a pair of rubber boots, and a basket called a creel in which to carry the fish which you are not going to catch. The creel, like the average golfer's brassie, is of no practical use. Nobody ever catches anything to put into a creel, but nevertheless a fisherman without a creel is out of uniform. I believe there is something in the fish and game laws which requires it.

Here's Dope on How Presidents Fish.

When Mr. Hoover was President he made a speech once in which he mentioned many of the materials which are used in the manufacture of a fisherman's standard outfit. There were bamboos from some world tour place in the Pacific, canary fuzz from the Hartz mountains, jewels from India for the reels, silk from Japan for the line, and rubber from wherever rubber comes from for the boots, making in all quite a sizable adverse trade balance for the equipment of one fisherman starting out to waste his time and his personal charm on mythical or anyway utterly undeserving fish.

Mr. Hoover fished somewhat, but I am an old Washington correspondent of five months' service and I know a thing or two about the fishing of Presidents. Of course they catch fish. They go to some private lake or pool as the guest of some big publisher or manufacturer who wants to be appointed ambassador to London or Rome where his daughters can meet the right people. It is little enough expense to the host for the purpose in mind to send down to the state hatchery and positively crowd the presidential fishing water with fish. In this congestion, naturally, the fish are looking for a way out, so they snap at the presidential lures and he goes back to the simple, crude, 30 room shack where he is roughing it for a few days feeling that he is quite a bit of a fellow with a fish. Then he orders veal cutlets for dinner.

COACH IS PRINCIPAL.

Latham, Ill., May 21.—[Special.]—William A. Hammitt, who coached at Latham High school this year, has been appointed principal. He is a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan university.

ILLINOIS BEATS MICHIGAN, 12-1; ADDS TO LEAD

Homer in Eighth Beats N. U., 8 to 5.

Champaign, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Illinois' baseball team increased its lead for the Western conference championship today by defeating Michigan, 12 to 1. The Illini, who have won eight and lost one game, close their season against Purdue here Tuesday.

Wrobke held the Wolverines to five hits while Michigan used four pitchers in an effort to halt the Illini. Both teams fielded well. Score:

Illinois	004	020	51x—12	15	1
Michigan	000	010	000—1	5	1

Batteries—Patchin, Wistert, Menefee and Meltzer, Diffley; Wrobke and Chervinko.

GOPHERS, 8; WILDCATS, 5.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 20.—(AP)—Kenneth Gay put a spectacular finishing touch to his Big Ten athletic career today by hitting a home run with two on the bases in the eighth inning and giving Minnesota an 8 to 5 victory over Northwestern. Buesch's home run after Harris' three bagger in the eighth had tied the score for the Wildcats.

It was Minnesota's sixth victory in seven games and preserved the Gophers' chance for a share or full title to the conference pennant. Score:

Northwestern	000	011	120—5	11	3
Minnesota	030	002	03x—8	12	3

Batteries—Harris and Potter; Shelso and Bruhn.

PURDUE, 11; CHICAGO, 4.

Purdue defeated Chicago yesterday on the Midway, 11 to 4. It was the last home game and eighth straight loss for Chicago. Score:

Purdue	003	100	610—11	17	4
Chicago	100	003	000—4	8	2

Batteries—Griffin, Hartman and Fehring; Baker, Langford and Offil.

IOWA, 4; WISCONSIN, 3.

Iowa City, Ia., May 20.—[Special.]—A home run by Ken Blackman in the eighth inning gave Iowa a 4 to 3 victory over Wisconsin today.

Pacetti, Wisconsin pitcher, had the edge over Charley Blackman, allowing the Iowans only six hits to Blackman's eight. Better base running and errorless ball enabled Iowa to win. Score:

Wisconsin	200	000	010—3	8	3
Iowa	200	00	011—4	6	0

Batteries—Pacetti and Smilgoff; C. Blackman and K. Blackman.

NOTRE DAME, 12; OHIO STATE, 4.

South Bend, Ind., May 20.—(AP)—Notre Dame pounded two pitchers for 16 hits to defeat Ohio State university, 12 to 4, here today. Score:

Ohio State	011	100	100—4	11	5
Notre Dame	200	244	00*—12	16	2

Batteries—Blue, Ulrich and Sharpe; Sagartz, Huisking and O'Neill, Underkofler.

INDIANA, 9; WABASH, 4.

Crawfordsville, Ind., May 20.—[Special]—Indiana university defeated Wabash college this afternoon, 9 to 4, in the first of a two game series. Indiana drove Peterson, Wabash pitcher, off the mound in the first inning. The two teams meet at Bloomington in their second game Monday afternoon.

GOLF STUDENTS! BELL RINGS FOR YOU TOMORROW

12,000 Latest Count in Tribune School.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Classes in THE TRIBUNE Golf school, sponsored by the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, will be called at all 27 member courses of the association tomorrow night. The time will be 7 o'clock at the four inner courses—Mid-City, Evergreen, Harlem, and Big Oaks—and 7:30 at the 23 outlying courses. The school will continue for six weeks, with the home professional at each course and his assistants giving free lessons on the fundamentals of the game.

Entries for the four inner courses, which will handle the bulk of the classes, closed Friday, and no further entries on the other 23 courses will be accepted unless postmarked before midnight tonight. All pupils are requested to bring a driver tomorrow night. The sessions will be devoted to an explanation of the purposes of the school. The lessons proper will start at the same hours Tuesday night, when the first men's class will be held. The first women's class will be held on Wednesday night; the first girls' class on Thursday, and the first boys' class on Friday night.

Special Sunday Classes.

Special classes for those unable to take lessons on week-days will be held at the 23 outlying courses on Sunday afternoons, starting next Sunday. At these men and boys will be taught in a combined class at 4 o'clock, and women and girls at 4:45 o'clock. The boys' and girls' classes will be restricted to those less than 18 years of age.

If you don't own a club or set of clubs, borrow one. It will be necessary to bring only one club for each lesson. The order of clubs to be used will be outlined at tomorrow night's demonstration. The school is absolutely free, with no greens or entrance fee of any kind attached.

12,000 and Still Coming!

THE TRIBUNE Golf school is the largest of its kind ever attempted, no other of a similar type approaching it in the matter of enrollment. The enthusiasm with which the idea was greeted by golfers and would-be golfers was manifested on the first day after the announcement, more than 2,000 entering. Since that time the entry list has swelled to such a point that nearly 12,000 had entered up to last night.

All who have filed their entries with THE TRIBUNE are requested to appear tomorrow night, since the demonstration at that time will be the foundation of the entire school. In view of the fact that there will huge classes at many of the courses, every student is asked to give the home professional every coöperation possible to eliminate confusion and get the school under way properly.

108 Prize Students.

Following the explanation of the course tomorrow night, six lessons will be given at weekly intervals. At the conclusion of the sixth lesson the professional at each course will choose his best pupil in each class—man, woman, boy and girl. This will leave the school with 108 prize students, who will meet on July 5 in a form competition, to be judged by a jury composed of five of golf's leading players and teachers—Tommy Armour of Medinah, Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Jock Hutchison of Glen View, Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, and Bob MacDonald.

These same 108 pupils will be given an opportunity to demonstrate what they learned in their six lessons in an 18 hole medal play tournament on July 8 at a course to be named later. THE TRIBUNE will present the eight finalists with prizes—four trophies to the winners of the form contest and a bag and a set of clubs to each of the four winners of the 18 hole tournament. The eight finalists will receive from the Daily Fee association a playing membership good for the balance of 1933 at all of the 27 member courses of the association. Winners of second and third places in the finals will be presented with a dozen golf balls, and each of the 108 who enter the finals will receive a playing membership for the remainder of the season at the course at which they took their original six lessons.

Here Are Professionals.

The professionals who will give the lessons during the school follows:

TEACHERS IN GREATEST GOLF SCHOOL

BIG 10 GOLFERS WONDER HOW TO STOP MICHIGAN

"Stop Michigan!" will be the slogan at the Big Ten golf tournament to be held at the Kildeer Country club Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Wolverines, led by Johnny Fischer, present western conference titleholder and low qualifier in the national amateur tournament last summent, seems almost certain to repeat last year's victory. Michigan has won all of its dual meets this spring.

Fischer won the conference championship last year at Minnesota when he shot four rounds of 71—81—75—76 for a 72 hole score of 303. After the Big Ten meet he went on to win the national intercollegiate title. He flashed all of his old time brilliance this spring when he shot a 34—37—71 over the Kildeer course in a dual meet with Northwestern.

Minnesota Is Strong.

In addition to Fischer, Michigan has two other fine golfers to Capt. Jolly and Ed Dayton, both members of last year's team. Clarence Markham probably will be the fourth member of the quartet.

Minnesota appears the most serious rival of Michigan. The Gophers wound up in second place a year ago, mainly through the fine golf shot by Edgar Balstad and Earl Larson. Both these boys will be back again. Two newcomers, Cy Anderson and Bill Bontell, will strengthen Minnesota's chances.

Remaining teams do not figure to give the favorites much of a battle. Northwestern's new men, Reid, Brown, and Flynn, hace shot some fine golf this spring, but have not been tried in conference medal play.

Illinois Team Green.

Illinois also has a green team, all four members being sophomores. Indiana may prove to be the dark horse of the tournament as it has two excellent shots in Charles Harrell and Francis Cox. The other two members of the Hoosier squad are Henry Kenny and William Snyder.

Ed Mauerman, who recently shot a 71 over the tough No. 4 course at Olympia Fields, will be Chicago's best bet for individual scoring honors. Baker, Smith, and Howe complete the contingent.

Wisconsin possesses a team that is capable of finishing up among the leaders if the boys are "on" their game. The Badgers have entered Stegeman, Ruskin, Studholme, and Michael. They played over Kildeer early in the spring and should be familiar with the layout.

District Golf Association Postpones Handicap Event

Chairman A. W. Hale of the tournament committee of the Chicago District Golf association announced yesterday that the first one day handicap event of the association, scheduled for Wednesday at the Glen View club, has been postponed, since the overflow of the north branch of the Chicago river made it impossible to get the second nine holes of the course in shape. A new date will be announced later.

A Century of Progress Golf Registration bureau, sponsored by the C. D. G. A. and other governing golf bodies in the Chicago area, will open its doors officially tomorrow afternoon in suite 1534 of the Lytton building.

The bureau, headed by Stephen A. Ladd, has assumed the task of extending a personal greeting to every golfer coming to the city during A Century of Progress exposition, and throwing open to the World's Fair visitors the facilities and privileges of every possible course in the area. Complete information will be available at the bureau on each of the 220 courses in the district.

City and state officials, many prominent professionals and others interested in golf will participate in the opening.

The Navajo Fields Golf club, located at 123d street and Ridgeland road, is looking forward to its sixth successful year. Memberships are being offered at a special rate, with dues of $100. The dues rate has been the same since the club was founded, and there have never been any assessments. The course wintered exceptionally well, and is in excellent condition, despite the recent heavy rains. Ed Newkirk, secretary of the Illinois P. G. A., is the club professional.

The officers of the club, all of whom have been reëlected this season on the basis of their five year record, are: Christian Krueger, president; P. T. Klenk, vice president; E. C. Maroney, secretary, and L. I. McCord, treasurer. The board of governors consists of G. J. Landgraf, L. V. Weber, C. L. Orr, P. T. Klenk, Christian Krueger, Arthur Forsell, L. I. McCord, James Hackett, E. C. Maroney, Roy Massen and Dr. L. T. Rowland.

A preview of the national open tournament, to be held June 8, 9 and 10 at the North Shore Golf club, is in prospect at the site of the open tomorrow, when a number of leading favorites for the championship are expected to test the course. Among them are Olin Dutra, national P. G. A. champion who arrived here from California last night; Walter Hagen and Leo Diegel, expected to arrive tonight; Tommy Armour of Medinah, Harry Cooper of Glen Oak; Wally Chamberlain; Harry Hampton of Beverly, and George Dawson, Glen Oak amateur who won the qualifying medal in the Chicago district trials last Monday.

Chicago's two leading intraclub organizations, the Northwest Golf league and the North Shore Golf league, will get their 1933 tournament season under way this week. The former will meet at Edgewater on Thursday, while the North Shore league will begin its play at Evanston on Wednesday.

More than 400 played over the four courses at Olympian Fields yesterday. L. E. Carey finished 7 down to win the match play against par event on No. 1 course. On the same links W. F. Russell defeated W. I. Buhl, 5 and 4, and C. H. Smith triumphed over B. E. Dunnagan, 1 up, in the first round for the house committee trophy. Three tied for the blind bogey prize in a ladies' tournament on the No. 3 course. They are Mrs. O. B. Hornbeck, Mrs. J. R. Banosh, and Mrs. Evan Rees. Each shot a 98. In an 18 hole event J. P. McFadden took first prize with 96-15—81, while W. E. Crocombe was second with 99-11—88. Dr. Patrick A. Sullivan, playing with Jack Lamber on the No. 4 course, scored an ace on the 144 yard 16th hole.

F. A. Brown scored 89-17—72 to lead the field in the qualifying round for the Inauguration cup at Evanston yesterday. Other scores: R. Y. Sanders, 84-9—75; J. M. Kraftheser, 88-13—75; R. D. Cameron, 82-6—76; H. S. Camp, 88-12—76; D. F. Murray, 83-6—77.

Donald H. Smith, with a score of 104—14—90, won the blind bogey at Calumet. J. H. Bour was second with 82 plus 10—92. J. F. Lane and I. S. Hopkins each shot a 75 to tie for the Garvey trophy.

Shooting 96-18—78, A. W. Manks won low net in the Buena Park Presbyterian Men's club tournament at Sky Harbor. M. M. Tortom Jr. was second with 112-26—86, and J. F. Boyd third with 114-21—93.

MOTORCYCLES TO RACE UPHILL AT CARY TODAY

The first of a series of motorcycle hill climbs for the national championship will be run off this afternoon at Cary, Ill., under the sponsorship of the Windy City Motorcycle club. A field of star riders recruited from all parts of the country will compete.

Among Chicago's representatives will be Syl Polacek, Frank Lilgequist, and Andy Koslow. Milwaukee will send Stan McClintock, Herb Reiber, and Al Hendricks. Other contestants will include Joe Petrali, Los Angeles; Don Smith, Port Arthur, Tex., and Ovie Steel, Bateeson, N. J.

VINES, ALLISON WIN; U. S. SWEEPS DAVIS CUP SERIES

MONTREAL, Que., May 20.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines Jr. and Wilmer Allison won the final two Davis cup singles matches with Canada today, giving the United States a clean sweep of the five matches without the loss of a set.

After Allison had defeated Gilbert Nunns, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4, Vines took the court against Dr. Jack Wright and won, 7-5, 6-3, 7-5.

The United States will meet Argentina at Washington, D.C., next Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the American zone final.

ITALY DEFEATS AUSTRIA.

GENOA, Italy, May 20.—(AP)—Italy today took a 2 to 1 lead over Austria in their second round series of Davis cup matches. Augusto Rado and Taroni defeated H. W. Artens and Franz Matejka, 6-3, 4-6, 4-6, 6-2, 7-5.

JAPAN BEATS IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Ireland, May 20.—(AP)—Japan today won the last two singles matches of its Davis cup series with Ireland to make a clean sweep. Jiro Satoh defeated G. Lyttleton Rogers, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, and R. Nunoi, who succeeded Satoh as Japanese champion, defeated E. A. McGuire, 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

GERMANY WINS.

BERLIN, May 20.—(AP)—Germany today eliminated Holland in a second round match of Davis cup competition in the European zone.

REAFFIRM BAN ON POST SEASON GAMES IN BIG 10

Iowa Player Reinstated at Faculty Meeting.

The Western conference, through its faculty athletic committee, yesterday went on record as favoring strict enforcement of its present rule against post season football games. This decision is the conference's answer as to whether a Big Ten team may participate in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena on New Year's day.

For the last three years a Big Ten team has been favored for this east-west contest, but each year has been forced to turn down the invitation because of the existing conference rule.

Michigan Loses Chance.

Last fall Michigan was desired by those in charge of the game, and it was commonly believed at the time that the conference was ready to waive its rule. However, action was delayed too long for the Rose Bowl committee to wait, and Pittsburgh was selected.

At the meeting of Western conference athletic directors and faculty representatives last December the sentiment seemed to be that the faculty group would rescind the rule at the spring meeting.

However, at yesterday's session, held in connection with the conference track meet, the faculty turned thumbs down on any revocation of the present legislation. The decision came as a blow to a number of the athletic directors, since participation in the Pasadena game would mean an additional $100,000 in their athletic coffers.

However, the committee did act favorably on requests by Chicago and Northwestern to play some of their games at Soldiers' field next fall. Northwestern's opponents at Soldiers' field will be Stanford and Iowa, while Chicago plans to transfer the Purdue game there.

Iowa Star Reinstated.

Announcement was also made that Ivan Blackmer, Iowa basketball star, had been reinstated in good standing in the conference. Blackmer and a teammate, Edward Break, were declared ineligible at the start of the basketball season last winter because they had played on a town team in Cedar Rapids in violation of a conference rule.

Blackmer's case was the only one brought before the conference by Iowa. He had played on the Cedar Rapids team after he had withdrawn from school a year ago. On his return to school last fall he was declared ineligible.

Prof. H. W. Updegraff of the law department of the University of Iowa, represented the Hawkeye institution at yesterday's meeting, having replaced Prof. C. C. Williams, who recently resigned the chairmanship of the athletic board.

DE PAUL GOLF TEAM DEFEATS PURPLE, 330-331

De Paul university's golf team defeated Northwestern, 330 to 331, in a medal play match at the Kildeer country club yesterday. Each team consisted of four players and their medal scores were totaled.

Northwestern played without the services of Hal Reid, No. 1 player, who was called to his home in Dubuque, Ia., due to illness in his family. A strong wind and a course made slow by recent rains combined to boost the scores.

Thomas of De Paul, turned in 40—39—79 for the best score of the day. Bob Brown led Northwestern with a card of 41—39—80. Summary:

DE PAUL—Thomas 40—39—79; McKay, 40—43—83; Carney, 39—45—84; McInerney, 39—45—84—330.

NORTHWESTERN — Flynn, 41—41—82; Brown, 41—39—80; McDonald, 41—43—84; Huston, 43—42—85—331.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt Sees Son Stroke Crew to Victory

Groton, Mass., May 20.—(AP)—The first lady of the land today saw a Groton crew captained and stroked by her third son, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., win by two lengths against Belmont Hill school on the Nashua river, near the school which her husband and all her sons have attended.

Mrs. Roosevelt saw the race from the Groton school launch, which was operated by young Cornelius Roosevelt, son of her cousin, Theodore Roosevelt Jr. As the shells swung round the bend toward the finish, she stood up in the stern with her eldest son, James, a former member of a Groton crew.

Then, in the launch, she rode back to the float and, alone, walked up the steep and dusty road through the woods to the school baseball diamond where she saw the end of a game between Groton and Belmont Hill.

Several surprised parents, driving up from the boat house with their boys, offered her lifts, but she smilingly refused.

"It was a nice victory," she said of the race, "and Jimmy thought Franklin Jr. did pretty well, but he hopes they'll show more speed at the finish in their next race."

Vaughn and Alexander to Pitch Today

Games Today

Duffy Florals vs. Chicago Firemen, at Shewbridge field [2].

Colored All Stars vs. Logan Squares, at Logan square [2].

Spencer Coals vs. Aurora, at Aurora [2].

Mills vs. House of David, at Mills stadium [2].

Semi-pro fans will be entertained with double headers today at all of the Chicago parks, three of them staging regular championship games of the Wisconsin-Illinois league while exhibition games will be played at the other. Among this afternoon's pitchers will be Jim Vaughn and Grover Alexander.

Of the league games, the attraction at Logan Square park will be the Colored All Stars against John Callahan's Logans. Vaughn, veteran National leaguer, will pitch one of the games for the home team with Malcolm Moss slated to work the other.

The Chicago Firemen, who have displayed great attacking power in their games this spring, will take on the Duffy Florals in a pair of contests at Shewbridge field. The Spencer Coals, the new traveling team of the league and former Midwest league champions, will meet Doug McWeeney's Aurora team in a double header at Fans' park in Aurora.

At Mills stadium, the Mills have booked the House of David outfit from Benton Harbor for two games. Grover Alexander, who has been with the Cubs, Phillies, and Cardinals, will pitch one of the games with Paul Hartnett, young brother of Gabby of the Cubs, as catcher.

NOTRE DAME GOLF TEAM DEFEATS CHICAGO, 17½-½

Notre Dame, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—Notre Dame concluded its third undefeated golf season in four years, defeating Chicago, 17½ to ½, today. Notre Dame scored 90½ points to 17½ in defeating Loyola, Purdue, Michigan State, Northwestern, Illinois, and Chicago. It has lost only two dual matches in four years. Summary:

DOUBLES.

Banks and Montedonico defeated Mauerman and Howe, 2½ to ½. Fehlig and Veenemen defeated Baker and Schmidt, 3 to 0.

SINGLES.

Montedonico defeated Howe, 3 to 0. Banks defeated Mauerman, 3 to 0. Cole defeated Baker, 3 to 0. Martin defeated Schmidt, 3 to 0.

CUMMINGS DOES 118.52 M. P. H. IN SPEEDWAY TRIAL

Indianapolis Pilot Breaks Track Record.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 20.—(AP)—Wild Bill Cummings, Indianapolis automobile race driver, lived up to his nickname today when he topped a field of qualifiers for the 500 mile classic to be run May 30 with the sensational sped of 118.521 miles an hour.

It was the fastest 25 mile run ever made on the 2½ mile Indianapolis motor speedway, and bettered that made earlier in the day by Frank Brisko of Milwaukee by only .63 of a second.

Cummings piloted a rear drive straight 8, owned by Emmett and Mike Boyle of Chicago.

The performance, however, was overshadowed earlier in the day by the same driver, in an incomplete qualifying trial when he averaged 120.367 miles an hour for 17½ miles. A weakened right rear tire forced him to stop.

Whether Cummings' speed will be sufficient to gain him the pole position cannot be determined until sundown tomorrow night. The officials decided today to continue the competition for the front row through tomorrow because of the time taken to qualify during the 25 mile runs.

Two former winners of the race—Louie Meyer, of Huntington Park, Cal., and L. L. Corum of Indianapolis—were among those to qualify today. Meyer put his car over the bricks at a 116.977 miles an hour, while Corum was content with 110.465 miles an hour.

Stars of Auto Racing Clash at Roby Today

Automobile racing comes back to Chicago today when the first A. A. A. meet of the season is held at the Roby speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis avenue. The first event will be at 3 o'clock.

Three noted pilots head the field of 30 drivers who will take part. Wild Bill Cummings, Ira Hall, and Howdy Wilcox are the star performers. All will compete in the 500 mile race at Indianapolis Memorial day. Cummings was forced out with motor trouble while leading at the 380 mile mark last year. Wilcox and Hall wound up in second and seventh places, respectively.

This trio will hook up in a series of match races today, the features of the six events to be contested. Each will be driving his favorite racer. The distances will be 2, 3, and 5 miles.

Two dirt track performers of note who will compete are Babe Staaps of California, and Shorty Cantlon of Detroit. Driving Miller straight 8's, both will compete in the three other events programmed, two races at 10 miles each and a windup at 50 miles.

Today's auto races at the new Evanston Motor speedway have been declared off. The third consecutive postponement was on order from officials of the Western Stock Car Racing association, who ruled that the west turn was still unsafe for racing. The events will be held next Sunday.

SWEEPRUSH IS VICTOR IN $5,000 ILLINOIS DERBY

Fair Rochester Is Second, Col. Hatfield Third.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Sweeprush, a selling plater up from Kentucky, won the $5,000 Illinois Derby before 12,000 spectators admitted free of charge at Aurora yesterday.

Driving desperately—more desperately than any plater ever did—Sweeprush won by a head from the fast finishing Fair Rochester. Four lengths back came the Louisiana Derby winner, Col. Hatfield, in third place. Justice B. was fourth. These were the only starters in a race in which it was expected a dozen or more might go to the post.

Fair Rochester's noble but losing fight in the last strides was the only thing that saved the Derby from being a complete disappointment. Early in the afternoon Charley O., the favorite, and Trace Call had been scratched because of the most difficult track conditions.

Track Is Bad.

The finish, with Jockey Charley Allen on Fair Rochester timing his rally just a fraction of a second late, was one the guest customers will long remember, and they displayed as much appreciation as any Derby crowd ever did.

The time over the track, ankle deep in mud and so stiff it seemed the frail legs of the thoroughbreds might break off, was 2:05 for the mile and an eighth. This was 13 seconds off the track record. Private clockers said the actual time was much slower.

With Col. Hatfield ruling as the favorite and Fair Rochester as a red hot second choice, it was surprising that Sweeprush mustered so many backers. Yet the Kentucky crowd backed him confidently and he paid only $10.06 to win and $3.94 to place. No show mutuels were sold. Fair Rochester paid $2.92 to place.

Each Horse Collects.

The Derby had a gross value of $5,205 and Sweeprush's share was $3,455. Fair Rochester got $1,000 for finishing second, Col. Hatfield's show money amounted to $500 and there was an additional $250 for Justice B for sticking around all afternoon.

Col. Hatfield was first after a good start, with Sweeprush and Fair Rochester right at his heels rounding the club house bend. It was evident by this time that Justice B was outclassed.

Col. Hatfield seemed to have the race at his mercy going down the back stretch, for he pulled out into a lead of four lengths. Fair Rochester started moving forward on the last turn and Sweeprush went with him.

Sweeprush Is Lucky.

The Kentucky plater showed much more speed than Fair Rochester, yet the field was well down the stretch and within a sixteenth of a mile of the finish before Col. Hatfield permitted the hard running Sweeprush to pass him. Soon after Sweeprush took the lead Fair Rochester passed up Col. Hatfield and precipitated the thrilling finish. There was no question but that Fair Rochester would have beaten Sweeprush in two more strides.

Sweeprush is bred to run in just such going. He is a son of Sweep-Rushing Water, with mud running lines on both sides of the house.

His owner, J. T. Looney, gained fame by mixing a soup in Kentucky which became to be known as burgoo and as a result of the renown of the soup, Col. Edward R. Bradley named one of his Derby winners Burgoo King as a testimonial to Looney.

KING O'CONNOR SCORES.

TORONTO, Ont., May 20.—(AP)—King O'Connor, 4 year old gelding from the Seagram stable, today won the $7,500 King's Plate at Woodbine Park with Harry Hatch's Easter Hatter second and R. E. Webster's Syngo third.

Before a capacity crowd of 20,000, which included the governor general of the dominion, King O'Connor, the favorite, finished three lengths in front at the end of the mile and one furlong after leading all the way.

The time was 1:56 3-5 on a track made spongy by showers.

BARN SWALLOW WINS.

Louisville, Ky., May 20.—(AP)—Col. E. R. Bradley today added the Kentucky Oaks to his string of turf triumphs, when his speedy filly, Barn Swallow, won.

It was the first time the master of Idle Hour farm had won the Oaks, a $5,000 added stake race, as old as the Derby itself, but Barn Swallow's victory made him the first owner to win the two events in one season. Brokers Tip two weeks ago made him the first turfman to win four Kentucky Derbies.

Barn Swallow was an odds-on favorite to win the Oaks, feature of the closing day of the Churchill Downs spring meet. Shandon farm's At Top finished three lengths behind Bradley's filly, and Sam Furst's Bright Bubble ran third, a head back of At Top. The pair pushed Barn Swallow enough to cause her to cover the mile and an eighth in 1:51 1-5. It was the second fastest time ever made in the Oaks.

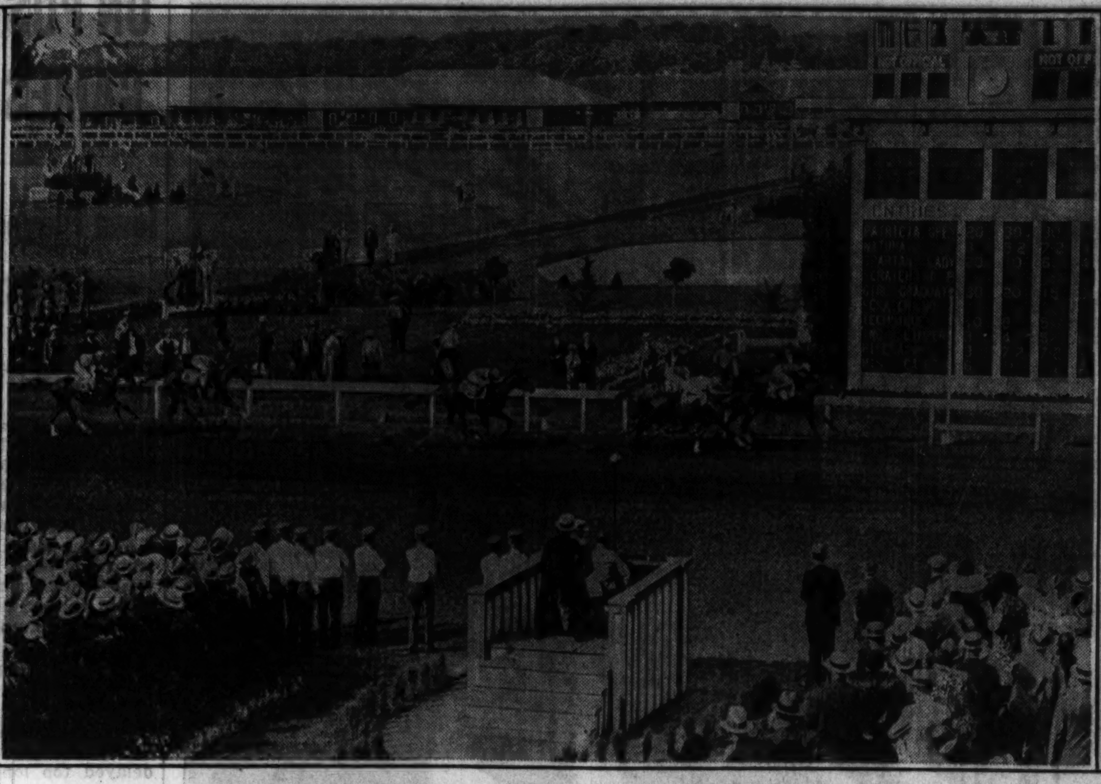
ANOTHER WORLD'S FAIR MEETING AT WASHINGTON PARK

He'll be here for the American Derby. Head Play, brilliant winner of the Preakness, will start in $25,000 race at Washington Park June 3. [Associated Press Photo.]



Chicago's metropolitan racing season opens tomorrow at Washington Park, Homewood. Here is a photo of the field finishing a race at last year's meeting at the popular course operated by Col. Matt Winn and the American Turf association. An Inaugural handicap will feature the first day's card. Noted sprinters are among the entries. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Yes, sir, when Washington Park opens Jockey Bill Fronk will be right there, trying to prolong victory streak started at Sportsman's Park. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Open World's Fair Racing at Washington Park Tomorrow

Planned to attract and entertain many of the visitors from all over the world who will be in the city for A Century of Progress, Chicago's Metropolitan racing season opens at the Washington Park course tomorrow afternoon.

There will follow, one after another, elaborate meetings at Lincoln Fields, Arlington Park and Hawthorne, each one bringing with it the renewals of some of the most famous stake races decided each year in America.

The first of these stakes will be the American Derby, the tenth running of which took place at the last World's Fair in Chicago 40 years ago. It will be renewed at Washington Park on June 3 with all the great 3 year olds in the country competing for the $25,000 prize.

Revive Other Noted Races.

Later on in the summer will come the revivals at the different tracks of such noted races as the Arlington Classic, Arlington Futurity, Lassie Stakes, Hawthorne Gold Cup, Illinois Oaks and others which give to Chicago, in a year of general turf retrenchments, the most pretentious racing program of any city in America.

These races promise to bring every great horse in the country to perform before the turf-minded World's Fair visitors at some time or another during the summer and autumn months. There will be a sprinkling of foreign stars here also seeking the rich prizes. Among them will be Ammon Ra, the Australian champion, which begins an American campaign here in August.

Arlington Has Totalizer.

Other features of the season will be the introduction of betting through the totalizer machine during Arlington Park's July meeting, a system of wagering which has been proclaimed as very successful at the great racing centers in England, France, and Australia.

In charge of the first of the World's Fair meetings, opening at Washington Park tomorrow and continuing over a period of three weeks, will be Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association. It was this racing impresario who conceived the possibilities and who later made the Kentucky Derby one of the most talked about horse races run anywhere in the world.

Remember 1893 Race?

With horses from the Atlantic coast, from the far west, from Canada and from all over the south already quartered at Washington Park, Col. Winn hopes to make the new season just as notable as was the season at old Washington Park during the World's Fair of 1893. If he does he will have accomplished quite some job, for the World's Fair season of 1893 still lives in the memory of our dads and our granddads as the peak of everything in American racing.

The American Derby of that year still is the most talked about horse race ever run in the United States. It was the Derby won by Boundless, whose jockey, Snapper Garrison, caused a delay at the post of an hour and forty minutes. Garrison tore up the check given him as a riding fee because he didn't think the figures on the check were large enough.

The duke of Beaufort's Strathrose, sent here from England for that particular race, after the long post delay was left flat-footed when the start finally came. His English jockey—a lad named Manser—unable to determine just what had happened, shouted up to Starter Pettingill, "I say, old topper, is it a bloomin' go?" Just about that time Garrison and Boundless had the race sewed up in a bag.

There are 84 nominations for this new World's Fair Derby of June 3. They include the pick of the 3 year old division. Several of them are foreign bred, but there will be no foreign owner represented in the race.

The feature offering for tomorrow's opening will be the Washington Handicap for 3 year olds and upward over the six furlong course. The sprint will bring out the best of the older division of handicap horses as well as several of the star 3 year olds of the year.

Fourteen were entered overnight, Mr. Sponge, the top weight, owned by C. Leroy King, probably will rule choice. Mr. Sponge has not raced since his record smashing triumphs at Tropical Park last March. He is said to be in fine condition.

Three Fillies in Race.

Three fillies were named for this event, including Advising Anna, Sobieh, and Mormitina. Advising Anna has never suffered defeat in her four starts.

Isaiah and Cathop, two of the stars from Churchill Downs, are among the sure starters. Isaiah will have a strong following on account of his superb form. Big Brand, owned by T. H. McCaffrey and trained by "Doc" Brandt, will also have support. Gold Step, which won the same event last year, will be coupled with Playing On as the Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks entry. The Shandon Farm stable also named two in Minton and Evergold.

MARTIE FLYNN IS VICTOR IN CICERO CLOSING FEATURE

BY HOWARD BARRY.

An old favorite of Chicago race fans went galloping to victory in the Au Revoir handicap, a dash of seven furlongs, which headed the get-away day program yesterday at Sportsman's Park. Martie Flynn, carrying the familiar maroon and khaki colors of Stuyvesant Peabody, swept across the finish line a length and a half ahead of Sobieha, while Espinaca ran third.

The crowd of 15,000 which packed the stands and clubhouse to capacity put most of its confidence in Espinaca and the McCuan entry of Flag Bearer and Sobieha, allowing Martie Flynn to go to the post at odds of nearly 4 to 1.

Martie Still a Youngster.

The fans thought that Martie Flynn was getting too far along in years to outfoot his young rivals, but the old boy fooled them. He carried his eight years lightly and ran like a youngster when Eddie Arcaro asked him for everything he had.

As the field of seven lined up at the barrier Martie Flynn stood sedately, while Making Bubbles and Flag Bearer kicked and plunged. After considerable delay the barrier was sprung and Sobieha dashed into the lead with Making Bubbles close behind. Flag Bearer, which was last to leave the starting gate, moved up fast and took the lead after going a furlong.

Going past the stands the first time the McCuan entry was running one-two, with Making Bubbles third, while Martie Flynn galloped effortlessly in fourth place. Half way down the back stretch Espinaca began moving up rapidly from last place. Meanwhile Flag Bearer and Making Bubbles tired, leaving Sobieha out in front with Martie Flynn closing fast in second position.

Draws Away in Stretch.

On the lower bend Jockey Arcaro gave Martie Flynn his head and the Peabody color bearer drew side by side with the pace setter. Into the stretch they thundered, the two leaders head and head, while Espinaca was coming up with a rush on the outside.

As they straightened out for the drive home Arcaro called upon his mount for his best speed and Martie Flynn responded with his old time class. Drawing away in long strides he held an advantage of a length and a half as they passed the winning post. Sobieha was two lengths ahead of Espinaca.

Martie Flynn Pays $9.80.

In the mutuels Martie Flynn paid $9.80 to win, $4.66 to place, and $2.76 to show. Over a track which was heavy from early morning rains he ran the seven furlongs in 1:35 3-5.

It was a heavy betting crowd which gathered at Sportsman's Park yesterday, for officials estimated that the mutuel handle reached $285,000, the largest of the meeting.

In the second event Allens, a 13 to 1 shot, galloped past the finish line three quarters of a length ahead of Reighburn, one of the favorites. Dispatcher closed fast to take third money.

A particularly fractious band of horses lined up at the starting gate for the third race, a sprint of five furlongs, and to make matters worse a locomotive came puffing along a spur track immediately behind the highly nervous thoroughbreds. R. K. Girl promptly pitched Jockey Morgan out of the saddle and Dr. Coogle began dancing on his hind legs. After Flying Finn had thrown Jockey Cox and Keaton had turned a few vicious kicks out of his system the horses came into fair alignment. But just as the barrier was sprung three or four went on another rampage simultaneously, some beating the gate and others being almost left at the post.

Brooksie Takes Lead.

In the ragged start which resulted Brooksie and Shirley B. gained an advantage. The former led the way past the stands, with Shirley B. and Dr. Coogle just a few jumps behind. Dr. Coogle dropped out of it after going wide on the clubhouse turn, but Shirley B. moved up to challenge in the back stretch and took the lead from Brooksie on the lower bend. Continuing in easy stride she won by four lengths. Brooksie was second and R. K. Girl third.

The daily double payoff on Allens, winner of the second, and Shirley B., in the third, was $194.92.

After saving ground on every turn, Young Bill, an 18 to 1 shot, came up along the rail in the stretch to win the fourth race, a sprint of seven furlongs. The favorite, Lady Menifee, finished second and Petabit third.

Winner trained by S. Rutchick. Went to post at 3:56. At post 3 minutes. Start good from machine. Won driving. Second and third same.

YOUNG BILL, under hard restraint back of leaders, found an opening on stretch turn when leaders went wide and under hard urging got up in final strides. LADY MENIFEE, well rated, back of early leaders, assumed brief command when Infinity quit and tiring, held on well. PETABIT, far back entire trip, closed a big gap.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

Johnson. Went to post at 4:27. At post ½ minute. Start good from machine. Won easily. Second and third driving.

SHOOT, restrained off fast early pace, moved up on stretch turn and racing Polly's Folly into defeat, withstood a hard stretch drive. OUT BOUND, away slowly and far back to stretch turn, moved up with a rush and under hard urging circled leaders and closed fast. SISTER MARY, away with a rush and restrained while in command, tired badly in final drive.

Winner trained by R. McGarvey. Went to post at 4:51¼. At post 6¼ minutes. Start good from machine. Won easily. Second and third driving.

MARTIE FLYNN, away forwardly and taken back off early pace, moved up on stretch turn, raced trifle wide and easily passing Sobieha, won in hand. SOBIEHA cut out a fast early pace, saved ground and holding on gamely, was no match for the winner. ESPINACA, far back early and hard held, circled the leaders on stretch turn and hard ridden, could not get up.

LOYOLA BEATS MILWAUKEE IN DUAL MEET, 67-63

Loyola university defeated the Milwaukee State Teachers in a dual track meet yesterday at the Loyola stadium, 67 1-3 to 63 2-3.

It was the first defeat for the Teachers in six years. The meet was decided by the last event on the program, the 880 yard relay. Mike Colletti, Loyola anchor man, started with a 5 yard handicap and finished 10 yards ahead of Fredrick.

Three Loyola stadium records were broken. Colletti set marks of :09.9 and :22.7 in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Carl Kelly of Milwaukee established a new mark of 10:03 in the 2 mile run.

Besides the relay event Loyola won eight first places. Milwaukee placed first in the other events. The Teachers won a slam in the pole vault while Loyola took all three places in the broad jump.

George Crank, Loyola colored athlete, was high point man with 13 1-3. He won first in the high hurdles and broad jump, second in the low hurdles and tied for third in the high jump.

Elgin Academy Victor in Triangular Track Meet

Elgin academy, scoring 92½ points, defeated Central Y. M. C. A. Day school and the Harvard school of Chicago in a triangular track meet at Elgin yesterday. The Y men scored 40½ points and Harvard 18. Coffman of Elgin led in individual scoring with 23¼ points. Anderson of the Y. was second with 15¾.

MR. KHAYYAM IS VICTOR IN WOOD; HEAD PLAY 3D

De Valera Takes Second in $5,000 Stake.

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—The claim of Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play to the 3 year old championship received a setback at Jamaica today when the Preakness winner ran third in a field of four, decisively beaten by the Catawba stable's Mr. Khayyam and H. C. Phipps' De Valera.

A crowd of 12,000, the largest of the local season, and including Mayor John P. O'Brien, saw what doubtless was the most interesting renewal of the Wood Memorial, a stake which has come into prominence only in recent years. The test is at a mile and 70 yards, shorter than the mile and a quarter of the Kentucky Derby, where Head Play was beaten by a scant nose, and also shorter than the mile and three-sixteenths of the Preakness, where he won easily.

Head Play Is Favorite.

Head play was a 1 to 3 favorite. Mr. Khayyam and De Valera were the outsiders at 8 to 1 each, and Dark Winter was held at 7 to 1. The victory carried a purse of $3,760 and the result was Mr. Khayyam's most important score since his Chesapeake stakes triumph at Havre de Grace.

Nothing can be taken from his performance, as he ran a hard race all the way, forcing the pace and finishing in 1:42 3-5, the fastest time of the meeting.

No excuse can be found for Head Play at the distance, since he has shown himself a horse of early speed. And it is hard to find an excuse in the weights. It is true that he carried 126, as against 122 for Mr. Khayyam, 117 for De Valera, and 114 for Dark Winter, which finished a distant last.

In the Kentucky Derby Head Play was ahead of Mr. Khayyam by many lengths, and in the Preakness he administered a similar drubbing to De Valera. One conclusion frequently stated today was that there was no standout 3 year old and that it would remain for the later season to develop a candidate for top honors.

Form Players Have Trouble.

For players of form the afternoon was a series of disappointments as favorite after favorite went down to defeat. The first five lost in a row. One surprising upset that appeared to be popular with the big crowd was that of Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch in the Rialto purse. Returning 6 to 1, Kerry Patch scored decisively by two lengths over George H. Bostwick's Blind Bowboy, a 2 to 7 favorite.

It was the first victory for Kerry Patch since his surprising futurity victory over Ladysman and Dynastic last fall. He ran the six furlongs of the race in 1:11 2-5, the fastest time of the meeting—time that was within two-fifths of a second of the track record.

Anglers Head North to Land Pike, Muskie

BY BOB BECKER.

With the pike and pickerel season already open in Minnesota, with Wisconsin ready to welcome muskie and pike fishermen on Thursday, and trout fishermen going north to take advantage of better angling conditions, the north woods has everything polished up and ready for the thousands of rod and line enthusiasts who will be heading for the lake and timber country during the next few weeks.

Resort and hotel owners in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota have made improvements and additions, and a large majority have announced reduced rates for the 1933 season. It's going to cost less to fish in the north woods this year.

Minnesota Laws Same.

Very few changes in the Minnesota fishing laws were made during the session of the state legislature. The season for wall-eyed pike opened on May 15 and will continue until March 1, 1934. The season on great northern pike or pickerel also opened on May 15. The daily bag limit on wall-eyes is 8 and the possession limit is 16. For great northern pike or pickerel the daily limit is 10 and the possession limit 20. The black bass season in the northern zone of Minnesota does not start until June 21.

Minnesota's great northern pike in many of the large lakes grows to muskie size. Sometimes called "snake" when it is lean and small, old Esox lucius in bog water may weigh in at 15, 20 or 25 pounds. This is especially true of those lakes in the Superior national forest and the Quetico, where the northern pike takes the place of the muskie in the scheme of fish distribution. In these wonderful fishing grounds the pike and the wall-eyes are real game fish for the bait rod caster.

Wisconsin Has Prize Winners.

Wisconsin lakes have contributed several prize winning wall-eyes to our national fishing contests, some weighing 12 to 15 pounds. Beginning Thursday the disciples of Izaak Walton can start their hunt for these big fellows in Wisconsin. Both muskies and wall-eyes become "legal" on that day. Incidentally, the muskie, which Wisconsin fishermen go after, is the same species as found in Minnesota. This is known as the plain, or Wisconsin muskie, which is found up through Minnesota into the Lake of the Woods country and northward.

Oak Park Held to 1 Hit, but Defeats Proviso, 2-1

Oak Park was held to one hit by Pitcher Chappas of Proviso in a Suburban High School league game at Maywood yesterday, but two errors enabled it to triumph, 2 to 1, in the first game of a double header. Both of Oak Park's runs were scored in the first inning. Proviso won the second game, 3 to 0. Scores:

CHICAGO AUTO DEALERS OPEN 'PROGRESS WEEK'

Start Campaign to Find Dug-In Dollars.

BY HAL FOUST.

"Let's Go, Chicago!" week, starting tomorrow by proclamation of Mayor Kelly and acclimation of civic and industrial leaders, finds the city's automobile men in the first wave going over the top after dug in dollars. The Chicago Automobile Trade association yesterday opened a "Progress Demonstration week" bombarding the intrenched depression with an aggressive sales effort.

The local activity supplements President Roosevelt's efforts to stimulate a buying wave and to increase employment and pay rolls. The car dealers are the Chicago representatives of America's largest manufacturing industry, the nation's largest consumer of raw materials, and the country's largest employer of men.

Opened with Parade.

The dealers opened their week with parades in the loop and in outlying business districts, motorcades of 1933 models with aged vehicles presented in striking contrasts. Their slogan is "Prosperity coming; prices advancing; buy now."

Throughout the week, until the opening of A Century of Progress next Saturday, the automobile agencies will be emphasizing the contrasts between the old cars that clutter the streets and highways today with the new models that are now selling at bottom prices. It's a demonstration of progress in vehicular transportation in the last few years—a century is much too long to measure time in the motor car industry; it is a child giant of this generation.

This decided development of the automobile since the 1929 boom—advances of engineering and declines of prices—has been the subject of a series of articles in THE TRIBUNE that started during the national automobile show at the first of the year.

National Temper Changing.

There was no noticeable response in the car market at that time—but general economic conditions have changed since and the "Progress Demonstration Week" holds promises of favorable results.

The temper of the country is changing. Frowns of depression are lifting and smiles of optimism are returning. The public is getting in a mood to buy.

The national automobiles sales figures, as resported from Detroit, show that the decline, consistent since 1929, has finally reached a bottom. The pendulum is now swinging upward. Last year's totals are being exceeded.

In this dearth of buying during the last three and a half years, automobile owners were continuing to operate their old cars, as shown by gasoline consumption statistics. The vehicles were being driven far beyond their maximum mileage for comfortable, reliable and safe driving.

Threaten Price Advance.

With an improvement in general economic conditions, however, slight it might be judged, every owner of a pre-depression automobile becomes a prospect for a new car sale. And this includes a vast majority of today's automobile owners.

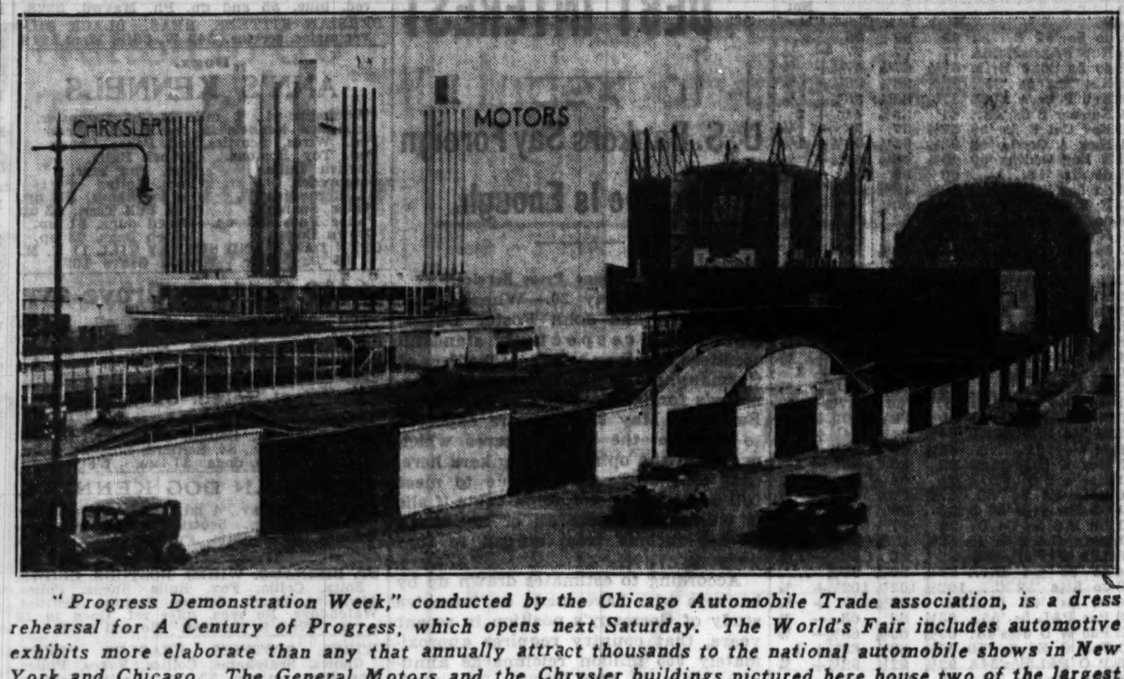
As an inducement to these prospects to buy, the dealers offer arguments even more forceful than the improvements in style, performance, and safety. The car merchants crack the whip with a threat of an imminent price advance. With the cost of raw materials going up, they say there is every likelihood of a boost to car buyers in the near future.

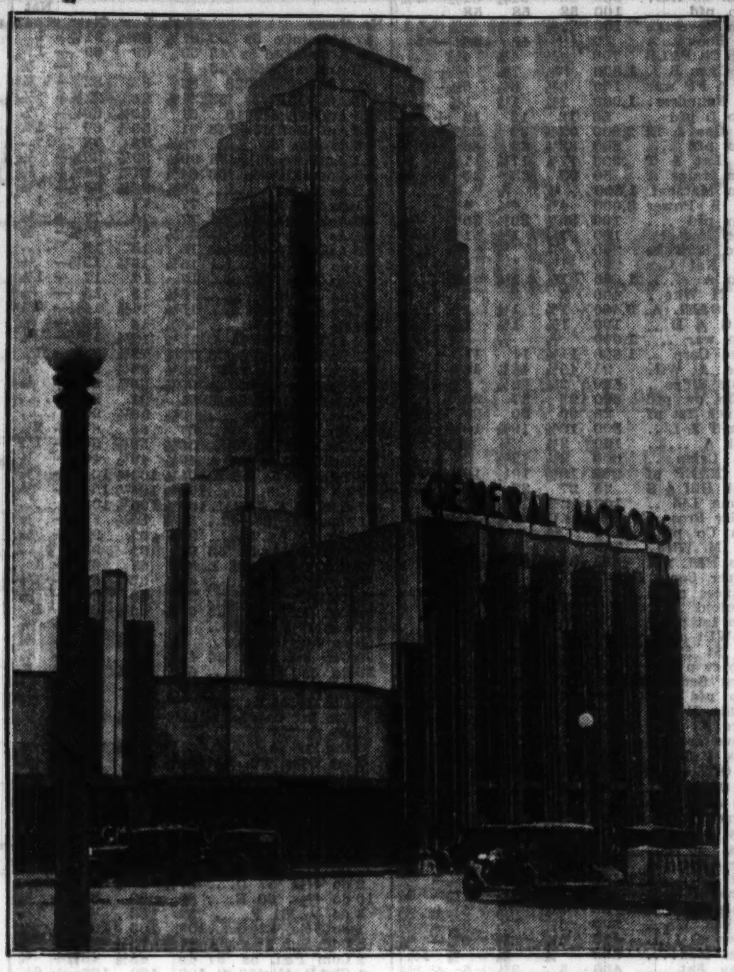
So the time is opportune for the Chicago Automobile Trade association's "Propress Demonstration" week as part of the city's "Let's Go, Chicago!" week, both on the eve of A Century of Progress.

World's Fair Visitors Offer New Car Market

The World's Fair transportation committee estimates that a million automobiles will come to Chicago this summer with visitors to A Century of Progress. Earl Butler, local distributor for Hudson-Essex, which recently introduced a new Terraplane, pointed out that these visitors are a potential sales market. Most of their cars, following the general run of vehicles on the road today, will be old machines no longer economical, reliable nor safe.

AUTO INDUSTRY'S CONTRIBUTIONS TO FAIR





"Progress Demonstration Week," conducted by the Chicago Automobile Trade association, is a dress rehearsal for A Century of Progress, which opens next Saturday. The World's Fair includes automotive exhibits more elaborate than any that annually attract thousands to the national automobile shows in New York and Chicago. The General Motors and the Chrysler buildings pictured here house two of the largest private exhibits on the Fair grounds.

MOTORISTS BUY STICKERS

"Come to the World's Fair" windshield stickers, indorsed by A Century of Progress management last week on suggestion of THE TRIBUNE, have already become a badge of honor indicating active interest in promoting the success of the Exposition.

Come to the World's Fair

Society women, business and civic executives, housewives, and artisans by the thousands have obtained these pasters for their windshields. Trucks and buses are also carrying the emblem.

If the weather is favorable today, the message of welcome to Fair visitors will be carried on Chicagoland automobiles for scores of miles over the highways that radiate from the city.

The stickers may be obtained from THE TRIBUNE Public Service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in THE Tribune Tower. The counter price is 1 cent; by mail, one for 3 cents and 2 for 5 cents. Later they will be sold at the Fair and tourist camps.

TRUCK BODY TO START CHECK OF OWN EQUIPMENT

Following a detailed report of truck law violations published in Motors-Traffic-Highways of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE two weeks ago the Central Motor Freight association yesterday announced that this organization of truck operators is inaugurating an inspection patrol of its own equipment. Warren Wright, executive secretary of the association, described the move as "cleaning up from within."

THE TRIBUNE survey found that a large number of the freight vehicles on the highway were within the legal rights necessary for the protection of the motoring public. Others were heavier than the legal maximum, heavier than the maximum load for which the pavements were designed to carry.

"We'll have two patrol cars checking on our own equipment," said Mr. Wright. "Chief Taylor of the state highway police said he welcomed this coöperation from us. Members of this association operate approximately 1,200 trucks."

DRIVERS TUNING CARS FOR RACE AT INDIANAPOLIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 20.—[Special.]—Automobiles are being tuned up for the Memorial day 500 mile race here which annually attracts the largest crowds of any American sporting event. This year general admission prices have been reduced twenty per cent and the leading hotels of the town have agreed not to boost their prices. Heretofore the hotels have required race fans to pay for two nights' rent even when occupying a room but one night.

Hand Signals Advised for Safety During World Fair

Many of the motorist visitors to the World's Fair this summer will be from states or communities where drivers use hand signals in making turns. The Chicago Motor club advises that it might be well for native Chicagoans to adopt this practice for their own safety during the heavy traffic of A Century of Progress.

STUDENT TRAVELS 40 MILES EACH DAY TO CLASSES

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—[U. P.]—By the time James Jones, Pittsburgh, completes his college course at St. Vincent's college, Latrobe, Pa., he'll be a seasoned traveler.

He travels 40 miles daily to attend the college, making the trip from his home to the school by train and automobile.

Although he has to get up at 5:30 a. m. to reach school on time he has little "night work" to do—for he does much of his studying on the train.

Kansas City, Kas., Mayor Pays $2 Parking Fine

KANSAS CITY, Kas.—[U. P.]—Don C. Combs is mayor of this city. And as such he is head of the police department. But that fact didn't mean anything to the patrolman who saw McCombs' automobile parked too long in one place. He put a ticket on the car. The mayor paid a $2 fine.

AUTO INDUSTRY TAKES LEAD IN BUSINESS UPTURN

Increasing Production to Meet Demands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—[Special.]—The automobile industry during the week just closed continued its steady upward climb, and it, with its allied interests, has definitely taken the lead in a pronounced upturn in the nation's business activities of the last few weeks.

The motor industry is surely swinging to new heights of production, but to a no greater extent than is justified by the increasing demands being made upon it for more cars. The present conditions are considerably better than at any time during the last two years, with every indication that the year's "peak" will not be reached before July—a much later date than is customary.

Few Old Cars Turned In.

Retail value of motor cars to be made during the current month and sold will probably reach $125,000,000, with a production of 200,000 cars, which will establish a new record for the last two and a half years. One of the most gratifying features of the fast expanding demand for new automobiles and trucks experienced by the manufacturers is the fact that by far the greater proportion of sales is now being made on a cash basis. But few old cars are being offered dealers as part payment for new ones. In view of the enormous inflow of cash to dealers the latter are going out after business with newly inspired enthusiasm, and in doing so are reaping large rewards.

With this substantial increase in demand and production, industries allied with the automotive industry are calling thousands of men back to work and also increasing the hours of work. Automobile manufacturers are now ordering steel far in advance of delivery dates, with a view to offsetting an impending advance in steel prices due to the government's action on currency inflation.

Price Increase Seen.

The fact that an intensive drive for business has been launched and is now in full swing is no secret. Dealers are staging roundups of prospective car buyers and are urging them to close their deals now, before prices are less attractive. The belief exists, and is gaining strength daily, that prices of automobiles are about to be increased along with other necessary commodities.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

ABRUPT COPPER.

Chicago, May 15.—It has always been my impression that the traffic policemen of Chicago [and I suppose this includes the south park system] are expected to perform their duties in a courteous and gentlemanly fashion. However, the policeman who was on duty at Michigan avenue and Monroe street at approximately 7 p. m. yesterday certainly disproved this impression. His conduct would lead one to believe that he was thoroughly tired and disgusted with his job. If that is so, surely the south park system has any number of candidates who would be glad and willing to relieve him.

My mother and I were riding south on Michigan avenue with a friend, and desiring to get over to the outer drive if possible stopped on the green light at Michigan and Monroe to make a left turn, not knowing that the outer drive is apparently closed to southbound traffic in the loop. Instead of telling us so in a decent manner this officer commanded us to move on in a most disgusting and violent fashion.

I have a brother who has been a traffic policeman for ten years and I sincerely hope that he never has or will disgrace himself or his city by displaying such unpardonable conduct as the one in question. In fact, I have often heard my brother say that no matter how congested traffic may be the policeman in charge has no business to lose his head or use profane language.

I am sure the city of Chicago desires all of its many visitors this summer to carry away a very favorable impression of this town, and the policemen can certainly do a lot to make that possible.

DISGUSTED WOMAN DRIVER.

DEATH TRAP.

Chicago, May 18.—At the crossing of Peterson and Lincoln avenues is a bridge over the canal. The bridge is two cars wide, while Peterson avenue is about eight cars wide and is a very fast street.

In the last two years I have passed this bridge about once a week and believe I have seen a very bad accident there at least once every two weeks.

The road stops abruptly with a small fence guiding you to the narrow bridge. On the fence are two small lights, which could be mistaken for a tail light of two cars on a dark, rainy night. A beam about three feet high divides the sidewalk from the street across the bridge and is pitch black, with no light or anything to warn one. I have seen cars smashed there and almost demolished.

What good are all our automobile taxes if we cannot have some protection to the lives of the payers of the highest taxes in existence? TEX.

HARD TIRES.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—I suppose the politicians will figure some way to protect their friends, the big corporations that are running hard tired trucks over the public pavements. Anything that is done to enforce the law requiring pneumatics will be appreciated by home owners paying special assessment and realty taxes on pavements, as well as by the motorists who are paying special taxes for the maintenance of traffic facilities. ★ PROGRESS DEMONSTRATION WEEK ★

A fascinating showing of new and old models being held in salesrooms throughout Chicago and suburbs.

THIS week, to emphasize to you just how much value you can get for your dollars, automobile dealers throughout Chicago and suburbs have planned a spectacular showing of the latest 1933 models. On display also are some of the earliest models. Thus you can see for yourself the progress the industry has made in giving you better value for less money.

Drop in at the showrooms most convenient for you. See the latest models. Note the improvements and the latest 1933 features in style, comfort and mechanical perfection.

Consider what your money will buy at today's prices—and then remember this fact: With commodity prices rising, it is not likely that automobile prices can long remain at current low levels. With raw material prices steadily advancing, the price of the finished product is bound to be advanced.

Your best guide to present new-car values is the Chicago Tribune. For more than 20 years this newspaper has carried more automobile advertising than any other Chicago newspaper. Check the automobile advertisements in the Tribune and then visit the dealers nearest to you who sell the cars you are interested in.

Take the family with you and go today!

RESERVE BANKS USE SMALL SUM IN DIRECT LOANS

Only $28,965,000 Put Out, Board Reports.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Emergency powers which congress gave the reserve banks last year permitting them to lend directly to individuals and to lend to member banks on other than eligible paper were used sparingly, the federal reserve board revealed for the first time today.

Only 23 individuals, partnerships, or corporations obtained direct loans from the reserve banks between July, 1932, when the direct lending power was granted, to the end of the year, the board announced. The 23 loans aggregated only $859,000, and of this sum $158,000 had been repaid before the end of the year.

Only 50 Banks Helped.

Only 50 out of the 6,000 or more member banks in the system were granted loans on other than ordinary eligible collateral, according to the board. These loans, the first of which was made in March, 1932, aggregated $28,965,000 before the end of the year. Of this sum all but $13,972,000 had been repaid before the end of the year.

The Chicago reserve bank participated in none of these emergency loans, the board disclosed. Emergency loans to banks were made only by the Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Atlanta, Dallas, and San Francisco reserve banks.

Good Credit Required.

Direct loans were made by the New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Minneapolis, and Kansas City banks. Direct loans by the reserve banks were to be made only when good credit risks could not obtain accommodations elsewhere.

The powers were conferred on the reserve banks as a part of the legislation which last year sought to ease credit and stimulate business.

I. C. SUBURBAN LINES REDUCE FARES FOR FAIR

10 Cents from Grounds to Randolph or 75th.

J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager of the Illinois Central railroad, announced yesterday that important reductions in suburban fares will be placed in effect May 27 with the opening of the World's Fair.

A flat rate of 10 cents will be put into effect between the six Fair ground stations and all stations on the main line between Randolph street and the Grand Crossing station at 75th street. Proportionate reductions will be made in fares between the Exposition stations and points south of the 10 cent zone. Children may ride for half fare. The tickets are good for one day only.

Reductions will also be made in one way fares between all electric suburban stations. The fare from Randolph street to 75th street will be cut to 15 cents on the main line. Proportionate reductions to points farther south will be made as follows: Kensington, 25 cents from 50 cents; Matteson, 50 cents from $1; Blue Island, 33 cents from 66 cents, and South Chicago, 22 cents from 44 cents. The two ride ticket will be sold for twice the new one way fare, less 10 per cent. Under this change the present 55 cents two ride ticket to Kensington will be cut to 45 cents.

Monthly riders also benefit from the reductions. A refund of 10 per cent will be granted on all 60 ride tickets having 12 or more unused rides at the end of the month. No change in the 10 and 25 ride tickets will be made. The reduction in the 60 ride charge is made to accommodate persons on short working schedule, the road announced.

COTTON DIPS SHARPLY; PRICES OFF $3.75 BALE FROM RECENT HIGHS

Cotton market was under pressure of liquidators from the start yesterday except for a small rally at the close. Net losses were 23 to 28 points at Chicago, equal to more than $1 a bale. From the high point of the recent upturn there has been a decline of $3.75.

At the close futures in New York and New Orleans were off around 25 points. Spots in the latter market declined 30 points, equal to $1.50, the price being $8.20; New York spots declined 25 cents to 8.25 cents; Galveston was 8.05 cents, and Houston 8.10 cents. New York spots are off 60 points and New Orleans 55 points as compared with a week ago. Liverpool was 2 to 5 points net lower at close.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today and, in absence of sales in nearby positions, spot prices remained unchanged at 3.27c. There was a sale of 9,000 bags of Philippines for July-August shipment to an outport refiner at 3.35c. Offerings were light and there appeared to be nothing available in nearby positions below 3.30c. Futures were firmer on covering and trade buying with final prices 2 to 5 points net higher. The spot month showed the maximum upturn on a little belated covering and, aside from liquidation through commission houses, there was little for sale, with some buying of July against sales in the later deliveries. Sales, 13,800 tons. Prices follow:

ASSERT GERMANS ARE ABLE TO PAY DEBT INTEREST

U. S. Bankers Say Foreign Income Is Enough.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 20.—When Albert H. Wiggin and John Foster Dulles, representing respectively standstill creditors and long term bondholders of Germany, reach the conference of Germany's foreign creditors to be held in Berlin on May 29, they are expected to lay on the table figures which prove, in the opinion of bankers here, that Germany can continue to meet full service on her foreign debts if she is willing to devote all or nearly all of her income from abroad to that purpose.

According to estimates drawn up by bankers who have made an intensive study of Germany's position in recent years, that country requires approximately 965 million reichsmarks annually [about $229,670,000 at par], against which her income for this year will amount to between 1 billion 50 million and 1 billion 550 million reichsmarks [about $249,900,000 to $368,900,000].

Details of Estimate.

The estimate of the annual service on Germany's indebtedness to foreigners is made up of the following items [in millions of reichsmarks]:

Interest on long term debt	475
Sinking fund on long term debt	120
Total long term service	595
Interest on standstill credits	200
Interest on other short term credits	170
Total short term service	370
Total service	965

The estimated income of Germany from abroad this year is composed of the following items [in millions of reichsmarks]:

Trade balance	400
Shipping and invisible items	300
Income from foreign investments	200
Return of capital invested abroad	150
Total income	1,050

In addition there is a doubtful item of about 500 million reichsmarks due from Russia, at least a part of which should go to swell Germany's foreign income. If all of it is included, the total income will be increased to an estimated 1 billion 550 million reichsmarks.

Schacht Seeks Loan.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 20. — The real purpose of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, in coming to London it was learned tonight, is to obtain a British loan that would prevent a default by Germany on her private debts.

Dr. Schacht is said to be seeking a loan similar to that of 10 million pounds advanced to Argentina under the provisions of the recent Anglo-Argentine trade treaty. The arrangement with Argentina enabled British investors there to obtain payment of the interest and dividends that had been owing to them but that were frozen under Argentina's exchange restrictions.

It is assumed here that Dr. Schacht is offering British investors in Germany the same kind of priority over her American and other creditors as they won in Argentina.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, May 20.—(AP)—Cotton receipts were 8,000 bales, including 1,700 American. Spot quiet; prices 5 points lower. Quotations: American strict good middling, 6.66d; good middling, 6.36d; strict middling, 6.06d; middling, 5.91d; strict low middling, 5.76d; low middling, 5.56d; strict good ordinary, 5.36d; good ordinary, 5.06d. Futures closed quiet and steady. May, 5.70d; July, 5.69d; October, 5.70d; December, 5.72d; January, 5.73d; March, 5.77d.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Cotton cloths were active today at strong prices. Rayon fabrics were in good demand among cutters and retailers. Raw silk prices were soft and trading in fabrics was slow as the trade watched developments in a strike called in Paterson, N. J., for Monday. Wool fabrics were in active demand and most mills had withdrawn prices. Burlap was selling at new high and spot offerings in this market were few.

HAY MARKET.

End of the week found 3 cars on the local team tracks; 2 of them timothy and the other, alfalfa. A fair demand continues for all grades of timothy and the top quality timothy light and the medium clover mixed, No. 1 and 2 alfalfa and all sorts of clean bright straw. On the other hand, there was no improvement in the call for clover of any grade or No. 3 alfalfa.

BANKS WIPE OUT PART OF DEBTS OF MIDDLE WEST

Cancel $7,000,000 in Compromise Pact.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago banks have released the Middle West Utilities company from obligations totaling $7,000,000 and have agreed to return to the company one-third of the securities they received as collateral for loans in the four months prior to the filing of the bankruptcy petition against the company.

In return for these concessions by the banks the protective committee representing holders of the $40,000,000 of "gold notes" have acknowledged the validity of all other pledges to banks whether they were made directly by the company or through other concerns which had borrowed the securities from Middle West.

Court to Pass on Plan.

These are the high points of the agreement which has been entered into between the banks and the note holders, it was disclosed yesterday by Charles S. Dewey, chairman of the note holders' protective committee. The plan will be submitted for approval to Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley tomorrow morning.

Settlement of the disputed claims of the banks and note holders clears the way for eventual reorganization of the company. The bankruptcy proceedings now pending against the company in the federal court will not be pressed, it was learned.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment banking house active in the distribution of Insull securities, was also made a party to the agreement. The investment firm has agreed to return to the receivers one-half of the collateral received from the company in the four months prior to filing bankruptcy papers.

Chief Features of Agreement.

Mr. Dewey summed up the essential features of the agreement as follows:

1. The banks release Middle West entirely from its assumption of liability of loans to Hill, Joiner & Co. totaling $2,907,681.

2. The banks cause Middle West to be relieved entirely from other notes totaling $4,000,625. These notes are to be canceled and returned to Middle West. Middle West is therefore relieved of obligations totaling $6,908,306. This will leave the banks with secured obligations totaling $11,735,763 after the application of moneys of Middle West on deposit on the date of receivership.

3. Middle West Utilities corporation and Middle West Securities company, two subsidiaries of Middle West, are relieved of claims against them totaling $230,000.

Interest Is Reduced.

4. Middle West secures an adjustment of interest paid to the banks and Halsey, Stuart & Co., by which the rate of future interest is reduced to 2¾ per cent with an option to the receivers to cease paying interest if the pledged collateral does not earn it. Middle West also receives from the banks a cash credit totaling $119,129 to be applied to the payment of interest in the future. [The rate was reduced last year by the banks from 5 to 4½ per cent.]

5. The banks return to the receivers of Middle West one-third of the net collateral which they received from Middle West within the four months prior to filing of the petition in bankruptcy.

6. Halsey, Stuart & Co. returns to the receivers of Middle West one-half of the pledged collateral which they received within the four month period.

Other Pledges Acknowledged.

7. The validity of all pledges to the banks and Halsey, Stuart & Co. of remaining securities is acknowledged, whether such securities were pledged for the account of Middle West or others who borrowed the securities from Middle West. The validity of the A. B. Leach & Co. and the Hill, Joiner & Co. transactions between Middle West and the banks is also acknowledged.

The agreement will become effective immediately upon approval of the terms by the federal court.

Attorney Robert Golding, counsel for the note holders, said that the A. B. Leach claim recognized by the committee amounts to about $100,000.

To avoid any further litigation between the various classes of security holders and the banks and to facilitate plans for reorganization a committee of coördination is being formed to act in an advisory capacity.

All Interests Represented.

The committee will consist of representatives of the banks and other secured creditors, note holders, and preferred and common stockholders.

Mr. Dewey and Marvin B. Pool, secretary of the note holders' committee, will represent the holders of the $40,000,000 of debentures. Abner J. Stilwell, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and Edward E. Brown, vice president of the First National bank, will represent their institutions on the committee. Frank K. Shrader of Halsey, Stuart & Co. will represent his firm.

The chairmen of the common and preferred stock holders' protective committees will also serve on the advisory board.

Relief from $7,000,000 of bank indebtedness puts the company in a fair position to reorganize, it was pointed out yesterday. The secured obligations of the company to Chicago banks total $11,735,763 after giving effect to the agreement.

Nation to Go Three Billions in 'Red' for Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—The federal government will be three billion dollars in the red on all operations before the fiscal year closes on June 30, treasury department reports indicated today.

Already the combined deficits on the ordinary budget and the special Reconstruction Finance corporation account total 2 billion 817 million dollars. The deficit on the regular budget reached 1 billion 673 million dollars on May 18 and the net operations of the R. F. C. have cost another 1 billion 144 millions.

The additional 100 million dollars which the treasury must allocate to the bonus fund and the 100 million dollars which it must have to pay its debt interest on June 15, over and above the future outlays of the R. F. C., will push the grand total over three billions within the next 40 days.

R. F. C. Outlay Boosts Deficit.

Although the deficit on the ordinary budget may be as much as a billion dollars smaller than during the last fiscal year, when it went to 2 billion 885 millions, the outlays of the R. F. C. will more than make up the difference. In the last fiscal year the corporation's special budget added only 268 millions to the ordinary budget, bringing the total deficit to 3 billion 153 million dollars. This grand total probably will be reached again this year.

The deficit on the ordinary budget already has surpassed the estimate for the full fiscal year, which does not end until June 30. The treasury said last fall that on that date the deficit on the ordinary budget would be 1 billion 645 millions. It already is almost 30 millions over this estimate.

Separate Accounts Kept.

No estimate is made of the R. F. C. account and the treasury keeps it separate on the theory that the money will come back when the loans are paid. But for the current fiscal year the money loaned represents a dispersal out of current funds for which there is no offsetting revenue.

The increased deficit on the ordinary budget is due to the failure of government tax sources rather than to heavier expenditures. Total expenditures are 940 million dollars less thus far in the fiscal year than in the same period a year ago, but in spite of all the additional taxes total revenues have increased by only 5 millions over those of a year ago.

AM. BRASS TRIES A 40 HOUR WEEK; TO RECALL MEN

New Haven, Conn., May 20.—(AP)—The American Brass company announced today through its president, John A. Coe, that a 40 hour week has been adopted in its Connecticut plants. Coe said "quite a few men" will have to be recalled because of the shortened week. In normal times the company operated on a 50 to 55 hour week.

Consider Five Day Week.

New York, May 20.—(AP)—Silk and rayon manufacturers are being canvassed on the question of a five day week of 40 hours for operatives, Ramsay Peugnet, executive head of the Silk Association of America, announced today. The association has recommended such a schedule in connection with the administration's industry regulation bill.

"Plans are already under way," said Peugnet, "to bring all units of the industry into the closest coöperation, and it is expected that, with an equitable production equation established, with a code of fair competition adopted, and with the minorities brought into line with policies which will be inaugurated for the general good, the silk industry will be stabilized and both the public and the trade will be promptly benefitted thereby."

M. WARD SHOWS A LOSS DESPITE RETAIL PROFIT

The retail store division of Montgomery Ward & Co., operated at a profit in April, the company reported yesterday in releasing its first quarter report. The profit from store operation was not sufficient, however, to overcome the loss sustained by the mail order business. The letter division has shown improvement, the company reported.

At first quarter loss of $2,196,099 was reported. This compares with a loss of $1,705,569 in the same period last year. Sales volume was off 12.5 per cent. March business was seriously curtailed by the bank holiday, which cut heavily into mail order sales but caused a comparatively small recession in retail store sales, the company announcd.

Lack of Horses Turns Farmer to Tractors

The shortage of work horses in the country, coupled with the rainy weather, is turning a good many farmers back to the tractors which they had intended to discard because of the price of gasoline this spring.

A boar weighing 1,000 pounds sold on the Chicago market this week. This brought up the question of how heavy a hog can grow. In 1928 C. Luttrell of Corning, Ark., owned a Poland China boar which weighed 1,402 pounds in show condition. It was 4 years old.

Most saddle horses weigh 1,000 to 1,200 pounds.

An instance of how railroads are often put to unnecessary expense by the interstate commerce commission is found in a situation which occurred a few years ago. The western roads spent $300,000 to figure out the short distances between all points in their territory for rate tariffs. In establishing the shortest distances between two points, railroads must make use of all connections with other lines whether there is a physical operation over the connection or not. Just when the western roads finished their work, two roads built connecting tracks with two lines in South Dakota. This action necessitated refiguring distances involving 45,000 points.

Foreign exchange experts in Chicago say that some individuals are still trying to send money out of the country in the hope of accumulating gold abroad and taking advantage in the anticipated appreciation of the price of gold.

"The government requires that we investigate any demands for foreign currency," says one banker. "If it's for legitimate purposes we are permitted to sell foreign exchange. Business men or tourists can get the money they need.

"Frequently, however, we encounter individuals who are simply trying to buy foreign exchange so that they may exchange it for gold in Holland or Switzerland for hoarding. It's mostly small stuff, though—a few thousands. The big transfers of millions have been effectively stopped."

"The tales told by some of these would-be hoarders are amusing. A fellow came in the other day and wanted to buy $50,000 Swiss francs to cover expenses of a trip to Europe. We told him he could have $5,000 and we'd send him the rest as he needed it."

INSURANCE MEN DISCUSS LOANS BETWEEN FIRMS

The question of inter-company loans was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the National Association of Mutual Insurance companies in a special meeting at the Palmer house. Membership of the association represents 1,000 fire and casualty companies throughout the county.

Harry P. Cooper, secretary of the association, said that plans for amending the laws in various states to permit strong companies to make loans to weaker companies were discussed. Such a law was recently enacted in Ohio.

COMMODITY PRICES DECLINE FROM HIGHS DURING LAST WEEK

Speculative buying of all commodities in recent weeks slowed up to a large extent during the last week. This resulted in price recessions in all agricultural products except hides, which gained fractionally, while sugar at the close on Saturday was at the same figure as the previous week. Closing prices, in cents, for the last three weeks compare as follows:

FRAUD CHARGED TO UTAH RADIO PRODUCTS HEADS

Suit for an accounting and a restraining order against four officials of the Utah Radio Products company, 812 Orleans street, was filed in the United States District court yesterday on behalf of stockholders. The petition charges the officials with conspiracy to defraud the stockholders and the mismanagement of funds for a total misappropriation of $100,000.

The petition was filed by Attorney Joseph F. Charash on behalf of W. E. Langrill, Fred Hansen, and Blanche R. Carter, all of Chicago, who hold 42,000 of the one million shares of stock. Named as defendants are J. W. Caswell of Chicago and Huntington, Ind., president; H. C. Forrester, Chicago, chairman of the board of directors, and Win Runyan and J. H. Snyder of Huntington, directors.

The petition charges that through a series of transactions, involving subsidiary companies owned or controlled by the defendants, common stockholders have been defrauded.

N. Y. EXCHANGE GIVEN STEWART WARNER DATA

Oscar U. Zerk, who is seeking to oust the present management of Stewart-Warner corporation, announced yesterday that he has turned over to the New York Stock exchange at its request all the material he has gathered in connection with his campaign for proxies.

The audit of Price, Waterhouse & Co., made at Mr. Zerk's request, has been furnished to the exchange. The request for the information was contained in a letter received last Thursday, he stated.

"The report contains 28 pages of comment on accounting procedure in addition to a lengthy statistical appendix," Mr. Zerk said. "It covers the bonus payments and the methods used in arriving at them, and discusses an adjustment in capital stock."

Business Done by Checks Increases in Middle West

Debts to individual deposit account reported to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for the week ended May 17, by 127 banks in 37 leading clearing house cities in the seventh federal reserve district, aggregate $602,745,000, an increase of 3.7 per cent from $581,388,000 a week ago. Debts to individual deposit account for Chicago amounted to $428,227,000, against $458,468,000 for the week ended May 18, 1932.

Car Loadings Exceed 1932 First Time

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on May 13 totaled 531,095 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today.

The total was an increase of 7,276 cars above the preceding week, and an increase of 13,835 cars above the same week in 1932. It was, however, a decrease of 215,962 cars under the same week in 1931.

Most Commodities Above Year Ago.

Comparisons showed that all commodities showed increases over the corresponding week last year with the exception of merchandise less than carload lot freight, which showed a reduction.

Miscellaneous freight loading totaled 198,811 cars, an increase of 1,745 cars above the preceding week.

Loading of merchandise less than carload lot freight totaled 164,374 cars, an increase of 31 cars above the preceding week.

Grain and grain products loading for the week totaled 38,947 cars, a decrease of 465 cars from the preceding week.

Other Commodities Increase.

Forest products loading totaled 20,024 cars, 857 cars above the preceding week.

Ore loading amounted to 6,724 cars, an increase of 958 cars above the week before.

Coal loading amounted to 81,046 cars, an increase of 4,381 cars above the preceding week.

Coke loading amounted to 3,728 cars, 247 cars above the preceding week.

Live stock loading amounted to 17,441 cars, a decrease of 478 cars below the preceding week.

GAINS IN TRADE ARE SHOWN BY CHIEF INDICES

New York, May 20.—(AP)—Statistics appearing during the last week indicated a rising business tendency, according to Moody's Index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output. These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is, if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

WAVE OF SELLING DRIVES STOCK PRICES LOWER

Week-End Realizing Upsets Market.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 20.—A squall of selling orders struck the share market in the last thirty minutes or so of trading today, and prices gave way in all departments. Closing losses were 1 to 2 points, and in scattered instances the reaction was even more pronounced.

Trading hit about the livliest pace of the week near the close, and the final gong found the ticker distanced by nearly five minutes.

The upset was probably due in some measure to a sudden influx of week-end liquidation, but brokers reported evidence of heavy short selling in many quarters. Some observers thought it looked like the beginning of that long anticipated reaction which so many chart analyists have been saying was both overdue and inevitable.

Rail Traffic Brings Bulge.

Opening quotations had been a trifle lower, but a favorable carloadings report showing rail traffic above the corresponding period of 1932 had combined with some further overnight advices of a bullish flavor from Washington to tilt the balance to the buying side once more to point the list forward.

Traders began to switch to the selling side when the rails failed to show any marked enthusiasm over the freight revenue figures, but it was not until wheat took its 2 cent a bushel tumble that the movement became general. Prices melted rapidly for the first few minutes of the break, and the downward sweep might have carried much further than it did had not the alarmed bull leaders begun pouring support orders in behind their favorites.

Oils Resist Selling.

Oils offered about the most convincing show of resistance, being buoyed in some measure by expectations that a federal dictator would pull the petroleum industry out of the bog in which it has been floundering for so long. The close, however, found Standard of New Jersey, Atlantic Refining and other issues of the group shorn of about all the gains they ran up yesterday.

Copper shares were more active than they have been for some time and losses in the division were generally small. The group moved ahead moderately in the early dealings, and word was about that "informed buying" was going on in anticipation of some important news supposed to be in store for the red metal companies.

DOLLAR'S GAINS LAID TO PLAN FOR CURRENCY TRUCE

LONDON, May 20.—[U. P.]—The recent strength of the dollar in European trading was attributed today to well authenticated reports that the United States, Britain, and France are trying to arrange a currency truce before the start of the world economic conference.

Speculators assume that if the truce is negotiated successfully the United States will be forced to agree to British insistence that sterling be revalued at considerably under $4.

Advices from Paris said that, despite Washington denials, a stabilization fund is being created to keep the dollar steady, similar to the British stabilization fund. Financial circles there insisted that the Federal Reserve, the Bank of England, and the Bank of France are coöperating to prevent violent fluctuations of the dollar and the pound.

Dollar Eases Off.

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—The dollar turned reactionary today, closing lower in terms of all important foreign currencies. Sterling was 1½ cents higher at $3.87¼, the franc rose 2½ points to 4.51 cents, guilders gained 20 points to 46.05 cents, and the Belga was up 6 points to 15.96 cents.

Industry Ready to Act Under Control Law

[Copyright: 1933: By the United Press.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(AP)—Many of the nation's leading industries are looking forward to increasing wages and raising commodity prices immediately the new business control bill becomes law.

Already some of these industries have drawn up detailed plans to proceed with nation-wide adjustments of a sweeping character within a matter of hours after the new legislation relieves them of present Sherman law restrictions.

The steel, coal, oil, lumber, automobile, utilities, textile and asbestos trades are among those of which the leaders have indicated they expect to be ready to file wage and production agreements quickly for approval of Hugh S. Johnson, once he is definitely appointed administrator of the new law.

Harriman Forecasts Upturn.

Meanwhile, Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, in an interview tonight forecast a speedy business upturn as a result of the legislation.

"In my opinion," he said, "the wages of 10,000,000 men will be raised within six months after enactment of this bill, and within that time many industries now using red ink will be using black."

Yesterday President William Green of the American Federation of Labor estimated before the house ways and means committee that 4,000,000 persons now idle would be put to work as a direct result of the $3,300,000,000 public works program and the new coöperation between trade units.

Prepare to Act Quickly.

At his office in the state department Gen. Johnson was making active preparations for putting the bill into effect quickly in compliance with the administration's desire for speed. He not only is setting up an organization for bringing industry into "partnership" with the government but is handling the exploratory details of the public works program.

Speaker Rainey expects house action of the legislation by May 27, but there has been no indication of how long the senate would take to complete enactment. The house ways and means committee plans to report the measure early next week, and hearings are to be started in the senate Monday with Senator Wagner of New York, a drafter of the legislation, as the first witness.

The industrial provisions of the bill give President Roosevelt wide powers for permitting and approving agreements in industry and he in turn will delegate this authority to the administrator.

INSURANCE HEAD URGES PUBLIC BE GIVEN ALL FACTS

Bloomington, Ill., May 20.—[Special.]—Arthur F. Hall, president of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company, Fort Wayne, Ind., today impressed upon several hundred members of the Illinois Association of Life Underwriters the importance of taking the public into their confidence. The association is holding its annual convention here today.

Mr. Hall declared that people are no longer so much interested in the company's premium rates, dividends, or loan values as they are in the question: "Is the company safe and does its record of management indicate that it will be safe ten, twenty, or fifty years hence?"

Insurance companies have always welcomed the helpful coöperation and supervision of their state authorities, he said.

"The public has a right to capable regulation," he explained, "but when only 5 cents out of every dollar collected in taxes and fees of various kinds and expended in the maintenance of insurance departments and the other 95 cents are devoted to other purposes wholly foreign to life insurance, I believe insurance companies and insurance departments have just cause for complaint."

BUSINESS LINES MOVING UPWARD CROSS '32 LEVEL

Freight Joins Stocks, Steel, and Power.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Business throughout the nation continues to expand.

Yesterday's report by the American Railway association backed up predictions of an increase in railway traffic. For the first time since the business depression began in the summer of 1929 railway car loadings penetrated the level of the preceding year.

Thus another set of curves have crossed. Stock price averages were the first to advance above 1932 levels. That happened early in April and now THE TRIBUNE'S stock averages are far above the year ago level and close to the 1932 high point.

Electrical output followed. For two weeks the consumption of electric energy throughout the nation has exceeded that of a year ago.

Steel operations also are above the year ago rate and still mounting.

Expect Output to Top 40%.

According to the Daily Metal Trade steelmaking operations continue to expand at important producing centers and indications are that production activity will be well over the 40 per cent of capacity level by the middle of this week.

In the Youngstown district steel production will rise this week to 43 per cent of capacity, after having advanced to 40 per cent at the middle of last week. This will be the ninth consecutive week to show a gain. Normally, steel production shows a seasonal decrease in May. Carnegie will operate two additional open hearth furnaces. With eleven furnaces going, Carnegie goes back to the highest rate of operations since October, 1929.

In the Cleveland district steel making has advanced another two points to 58 per cent of capacity. Increases are also in prospect for the Chicago and Pittsburgh districts.

The Wheeling Steel corporation of Wheeling, W. Va., announced it would begin full operation this week, making jobs for 400 men.

The census bureau in Washington reports that textile mills in April operated at 93.9 per cent of capacity, compared with 70.7 per cent in April, 1932.

Auto Output Best in 23 Months.

Automobile production in the week ended yesterday was at the highest rate since the week of June 13, 1931, according to Cram's report. This was the ninth successive weekly gain. Output for the week totaled 55,801, an increase of 4,130 over the preceding week.

New York, May 20.—Strength in United States government bonds after several days of declining prices featured dealing in bonds on the stock exchange today. During the two hour trading period the volume of transactions reached $6,271,000, of which our government issues accounted for $393,000. Foreign loans closed irregularly higher with most of the German issues higher.

Domestic railroad bonds failed to advance on the average, although favorable carloading figures came out as expected. Profit taking in the rails appeared to be one of the chief reasons for the showing of this group.

By far the most active of the rail issues were Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific 5s, due 1975, which closed unchanged, and the road's adjustment 5s, due 2,000, off ¼; Chicago and North Western convertible 4¾s, due 1949, off 1¾, and Great Northern general 7s, due 1936, up ⅛.

United States government bonds were bid up 1-32d to 11-32ds of a point, with the treasury 3⅜s, due 1943, callable in 1940, showing the maximum gain. The most active issue today was the Liberty 3½s, which was up 3-32ds of a point for the day.

Although only fractional gains accrued to the German government 7s and 5½s, other issues of the German group showed advances of a point or more, enabling some issues to close higher on the week.

Helping the Policy Holders.

During the last year or so the public has begun to regard life insurance in an entirely new way.

For generations—even through the 1907 life insurance scandals in New York state—the ordinary individual has regarded life insurance with perfect equanimity.

Life insurance was nothing to get disturbed about. You simply decided how much life insurance you needed and what type of policies you wanted—and that was that.

The company that you chose to be insured in was not particularly important. If your friend, John Doe, happened to be selling Mutual Life of Whoozis you bought that.

Life insurance was not sold on a company basis. The agent didn't dwell much upon the financial condition and quality of management of his company. He didn't sell the prospect on Mutual Life of Whoozis. He sold him on life insurance as an institution.

There was a reason for this. Never in the history of life insurance had a standard type legal reserve life insurance company failed. A few small companies, it is true, had got into financial straits and had had to be taken over by stronger companies. And there had been an occasional irregularity among the myriad of small assessment concerns scattered around the country. But life insurance as an institution had weathered all storms with unblemished record.

During the last year or so there has been a succession of life insurance company failures. This had affected only a minute fraction of the total amount of life insurance in force in the United States.

Nevertheless the failures have been sufficiently numerous to attract the attention of policyholders throughout the country. A new feeling of curiosity about company affairs has been awakened.

This changed attitude on the part of the public is expected to result in a new kind of sales attack by agents. In the future it will be necessary to sell not only life insurance as an institution but the company as well. The prospect must be convinced that he is getting quality.

Recognizing this, a horde of so-called "advisory" services will spring up all over the country. Many individuals will seek to make a living by advising prospective life insurance buyers which company to choose and charging for this service.

Some will be legitimate and entitled to a reasonable fee. Others will be plain or fancy racketeers.

The prospective policyholder will have to be careful about choosing an adviser or he will be worse off than if he had bought blindly.

BUSINESS LINES MOVING UPWARD CROSS '32 LEVEL

Freight Joins Stocks, Steel and Power in Gain.

east of the Rockies increased 36 per cent over the first half of April, compared with a normal decline of 10 per cent for this period, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation.

Meanwhile trade groups and individual business establishments throughout the country report mounting sales, increased employment, and the restoration of wage deductions.

Cudahy Packing company of Chicago says sales of "Old Dutch Cleanser," one of its important specialties, are running about 10 per cent above 1932 sales. Carrying heavy inventories, Cudahy expects to profit from the anticipated rise in commodity prices.

Other Lines Advance.

Announcing the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share, directors of Abbott Laboratories stated yesterday that the company has enjoyed a "marked increase" in sales for the first half of May, compared with the like period of 1932.

In Akron tire factories are operating full time over the week-end. General Tire and Rubber company will have practically all departments in operation today, Falls Rubber company will work about half of its employés, and part of the B. F. Goodrich plant is expected to be running. Several hundred former employés recalled by Goodyear and Firestone will go back to work tomorrow, some of them for the first time in a year.

L. B. Manning, president of Aviation corporation, announced yesterday that American Airways carried 3,980 passengers in the first half of May, a 41 per cent increase over the like period of April. The company plans to add additional schedules, he said.

Wage Boosts Announced.

Five mills in Lawrence, Mass., announced wage increases affecting a total of 30,000 employés. Pacific Mills and the American Woolen company announced 12½ per cent increases.

Six thousand workers in the Douglas Fir plywood industry in Oregon and Washington by July 1 will receive wage increases which will bring them back to 80 per cent of the pre-depression rates, Huntington Maclarkey, head of several large plants, announced. The average daily wage will be increased from $1.40 to $2.40.

For the first time in five years the Jamestown, N. Y., furniture market association announced that its spring market is a "sell out." More than 200,000 feet of floor space had been signed for by 63 manufacturers.

During the last week Standard Statistics company noted 11 favorable dividend changes, with one exception the largest number in any week for five months.

Unfilled Orders Triple.

Unfilled orders in 21 Texas cotton mills are three times the April total, according to a report of the University of Texas bureau of business research. The increase over March was five times the normal seasonal increase. April sales gained 53 per cent over March and were approximately 70 per cent more than the month's production.

Chicago bank clearings last week showed an increase of $7,900,000 over the preceding week.

The Scoville Manufacturing company of Waterbury, Conn., recalled 200 workmen.

The Remington Arms company of Bridgeport, Conn., announced its force had been increased 250 in the last ten days.

The Plume and Atwood company of Thomaston, Ga., boosted the week of its 170 employés from three to five days.

PROFIT TAKING IN LARD CARRIES PRICES DOWN

Lard and bellies were under pressure of liquidators and profit takers in sympathy with break in grains and cotton. In the early trading prices had a moderate rally, but a renewal of selling carried prices off and the close was at net losses of 17½ cents to 35 cents on lard, and 12½ cents to 20 cents on bellies.

Cash lard was off 20 cents for regular and loose, the former being $6.27½ and the latter $5.60. Leaf lard was 12½ cents lower at $6.62½; cash bellies were unchanged at $7.25. Pork loins were 7½ cents to 10 cents.

LIVE STOCK SAG MODERATE AFTER PROLONGED RISE

Hog Average Still $5.10, Best in 19 Months.

Prices in all branches of the live stock trade began to heel over toward the end of last week, but losses were slight when compared to the record breaking advances scored during the last two weeks of buoyant markets. Yesterday's top hogs were off 5 cents more at $5.20. At the high point in midweek small lots sold up to $5.45 and $5.50.

The day's average remained unchanged from Friday at $5.10 and showed 10 cents loss compared with Thursday. Closing hog quotations still show $1.15 to $1.25 advance compared with two weeks ago and are $2.20 to $2.30 above the low point of the winter. New high weekly average costs were set up in all divisions of the trade.

Average Best Since October, 1931.

The average price of hogs for the last six days at $5.05 stands highest since October, 1931, and shows a gain of 17 per cent over a week ago and a gain of 53 per cent compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

The position of the live stock trade when compared with the pre-war price levels, the goal of the farm relief bill, has been greatly improved in the last month. Cattle at the low time of the winter averaged 36 per cent under the pre-war period. The average for the last six days was 22 per cent under the 1909-'14 average.

Hogs at the low time showed 64 per cent loss from pre-war levels. Last week was only 35 per cent under the 1909-1914 average. Lambs now are 7 per cent lower than before the war, while at the low time they sold 32 per cent lower.

Still Below Pre-War Prices.

However, with the exception of lambs, further substantial advances are necessary to bring the prices up to the 1909-1914 average. In the case of cattle another gain of $1.50 will put the market back where it was before the war. Hogs must come up $2.75 more, while lambs are only 50 cents away from the goal.

Packing houses are greatly encouraged over prospects in their trade, since returns from live animals, in most instances, have warranted the record advances. By-products have figured mainly in the almost unprecedented recovery. For months packers have had to depend almost entirely on the meat trade for returns, regarding most of the by-products as liabilities. There has been a gradual increase in meat prices, too, the various principal cuts selling from ½ to as much as 3 cents over the low point of the winter.

By-Products Are Profitable.

The rise in meats alone would have warranted a very mild upturn in live stock were conditions in the by-products the same as they were several weeks ago. Packers then were continually marking the cost of carrying and the losses in by-products against the cost of the live animal.

More than half of the gain in the value of full wool lambs is traced to the wool. The average price of live steers shows an advance of $11 per head since February. Four dollars of this gain is in the hide.

EILERT BREWING COMPANY

Class A Common Stock

Listed on the Chicago Curb Exchange

The name "Eilert" has been favorably known in Cleveland for many years. The brewery is now producing first grade beer of legal alcoholic content and orders on hand are considered sufficient for a year's operations.

The Class A common Stock is entitled to current dividends on a basis of two for one over the Class B Stock. Based on current operations and orders on hand the Class A Stock should earn approximately $2.38 per share in 1933.

A NEW LIST!

10 Outstanding LOW PRICED STOCKS

In our April 1st issue, we recommended six stocks to provide protection in the event of inflation or continued deflation. The following tabulation shows how they advanced since then.

	April 1st	May 16th	Gain
Pennsylvania R. R.	17	23⅞	6⅞
American Sugar Ref.	34¾	57	22¼
National Lead Co.	55	99⅞	44⅞

GRAINS DECLINE AS TIRED BULLS LIQUIDATE LINES

Both Wheat and Corn Recede 1 to 1⅝ Cents.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation by tired longs depressed grains from start to finish yesterday. Both wheat and corn at the inside showed a drop of more than 2 cents from the finish on Friday and it was not until near the close that they showed any disposition to rally.

Houses with eastern connections continued to sell wheat freely, as they were said by pit brokers to have been doing for the last week. July at the inside figure touched 69⅝ cents, or 6¼ cents under the recent high, and sold at the lowest level since April 29. July corn touched 43⅜ cents, off 5 cents from the extreme top figures of the season, which were established on May 12.

The first flush of bullish enthusiasm engendered by the inflation talk and the loss of about one-third of the 39,900,000 acres of winter wheat due to drought and other causes, was regarded by the trade as having passed. In trade parlance, the markets have become "tired."

Trade in All Grains Slackens.

Aggregate trade in all grains has fallen off as the result of the failure of new and sensational developments to materialize at Washington. The average daily sales during the last week dropped to 54,000,000 bushels, compared with 82,000,000 bushels for the preceding week, but were far in excess of the average of 30,000,000 bushels for the corresponding week last year.

Dust storms in the southwest, delayed seeding in Canada, and other news fell flat as a market influence in wheat. Crop reports from the American northwest again were favorable and attracted some attention. Moreover, the bearish statistical position is now attracting some attention from the trade. The close was at net losses of 1 to 1⅝ cents with May at 68⅝ cents; July, 70¼ to 70⅜ cents, and September, 71½ to 71¾ cents. Winnipeg was off ½ to ¾ cent in Canadian funds, while Liverpool closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher.

Better Weather for Corn.

Farmers in the main corn belt are promised a period of more settled weather this week in the official long range forecast, although scattered showers may occur after Wednesday. Plowing and planting of the new crop is expected to be resumed.

Reports indicating that floods were receding in Illinois and other states more than offset the effect of heavy rains overnight in parts of Iowa and Illinois and helped along the decline in corn futures. The latter closed 1 to 1⅝ cents lower with May finishing at 42⅛ cents; July, 44¼ to 44⅜ cents, and September, 46 to 46⅛ cents.

An eastern operator who is a large holder of rye futures calling for a delivery of the cash grain during the current month, continues to make it uncomfortable for those who have the futures sold. The May delivery closed only ⅛ cent lower despite liquidation in the distant months.

Oats and barley weakened in sympathy with other grains and on selling by scattered traders. Oats were ⅜ to ¾ cent lower and barley was off 2 cents at the last.

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Butter and egg futures suffered further losses on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing ⅜@⅞c and eggs ¼@⅜c lower. Heavy selling continued in both November butter and October eggs. New selling was prominent and liquidation developed again. However, prices held within narrow ranges. New buying and covering remained heavy. Weakness in stocks and grains brought out much of the selling and October eggs came under additional pressure as a result of continued bearish news. Butter news was improved. The four markets stored 60,000 lbs less butter and 32,000 cases more eggs than last year. Sales: Butter, 82 cars; eggs, 93 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 8 cars. Prices follow:

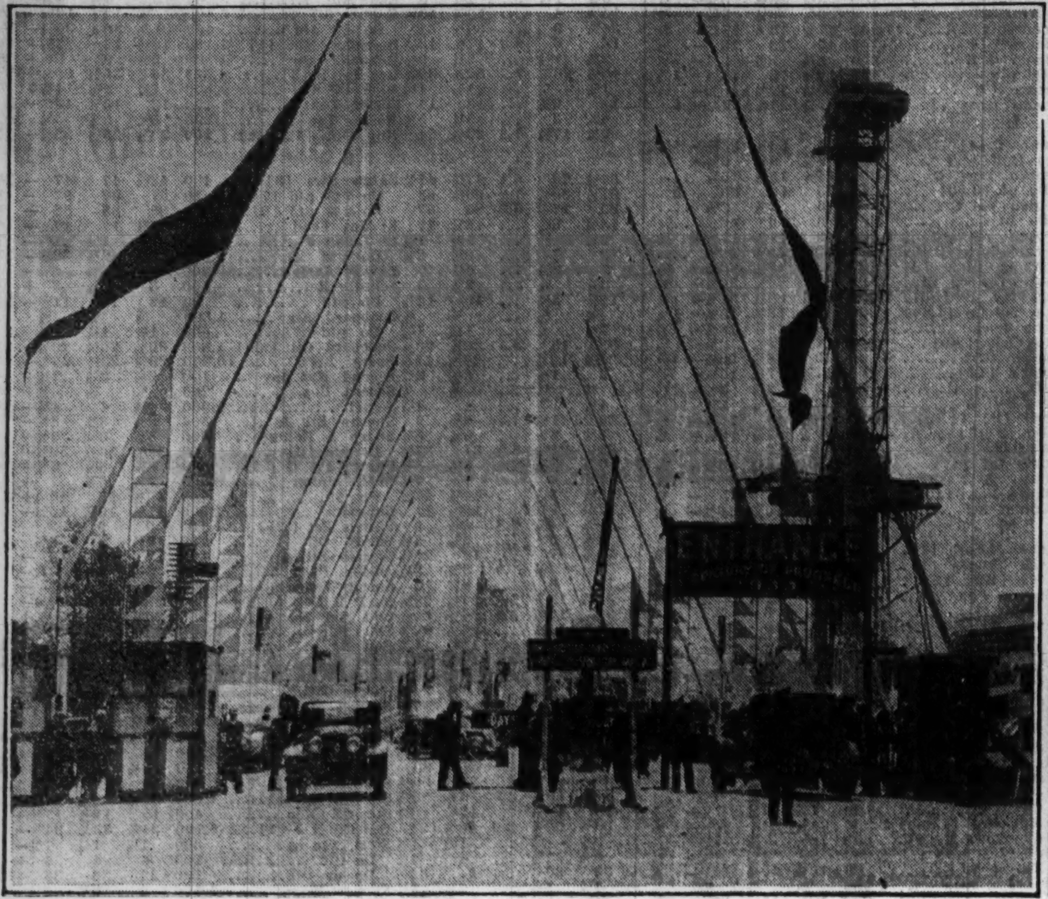
HIDE FUTURES.

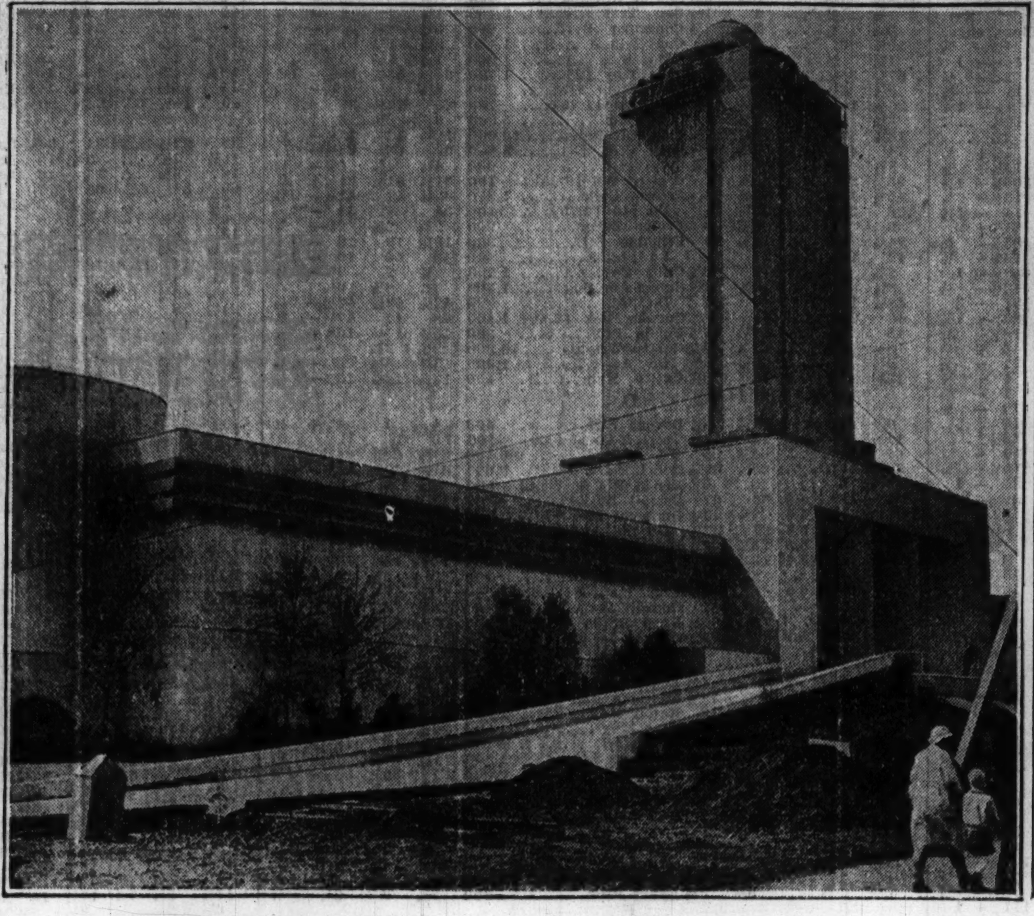
Hide futures on the Commodity Exchange, Inc., were featured by further sweeping price advances and a marked broadening in trade. The upturn was checked by profit taking towards the latter part of the week, but the active positions reflected net gains of from 65 to 85 points for the period, while the aggregate turnover was well above 14,000,000 lbs.

Domestic spot hide prices reflected substantial gains, while the River Plate "Frigorifico" hide market was also higher last week.

Pictures Take Readers on Tour of Century of Progress Grounds Starting from the Northern Entrance

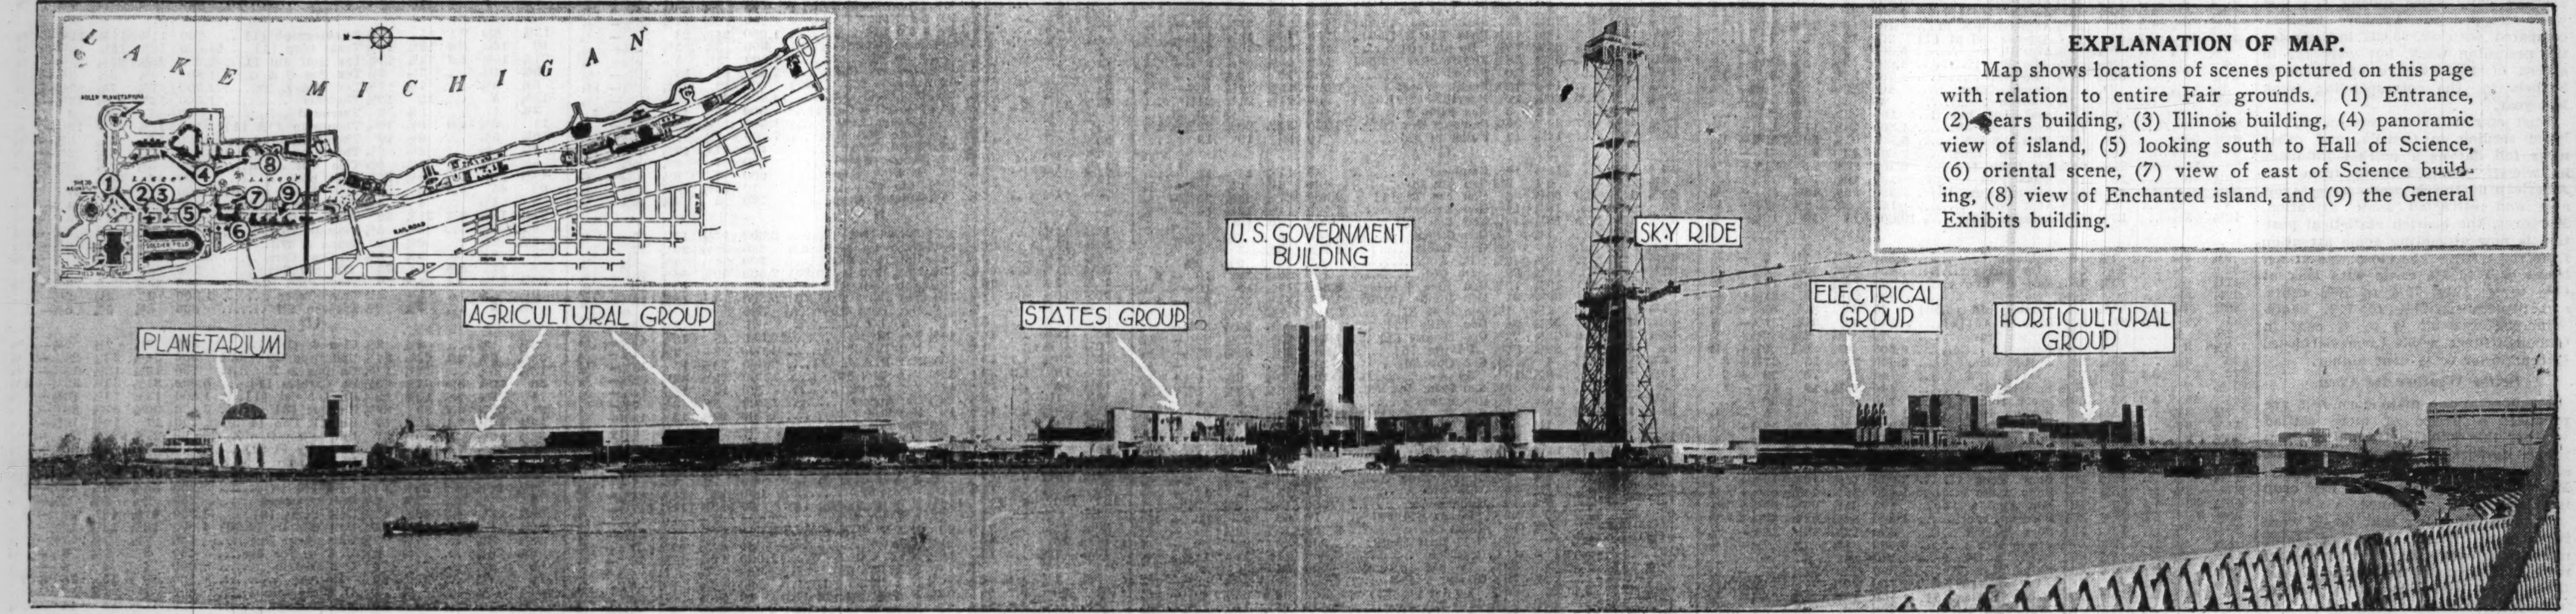


START TOUR OF WORLD'S FAIR WITH TRIBUNE CAMERAMAN.
Here is what you see as you start walking in main gates south of Administration building. It is the Avenue of Flags.



CONTINUING SOUTH, BUILDINGS OF THE FAIR COME INTO VIEW.
On your right, as you leave the Avenue of Flags, is this building, that of Sears, Roebuck & Co. We then continue onward.

ILLINOIS BUILDING COMES NEXT ON WALKING TOUR.
On your right, south of the Sears building, is this Illinois Host building, shown with the west tower of the Sky Ride and portion of Soldiers' field.



EXPLANATION OF MAP.
Map shows locations of scenes pictured on this page with relation to entire Fair grounds. (1) Entrance, (2) Sears building, (3) Illinois building, (4) panoramic view of island, (5) looking south to Hall of Science, (6) oriental scene, (7) view of east of Science building, (8) view of Enchanted island, and (9) the General Exhibits building.

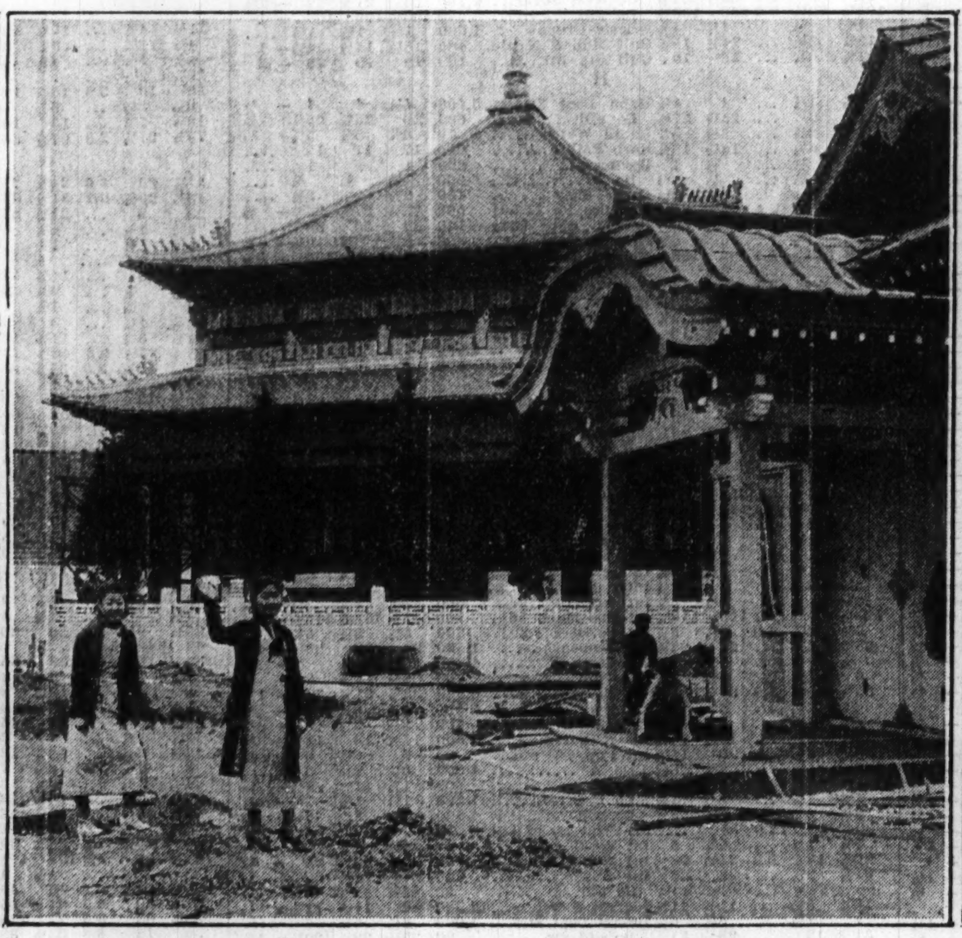
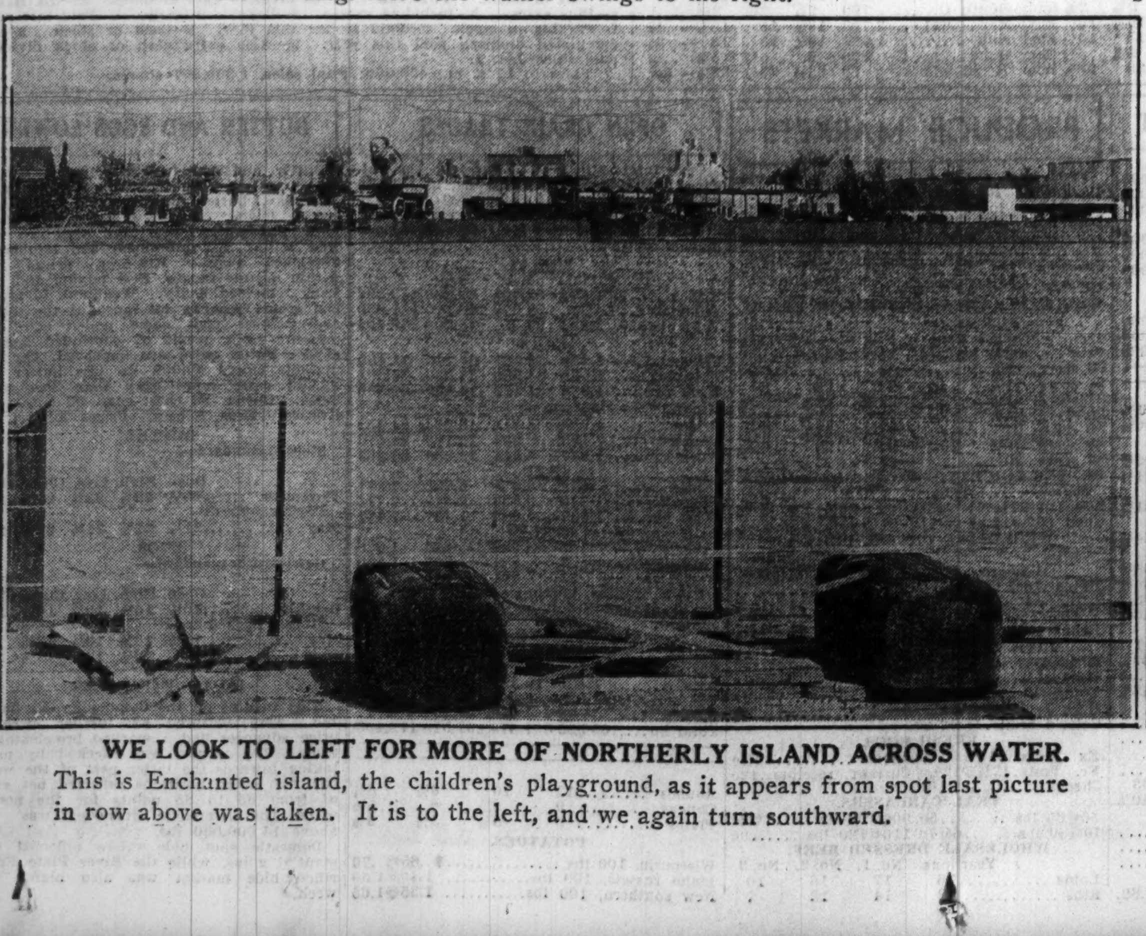
LET'S CONTINUE WALKING SOUTHWARD AND VIEW BUILDINGS.
Scene showing the Hall of Science as it appears to the south from the vicinity of the Illinois Host building. Here the walker swings to his right.

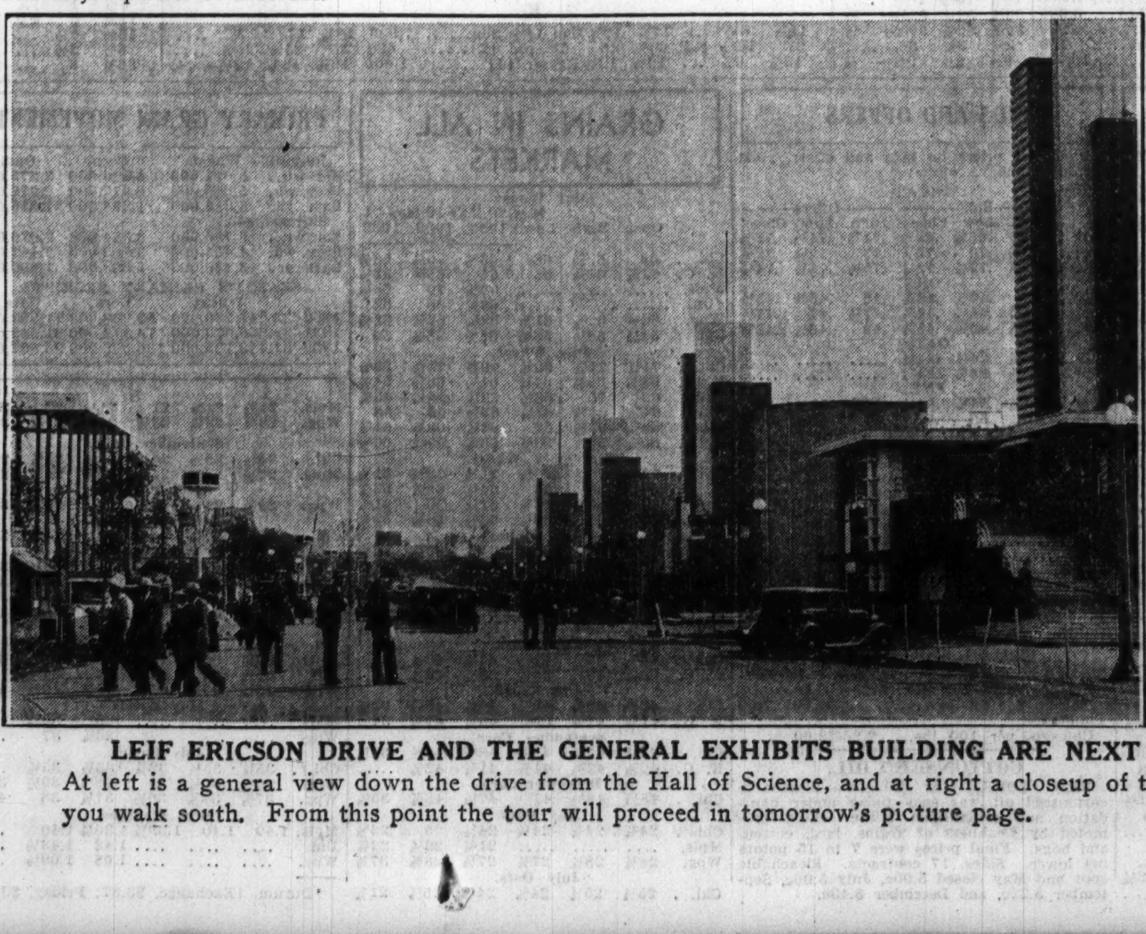


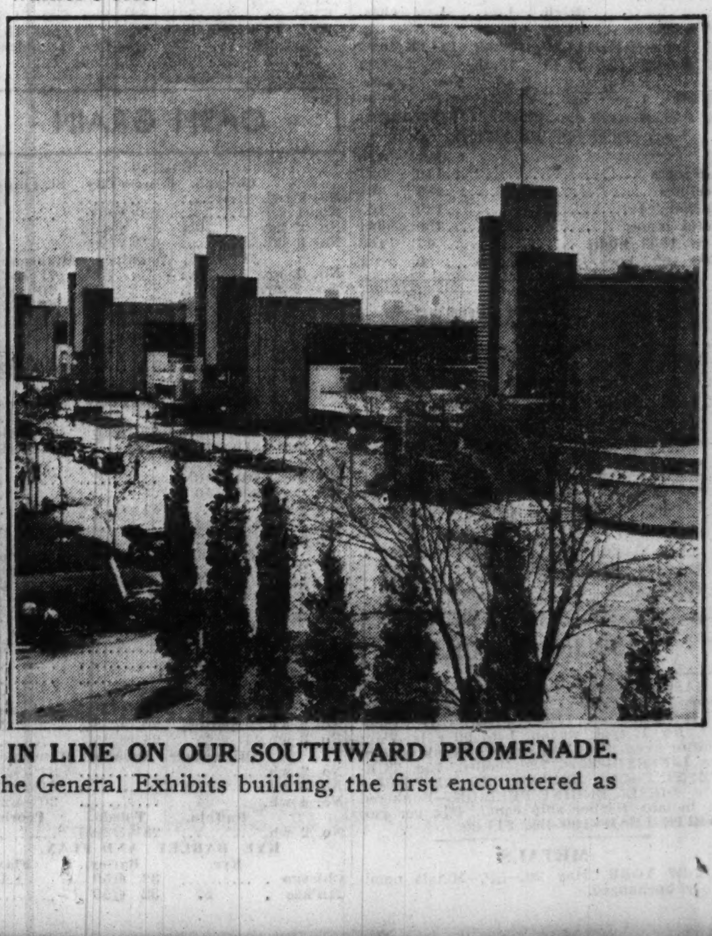
ORIENTAL SCENE NEXT AFTER PASSING HALL OF SCIENCE.
The Chinese Jehol temple (left) and the entrance to the Japanese pavilion, both major points of interest.

ANOTHER VIEW OF SCIENCE HALL BEFORE TOUR PROCEEDS.
The Hall of Science as it appears from the Chinese and Japanese buildings. The view is to the walker's left.



WE LOOK TO LEFT FOR MORE OF NORTHERLY ISLAND ACROSS WATER.
This is Enchanted island, the children's playground, as it appears from spot last picture in row above was taken. It is to the left, and we again turn southward.





LEIF ERICSON DRIVE AND THE GENERAL EXHIBITS BUILDING ARE NEXT IN LINE ON OUR SOUTHWARD PROMENADE.
At left is a general view down the drive from the Hall of Science, and at right a closeup of the General Exhibits building, the first encountered as you walk south. From this point the tour will proceed in tomorrow's picture page.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

I WANT MEN AND WOMEN TO ADVERTISE OUR GOODS AND DISTRIBUTE TRIAL PACKAGES

If you want work and will be satisfied with $6 to $9 a day at the start—with more if you make good—I'll give you a job at once in congenial, interesting advertising work distributing Trial Packages of my goods right in your own neighborhood. You can work full time or spare time and start making money the first day.

$110 IN ONE WEEK.
Just send me your name and I will lay bona fide PROOF before you. I'll show you how Sol Korenblit, of New York, made $110 in a SINGLE WEEK! H. L. Lennon writes, "I went out Friday morning and made $39.63 in 7½ hours." Mrs. Eva McCutcheon, of Oklahoma, quit a $10-a-week office job and made $26.55 profit the very first day. Mrs. Jewel Hackett, of Ohio, cleared $33 in 7 hours. These exceptional earnings show the wonderful possibilities!

NEW ADVERTISING PLAN.
You may wonder at making such big money as this even in hard times. But my new advertising plan of trial package distribution is doing exactly that for hundreds. The "Trial Package" Plan is simple. Your new job will be to distribute trial packages of my line to people in your neighborhood. After they have used these products and see how they save money, they give you their orders for full size packages. You handle the money and deliver the goods. And you KEEP a big share of every dollar taken in as your pay. Pay for delivering 35 trial packages a day will be $8.75 a day—regular and steady.

SEND NO MONEY.
I don't want your money. All I want is a chance to lay the facts before you so you can decide for yourself. If you want an unusual opportunity to make $8.75 or more a day—with an old, reliable, million-dollar manufacturing company—then mail the coupon below and see how easy it is to start on my "Trial Package" Plan. You don't need any capital. Earnings start at once. Don't miss this chance. It doesn't cost anything to investigate, so mail the coupon today—RIGHT NOW!

MAIL THIS NOW
Albert Mills, Employment Mgr.,
6760 Monmouth-av.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.
Send me the Free Facts and tell me how I can start at once earning $8.75 a day.

Our representatives do not attempt any selling whatsoever. They simply tell what they offer, show proof of success in every line of business and every section of the country. Then install the specialty without a dollar down. It starts working at once. Produces the cash to pay for itself before payment due.
Customer guaranteed cash return 10 times price paid. Permanent repeat business. Full credit on mail orders. Tremendous profits for your sub-agents.
We furnish portfolio of reference letters from famous concerns. Show the specialty, show the letters, take the order. Walker cleared $165 first day; Ferrell $802 first 2 weeks; Foyer $4,920 first 3 months. We've got more men like this—write for full details and see for yourself.
This specialty is as important a business opportunity today as the typewriter, adding machine and dictaphone were in their early days.
Limited number of openings. Tell all about yourself in first letter. If you're the right man we'll make it interesting enough for you. Deposit required for sample. Write to experienced salesmen to sell DEE'S NEW LEMON TOOTH PASTE to the drug trade. DEE'S LEMON TOOTH PASTE has already created a sensation among Chicagoans who have used it, and we predict it will take the country by storm. This product passes all chemical tests, cleans teeth thoroughly, and leaves a most delightful taste in your mouth.

CITY AND OUT-OF-TOWN Territories Now Available.

We have signed a contract with A CENTURY OF PROGRESS for the entire period of the WORLD'S FAIR, and we will have this tooth paste on display where millions of visitors to the FAIR will see our exhibit.

Our newspaper display advertising campaign will begin this week in the Chicago Tribune, the first insertion to be not less than 465 lines. We have made arrangements with the Western Union Telegraph Co. to deliver for our account three full sized tubes of DEE'S LEMON TOOTH PASTE to every drug store in Chicago, as well as one tube each to every dentist in Chicago.

We need salesmen for every state in the union. Out of town men, please write or wire for territory immediately. Chicagoland men, call personally at our general offices for full particulars.

Dee's Manufacturing Co., 10 South La Salle-st.,

P. S.: We require a cash deposit on merchandise taken out. This deposit refundable.

MANUFACTURER—WITH YEARS OF ESTABLISHED reputation, offers nationally advertised line of automotive specialties to sales distributors in exclusive territories now open in Middle West. New start and foundation of substantial success to men who have made good in past and will show us record of success in selling and merchandising. Prefer men who know garage, tire repair shop and service station trade and have intestinal fortitude to work strictly on basis of generous profits in building up own business. So-called depression is boosting rather than hindering our sales. Our distributors are making money now. State age, whether married, kind of automobile, if own home or have some other proof of financial stability. Give names last three business connection, kind of work, and duration of each commission. President, Bowes "Seal-Fast" Corporation, Indianapolis, Indiana.

UNLESS YOUR COMMON SENSE TELLS YOU THAT IT WILL PAY YOU TO DO SO.

We address this important message to those capable men whom unfortunate circumstances have caused to be unemployed; those men who are not contented to remain out of profitable work any longer than it takes to locate something else. Consider this opportunity.

This national organization, anticipating an upward swing in business, is expanding the scope of its activities. In the Chicago area alone, it will require an additional 30 men to carry out this expansion program. Since this organization is unique in its field with no competition, it is impossible to secure men with experience in this work. Consequently, to qualify for one of these positions, it is only necessary that you be between 25 and 45 years of age, be fairly intelligent and able to furnish several character references.

A thorough training period will equip those who qualify with the necessary technical knowledge.

What earnings you may expect can better be determined by a personal interview with our factory representative.

You may apply Monday Forenoon, May 22, at Parlors A, B, and C., Hotel Morrison. 9 to 1.

EXECUTIVES AND MGRS.

We will consider applications from 20 gen. sales mgrs., comm. basis, no drawing acct.; only serious minded, permanent Chicago residents wanted. References carefully checked. Positions worth $10,000 yearly. Age limit 30-50; organizing and lecture experience important. Must be able to handle salesmen and women and to obtain Ill. state real estate license; city and county, res. and bus. property at Muscle Shoals, the coming mecca of industry. Call Mon. and Tues., 10:30 to 1:30.
WILLARD J. PHINN ORG'N. 7 S. Dearborn.

REAL OPPORTUNITY.

Improving business conditions justify a nationally known organization in employing 4 more women. Must be at least high school graduates and over 25. Preference given to teachers or cultured women who through misfortune or reverses are compelled to enter the business world. Satisfactory financial arrangements for those who qualify. Out of city applicants give full information in first letter. City applicants apply in person. PERSONNEL DIRECTOR, 1000 N. Dearborn-st.

General.

Out-of-Towners!

Those friends and relatives of yours who will be strangers in Chicago for the World's Fair will want to know where to live comfortably, yet moderately, during their stay in Chicago.

The furnished apartments as listed below, include twenty-four hour desk and hotel service, gas, light, refrigeration, linen, and maid service, and are close to the lake, parks, and excellent transportation to the fair grounds.

Make a selection for your friends and let them know that their worries for living accommodations for their "Century of Progress" visit are over.

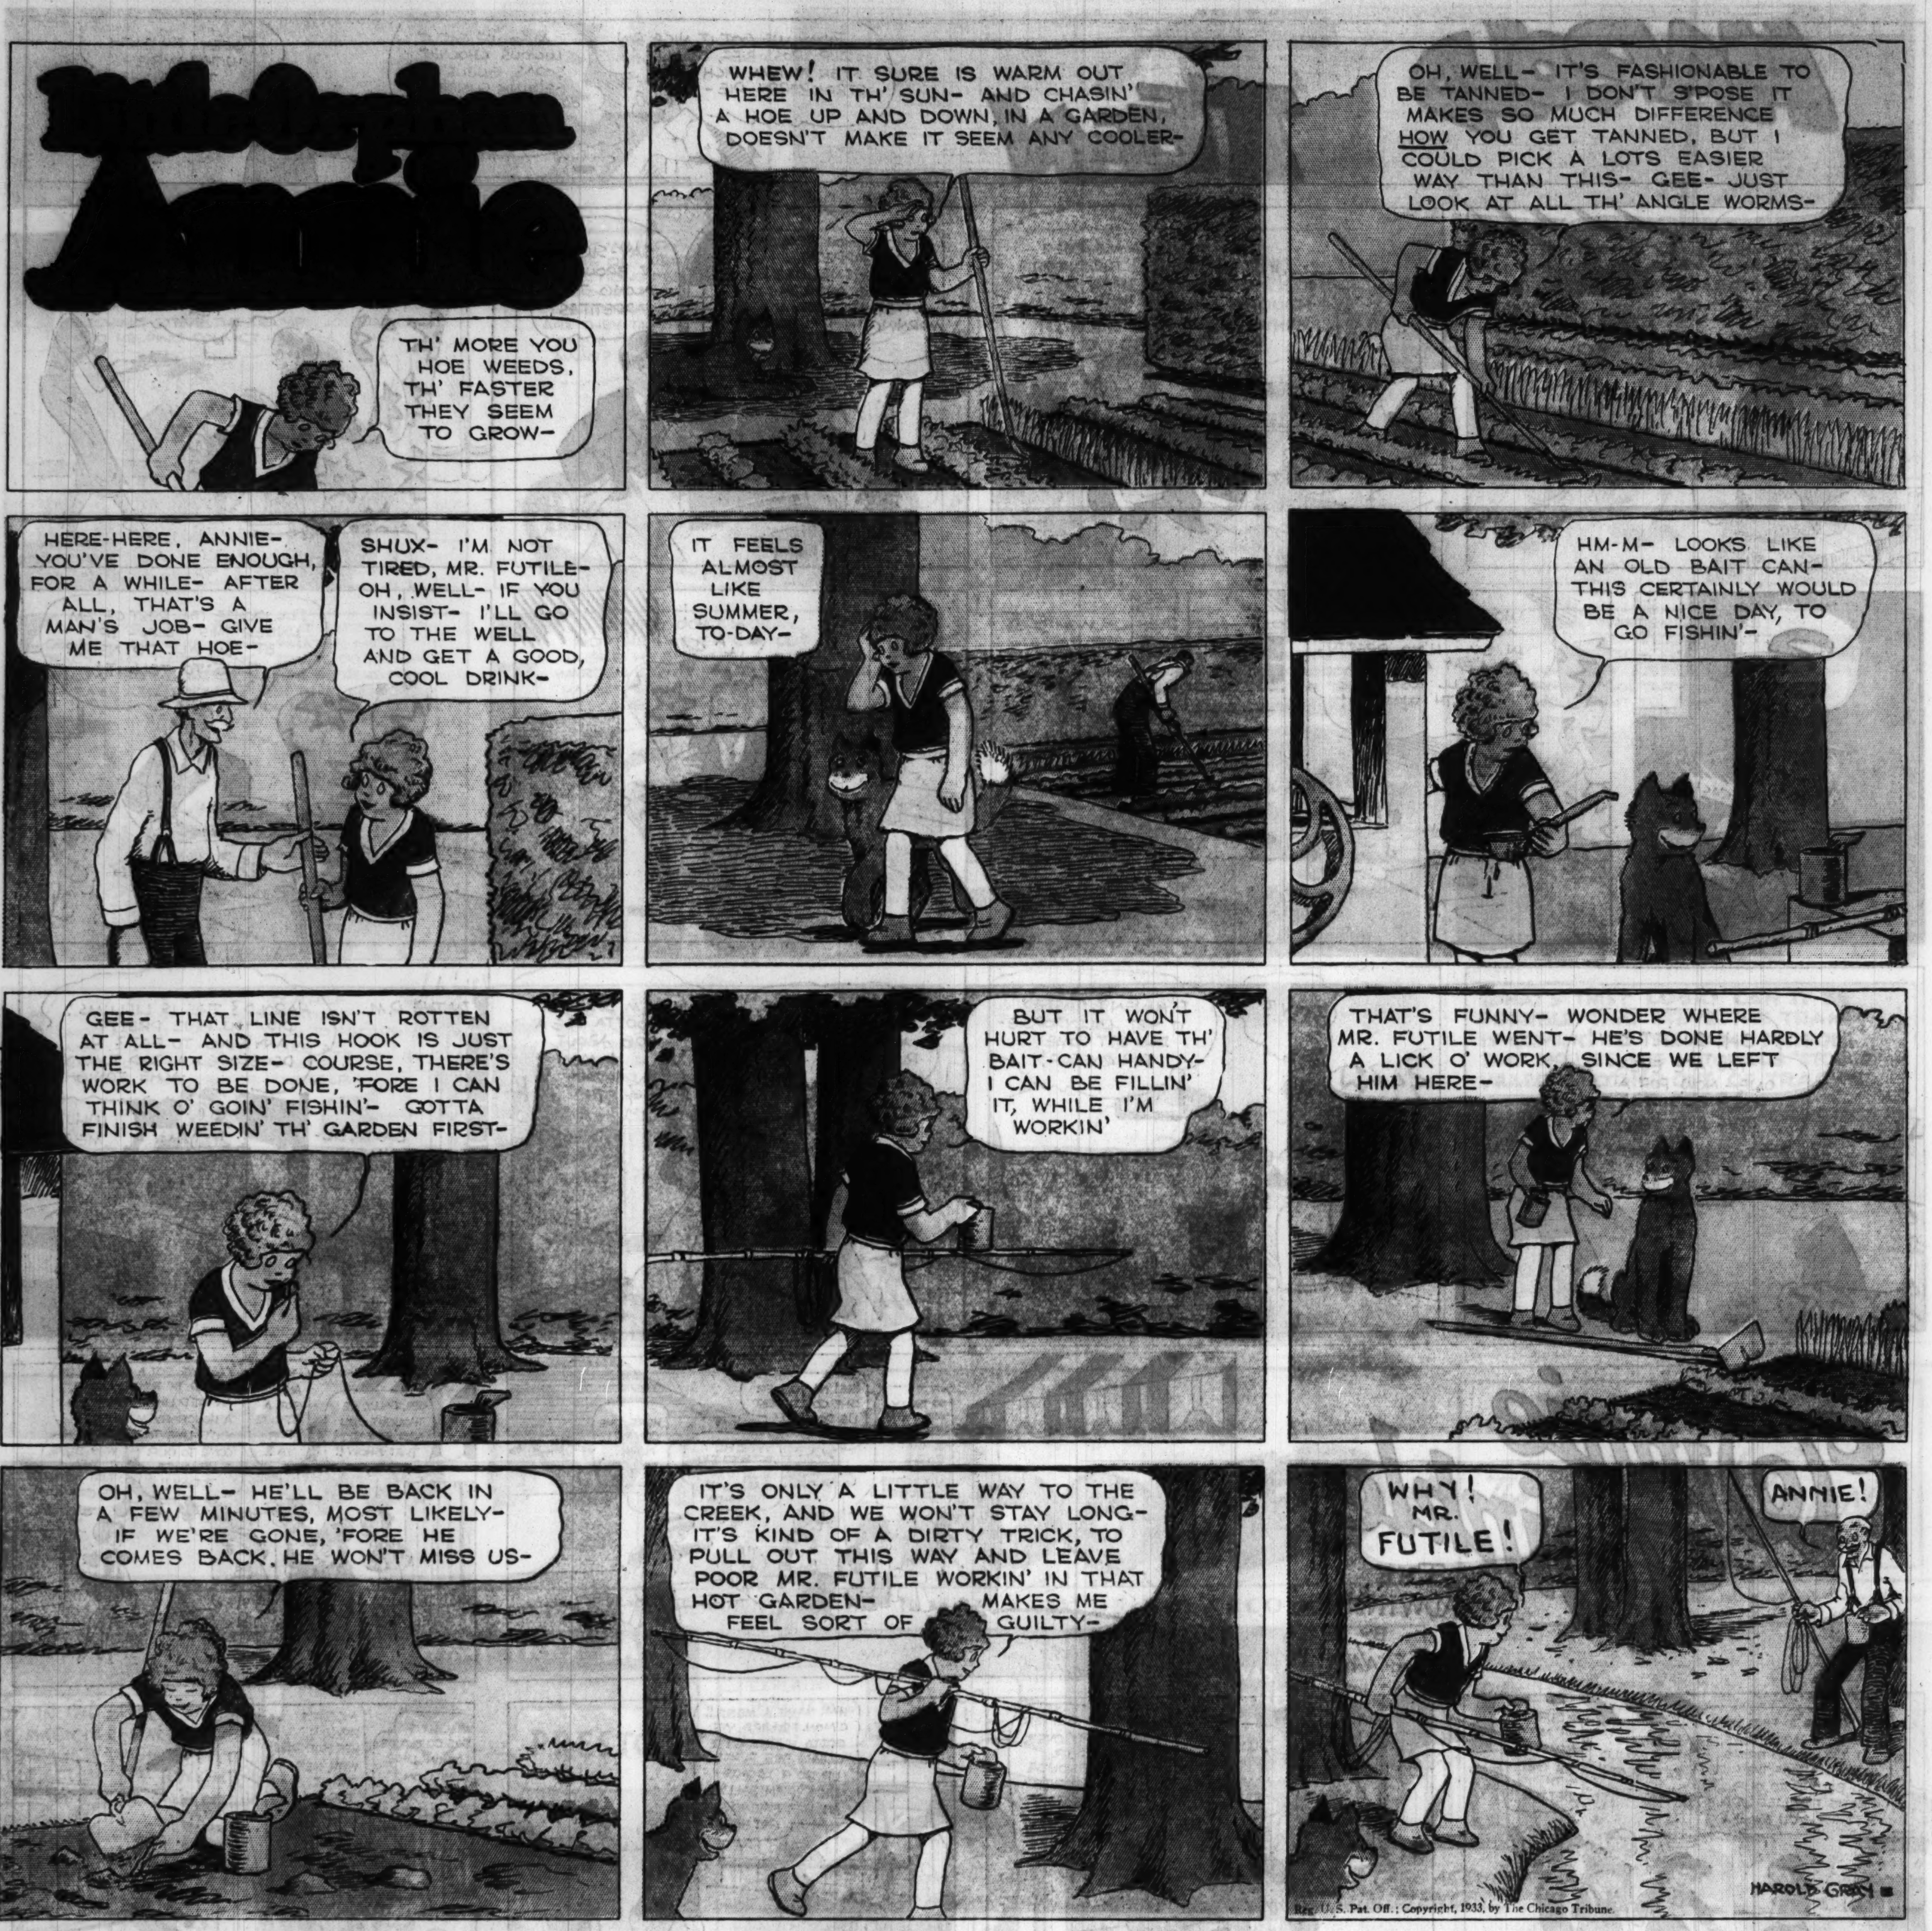
THEY WERE ALL CRAZY ABOUT HER.



Little Orphan Annie
TH' MORE YOU HOE WEEDS, TH' FASTER THEY SEEM TO GROW-
WHEW! IT SURE IS WARM OUT HERE IN TH' SUN- AND CHASIN' A HOE UP AND DOWN, IN A GARDEN, DOESN'T MAKE IT SEEM ANY COOLER-
OH, WELL- IT'S FASHIONABLE TO BE TANNED- I DON'T S'POSE IT MAKES SO MUCH DIFFERENCE HOW YOU GET TANNED, BUT I COULD PICK A LOTS EASIER WAY THAN THIS- GEE- JUST LOOK AT ALL TH' ANGLE WORMS-
HERE-HERE, ANNIE- YOU'VE DONE ENOUGH, FOR A WHILE- AFTER ALL, THAT'S A MAN'S JOB- GIVE ME THAT HOE-
SHUX- I'M NOT TIRED, MR. FUTILE- OH, WELL- IF YOU INSIST- I'LL GO TO THE WELL AND GET A GOOD, COOL DRINK-
IT FEELS ALMOST LIKE SUMMER, TO-DAY-
HM-M- LOOKS LIKE AN OLD BAIT CAN- THIS CERTAINLY WOULD BE A NICE DAY, TO GO FISHIN'-
GEE- THAT LINE ISN'T ROTTEN AT ALL- AND THIS HOOK IS JUST THE RIGHT SIZE- COURSE, THERE'S WORK TO BE DONE, 'FORE I CAN THINK O' GOIN' FISHIN'- GOTTA FINISH WEEDIN' TH' GARDEN FIRST-
BUT IT WON'T HURT TO HAVE TH' BAIT-CAN HANDY- I CAN BE FILLIN' IT, WHILE I'M WORKIN'
THAT'S FUNNY- WONDER WHERE MR. FUTILE WENT- HE'S DONE HARDLY A LICK O' WORK, SINCE WE LEFT HIM HERE-
OH, WELL- HE'LL BE BACK IN A FEW MINUTES, MOST LIKELY- IF WE'RE GONE, 'FORE HE COMES BACK, HE WON'T MISS US-
IT'S ONLY A LITTLE WAY TO THE CREEK, AND WE WON'T STAY LONG- IT'S KIND OF A DIRTY TRICK, TO PULL OUT THIS WAY AND LEAVE POOR MR. FUTILE WORKIN' IN THAT HOT GARDEN- MAKES ME FEEL SORT OF GUILTY-
WHY! MR. FUTILE!

HERE SHE COMES NOW, FELLERS!
GEE, SALLY, WE THOUGHT YOU WAS GREAT IN THAT SHOW!!
YEP! AN' WE GOT A S'PRISE FOR YA!!
Y'SEE, WE GOT A SWELL CLUB CALLED TH' RINKEYDINKS, AN' WE'D LIKE T'MAKE YOU A HONORARY MEMBER, IF YOU'D LIKE TO COME TO OUR CLUBHOUSE TODAY!!
WHY BOYS, I THINK THAT WOULD BE GRAND!
I'LL BE ABLE TO FIND YOUR CLUBHOUSE EASILY, BOYS, BUT I'D LIKE TO BRING ALONG SOME OF THE KIDS WHO BELONG TO OUR CIRCUS FAMILIES! DO YOU MIND?
GOSH, NO! THAT WOULD BE GREAT!!
SURE! TH' MORE MEMBERS WE GET TH' BETTER!!
HOT DOG!!
SALLY IS GONNA BE HONORARY MEMBER OF TH' RINKEYDINKS!!
WE'D BETTER HURRY OVER TO OUR CLUBHOUSE AN' GET EVERY-THING READY BEFORE SHE GETS THERE!
H'M! WHAT A MESS!! C'MON, FELLERS, WE GOTTA HURRY AN' CLEAN THIS PLACE UP SO IT LOOKS NICE WHEN SALLY AN' HER FRIENDS GET HERE!!
WE'LL HAVE THIS CLUBHOUSE LOOKIN' LIKE A MILLION DOLLARS BEFORE SALLY GETS HERE!!
AN' SHE'S BRINGIN' HER FRIENDS WITH HER, DON'T FORGET!
NOTHIN'S TOO GOOD FOR SALLY!
WELCOME
WELL, WE'RE ALL SET FOR OUR GUESTS, NOW!!
OUR CLUBHOUSE IS ALL CLEANED UP SWELL!!
AN' HERE COMES SALLY AROUND TH' CORNER!!
RINKEYDINK CLUB
MEMBERS OF THE RINKEYDINKS, LET ME INTRODUCE YOU TO SOME OF MY LITTLE CIRCUS FRIENDS!!
HERE IS VERONA, THE FAT LADY'S GIRL!!
NEXT IS TIM O'MEARA, THE GIANT'S SON!
AND SAMMY SPLINTER, THE RUBBER MAN'S SON!!
THEN THERE IS MAJOR BIGG, THE MIDGET'S BOY!!
WELCOME

TRACY, I WANT TO CONGRATULATE YOU ON YOUR QUICK WORK IN CATCHING STEVE, THE TRAMP AND HELPING CONVICT HIM.
THANKS, CHIEF.
THAT WAS ONE OF THE QUICKEST CONVICTIONS IN THE HISTORY OF THIS DEPARTMENT. WHEN ARE THEY TAKING STEVE AWAY?
GOVERNMENT MEN ARE HERE NOW TO TAKE STEVE TO THE PENITENTIARY - LET'S GO OUT AND SEE THEM.
YEAH - YOU AIN'T HEARD D'LAST OF DIS, MISTER WISE GUY! NO PRISON WALLS ARE STRONG ENOUGH TO HOLD STEVE - AND WHEN I DO GET OUT ——
PUTTIN' ME AWAY IS PROBABLY GIVIN' Y'U D'THRILL OF YER LIFE - BUT I'M WARNIN' Y'U, DETECTIVE. I'M — TAKE 'IM AWAY, BOYS.
I GATHER FROM THE GENERAL CONVERSATION, TRACY, THAT THAT YOUNG FELLOW ISN'T EXACTLY CRAZY ABOUT YOU.
IT ISN'T WHAT HE MIGHT TRY TO DO TO ME - THAT BOTHERS ME - BUT WHAT HE MIGHT TRY TO WORK ON HANK STEELE AND THAT KID, JUNIOR, IF HE SHOULD EVER ESCAPE.
WELL, DON'T WORRY, KID - THEY NEVER GET OUT OF WHERE HE'S GOING! I KNOW THE WARDEN DOWN THERE - AND THERE HASN'T BEEN ONE SUCCESSFUL ESCAPE IN SIX YEARS.
AND NOW - LET US TAKE A LOOK AT STEVE'S FUTURE HOME - ONE OF THE MOST EFFICIENTLY RUN PENAL INSTITUTIONS IN THE WORLD - AND GENERALLY RECOGNIZED BY THE UNDERWORLD AS THE "END".
THE WARDEN'S OFFICE.
WARDEN, NO. 2603 WHO HAS JUST SERVED FIFTEEN DAYS IN SOLITARY IS OUTSIDE. DO YOU WANT TO TALK TO HIM?
YES - BRING HIM IN.
NO. 2603, BUILDING YOURSELF INTO A DESK IN THE FURNITURE SHOP AND ATTEMPTING THUS TO ESCAPE WAS VERY CLEVER - BUT LIKE ALL SIMILAR ATTEMPTS ONLY MADE THINGS TOUGHER FOR YOURSELF.
2603
YOU PAID THE PENALTY FOR YOUR FOLLY BY SPENDING FIFTEEN DAYS IN SOLITARY. DO YOU THINK YOU CAN CONDUCT YOURSELF IN AN ORDERLY MANNER LIKE THE OTHER PRISONERS NOW.
2603
I DO.
WHAT'S THIS? LOOK! CAN IT BE POSSIBLE THAT STEVE, THE TRAMP IS COMING TO THE SAME PRISON THAT HOUSES THE NOTORIOUS "STOOGE" VILLER - ANOTHER ONE OF TRACY'S BITTER FOES!
ALL RIGHT, SEE THAT YOU BEHAVE NOW, NO. 2603.

HOW IN THE WORLD DID THE MAGICIAN MAKE THAT BIRD CAGE VANISH IN THE MAGIC ACT WE SAW TONIGHT?
HERE'S WHAT THEY SAW.
PRESTO!
EXPLAIN THAT IF YOU CAN!
IT'S TOO EASY!...
... THE CAGE WAS COLLAPSIBLE AND ATTACHED TO A STRING WHICH WAS JUST LONG ENOUGH TO GO UP ONE SLEEVE, ACROSS THE SHOULDERS AND DOWN TO THE OTHER WRIST. WHEN HE MADE THE THROWING MOTION THE CAGE FOLDED UP AND WAS DRAWN INTO HIS SLEEVE — BIRD AND ALL.

NO MORE "BLIND DATES" FOR HIM — by Timmins
BE REASONABLE, JOAN. HE'S THE ONLY FELLOW I CAN GET FOR TONIGHT. MAYBE MARY WON'T NOTICE.....
BRING HIM THEN. I'VE GOT TO HAVE SOMEONE FOR HER. HE'S GOOD COMPANY ONLY SOMETIMES...
COMFORTABLE OVER THERE, MARY?
YES, THANKS PERFECTLY!
LATER
TOM, I'M OFF "BLIND DATES" AFTER TONIGHT. MARY SEEMED LIKE A PEACH OF A GIRL, BUT WHY'D SHE HAVE TO ACT SO FORMAL?
WANT ME TO TELL YOU... STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER? YOU WON'T GET SORE? THEN HERE GOES...
THANKS FOR THE TIP, TOM. I WON'T TAKE ANY MORE CHANCES WITH "B.O." I'LL USE LIFEBUOY AS YOU DO
TOM'S RIGHT... LIFEBUOY GETS YOU EXTRA-CLEAN. IT'S GOODBYE "B.O." NOW!
"B.O." GONE—no need to make "blind dates" now!
TOM WANTS ME TO GO TO A PARTY, MARY. MAY I TAKE YOU?
THE OTHER GIRLS WILL BE JEALOUS. YOU'RE SO POPULAR NOW.
Why wait to be warned about "B.O."? (body odor)
WE all perspire—a quart daily. We all are subject to "B.O." (body odor). Sooner or later YOU are bound to offend. Perhaps you'll be warned—perhaps not! How much wiser to take precautions now! Bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. You will know by its extra-clean, quickly-vanishing scent that Lifebuoy is different from ordinary toilet soaps—gives extra protection. Its rich, hygienic lather purifies and deodorizes pores—stops "B.O." Guards health by getting germs off hands.
Great for the skin
Millions find Lifebuoy the finest complexion soap ever. Its bland, penetrating lather frees pores of clogged impurities—gets skin cleaner, healthier looking.

MAY.

Come then, ye virgins and ye youths, whose hearts
Have felt the raptures of refining love;
And thou, Amanda, come, pride of my song;
Formed by the graces, loveliness itself;
Come with those downcast eyes, sedate and sweet,
Those looks demure, that deeply pierce the soul,
Where, with the light of thoughtful reason mixed
Shines lively fancy and the feeling heart;
O come, and while the rosy-footed may
Steals blushing on, together let us tread
The morning dews, and gather in their prime Fresh blooming flowers.

Vide. Thompson's Spring.

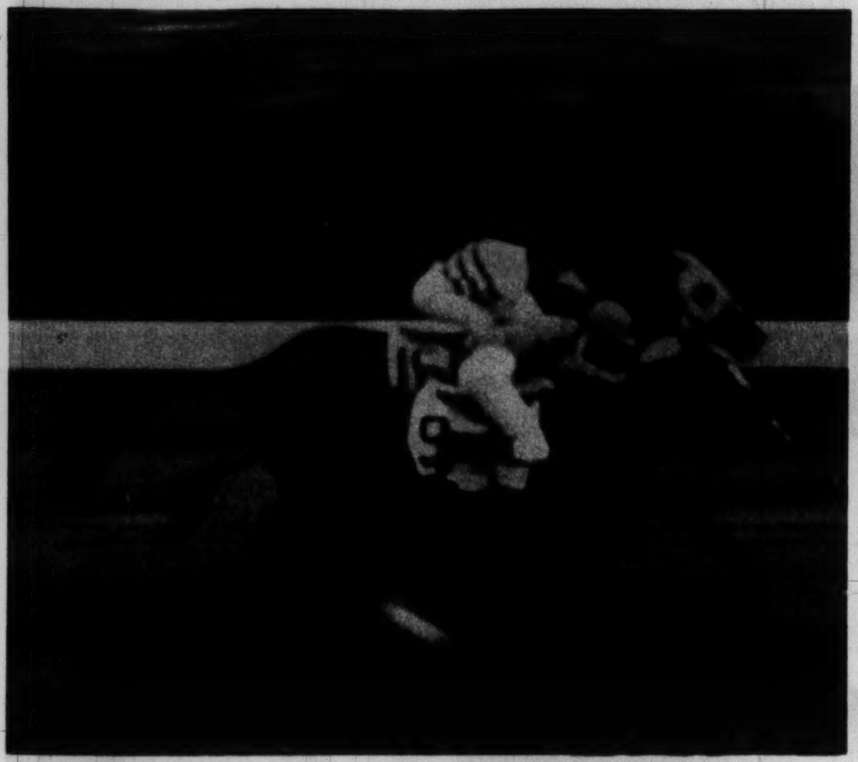
WHAT HAPPENED IN THE KENTUCKY DERBY FINISH



These three motion picture photographs show, from left to right, the consecutive actions in the battle between Broker's Tip, with Meade up (on the rail), and Head Play, Jockey Fisher's mount. In the first, Meade's hand is extended toward the saddle of Head Play. In the second, Meade still apparently tries to hinder Fisher's mount. In the third, Fisher rises in his saddle and belabors Meade with his whip.

New Treatment
makes your Hair gleaming, soft, healthy

Even the very first use of this new shampoo-treatment reveals unsuspected lustre and beauty in your hair!

It's such an easy method! Gone are all the bugaboos of messy lather and repeated rinsings. With Admiracion, the new soapless olive oil shampoo, just one thorough rinse is enough. Gone, too, is the film of soap residue which masked the natural sheen and softness of your hair.

Admiracion is unlike any other shampoo. It contains an important extra ingredient, a newly discovered scalp tonic, called Davolene. By normalizing your scalp, Davolene helps to correct excessive oiliness or dryness, to stop dandruff and falling hair.

Your first Admiracion shampoo treatment will be a delightful revelation. Get a bottle and do your hair tonight. Or, send the coupon below. ● If you have your hair done professionally, ask for an Admiracion DeLuxe Treatment.

TWO OUTSTANDING EXAMPLES OF Uniformity

Every line as straight as a string . . . every knee bending in unison . . . every heel set down at the same time . . . every arm in rhythm! Hundreds of men moving as one . . . without any variation. Dress Parade demands uniformity!

CADETS ON PARADE . . . AND HILLS BROS COFFEE

FRESH ALWAYS!

The vacuum process of packing coffee, originated by Hills Bros. in 1900, is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh. No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it fresh always!

Roasting "a little at a time" insures flawless flavor for every pound

There is nothing fickle about the flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee! The rich, enchanting taste you find in your first pound, comes in every pound. This is the result of Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' exclusive process.

Instead of roasting in bulk, Hills Bros. roast their coffee evenly, continuously, a little at a time. Day after day, year in and year out, every berry in Hills Bros.' rare blend receives exactly the same roasting!

Such uniformity can't be achieved by ordinary bulk-roasting. For roasting in big batches doesn't permit a uniform spread of heat. Disappointing flavor-variations naturally result.

You may think the marvelous flavor is just an accident, the first time you drink Hills Bros. Coffee. But your second pound proves its uniformity. And each succeeding pound makes you more and more of a Hills Bros. fan! Order your first pound today, by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Ground Right to Taste Right

No coffee, however good, can be uniform in taste unless uniformly roasted and uniformly ground. Hills Bros.' exclusive, continuous process—Controlled Roasting—and correct granulation insure this uniformity. Hills Bros.' granulation will give best results by the drip process or any other method.

Futile to Start Habit Training at Few Months

Long, Unbroken Periods of Rest Necessary for the Very Little Baby.

By GLADYS BEVANS.

IT may seem foolish to say it, but sometimes I get awfully worried about all these little babies who are being snatched from their beds with that warm, sweet baby smell about them, at short intervals day or night, to start them early on the road to bowel or bladder control. They are having forced upon them something for which they are not ready.

And then I think of the deep need of their whole organism for long periods of sleep and rest—when I think of the work that must go on in their bodies to develop a physical stability which they need, now that they are out in this world filled with stimuli of all sorts for their senses—when I think of all this it worries me to picture the babies and young children whose parents think that continence of the bowels and bladder is such a terrifically important thing for them to learn at this age.

For in contrast to a rather recent efficiency viewpoint there has been a sharp swing of the pendulum on this subject of toilet habits. For a time it was thought modern and scientific to teach a baby the dry habit almost from his birth. Trained nurses and some mothers talked with pride of their achievement in that direction.

The echoes of that idea are still ringing in the ears of some people and I get many letters from mothers who are losing a lot of good energy over concentrating on that one habit when their child is too young for it—energy that might better be given to the formation of much more important habits or much more important developments.

Wiser Approach Used.

There is another slant on this subject of toilet habits. While that method of early control sounded much more scientific than the old fashioned methods of laissez faire, it was really not so much so. Letting the children learn control when they got sense enough was not so very bad.

We are learning things about children all the time—not mere surface facts of behavior but things concerned with the deeper needs of their growth and development. And because of that we have swung away from those determined, grit-your-teeth attempts to teach a baby or very young child the toilet habits which have to recommend them chiefly the elimination of much of baby's wash. Of course, those attempts were often successful and convenient, but, as we shall see, there's more to it than that.

There is now a much wiser and, I was going to say more humane, approach to the establishing of toilet habits. This approach takes into account a number of things.

First, we must remember that elimination is a perfectly natural instructive habit—like those of eating and sleeping. It is decidedly a question whether we should try to shackle such instincts or natural impulses too early.

Child Needs Unbroken Rest.

Second, the baby needs long unbroken periods of rest—the very fact that he naturally takes

Cocoanut Has Way All Its Own with Desserts

Dishes Give no Hint of the Speed with Which They Are Prepared

BY MARY MEADE.

COCOANUTS are prime favorites of ours. They always have been since we battered in our first shaggy customer with a stove lid lifter, and mother wiped up the deluge with the kitchen mop!

We've scattered its sweet shredded meat over sauces and salads, sprinkled it atop waffles and pancakes, stuffed it into fat red apples and prunes, and tumbled it together in a hundred desserts, fluffy souffles, dainty tea accompaniments and endless more entrancing appetite tempters.

Personally, I dote on fresh cocoanut meat . . . and sigh ecstatically over fresh cocoanut milk . . . and glow with triumph when the family hammer and I neatly cleave the punched-and-dripped monkey face and angle out the cool white meat. But I'll admit it's a bit of a job. So if minutes are gold bricks at your house, save the big brown nuts for special occasions, and dress up your three meals a day from tight little packages and sealed cans of what is almost as good—moist and shredded " store " cocoanut.

From Shreds to Powder.

You'll find a half dozen types to choose from if yours is a well stocked store. They run all the way from chips and long threads to an almost powdered product. Canned cocoanut is a fresh grated nut, sweetened just a bit, and packed either with or without some of its own milk in airtight cans. It gives us those long snowy shreds and the sweetness of fresh cocoanut. Or for puddings, custards, and fillings, where the showiness of the long shreds is no object, I use one of the finely shredded, sugar cured types. It's even possible to buy grated cocoanut in a variety of pastel tints.

Desserts—hustle-up ones that appeal to busy housewives because of the peppy way in which they dash together—make their bow to cocoanut in these four clock beaters:

BANANA TUMBLE.

3 bananas, cut in dice.
1 medium orange.
1 lemon.
¼ cup sugar.
½ cup moist shredded cocoanut.

Squeeze the orange and lemon and add the juice to the sugar. When dissolved add the bananas and cocoanut. Pile lightly in sherbet glasses and chill. This serves four.

COCOANUT ORANGES.

3 good sized slicing oranges.
½ cup confectioners' sugar.
1 cup moist shredded cocoanut.

Peel the oranges carefully and slice them thin. Arrange then in layers in a serving dish, sprinkling sugar and cocoanut between each layer. Top with cocoanut and serve cold.

GLORIFIED PEACHES.

6 canned peach halves.
1 cup peach juice.
6 dates.
¼ cup chopped nut meats.
¼ cup moist cocoanut.
2 teaspoons lemon juice.
1 tablespoon cream.

Put the date meats, nuts, and cocoanut together through a fine food chopper. Moisten the mixture with the cream and half the lemon juice. Form into balls—three for each peach half—and nest these little balls in the cavities of the peaches. Now place each filled peach in a sherbet glass, pour over them the peach juice to which the remainder of the lemon juice has been added and chill very cold before serving.

COCOANUT-APRICOT FLUFF.

1½ cups stewed apricots.
1-3 cup confectioners' sugar.
1-3 cup whipping cream.
½ cup moist cocoanut.

Run the apricots through a sieve and add the sugar. Whip

Double Duty Tennis and Golf Outfits Have Fullness Placed Where It's Needed; Can Face Tubbing Without Shrinking

By RHEA SEEGER.

THE research bureau which devotes time to dabbling with such trifles as out-of-door recreations with and without daylight saving time has finally reported that seven-eighths of the female population practically spend every extra hour in smart new sports clothes, whether they wham a tennis ball, slice a golf ball, or merely decorate a comfortable clubhouse veranda. So it must be the new clothes, not the games nor the extra hours.

But the new sports clothes are obligingly designed. . . . Most of them are so fashioned as to be ready for double duty. The colorful cottons can be used for both tennis and golf, the cleverly tailored linens the same, and the knitted things can be used quite correctly for traveling. Regular sports clothes are clothes that have been designed for active wear, rather simple in silhouette, and made with artfully concealed plaits for freedom. These plaits are not just inserted any place, but are deftly placed to assure the greatest freedom when the owners are in action.

Have an Authentic Out-of-Door Look.

Authentic sports clothes have been designed by experts this year. . . . Swanky collections that are as breezily out-of-doors as anything you have been hunting for for years. You will find crisp looking tennis dresses made of pre-shrunk material. All the tubbing you choose to give any such fabric can be dismissed without a worry as to the shrinking.

The next fashion note to consider is the edict that all sports clothes, at least the active sports clothes, shall be smartly brief; that is, short and snappy. . . . Nothing is so dull as a too long tennis or golf dress. . . . This year, buy them and wear them as short as your conscience will permit. Striped piques are the newest you will see. . . . Cool, clean looking backless affairs that certainly will decorate the best of tennis tournaments. Seersucker cottons, in plain, plaid, and striped as well as checked designs are the second choice. Many of these seersuckers and the piques can be found with tiny capes that are so much a part of the frock that you will be able to wear the dress and cape as a summer shopping or street costume without violating your amateur standing as a fashion-wise person.

String or tobacco twist twine is a frightfully smart and adventurous new idea for moderately priced knitted costumes. The exceptionally low price tag probably will make you gasp with as much pleasure as the good looking clothes you can buy made of this practical string. These new machine knitted things are cool, colorful, and easy to wear. Golfers will grab them in record time, especially the three-piece affairs consisting of a slip-over sweater blouse, a straight slim skirt, and a loosely fitted casual short coat.

Perforated Suede Jackets for Golfers.

Perforated suede jackets in some fascinating new colors—raspberry rose, almond green, soft yellow, and sapphire blue—are reserved for early risers or chilly golf enthusiasts who come home long after twilight. For that matter anybody will appreciate these well ventilated and swagger hip-length models, for they can be used from dawn till dusk in a dozen different combinations, with sweaters, separate skirts, summer frocks, and even flannel slacks for motor-boating.

Some of the newest sports clothes have been sketched from a Chicago shop that is completely filled with nothing but sportswear for the growing crowd of enthusiasts, spectator and participant alike. From left to right you will see . . . first, the twin sweater combination, said to have been sponsored by Vassar college girls. The high-necked, incredibly soft wool sweater with long sleeves is absolutely featherweight. . . . You wear it with a severely tailored separate skirt and for extra warmth, the cardigan jacket, made of the same the cream and fold the apricots together with half the cocoanut into it. Spoon lightly into little glass dishes, sprinkle with the rest of the cocoanut, and chill before serving. This serves four.

Have you ever found out just how good waffles can be when sprinkled with home ground or store bought cocoanut? Start out with your best waffle recipe. Then, after you have the correct spoonfuls in the hot waffle iron, sprinkle toasted shredded cocoanut over all, just before the lid goes down.

All this spring the stores have been featuring maple sugar. I had some yesterday, left over from cakes I had been making, and here is what happened!

I wanted to have baked apples for lunch—but I wanted to glorify them for company's sake. I found on my shelf shredded cocoanut, maple sugar, and two oranges. I took out the pulp and white inside part of the oranges, and ran the peelings with the cocoanut through a food chopper, crushed some of the maple sugar and mixed all my ingredients together. Then I cored big fat red apples and stuffed them with my grand looking mixture. In a baking dish to which a little hot water had been added, they were baked to a luscious, popping doneness and were pronounced the best baked apples ever concocted!

Other days we've gone into the matter of ice creams and their sundry delectable toppings-off. Now comes cocoanut which has a way all its own of dressing up chilly desserts. If the ice cream is chocolate, use simply moist white cocoanut shreds as a topping. Vanilla cream does nicely with lightly toasted cocoanut mixed with a dash of chocolate sprinkles.

Likewise, maple sauce and cocoanut seem to have an affinity for one another. The recipe for sauce below, plus a generous dashing of crunchy white shreds from a cocoanut box does things alike to the top of ice creams, frozen custards, boiled or baked custards, and an endless procession of simple oven puddings.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE.

1½ cups brown sugar.
1-3 cup light table sirup.
1-3 cup butter.
2-3 cup water.
1¼ cups rich milk.

Combine the sugar, sirup, butter, and water. Simmer over a gentle heat until a little will form a ball in cold water [232 degrees Fahrenheit]. Take from the burner and add the milk. Stir until smooth, then serve either hot or cold over ice cream or puddings. Top with a sprinkling of toasted cocoanut.

MOLASSES COCOANUT MARBLES.

First grease a measuring cup lightly with butter. Pour in one-fourth cup of corn sirup and then fill it up to the one-half mark with molasses. Turn this combination into a sauce pan and add 1 tablespoon of butter and 1½ teaspoons of vinegar. Cook carefully until a little becomes brittle when dropped into cold water [240 degrees Fahrenheit]. Remove from the stove, stir in 1 cup cocoanut and, with the help of a teaspoon, form into small balls about three-fourths inch in diameter. Serve as candy.

There are also salads to consider. If you're looking for a good luncheon, one which will tempt the most finical, try three prunes apiece, stuffed in the following manner:

PRUNE SALAD.
[With Cocoanut Hearts.]

24 large prunes.
2 packages cream cheese.
½ cup finely chopped, shredded cocoanut.
Mayonnaise.
Lettuce.

Split the prunes and remove the seeds. Blend together the cheese, cocoanut, and about 2 tablespoons of the mayonnaise, adding a dash of salt, if desired. With a small spoon, stuff the prunes and serve three, with a little additional mayonnaise garnish, on crisp lettuce leaves.

And finally for what some enthusiastic soul has christened:

COCOANUT ANGEL PIE.

¾ cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
5 egg yolks.
1-3 teaspoon salt.
Grated rind 1 orange.
1 teaspoon lemon juice.
2 cups finely shredded cocoanut.
3 egg whites.
1-3 cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 baked pie shell.

Cream the butter and sugar, then add the yolks and salt, and beat for about 7 minutes. Add the orange rind and lemon juice. Turn the mixture into a freshly baked pie shell and over the top sprinkle the cocoanut. Bake for one-half hour in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit]. Make a meringue by adding the one-fourth teaspoon salt and one-third cup sugar to the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pile lightly over the pie and brown to a golden color.

GIVE A THOUGHT TO HEAD CARRIAGE

For It Is Plainly Telling Your World Whether You Are a Success or an Apologetic Failure

By Antoinette Donnelly.

Dorothy Jordan, film actress, carries her head with true, unstudied grace.

WE did a great deal of talking recently about the correct way to hold the head. And what holding the head up properly does for your style, charm, and general appearance. This was during the presentation of the West Point exercise series.

Well, we're going to do still more talking about that head of yours in relation to its position on your shoulders. Because it's being bruited around pretty generally today that a lady just can't have style unless that head of hers is held snappily and well. For another reason, too, we want to talk Heads Up. It is because of the critical survey of this part of the anatomy, due now to the coiffeur and milliners' art. People, of course, have always looked at heads and coiffures and hats and faces and necks. But with each succeeding season, here lately, the head becomes the cynosure of eyes and a woman rises or falls in appreciation on the lift of that head of hers.

Women have particular reason to check and recheck daily on how their heads are being carried. There wouldn't be any fight against double chins if they had started this checking up early enough. There would be fewer lined necks, fewer thickish necks, and certainly fewer untidy necklines due to escaping hair strands or ruthless neck dressing.

You see, it isn't only the actual head carriage that is improved with a smart uplift of the head, but the neckline, which is tremendously important to women.

Youthful Lines Seen in Smart, Short Coiffure.

This season the strictest attention is being paid to keeping the hair sufficiently off the back of the neck to "youthify" the line there. It was found that in the neck proper there is more style than in the cut of clothes. That era which we have just survived of hair flopping over coat collars and dress invariably added age! The long bob belongs only to a swanlike throat. It did nothing for women with any shade of maturity about them. So the hairdressers were quick to correct this mistake of theirs, and today the whole object of hairdressing, smart hairdressing, that is, is to clear off the back of the neck and keep a smart line in evidence there.

Now, as was pointed out during the West Point series, there is a back of the neck condition known as sway neck. Many have it who are blissfully unconscious of it; yet it does the same dowdy things as the sway back does. It cheats the head silhouette of youth and line just as the figure is cheated with the sway back. It bulges the chin forward just as the sway back bulges the abdomen forward.

Women Said to Carry Heads Like Horses.

So, if we seem to be too enthusiastic about this heads up propaganda, please believe it is because so many women rob themselves of the style and smartness they are otherwise entitled to.

One of our women sculptors is quoted as saying that many women carry their heads like horses. Spirited and dispirited horses, we add in explanation. Instead of holding the head up as it should be held, to follow the upright line of the spine, it hangs forward listlessly or it is reared back as if a too tight rein were holding it. More often the former is the fault, and out of this head position comes our large crop of double chins and thickness along the chin and jawline. Also, out of the habit is grown a certain lazy indifference about how the hair is kept. Certainly a woman who shows "head pride" in her bearing is going to be hair proud, too, and do everything within her power to raise the whole head to the highest level of attractiveness.

When the head slumps the person indulges in a general slumping. Witness how we perk up, the head especially, when something nice happens to us to reëstablish our self-esteem.

It's no myth that famous women have been made to walk the plank with a book upon their heads by mothers who wanted to make beauties out of them. We have met a number of them and heard first hand of this primitive method of instilling a beautiful head carriage.

Any one who has been on a West Indies cruise or has had a closeup of the native women of Africa is convinced that nothing contributes to a superb head carriage as balancing something on the head as one walks. These primitive women observed with great burdens on their heads have not only superb head lines, but their bodies are carried and move with infinite grace. Age may show in other ways, but not in the thickened jaw and neck lines, in the back of neckline so often seen among us.

Consciousness of Good Head Carriage Important.

True, we can't recommend that you load yourself with a basket of fruit or the family wash and walk down an avenue. But it can be recommended that one think of her head as bearing such a weight upon it that she can't bowl her chin over—must stand up to the test. The younger members could be made to carry a book for balancing tests, and older girls and women could perform this same exercise every now and then to see how well or how not well their heads are behaving. However, we think that the consciousness of a good head carriage is what women need more than anything else. In the course of our years of observing our ridiculous though often grand sex, we note that with women the cure of a beauty malady is more than half accomplished through recognition of it. In other words, few women will go on fostering a habit once they are aware that it detracts from their looks.

So we would urge you to think often of this head of yours and how you carry it. Think of how other women carry theirs. Of how the most attractive women you know do theirs. Of how the ungraceful women do, and so on. Whether the head is carried apologetically or with the air of success upon it.

And, in addition to this, we would urge a few stretching exercises a day, just to get the head up and starting it right in the morning. Simply pull yourself up full height, conscious that the head is following the upright line of the spine, and you will see an improvement in no time.

Daughters' Welfare Is Important

By Doris Blake.

A CERTAIN young mother was criticized for a remark made about the neighborhood in which she intended to bring up her two young daughters. Her family took her to task for her ambitions. They called it extravagant ideas. Her husband's family muttered about the folly of "living beyond your means." But the young mother held to her purpose. She was not extravagant. She was ambitious for the life success of her girls. She moved into a colony where it was possible for her girls to form friendships that were valuable.

Understand, this woman was not a social climber. But she reasoned that she had two girls and she owed them more than physical and moral welfare. She did a lot of clever financing to make the arrangement possible. And she lived to see both her girls marry well. She did not preach marrying money to her girls. But she did teach those girls of hers such grace and charm and tact that they became most popular members of the set they graced. And they married two thoroughly nice young men, boys of good family, education, and character.

Social Charms Needed by Girl Without Fortune.

She said: "I do not think a mother's duty ends with building moral character and physical stamina. Girls must marry to make a successful life. They must be trained to the things that lend charm and appeal.

"The fact that I resolved to move into a neighborhood that gave my girls an opportunity to learn from other girls was simply part of my plan. In many cases it would not be necessary. It just happened that my old neighborhood was rough, and I resolved not to have my girls meet rough boys. After all, a child's playmates have an influence on his character.

"But I think we modern parents should do more toward building up that gift in women that makes them attractive to the opposite sex. It isn't enough to train them to be good, to be successful business women. That is not enough for modern day competition. And girls without fortunes have to rely on their social charms, not on their working ability, to captivate male interest."

Theoretically, mothers are deeply interested in seeing that their girls are married successfully. But how many parents think it their business to instill in their growing girls the tact, poise, charm, and graces that lure? Personally, we think the neighborhood has little to do with instilling the gift, except in such localities as are obviously destructive. It's the mother's failure to help her girl make the most of herself that more often stands in the way of her daughter's chances.

Bad Habit of Calling Attention to Shortcomings.

One contribution in mothers' failures in this respect is the common habit of calling attention to a child's shortcomings. Usually these are of physical nature. Or, letting children grow up with liabilities that might well be corrected in youth. These might be anything from faulty teeth to slovenly carriage. Today, at comparatively little expense, there's hardly a beauty liability that cannot be corrected. It is a heedless parent who will permit her girl to grow up a sensitive, shy, unpoised creature because of some such liability.

We put this beauty clause in parental duty first not because we believe it more important than character building but because it has become a necessary part of a girl's popularity. We do not mean that she must be a beauty to be popular or marry well. But she must be free of such liabilities as we have suggested and be blessed with health and vitality that breed poise and sureness in order to compete with today's fine looking crop of girls.

Truly, we think it just as important that a mother teach her child the tact that makes her a charming playmate as that she sees that her little Marjory gets her proper vitamins. We think it just as important that little Marjory be told she can build up a line of attractions as that she be taught to build up a reputation as a dutiful student.

Today, it may be truly said that the reflection is on the mother, not on the child who grows up believing in ugly ducklings. There is absolutely no need for any child of the family being made to feel a sense of inferiority about her looks as compared with a more favored sister. Where it is felt, it is the mother who is to blame. She has either done nothing to build up a competitive line for her girl, or she has damaged the child's chances of ever securing sureness by constantly referring to her handicaps.

We repeat that no mother has the right to let a girl grow up with ugly teeth, with bad postural habits, with ugly little mannerisms that convict her as plain and undesirable later. We emphasize the postural habits as a mother's duty because we have reason to know that nothing will establish in a child and growing girl the poised charm that a smart, erect carriage does.

Other Attractions Offset Lack of Beauty.

Drill moral principles into your youngster, by all means. See that she gets her proteins and vitamins and cod liver oil. But if she happens not to be born possessed of a fortune in good looks, teach her that being short on so-called beauty assets is no handicap providing she's long on other attractions. She can learn to be an excellent dancer, a better bridge player than a prettier damsel, a girl to be counted in on all kind of games.

But most of all, teach her to be amiable and tactful, to say and do the sweet and nice things that never fail to make a friend. Teach her how to put other people at ease. This will serve her immeasurably well in earning her living in the business field as well as in her social contacts.

Apropos of what a wise mother can do with a child who ordinarily might be thought handicapped, the tribute of her child is testimonial enough: "I never was made to feel conscious of having a bad scar until I got out in the world to earn my living. My mother never spoke of it. But she spoke many times of the gifts she believed I had. Consequently I had as many beaux and just as much fun as my sisters."

What brought this topic up today was a letter from a sixteen-year-old whose mother tells her repeatedly no man will ever look twice at her because she is so homely.

Who's fault if the girl is homely? The mother had her from infancy and if at the end of sixteen years she is willing to pronounce her own handiwork homely the verdict, "Failure" stands written against her.

Attractive New Apron Lightens Indoor Tasks

Guimpe Dress Is a Smart and Comfortable Choice for the Younger Girl.

Just Off the Press: The summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions, a smart 48 page issue showing the latest styles in color. The book is 15 cents a copy; but when ordered with a pattern, the price is only 10 cents. Address Clotilde Patterns, Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, New York City; or call at the Tribune Public Service Office at 1 South Dearborn, Chicago.

By Clotilde.

HERE is an apron with a matching cap that will make any woman doing her own work look well and suitably dressed. The pattern, No. 3198, is as easy as can be to use, and there is a wide range of lovely cotton materials to choose from. Dimity, percale, gingham, cotton broadcloth, chintz, etc.

The apron is cut in one piece, and is slashed in at both sides at a little below the normal waistline. The lower slashed edge is gathered and sewed to the top edge. At the outer edge the seam may be about ¼ inch wide, tapering off to practically nothing at the other end. It is a good plan to cut a straight strip of material a little longer than the slash, turn in on three sides and baste down on the wrong side over the seam. Then put a corresponding strip on the right side. Stitch around the edges, remove bastings, fasten threads, and press flat.

All the apron edges are finished with a narrow bias binding, and this has to be carefully put on. In basting the binding on around the scallops, clip to the stitching at the points between the scallops. This will prevent puckering when the opposite edge is hemmed down on the wrong side.

A pocket and tie strings finish this pretty apron. The cap is in one piece, and the edges are finished the same as on the apron. At the back a buttoned strap holds the cap firmly in place. A clear sky blue dimity with the binding in a deeper shade would make a lovely ensemble.

Pattern No. 3433 is for a pretty jumper dress for younger girls. The front and back of the dress are each in one piece, and plaited insets on both sides of the front and back are set low down and give graceful fullness to the hemline.

The separate guimpe has the smart puffed sleeves and the new high neckline. The blouse closes in the front and the collar will be pretty made of a contrasting color—preferably white piqué.

The jumper is high in the back at the neck, while at the front it is cut in a deep U shape. Both neck and armholes should be finished with a wrong side facing. A pale green gingham made the original dress, and the washable guimpe was made of a yellow dimity overplaided in the green shade. The collar was of white piqué.

Pattern No. 3416 makes a graceful, pretty costume slip that you will be sure to want. The slip is cut bias in the front. These clever lines run from the center front and center back and meet at the side seam at the waistline. A new and becoming cut to slenderize the figure is the result. Shoulder straps are provided, and the top and bottom edges may be trimmed with lace or finished with bias bindings.

Crêpe de chine, flat silk crêpe and washable satin are favorite materials for lingerie.

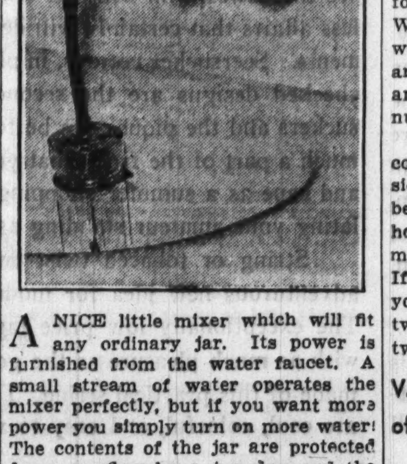
New Mixer



A NICE little mixer which will fit any ordinary jar. Its power is furnished from the water faucet. A small stream of water operates the mixer perfectly, but if you want more power you simply turn on more water! The contents of the jar are protected from overflow by a jar ring and the water flows away into the sink without muss or fuss.

Futile to Start Habit Training at Few Months

them shows it is Nature's program for him. He needs that rest. His whole body, his nerves, need that undisturbed time more than they need the formation of toilet habits. It is the rhythm of his life at that time.

Third, at great cost of time and thought and energy worthy of a better cause in the baby's behalf, both bowel and bladder control may be established, to be sure, but at too great cost to the baby. Also very often this early training is not successful and, if it is not, it sometimes makes the training very difficult when it's undertaken later on.

But when training is begun it is important for the mother or nurse to keep this fact in mind—that it is an adult's job. I say this because so many mothers complain, "He just does it to be naughty," "I spank him and it does not good." "She promises me she'll tell me next time and then she forgets," or "She's sorry afterwards and says she'll be good." This is, we must remember, an imposed control and the responsibility rests with the adult. For her to scold or punish or blame or cause emotional scenes over it is unfair to the little child and defeats its own ends. The child's associations with this training should be pleasant ones.

Later Child Joins in Friendly Routine.

Later on in the training a child should learn to work with his mother or nurse, as if he were joining her in a friendly routine—doing his share in this matter as he does when he has learned to partly dress himself or pick up his blocks. His mother must, by friendly interest, enlist his coöperation.

The next point is this: that it is important to wait until a child is old enough to be responsible for telling when he needs to go to the toilet and for exercising control before expecting it. But preceding this there are two important rules parents must follow, that help pave the way for control. These are definiteness and regularity.

Suppose a child is put on the toilet immediately after getting up, after meals, after his nap and before going to bed. He comes to associate going to the toilet with those definite parts of his routine and if done regularly it begins to slip into its place as routine, too. This is a mental thing but also a physical one. His body comes to form the habit of eliminating at certain definite times for the body forms habits as well as the mind. When the child is a little older he will recognize the sensations which are associated with these functions and be able to tell his mother or nurse.

When the definite training for his conscious control is begun it is considered advisable for the schedule to be kept absolutely — even if your household chores or personal matters make it inconvenient at the moment. If your daughter is 2 years old and you plan to put her on the toilet every two hours, do it at the end of exactly two hours, like clockwork.

Variance Noted in Children of the Same Age.

A normal child who is perfectly well may vary from some other normal child in the age at which he gains control. There are factors we can't determine exactly which bring this about. All children are not mentally and physiologically ready for control at the same age. These general ages were given in Friday's column.

When, however, a child is ready voluntarily to control his bladder and bowel and the mother or nurse does her part, the efforts of three or four weeks usually bring success.

If there is great difficulty in getting results it is always well to see a doctor. Also, if there is a lapse after a child seems to have his toilet habits well established. Of course, in the latter case it is sometimes because a new baby has arrived and he is desperate for attention. But sometimes there is too great acidity in the urine or a local irritation of some sort. In any case it is well to cross off any physical cause before looking for a psychological one.

Patience, good nature and friendliness on the part of the mother or nurse are essential if the little child is to gain control of these two functions without being made to feel reprehensible.

As a summing up or as a reminder of some of these points our leaflet, "Establishing Good Elimination Habits," may be useful. This will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lid of Fashion Economy Has Been Lifted in Paris

Beaded Frock, Trailing Skirt Back in Style

Ermine Scarfs Reach the Floor; Fragile Fabrics Are Ruffled and Puffed.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris by night is a pageant of extravagance that has nothing to do with the cover charge in night clubs and whatnot. Women seem to have lifted the lid of style economy, and to have let all their natural feminine love of opulence escape into their clothes. Expensive beaded frocks are back in fashion. Trailing fragile skirts are the last word, and most of the elegantes want to speak it.

Crisp, transparent, organza dresses, extravagantly shirred or plaited, and so frail that they perish in the faint moisture of the dew, are worn around with the same careless disregard that a workman has for corduroy trousers. Ermine evening scarfs have grown so long they trail on the floor. Satin swagger coats in pale, perishable colors are looped up with sable, and full-circle capes of the new super-delicate summer velvet are as smart as they are short lived. Nobody seems to care so long as the result is alluring and mysterious these warm late spring nights.

Everything is exaggerated—extravagant. Women who wear Chanel's tulle frocks choose those that are most ruffled and puffed. Those who select Vionnet frocks pick the most delicate with the biggest sashes in the most splashy colors. Lanvin's evening jackets with huge square, geometric sleeves of silver fox delight the Parisienne in this mood of excess.

Fashion Leaders Favor Exaggerated Effects.

The Duchesse d'Harcourt wears Lelong's white silk piqué evening frock that is studded all over with silver nail heads, and that has a quaint, silver-studded velvet capelet. It trails a bit in back, in the new manner. Mme. Peralta Ramos [née Millicent Rogers] wears Schiaparelli's trailing eel-gray lacquered satin evening dress with a tray shouldered satin jacket that is embroidered all over. Such odd colors as this dark gray, called eel, are much in vogue. Princesse Faucigny-Lucinge is wearing dark wine red satin from Worth, a jewel studded frock; and hundreds of women choose this gayest season of the year to appear in dead-dead black. Against these and in glaring contrast are undiluted white dresses and those in pale odd shades, like mauve-pink and citrus-yellow.

The favorite printed evening frock of the fashionable woman in Paris is one that is splattered with field flowers, or wild with drunken zig-zag stripes. The printed frock in smart society has to have something which puts it right out of the useful category. Either it is crisp and extravagantly shirred or frilled, or it is minutely plaited so that sitting down becomes an imminent disaster.

Some of the stiff silks, like bengaline and taffeta, are getting a whirl in the world of fashion, too. Mainbocher's trailing taffeta dresses and his frock with a stiff black bengaline skirt and a filmy white lace bodice are considerably worn.

Evening Silhouette Is Not Confined to One.

The evening silhouette is multiple. The one with a square boxlike top, given by the wrap, and featured by Lanvin and Schiaparelli is a top-notcher. Dresses of this silhouette are slim but not at all slinky, because the skirts have swishy dust ruffles inside the hems, or are ample below the hips, but unflared. The silhouette that is slim to the hips and wide below is another one which is worn a lot, and the silhouette that is slim almost to the bottom and then breaks out into a foam of ruffles is an affectation of the elegante in Paris. Heaps of evening dresses have full skirts and soft, unfitted bodices. Most smart evening dresses have rather high necklines, and many of them have sleeve effects, but there are occasional backless frocks of super-daring.

The beaded evening dress has reappeared in a chastened guise. No big splashy effects in beads are to be seen, nor any solid beading. Beads are used to stud a dress as the stars stud the evening sky, or they are applied like rays or moonlight. The most exquisitely beaded evening frock of the season, and the most expensive, is the Chanel evening model shown at the extreme right. This frock is Greek in more ways than one. It is made of a white flax chiffon like that spun to clothe Helen of Troy, and like the Greek costume the material was moistened and wrung by hand before it was cut, so it falls in a million natural crinkles. These crinkles are held safe and fast by lines of tiny crystal beads sewed to them. Chanel with her inimitable taste makes the dress of a fine simplicity of cut—a round-necked straight bodice and a straight skirt that breaks into a ruffle at the hem. This is all, except for a silver lamé sash tied around the waist.

Mainbocher's Individual Black, White Ensemble.

Mainbocher's very individual black and white evening ensemble is shown second from the right. The crisp jacket of this model is made of white piqué with embroidered, flowered stripes. Two stiff ruffles make the short sleeves and there is a ruffle peplum. The black bengaline skirt is fitted to a diagonal line below the hips and below that is circular, falling to the floor in stiff column-like folds. A simple, surpliced bodice of fine white lace, shown in the background, finishes this ensemble.

Third from the extreme right is shown Madeleine Vionnet's stunning ermine evening scarf wrap, which is worn by Madame Agnès and other super smart women in Paris. This scarf is very wide, and so long that when thrown across the chest, as shown, it trails at the back. It is held by three black buttons between the shoulder blades in back, and the way it muffles up the throat is part of its extreme distinction. The dress is of white satin with an extravagant sash of virgin blue satin twined round and round the waist and falling down the side of the skirt. It is the ensemble of this sort from Vionnet that has a permanent distinction in this season of the bizarre and extraordinary in evening dress.

In front at the extreme left, and in the background at the left, you can see Schiaparelli's famous square-topped evening ensemble. The brilliant red velvet cape in the foreground makes a perfect square, and has shoulder trays, achieved by the heading of the corrugated plaiting at the arms of the cape. The eel gray lacquered satin frock is surpliced as to bodice, has embroidered cape sleeves, and a straight skirt that is stiffened inside the hem by a taffeta dust-ruffle.

Mainbocher's field-flower printed frock, accordion plaited from top to bottom, is shown in the background. It has a wreath of velvet field flowers thrown around the neck.

Diaphanous Creations Express French Love of Mysterious Allure

SKETCHED IN PARIS BY A TRIBUNE STAFF ARTIST.

Wife of Ambassador Chooses Blue Chiffon

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(AP)—Mme. de Laboulaye, wife of the French ambassador to the United States, has included in her wardrobe a gown of medium blue chiffon designed for informal dinners.

The draped bodice is designed with wide sleeves cuffed with Irish lace dyed to match the frock, while the rather full skirt is ankle length.

Flour Sifter

A DEXTEROUS 'ittle sifter sifts three times at once! A double arm agitator adds and beats air into the mixture and little doors in the side enable the home mistress to clean out the screens.

PARIS SNAPSHOTS

A smart summer raincoat, worn by Princesse Ruspoli, is made of waterproof white ribbed cotton, fastened with copper cartridges. Schiaparelli designed it.

The queen of Denmark has chosen a simple black lacquered satin evening dress from the Lelong collection to wear this summer.

An amusing oddity in summer evening fashions is the full length evening scarf of pale blue wool, with matching gloves, from Molyneux, which is worn with a white chiffon frock.

One of the Hollywood stars to choose Schiaparelli's shoulder tray suit is Gloria Swanson, who has it in dark blue with a white blouse. She also selected a tailored dress made entirely of natural string with an eel gray belt.

soft wool is supplied.

The second figure illustrates the 1933 version of a backless tennis or summer golf dress of striped pique. This plaited dress can be bought in colors, narrow stripes of brown, blue, and red against white. . . . The stripes have been used in V formations as the only trimming other than the band at the neckline.

Third from the left, tobacco twist twine has been knitted to make this new golf or travel costume. . . . Three pieces comprise this particular model, but simple one-piece frocks are available, as well as some sweater and skirt duets of the same knitted string. You can find some eye-filling colors, such as almond green, corn yellow, a dusty pink, white, and delphinium blue. The short jacket and skirt are of a simple pattern, while the sweater blouse is knitted in a new puff stitch design.

Trim Navy Blue Denim for Nautical Minded.

Second from the right, navy blue denim, buttoned with flat brass buttons, is made expressly for seagoing summer sailors or fresh water motorboat enthusiasts. It is made like a reefer, with a high, wide, and handsome closing. Tiny brass zippers attached to a ball keep the contents of the large pockets ship-shape. This is the coat you will wear with flannel slacks, a turtle-neck wool sweater, and all the knowing swank aship or ashore.

At the extreme right is the fashionable spectator suit of natural colored linen . . . a linen woven in a large basket weave pattern. The slim straight high-necked dress is trimmed with crocheted buttons and a woven belt of linen colored string clasped with a huge wooden buckle. The short, trim jacket is semi-fitted and has four pockets. It also buttons with crocheted affairs to match those on the dress.

2,000 Utopian Plans Sent to Frances Perkins

MISS FRANCES PERKINS, secretary of U. S. department of labor, has received 2,000 panacea plans from citizens who are eager to help the nation.

Among the 12 feminine communists to be awarded the Lenin order in Russia recently was Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, soviet Russia's woman envoy to Sweden.

Informal Tea Nice Gesture of Hospitality

Its Friendly Atmosphere Makes It Usual Choice of the Modern Hostess.

By Helen Bartlett.

SINCE much of the summer entertainment centers around the tea leaves, it might be apropos at this time to recall to your attention the distinguishing features of "just tea" and "a tea." The difference is one of formality and atmosphere, the latter, often called a reception, requiring formal clothes and courtly manners.

The men, then, don their morning coats [cutaway] with dark gray trousers, silk hat, gray gloves, and patent leather shoes. Although at the formal tea the men do not leave their gloves in the cloakroom, they are removed before entering to greet the hostess.

The hostess' gown is usually décolleté, preferably of a light shade, and she is without a hat. Since she has no attendants [tea being served by her servant staff], the other women guests may come in afternoon dresses with becoming and rather elaborate hats, or in tailored ensembles with close fitting chapeaux.

Engraved Invitations to Formal Tea.

Invitations to an "affair" of this kind are usually engraved in this manner:

Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Phillips will be at home on Friday
the fifth of June from four until six
Thirty-four Main street

If the reception is for some celebrity, the invitation may be engraved in the following style:

To meet Mrs. Frank McClelland
Mrs. T. Bradley Thomas at home
Friday, June the fourth
From four until six-thirty o'clock.
Twenty Park Avenue.

But the informal tea, rapidly growing more popular because of its friendlier and more intimate atmosphere, is the choice of the hostess. Visiting cards usually do duty as invitations; the hostess places in writing the day and the hour of the tea underneath her name on her personal card.

As to dress, the women are attired in simple street clothes, with hats and gloves, with the exception of the hostess and her guest of honor, if there is one, who wear afternoon dresses. The men, when they attend such a function, usually wear sack suits.

Upon arriving, the guests leave a card for the hostess and one for the guest of honor. If, however, it is not possible to accept the invitation, visiting cards are sent to the hostess, timed to arrive the day of the tea.

Greeted by Hostoss in the Drawing Room.

A maid or member of the family opens the door to the guests, and directs them to the rooms where they may lay aside their wraps. From there they go at once to the drawing room to be greeted by the hostess, with her guest of honor at her right. Then follows a general chatting, from which the guests go to the dining room, where the food is invitingly placed on a beautifully laid table.

In addition to the necessary silver and linen, there are a central ornament, flowers, and candles. At each end of the table is an urn, one supplying tea, the other chocolate or coffee, with the space between set with baskets of thin sandwiches, thin tea cakes, and, if possible, a continuous supply of hot scones or buttered toast. There may be smaller dishes of candies and glacé fruits.

Approaching the table, the guest receives from the deputy hostesses his coffee or tea, at which time preferences as to cream, sugar, and lemon are ascertained.

After the refreshments the guests go back to the drawing room and, if there is no dancing, may leave within twenty minutes. At the informal tea leave must not be taken without first saying good-by to the hostess.

Queries from Readers on Social Amenities.

"What is the correct handling of one's napkin when dining out? "J. M."

The napkin is unfolded only to one-third of its size and placed across the knees. At the end of dinner the napkin is not folded, but is put back loosely on the table. It is untidy and unnecessary to crush it.

"Are dinner calls still made upon one's hostess? B. L."

Dinner calls even for formal dinners are paid less universally than they used to be, but to be entirely correct they should be paid within a fortnight and in the daytime rather than in the evening. Married women leave their husbands' cards. Informal dinners require no calls.

"Are knickers or plus fours correct at a country club dance? K. A."

No, men wear light summer suits or light flannel trousers, with shirts, and blue or brown serge coats.

"Our firm wishes to make known to its clients the death of our president. Can you suggest a form that would be suitable? F. E."

Either of the following forms would be suitable:

James, Fisher and Company announce with deep regret the death of Walter Lee,
Chairman of the board which occurred on Friday
May ninth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three.

We announce with deep regret

To Knit Yourself: Smart Socks for Games of Tennis and Golf

By Jean Macdonald.

THE socks sketched today shriek superlatives! Not only are they the smartest and newest in tennis and golf wear, but they are most interesting models for those who have knitted everything and still have some wool yarns left. Tennis and golf anklets have been with us for the last few years in various forms of yarn but never have they been properly appreciated for what they are—one of the most fascinating forms of short knitting jobs.

The golf socks can be made to match one's golfing costume with a 10 cent skein of contrasting color for the Fleur de Lis figure, or, as preference determines a lighter color for the body and the odd color matching the sports apparel. One sock, one ball; two socks, two balls—and a bit is left over for something else. The Fleur de Lis pattern is the simplest one where the color thread is carried behind the knitting. With a set of double pointed needles No. 13 and some saxony, shetland or any 4 ply yarn, an anklet can be made in one day. These socklets are excellent for a new knitter of wool yarn and four needle knitting.

At European tennis matches these socks are worn almost inevitably without other hose. All players say that even on the hottest courts, when their feet are burning, they would rather wear "a little woolen next the skin" to keep them comfortable. These socks launder more readily than machine made hose and are popular with youngsters as well as adults.

The cunning tennis socks, with the intriguing pop corn stitch down the ankle and along the top of the foot for ventilation, are even easier and quicker to knit, because larger needles are used. Four balls of angora make them slightly more expensive than the golf socks—but just think how nice, soft, and luxurious they are! Since angora usually "washes in," these anklets are made one size larger than required. A 6 ply Germantown may be substituted for angora if price is a deterrent. Perhaps you have some odd balls left from that afghan.

This hosiery is something new, easy to make, and quick to finish. Moreover, here's an idea! They are a grand selling item, for which there is always a market. So why not make anklets for tennis and golf?

If you wish directions for knitting these socks, send 10 cents in coin or stamps to Jean Macdonald, Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

Pale Ash Rose Coat Worn by Queen Mary

The UPHILL ROAD By Rupert Hughes

The Story So Far:

Dicey Wayne and Oliver Treadgold, known as Noll, quarrelsome friends since childhood, disagree over his decision to stay in England and settle down as a country gentleman. On her way to America Dicey learns that her father's chain of banks has failed. She goes to his farm. After Oliver has rented the ancestral home of Lord Mulgrave the latter tells him about the failure of the Wayne banks. He is overwhelmed, since his entire fortune was held in trust by Guilford Wayne. When Oliver returns to America Dicey prevents him from annoying her father. Dicey plays around with Ben Laraway to get him to save her father from indictment. Noll meets Wayne and pities him. Wayne agrees to let Stefan, who takes care of the Wayne farm, manage Noll's farm also, provided Noll fires Rotch, under whose care his place has gone to ruin. Mrs. Treadgold is determined to marry Noll to the wealthy Alberta Skipway, and Alberta is willing. Adversity makes Noll and Dicey better friends. When Wayne's life is threatened by a man crazed by his reverses Noll helps to save him.

INSTALLMENT XII.

Indicted.

FROM the agony of innocence in his own conscience and of helplessness in his own ruin, Wayne felt himself a martyr and the victim of forces too powerful for him. He had ridden high on the crest of the wave; it had thrown him on the rocks and it was sucking him back into the depths, drowning him. Yet he spoke of hope, even if he could not feel it:

"Your money will be paid to you, Mr. Garside. The Wayne banks will reopen. Every depositor will be paid in full. Give me a little time. I swear to you, you'll get your money back."

"When? When? It may be years, mayn't it?"

"It might be. It might be only a few months."

"Months! How many months can a man live without food? What good will the money do us when we're dead? The money will be sweet then, won't it? I want it now."

"If I knew where to find money to repay the people who trusted me, I'd give it to you. But I haven't got it. I don't know where to get it. It's gone."

"Where's it gone?"

"Where has the rain gone that poured down on us the other day? The sky was black and the ground was covered with water. Next day the sky was blue and the ground was dry. You couldn't find the rain. Then the clouds filled up, the sky was dark, and now the air is full of snow and the ground covered with it. Money is like that. Credit, confidence. They go and they come. Always too much or too little. Never just enough for everybody. Some die of thirst and some are drowned. But there'll be rain again. When we get over this frightful drouth we must build reservoirs of credit, we must have flood control against booms and reservoirs against panics. But we mustn't fight among ourselves or go to murdering our leaders. It won't help."

"Words, pretty speeches, the old hokum! But when do we eat?" He pondered a moment, his head so heavy with thought that it rolled on his chest. Then he mumbled: "I don't suppose it matters much. The sooner my folks starve the shorter will be their misery, with me in jail."

"Why should you be in jail?" Dicey asked. Garside laughed dismally:

"Assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill—that's a jail offense, ain't it? Even suicide is a jail offense. Go on and send me up."

"Don't be silly," said Dicey. He brightened a little:

"You mean you'll let me go?"

Dicey had been thinking hard and she said abruptly: "Would two hundred and fifty dollars do you any good?"

"Two hundred and fif—it would only buy five thousand loaves of bread, wouldn't it? As I figure it. But who's going to give it to me, God?"

"I think I can raise that amount. Wait a minute." She went to the telephone book, looked up a number, and called it. She had some difficulty in reaching her goal, but at last she said:

"Is this Miss Alberta Skipway? This is Dicey Wayne. . . . Yes. . . . Yes . . . this is Dicey. . . . O, I'm all right. And how are you, Miss—Alberta. . . . That's fine. . . . Yes, isn't it. . . . O, by the way, that horse of mine . . . you remember speaking of him. . . . Sir Walter Raleigh, you know? Yes. . . . Yes. . . . exactly. So I always say. . . . Well, you can have him. If you'll send your man over with the money he can take the horse back. Thank you . . . how very nice of you, Alberta. . . . A check will do if you haven't so much cash with you. . . . O, you have! Lucky girl! Fine. . . . All right, I'll expect your man at once. Good-by!"

HER father and Noll and Stefan and Haddon all stepped forward to check such a sacrifice. The sight of the haggard Garside stopped them. When Dicey hung up the receiver she was so wan and drawn that no one could protest against her giving all she had to this one man. After all, if she tried to divide it among the countless needy ones it would mean nothing to any one.

Garside's eyes ran about the various faces and he understood. He would have liked to refuse such money, but he had to think of his own family first. The difference between going home with empty hands and going home with such a fortune was too beautiful to be refused.

Noll went to Dicey, where she sat in a sickly collapse at the thought of selling her horse into slavery. It seemed a kind of treachery to her. Noll caught her forearm and squeezed it and patted her shoulder and squeezed it, and tried to say something fitting, but curiously could think only of the cry he had heard at cricket games in England. He mumbled:

"Well bowled, Wayne. Well bowled."

She was even less brilliant. She caught at his hand and squeezed it and said: "Why, thank you, Noll."

She rose quickly and as she passed Stefan on his way to the stairs she said:

"When the Skipway groom comes, take the money—she said it would be in cash—count it and give it to Mr. Garside. And have my horse—have Sir Walter—led out the back way, will you, Stefan? I don't want to see him go."

She bolted for the stairs, leaving Garside to her father, Noll, and Haddon. Noll felt that he was out of place there. He bade Mr. Wayne good-by and the old man said:

"Noll, you young people have got to get to work and make sure that this kind of thing won't happen again."

"I see," said Noll, though he did not see how it could be cured or prevented. To Garside he said "Good luck!" and Garside answered:

"I guess I got it. Funny way to get it though! I'll credit it to my account with you, Wayne—Mr. Wayne."

Stefan said: "I go get car and take you by the station. You just got time to catch next train."

After Noll had gone Wayne was in such a stupor of thought that he hardly heard a car drive up to the house and on out to the barnyard. It was probably Alberta's groom coming for the horse. Evidently the groom refused to leave by the back road, for Dicey heard the car chugging past the house again to the gate and the sound of hoofs following it dying out in the distance.

She clung fast to Jinka and he did his best to tell her something. His emotion was intense, but his syllables were confused.

Next she heard Stefan's car issue from the garage, pause at the house (doubtless for Garside), and go on (doubtless to the train).

WHEN Noll passed through the Wayne gate he looked for his corgi, but Paddy was not there. He had forgotten where he had left the dog and trudged home alone and lonely. At his own gate to his surprise there was no Paddy to greet him. He called and whistled. He looked everywhere, finally climbing the hill through the thicket. From there he saw on the boundary wall something like the statue of a corgi with ears erect and the snow heavy on him as on a statue. The back of the head showed that the eyes were fastened on the Wayne forest where Noll had disappeared hours before.

Noll's eyes were blurred wet; there was a knot in his throat. He understood the endless vigil the little dog had kept, the growing anxiety, and fear, the resisted temptation to disobey and follow and search for his lost master.

He shouted "Paddy!"

There was a tremor in the long, motionless back. Snow rolled off as the head turned, the great eyes stared. There was a faint, incredulous, querying yelp. Then the corgi twisted and rolled off the wall sprawling. He came galloping, on little legs stiff with long inaction, sending up flurries of snow. He came barking, saying in barks how long he had waited, how afraid he had been that his god would never return from those evil woods, and how glorious it was to have him back after his journey around the world.

Noll knelt to receive him, worshipped and worshipping. Then he went to the house to tell his mother about Garside, giving all the credit to Dicey and Gilhooley. When he came to the point where Dicey called up Alberta it was as if an earthquake had suddenly undermined the new wall of hate and suspicion she had built up between her and the Waynes. She exclaimed:

"That was like Dicey! Selling her horse. It must have killed her as it would kill me to sell one of you children, and to somebody I hated. My heart bleeds for the poor child. And another thing, Noll. It proves that they haven't got any money hidden away. If they had they wouldn't have cared what happened to the beggar in the first place or else they would have sneaked out a little cash for him."

Everything came to Mrs. Treadgold by intuition. She was having one of her intuitions now. With no apologies for her complete shift, she attacked Noll as if he still held her old opinions.

"Noll, we've all been wrong about Guilford Wayne. He hasn't been holding out on us. I see it all in a flash. The poor man was honestly wrecked. I think it's a crime the way people persecute him."

He stared at her in amazement. The workings of her brain were a never-ending surprise to him. Then, just as he was revelling in contentment with the disappearance of hatred from her heart, she made him jump almost out of his skin by a new surprise:

"But it was sweet of Alberta to send the money over right away, especially after the way Dicey has always snubbed her. I hope the horse doesn't kill her. She doesn't ride very well, and that Sir Walter is a wild beast. You'd better call her up and warn her that she'd better not ride Sir Walter unless you're with her. We ought to have them both to dinner?"

"Have Sir Walter and Alberta to dinner?"

"Alberta and her father! Don't be—and now that we know the poor Waynes have no money left and we can never hope to get anything out of them, you really must marry Alberta as soon as you can. It's your only hope of escaping from starvation."

"Thanks, mother! That's the best compliment you've paid your idiot child since I don't know when."

"It's not your fault, my darling. Nobody can earn anything nowadays. Everybody is going to starve, I'm sure. If you only knew the people I know that are down to nothing. People with two or three hundred million haven't a penny. There was a woman I talked to in town before we crashed, Mrs.—what's her name, O, you know!—the big steel people!—well, anyway, she had a million a year before and now she hasn't anything. You'd better marry Alberta before Mr. Skipway goes broke, too."

ALL Noll could say was: "Gosh, mother, but you make me feel foolish. You make me feel all over as you feel when your foot's asleep. You're helpless and in agony, yet you want to laugh. The thought of marrying Alberta puts my soul asleep."

"She's better than starving to death."

"Maybe so. I've never starved to death, but I've known Alberta for years."

He walked away and for a change of mind sat down and answered Mulgrave's letter.

Dear Mully: It was good to get your letter and to learn that you at least are to get your heart's desire. Kingdoms may crash, republics totter, and banks bust like bubbles, but so long as you are a camera cowboy rescuing cuties from camera renegades, one soul at least is succeeding. I will save my pennies for the great day when you glitter here. I've got just about enough left for two more movies.

I am now a farmer—to the manure born. I can tell a milch cow from a mulch dressing and I steal eggs from trustful hens with a clear conscience.

The hammer you speak of is still at work and hasn't missed me once, but what it is making of me is still a mystery—a bran mash probably.

I haven't married Dicey yet, but one might think we had been married for years, for she has already hit me over the head with a riding crop, with a resulting concussion of the brain and a compound fracture of the derby hat.

The first time she saw me she threw a heavy cane but missed me. I'll name the baby John when we get it, but I will name it after John L. Sullivan, the eminent prize fighter who was Dicey's god-father, I judge. Later developments, however, have made the baby highly improbable. Dicey and I have suddenly become such good friends that there is small prospect of our marrying.

There was a little shooting affair in her house the other day. It didn't get into the papers, for there isn't room to print all the shooting that goes on over here. A starving gentleman broke into Mr. Ex-Gibraltar Wayne's home to puncture him, but Dicey and a greyhound and a Pekingese and I managed to disarm him. Dicey is unduly grateful for my small share in the matter. The miscreant's failure to hit Mr. Wayne probably has saved the old gentleman for the penitentiary if they can find room for him. In spite of the fact that all the prisons are overflowing, the people want to put more people in. Quaint country, what?

If I get married at all it probably will be to Miss Skipway. Alberta has practically proposed to me twice and looks dangerous, but I am still a virgin, though growing rather hopeless of the future. Her father still has money. The rest of the country has forgotten what it looks like.

Why don't you come over and marry Alberta? It would save me from a horrible fate and it wouldn't bother you. You foreigners have been marrying off your princes and kings to women they've never seen for so many centuries that you're used to it and you handle it expertly. We'll come to it probably, but I'd bungle it. Come on over and rescue me. You can marry Alberta and be a movie actor, too.

If Hollywood, which is broke also, sends for you at a high salary, be sure to get your money in advance, bite all coins offered. If you pass through New York don't fail to look me up at this address. But put a clothes pin on your nose, for my sainted mother says that I have a marked scent of perfum de pigstye.

My respects to your charming sister and your mother.

Yours always,
OLIVERY TREADMUD.

HE had just finished addressing the envelope when the telephone rang. Alberta's voice filled it:

"O, Noll, dear, you know that horse I bought from Dicey Wayne!"

"Well, I don't know him very well, but I've met him. He tried to kick me in the shins the last time I saw him."

"He did! When was that?"

He remembered that this was on the morning when he had forgotten to keep his appointment with Alberta and had met Dicey, so he said:

"O, some time ago. I've forgotten just when."

"Well, I wish you'd ride with me when I try him. I'd feel safer. When I go to his stall to feed him and make friends he always tries to bite me instead of the apple."

"If Adam had only done that to Eve we'd still be in paradise, or nowhere—same thing."

"What's that?"

"I was just maundering. Of course, I'll ride with you—to exercise my own horse, if for no other reason."

"I like that. Thanks!"

"Welks. But I can't go very early. At daybreak I have to get my cattle out of bed. They all have insomnia. But later in the forenoon——"

"All right, set your own hour."

"... better come for you, if Sir Walter is as vicious as you say."

"... 's darling of you. When can I expect you?"

"When I get there. You must just wait till I ride in, then I'll saddle Sir Walter for you—if I can."

"Let's try for tomorrow."

"All right. Splendid."

When Noll told his mother she was more cheered than by anything that had happened since October, 1929. It was so cheap a way to raise her hopes that Noll could not resist it, though he had every intention of resisting Alberta.

The next day when he and the Commodore arrived at the Skipway place a groom had Sir Walter already saddled and bridled, and Alberta was in riding clothes. The groom explained that Sir Walter had tried to kick his stall down and make a breakfast off the groom's arm. The groom tried to dissuade Miss Alberta from risking her bones on the beast, but she replied:

"I paid two hundred and fifty bucks for the brute and I'm going to get 'em out of him."

She got the bucks out of him, but how many no one counted. There was too much excitement in the stableyard. Sir Walter regarded Alberta with apparent amusement and stood quietly by the block until she was in the saddle. He waited patiently until the reins were properly settled among her fingers and the stirrups fitted to her toes.

He could evidently tell from the way she set her knees against his ribs and from the pressure of her calves that she was both ignorant and afraid of herself and him, for the moment the groom released his head he began to curvet and cavort and side step. Then his spine humped and straightened with the effect of kicking Alberta violently into the air and then meeting her half way back.

Noll and the groom tried to recapture him, but he kept his head out of reach, snorting and striking out with his forefeet, while Alberta screamed: "Let me down!"

Somehow she stuck to the saddle, though both stirrups were swinging free and beating Sir Walter, who suddenly bolted through the open gate and out into the snowy high road.

Noll swung into the saddle and the Commodore was off in pursuit. There seemed to be no hope of overtaking Alberta, but suddenly a truckload of chickens swung in from a side road and filled so much space that Sir Walter could not get round it. And he could not jump through it. So Noll caught up with him and seized his bridle. Sir Walter backed and flung his head in a vain attempt to pull free, but Noll hung on while Alberta still shrieked: "Let me down!"

The driver of the truck was fool enough to yell and honk his horn and the poultry with protruding heads outsquawked Alberta, who was by now so hysterical with terror that she was making ready to drop to the ground.

Fearing that she would be trampled, Noll managed to kick and rein the indignant Commodore alongside Sir Walter long enough to reach out, wrap one arm around Alberta, and swing her across his own pommel where she sprawled on her stomach, kicking.

NOLL had to let go of Sir Walter's bridle and Sir Walter backed off, took a fence, crossed a field, and vanished.

Noll managed to right Alberta and to talk the Commodore into accepting a double burden. He ordered the truck driver to keep his damned horn quiet, turned the Commodore, and rode back along the road to Alberta's house.

By the time they reached the gate she was quite comfortably seated on the neck of the horse with her arms about Noll's, and she was pouring out eulogies of Noll, her hero, her savior, her adored one, that embarrassed him infinitely.

At the gate they met the groom, who had saddled and mounted his own horse to follow Alberta and pick up the pieces. Alberta told him of Noll's godlike skill and valor until Noll wished that he had left her to her fate. He lowered her to the ground and refused her invitations to dismount and pay her a visit. He said that he would try to find Sir Walter and return him. Alberta cried after him:

"If you bring him back here I'll send him to the glue factory. I'll bet Dicey Wayne sold him to me on purpose."

Noll did not stop to argue the point, but trotted away. He followed Sir Walter's footprints with his eyes across the snowy pasture and turned down the side road where the hoofmarks were easily traced. They led to the Wayne place and in through the gates.

Noll turned in and found Dicey at the front steps embracing Sir Walter's head and stroking his nose while he playfully nibbled at her heavy coat collar.

"I heard him come galloping up the road, snorting like mad, and I ran out. What happened?"

When Noll told her she scolded Sir Walter with an insincerity that he seemed to understand better than he had understood what sin he had committed that had earned banishment to the Skipway place and submission to the humiliation of enduring Alberta's bad horsewomanship.

There were tears in Dicey's eyes when she said:

"I suppose I'll have to have Stefan take him back, unless you want to."

Noll shook his head: "Alberta told me that if he came back she'd forward him to the glue factory."

Dicey said helplessly: "What can I do? If I hadn't spent the money she gave me for him I'd return it to her. But it's gone and I haven't got enough left. What can I do?"

"I wouldn't lend you the money," Noll said, "if I had it. Sir Walter has solved the problem. Finders keepers, losers tickled to death. Why don't you telephone Alberta and tell her you'll board and exercise the horse for thirty dollars a month?"

"I'd rather die than talk to her, but—I suppose I must."

SHE gave Noll the bridle to hold. Sir Walter regarded him with suspicion and braced himself against going in any direction that Noll might suggest, but he did not object to standing still. When Dicey returned she was dejected.

"I called the dirty cat on the telephone and told her that Sir Walter had come back and she wasn't very nice about it. She whined that I should have warned her about Sir Walter's viciousness, as if he'd ever been anything but an angel to me. I said I was awfully sorry and would be glad to refund the money and keep the horse, but I didn't have the money at the moment. She answered that I could keep him till I got it, and if I never got it I could keep him anyway. She never wanted to see him again and if it hadn't been for your marvelous courage she'd have been killed. She rather implied that I was trying to get her killed. But I wasn't, really. I think she ought to be killed, but I'm not the one to do it. And when I do it, it won't be by any roundabout methods. How I loathe that woman! —Excuse me! I suppose I'm speaking to her future husband. After this, you'll surely marry her."

"I suppose so. It's the one thing that could make the depression one hundred per cent perfect for me."

"Poor Noll! You have my sympathy! So has Alberta! Well, I'll take Sir Walter back to his stall."

"Let me."

"No, thanks, Mr. Skipway."

She shook her head and, though she was in skirts, seemed rather to take the saddle in a long, graceful stride than to climb into it. And she posed so beautifully as Sir Walter trotted toward the stable that Noll stared after her in angry admiration before he whirled the Commodore and made for home.

His always unexpectable mother, when she heard the story, was completely satisfied on all counts.

"You see, I was right about your not letting Alberta go out on that horse without you along. You saved her life without getting a scratch on your precious skin. Alberta wasn't hurt, either, and she realizes that her life belongs to you now——"

"O, my God, don't say that!"

"Hush! And it makes your marriage inevitable. Besides that, Dicey has her horse back home, and she has had the money to pay that murderer with. She feels uncomfortable about owing the money to Alberta, but when you marry Alberta you can lend the money to Dicey and she can pay it to Alberta. And then everybody will be happy."

"What about me? The bartered bridegroom, sold into slavery."

"O, nonsense. If Alberta don't please you you can get a divorce without any trouble."

"Mother! Have you no morals at all?"

"I have plenty of morals for myself, but in these days people can't afford to be too particular. Morals are luxuries and it's a time for—retrenchment, don't they call it?"

"I give you up. You're a bad influence on me. I'll go out and talk to the chickens. They'll understand your poultry yard standards."

DURING the afternoon Alberta made a call and told of Noll's dauntlessness in terms belonging to epic poetry. She and his mother agreed that he was divine and that the three of them would be very happy in that English castle with Noll, but he had caught sight of her car in front of the house and hid out until she gave up the stage and left.

He could not escape her spirit, however, for his mother kept up an endless talk about her through dinner and the long evening. Noll tried to be polite, but keeping awake was an anguish. He was about to break free and stagger up to bed when the telephone rang. It was his brother, Nate, speaking from his club (where he could get the telephone call charged). He was merely reporting, to save the trouble of writing his mother a letter. In the course of his chatter he told her:

"Good news for you, mother. I've just had an inside tip that the grand jury has returned an indictment against Wayne and they're only waiting to announce it until they've made sure he won't duck for Canada."

Mrs. Treadgold turned aside to tell Noll the appalling news. Nate had not heard of the miracle worked in his mother's heart by Dicey's sale of her horse and he was astounded by her answer:

"Good news! How can you say such a cruel thing after what he did for you and for all of us? The poor innocent man has toiled for us for years!

It pleased Noll to imagine his brother receiving one of his mother's thunderbolts from the blue sky, and he could almost see Nate reeling from the stroke. When his mother finally bade Nate good night she was pale and shaken and she sank into a chair, gasping:

"Guilford's indicted! They're going to arrest him tomorrow! Arrest Guilford Wayne! The beasts! Poor Dicey! God help her!"

THE next morning's papers contained no mention of Wayne, but late in the day Stefan drove in with a long face and fright in his eyes. He had made his regular trip for the afternoon mail and, as always, it included an early edition of a New York evening paper. He spread the sheet before Noll's eyes. Great black letters marched across the whole page:

WAYNE INDICTED!!
Warrant Out for Bank Wrecker!

For all the long anticipation and the warning of the night before the accomplished fact was like an unexpected bombshell.

"Dicey!" was Noll's first thought. Then: "We mustn't let her know." But Stefan said:

"She alwys hask for afternoon paper. If I don't geeve, she theenk her papa is dead, maybe. He went in town on early train. She's all by her lonesome."

For once Stefan was in a panic, smitten by a certain cowardice about breaking hearts with desperately bad tidings. He pleaded:

"Better you should come wit' me. When she reads this she needs you. You are her own people. I am awnly farmer from anawther cawntry. I been thin' on it; she's goin' need somebody to put arms around her. I am her farmer; you will be her people."

Noll was inexperienced in tragedy and had been a fugitive from every mournful aspect of life. He had sent flowers to funerals and left to others the heart-riving, hateful chores that somebody must perform. But he was ashamed to put this task on Stefan's shoulders.

HOW TO LOSE 3 POUNDS IN A DAY!

THEN—rip off Fat 4 to 7 Pounds A WEEK—on a Full Stomach!

Modern science now makes the fat person's dream of bliss come true—you eat your fill and yet grow thin! Discoveries have been made that make taking off fat a joy.

No starvation; but a full stomach all the time. No more exercise than now. Yet you lose as much as a pound a day—seven full pounds a week. And the very day you start you look pounds lighter than you really are. For every sign of that puffy, bloated look about the face and eyes, overweight people have, is made to disappear.

All You Do

You do just two simple things: Take a teaspoonful or ordinary Jad Salts in a glass of water before breakfast every morning. And make two small changes in your diet. That is all.

The first glass of the Jad Salts you take often rips off as much as three pounds in weight—reduces the moisture weight of your body that much. AND—within ONE HOUR—banishes that "fat look," puff and bloat, from the face, so that you look pounds lighter than you are; ends that "too-tight-in-the-clothes" feeling that you have.

You eat your fill regularly. Never know a hungry moment. The little changes in eating that you make are explained in a little folder you find inside the package of Jad Salts you get. You merely substitute lean meats for fat; eat extra quantities of most vegetables and salads—and ease down a bit on fats and starches.

4 to 7 Pounds Gone in Week

If you are normally overweight, you can lose as much as a pound a day this way; never be hungry and feel better than you have for years. The every day dose of Jad Salts does this by keeping you fit and active—and making you look that way. The dietary change rips off the fat. Soon the graceful lines of slenderness supplant the coarse ones of fat; the personal charm only a slender person has returns, and life takes on a new meaning.

Try this way. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store in two sizes—large and small. Just ask for ordinary Jad Salts.

Note particularly—Jad Salts is urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—to banish puffiness and bloat from the face and body and to eliminate body moisture—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

DAY IN SPRING

By Bernice Brown

Life Is Pretty Disturbing When You Feel Like Nineteen, Look Like Twelve, and Are Fifteen Years Old, Especially When You Have an Older Sister Who Uses Lipstick That Is Still Denied to You.

ILLUSTRATION BY OSCAR HOWARD.

Like a lash she could hear the rope above her head.

GEORGETTE PORTAGE was at the age when she was most troublesome to every one, including herself. It is a disturbing affair to look some days nineteen and other days twelve and to be all the time a ragged and indeterminate fifteen.

"Georgette is impossible," stated Georgette's mother at the breakfast table to Georgette's father. "I caught her using my lipstick yesterday afternoon and confiding to Allen Hodges that no one in the family understood her."

"Put her in a nunnery," said Robert Portage.

"I don't know any nunneries," murmured Molly Portage. "Besides I don't believe they'd take Georgette without references."

"Maybe Allen Hodges could give her one." Robert Portage folded up his newspaper. "I'm fed up on Georgette. She gets rotten marks in schools. She leaves her clothes all over the house and she uses my tooth paste and doesn't screw the top back on."

Molly Portage shook her head. "I know, darling. But isn't it lucky she uses tooth paste at all?"

"She listens to the radio, doesn't she?"

"I wish sometimes she'd listen to me instead." Molly Portage put down her coffee cup. She looked ridiculously young to be the mother of three children, the youngest of whom was fifteen. "Georgette is suffering," she added solemnly. "I can remember exactly how I felt when I was her age."

And at that moment the discussed Georgette, in a faded dress of two summers before, opened the door of the pleasant breakfast room.

"Hello, you two," she remarked casually. "Do I have to eat oatmeal this morning, mom? None of the girls at school do, and I should think you'd hate to have me look like a monstrosity." She slid into her chair and picked up a spoon.

"You don't need to put two tablespoonsful of sugar on it," said her mother pleasantly.

Georgette glanced up, appraising her parents cautiously. "Bob got a flat tire last night." It was just as well to lead the conversation into other channels. "He was taking that Betty Landis to the movies. Can I go tonight, mom? I've got fifty cents and it's vacation and everything."

"Eat your oatmeal," remarked Molly Portage, absently.

"I am eating it." Georgette cast her wildly beautiful eyes upon her parent. "Mom, it's a wonderful picture at the Strand. I could go with the Blakemores. In fact, they've practically asked me. At least they said they were going."

Robert and Molly Portage laughed suddenly with that unanimity of amusement that had so often startled Georgette. What had she said that was funny and why should they look at each other with that strange sense of oneness that united them at once in an incomprehensible and far off adult world?

Robert Portage pushed back his chair and got up. He walked around the table, kissed his wife and patted Georgette on the back. "Good-by, women," he said.

Molly Portage slipped her arm through her husband's. "I'm driving you to the station. Georgette, as soon as you've finished wake up Cynthia. I can't have breakfast going on all morning as though we were still rich."

Georgette decided that it would be one of the milder pleasures to wake forcibly her older brother and sister.

"Darn being fifteen," she mused gloomily as she gazed through the open window across the pleasant garden to the rippling water of the sound.

THE Portage house on Long Island was bought during the prosperous days of 1929 when they had had an apartment in town and a camp in Maine as well. The camp had gone first. In 1930 they had given up the apartment and Robert Portage stayed at his club such evenings as he could not face the long commuting trip to Bayville. Fortunately the house was well built and the furnace almost adequate for winter residence.

"I must say I've been a lot colder on the Riviera," Molly Portage stated grimly.

Cynthia, to be sure, had "come out," Robert Portage had not, so far, given up his clubs and young Bob had finished at the strictly New Testament school where he had been entered since the morning of his arrival in this uncertain world. Of all the family Georgette had suffered the most severely.

But it must be admitted that Georgette did not resent unduly her share in the family retrenchment. She didn't mind attending the excellent public school in the village. The Portages were not the only erstwhile rich who were now thankful that the taxes they had reluctantly paid for rural education had now come home to roost. Moreover, Georgette with all her failings was not a snob.

But she did resent having no money for the movies or for the purchase of those publications, the number of which is legion, that devote themselves to the photography and home life of the screen favorites. She resented having to wear Cynthia's castoff clothes, she hated having to buy her jewelry at the Five and Dime.

Still it was not her poverty that filled Georgette with resentment. It was being fifteen. Fifteen was a loathesome age. At fifteen you were neither fish nor flesh nor good red herring. You could be bossed by your parents. You could even be bossed by your older brother and sister. But you knew there were times when you were absolutely beautiful, when even your sister's beaux looked at you with startled and unreluctant admiration.

There was no doubt about it, yesterday she had made a deep impression on Allen Hodges. He had talked to her just the way she'd heard him talk to Cynthia. And he had looked at her with the steady admiration every woman hopes to evoke in the eye of an attractive man. But yesterday evening she had bawled like a baby because Bob wouldn't stay home and play backgammon with her instead of taking that poisonous Betty Landis to the movies.

AGAIN the door of the breakfast room opened and Robert Portage Jr. in a dressing gown dating back to the days of affluence lounged into the breakfast room.

"Hello, kid." He sat down without looking at her and picked up the paper which, with the accuracy of long practice, he flicked open to the sports page. "You might tell Lizzie I'm here."

Georgette shot him a baleful look. "What's the matter with your own lungs?"

He smiled at her benignly. "It's a woman's place to order the servants. You are a woman, aren't you? Of course it's hard to tell in that rag you've got on."

"My school dress is at the cleaner's." She fixed him with a hard eye. "Anyway, how do you expect me to look like anything when mom spends every cent on Cynthia?"

"Don't you see, my dove," he grinned pleasantly, "we are trying to hook Cynthia a husband?"

"Don't you call me 'your dove'!" She stopped. On the whole she liked her brother. He was a swell tennis player and he sometimes played with her. Also he was on occasions unaccountably generous. "Listen," she interrupted, "if I get Lizzie to make you some hot cakes, will you lend me a dollar?"

"Lend?" He lifted a quizzical eyebrow. "Did I hear the word lend?"

"Well," she looked down at her plate, "I might pay you some time. Gosh, Bob, it's rotten getting only fifty cents a week."

He looked at her gravely. "No woman can live on it and remain honest."

Tears started to her eyes, but she winked them back furiously.

"Don't cry, lass." He put his hand into his pocket. "Here's a dollar. Big Hearted Portage Endows Orphan Foundation."

"Who's giving out dollars?"

Georgette folded her hand quickly over the money as she screwed around to face her sister. "Gosh, but your hair looks like the dickens so curly. Don't you know everybody's wearing it straight back now?"

Cynthia dropped into the last empty place. "What it is to have a little fashion expert in the home!" She grinned at Georgette. "Didn't you know there was a law about children under ten using lipstick?"

Georgette blushed a furious and reminiscent red. "Well, it wasn't your lipstick, was it? And let me tell you, smarty, Allen Hodges noticed it."

"The man doesn't carry a little tin cup and peddle pencils."

Georgette stood up, the tears again just behind her lashes. What was the matter? She used to be able to fight with any or all of her family and not shed a tear, even in the good old days when bodily blows had been exchanged.

"You make me sick. You think all you have to do is look at a man and he falls for you. Let me tell you, Allen Hodges said he thought I was as pretty as Sylvia Sidney."

Outside, in the garden she caught sight of Spot, the fox terrier, routing in the flower border. "Hey you," she yelled. This would be a good time to teach Spot to jump through a barrel hoop. Pete Prentiss had taught his dog to do it and Pickles was much dumber than Spot. Also, Pete was only sixteen himself and certainly no brighter than she was.

For a moment her mind drifted to Pete. In a way they had a good deal in common. Pete had two older brothers and his family, like hers, had been hit by the depression. Pete didn't have any more money to spend than she did, and with a sense of justice of which she couldn't help but be proud, she admitted that poverty was harder on a man than a woman. She would have liked Pete if he were only two years older and looked even a little bit like Buddy Rogers.

"Hey, Spot!"

But Spot, who had had experience with the barrel trick, eluded her. For an hour Georgette fussed around the garden. Then she went up to her room, put on a light blue knitted dress that had belonged the summer before to Cynthia; stole a liberal helping of Cynthia's sun-tan powder, tried to find the diary she had started in September, read two motion picture magazines Pete had given her and had luncheon alone with her mother.

At lunch she hoped her mother would not comment on the fact she had made her face up with somewhat pronounced thoroughness. She rather hoped Allen Hodges might drop in that afternoon and, if Cynthia were still out, that he would stay and talk to her. She could feel her mother's eyes on her as she slid as unobtrusively as possible into her seat. But Molly Portage only frowned slightly.

"I wish I could afford to buy you something that didn't make you look as though you were eighteen." Her eyes were on the faded knitted suit.

"O, that's all right, mom," said Georgette. "I don't mind wearing Cynthia's old clothes much."

Molly Portage smiled. "You've been awfully sweet, Georgette. And with any luck I'll get you an outfit this spring that's suitable for a girl your age."

After lunch Georgette got up. "I'm going to read in the library. If any one calls I'm there."

"All right, darling."

But Georgette was essentially not much of a reader. She tried two books. Then she went upstairs and got her nail file. If Allen Hodges should come she could stick the file under a sofa cushion.

At three o'clock her mother called to her to go outdoors.

"It's such a nice day, darling," she cajoled. "And the glass is falling. I'm sure we'll have a storm tonight and tomorrow may be terrible."

Gosh, what was there to do outdoors? Besides she might miss Allen Hodges.

AT four the doorbell rang and Georgette dashed for the hallway. Just before she opened the door she stopped to assure herself that her hair, which she was training in a new way, was as effective as was possible under the circumstances and that her small white nose was powdered. Then, with a smile she had copied from Sylvia Sidney, she flung open the portal.

"You," she said.

Pete Prentiss, who had seldom been favored with the Sylvia Sidney smile, grinned back at her. "Sure. Say, I've got a new car."

Georgette hesitated between disappointment and curiosity. "Where?" she demanded finally.

"The lilac bush is in the way."

Georgette advanced onto the porch. "Gee, how much did it cost?"

He blushed. "Twenty-five dollars. It's, well, second-hand."

By this time they were both inspecting the decrepit model.

"Does it run?"

"What do you think it does? Walk?"

At once she turned her flashing smile on him. "I think it's swell, Pete. Let's get in."

With the agility of two eels they slid themselves into the front seat.

Yes, the afternoon had been rather fun, though Georgette had had to spend one of her fifty cent pieces for gas and she had also smeared grease over the side of her skirt.

"Gee, I'm sorry!" Pete had said. "I'll have to clean this bus up tomorrow."

"Drive it over and we'll wash it together." Georgette had a passion for washing all things such as cars and dogs where there was a strong element of danger of getting soaked oneself.

"O. K.," said Pete. "You've got a better hose than ours."

She waved a slender and dirty hand after him. "See you at nine."

Nor did she dream that between then and nine the following morning grave events were destined to happen that would banish the delight of washing cars into a nebulous and distant past.

AS Molly Portage had remarked the "glass" was falling. By six o'clock the wind had risen and by eight there was not only a gale blowing, but to it had been added a lashing rain. Even Georgette could see there was little sense in teasing to go to the movies, though she teased, out of principle, for a determined ten minutes.

"You thank your lucky stars, young lady," said her father, "you've got a roof over your head."

"Or that you aren't on the Witchcraft." Molly Portage looked up from the evening newspaper. "I see the Winterbottoms have started down from Newport in her today."

"Is that Ned Winterbottom?" demanded Georgette.

"Yes," smiled Cynthia. "Do you chance, my dear, to know him personally?"

"Of course I don't," stated Georgette furiously. "But I saw him once in a newsreel and I think he's the best looking man I ever saw. Not a bit like any of the saps that come to see you."

"How about Allen Hodges?" interrupted Cynthia mildly.

"O him!"

"He," corrected Cynthia. "And if you don't think he's such a ball of fire, why did you steal my best face powder this morning?"

"I didn't."

"Then I suppose you dressed up for Pete Prentiss?"

"Children," Molly Portage put down her paper. "When I think of what sweet babies you used to be I'm sorry I didn't drown you then so I'd have only pleasant memories."

Perhaps it was because she was unhappy, or perhaps it was because the wind lashed and tore at the shutters of her bedroom, but Georgette did not go to sleep the instant her head, wrapped around with an old towel to keep the waving pins in place, touched the pillow. It was late when she finally turned out her light, for she had applied to her flawless skin all the samples of massage cream for which she had on various occasions in the past sent a two cent stamp as directed by the advertisement.

For a long time she lay staring into the dark. If this storm went on she and Pete couldn't wash the car tomorrow. She was sorry about the fifty cents she had spent on gas. And still it had been the only decent thing to do.

Suddenly, for no reason she could ever explain, she got up and plunged to the window. Outside the rain and wind made of the night a wild and screaming pandemonium. She could hear the water as it dragged at the sand of the bathing beach and hurled itself against the elbow of rock that jutted out into the sound forming what they had always called Portage harbor. She remembered the time Bob's sailboat had catapulted into that reef. She could see it now, a shoulder of deeper black against the darkness. And then, at once, she knew something was wrong. Its shape had changed.

"Gosh!" she whispered.

In a second she had dragged on her shoes and jerked a winter coat out of her closet. Across the hall was Cynthia's room. Without knocking Georgette plunged in and shook her sleeping sister.

"There's a boat gone aground on the reef," screamed Georgette. "I can see it from my window."

Cynthia shook herself loose from Georgette's steely grip. "You've been dreaming. Get back to bed, kid."

"O, gosh!" Something like a sob broke from Georgette's lips.

"Shut my door," ordered Cynthia firmly. "Last week you had me up to kill a burglar."

Outside in the hall Georgette hesitated a moment. Then she plunged down the stairway. Banging into furniture and switching on lights, she made her way to the breakfast room. To give her credit she did pause to close the door behind her, but when the latch refused to click she gave it up and raced down the gravel path through the garden to the beach.

The wind tore at her coat, her feet and legs were wet and cold and the rain blinded her so that she could barely see. But Georgette could have found the reef blindfolded. Breathless and scratched she scrambled up the wet rocks that lay high upon the land end.

Yes, it was there all right. Below her, caught as between a gigantic pair of pinchers, lay a black hulk. There was no light, but Georgette could hear the grinding of steel against stone and above the tempest of the waves she thought she caught the sound of voices.

Planting her feet firmly on a rock she cupped her hands around her mouth. "Hey!" she yelled.

There was no answer.

On hands and knees she groped nearer. Now and then the beaten spray of a wave flung itself into her face. She licked her lips and they were salt. Once more, on her knees, she steadied herself.

"Hey!" she screamed. "Hey, you!"

"Hello!" rang out a man's voice.

GEORGETTE edged a foot nearer, clinging now with both hands to the topmost rock which, only last summer, she and Pete had pretended was the funnel of a ship.

"Throw me a rope!" yelled Georgette.

"Where are you?"

"Listen." She waited. The wind might swerve. There. "Throw me a rope. I'll fasten it on this rock. See? You can get off all right if you've got a rope to hang onto."

A second later she felt the blaze of a flashlight in her face.

"Good God!" said the man's voice.

"Go ahead!" yelled Georgette. "I can catch it."

"What if I hit you?"

"Say," she screamed, "don't you want to get off that boat?"

She heard a laugh suddenly and then other voices. "All right. Watch it!"

Four times she heard the plump of the rope as it crashed on the rocks below her. It would hurt like the devil if it were to fall on her.

"It's no good," yelled the man.

"Keep your flashlight on the high rock," ordered Georgette, "and throw for it."

"Stand clear," he yelled. "All right?"

"Shoot," screamed Georgette.

WHIZ! Like a lash she could hear it above her head. Crack. It had caught on a jutting fragment. Like a little white adder her arm shot out. She had it. It was wet and it weighed a ton. If she could only slip it down over the funnel. Gosh! Her breath came in gasps.

"All right?"

The flashlight played full upon her. The rope was moving. Lucky the noose was big enough. One more tug. There. She sank down on the rock below it.

Georgette didn't faint. Nobody in the Portage family ever fainted. But the next that Georgette remembered distinctly was being held firmly in a man's arms with her wet face pressed against a wet sou'wester.

"Are you all right?" the man demanded.

What a terribly nice voice he had. It was wonderful just to lie there. Gosh, she was tired!

"You better all come up to the house," she said faintly. "Gee!" She felt terribly funny all at once. She knew vaguely he had picked her up and that he was running. She could hear voices, but they sounded a long way off. When she opened her eyes again she was lying on a table in the kitchen and her mother and father and Bob and Cynthia and about ten men were staring at her.

"Gee!"

"Drink a bit of this, darling." Her mother was holding a glass to her lips. "You'll be all right in a minute."

"Gosh, mom!" The stuff was terrible. It burned her lips and throat.

"Lie still, darling."

O, she would never forget them as they stood there! She knew which one he was right off. Where had she seen him before? Some place. He was the handsomest man she had ever looked at. O, sure.

"Winterbottom," she murmured.

Relief ironed out the anxiety on his face and he turned suddenly to Cynthia and laughed. As though they had been photographed Georgette had a picture of the two of them. Never she knew at once, had she seen Cynthia so beautiful. Her lovely curly hair was tousled, she had on no makeup and around her night dress she had drawn a scarlet Spanish shawl Georgette remembered having seen on a chair in her bedroom that evening. Her face was pale, too, because she had been scared about Georgette. And he was looking at Cynthia, looking as though he had never seen a girl before.

Weakly Georgette put her hand up to her own hair. The towel was gone. What were those damn things? The curling pins.

"O, gosh." Tears rolled from under her lashes and dripped unchecked down her cheeks.

Molly Portage had her arms around her. "Darling, you're all right now. Just tired. You can sleep with me in my bed." She turned to her husband. "Robert, carry her upstairs."

Next morning Georgette, who seldom had a cold but when she did it was a "peach," indulged in one of her most radical attacks.

"You stay in bed, pet," said Molly Portage, "and I'll bring up your breakfast."

"I want to get up, mom."

Molly Portage was dressing with the rapidity of a commuter's wife. "Lie quietly now while I hurry down and see that your shipwrecked crew gets fed." She grinned affectionately. "Next time you rescue a ship, darling, pick out something smaller than the Majestic."

"I didn't pick it out."

"Of course you didn't.' Her eyes glowed with pride. "You're by way of being the star of the family today and I'm going to let you wear the nightdress your Aunt Sara sent me from Italy, and Cynthia's best kimono."

Georgette's eyes brightened. "Will he come to see me?"

"I doubt if I could keep him away with a smallpox sign."

"Could I," Georgette swallowed hard, "could I use your lipstick?"

Georgette could not understand why her mother turned away so suddenly and made such a funny choking noise in her throat. "Of course you may, darling."

AT eleven o'clock Georgette, arrayed to her unlimited satisfaction, sat bolstered high in bed to receive her caller. Her only regret was that her hair, despite the indignity of the curlers she had suffered the evening before, was this morning straight. However, she had brushed it back hard from her forehead and away from her ears and the effect was both startling and mature.

When the door opened Georgette's heart gave a great beat. He was alone and he carried under one arm the largest box of flowers she had ever seen and under the other every motion picture magazine that an enterprising newsdealer had been able to foist on a coöperating customer.

"Hello," she said.

Unloading the gifts on a chair he came over and sat down on her bed.

"I've got a cold," said Georgette nobly. "They're catching."

"I wouldnt care if you had leprosy."

Georgette flashed her radiant smile on him. Gosh, he was handsome! Lots hansomer than Buddy Rogers.

"Say, is your boat all smashed?"

He grinned. "It won't ever take any prizes."

"Gee, that's too bad!"

"I dont care." He took her hand in his own strong tanned one. "If it hadn't been for that boat I never would have met you or any of your family."

Georgette searched his face with her lovely eyes. Why did he have to drag in her family? It hadn't been their show. "Cynthia wouldn't get up," she said bluntly.

"She told me."

Well, that was something. "I expect you'll be going away today." Her voice lifted into a question.

He nodded. "But your mother was good enough to ask me to come down Saturday."

There was a knock on the door. "Your mother said I could only stay two minutes."

"I'm not going to die." She tightened her grip on the hand that held hers. "Don't go!"

He bent over her suddenly. "Do you mind, Georgette, if I kiss you?"

"I've got a cold."

But he took her suddenly in his arms and gathered her to him. "I think, Georgette," he said solemnly, "you're the grandest kid I ever met."

"Kid!" Again the knock on the door.

"O, come in," yelled Georgette in a voice that cracked slightly.

The door was opened a foot and Georgette's eyes stared into Cynthia's. Cynthia smiled at her, smiled with all the gentleness of real affection. But in one horrible blinding flash Georgette knew she hated Cynthia. Cynthia had everything she didn't have. She was nineteen. Her lovely golden hair curled naturally. She had all the decent clothes. And pinned against the shoulder of her new beige knitted dress was a single orchid.

"Mother said I couldn't come in," said Cynthia. "Only say hello."

Georgette's eyes did not flinch. "Well, you've said it."

A DEEP blush swept Cynthia's fair skin. "Georgette, I think you were wonderful last night. Everybody does." She stopped. "I never would have the nerve to do it."

"No," said Georgette brutally, "I expect you wouldn't.'

There was a moment. Then Ned Winterbottom turned to Cynthia. "I suppose your mother sent you up here to drag me out?"

Cynthia nodded. "If you catch the 11:52 you've got to leave now. Bob's driving you to the station."

Well, that was something.

He turned back to Georgette. "Would you mind being well by Saturday? I think you could do it if you tried." He smiled. "I think you could do almost anything."

Anything except not cry. "Sure," she gulped. Then she blew her nose heavily and her lovely eyes blinked at the smarting tears. "It's this damned cold," she gulped.

"I know," he said. "That's the way they take me, too."

Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

It wasn't bad being an invalid. Of course, she couldn't eat any candy. But Ned Winterbottom sent her a great box of hothouse grapes and ever so many more magazines from town. Her mother read to her, without even one adverse comment, long interviews with the stars of Hollywood. Cynthia gave her outright the new kimono, and Pete Prentiss sent her his autographed picture of Douglas Fairbanks riding an elephant, which Georgette knew to be among Pete's most treasured possessions.

Also, her mother made over Cynthia's second best evening dress so that Georgette would have something to wear Saturday evening at dinner and yielded when Georgette insisted she didn't want it "built up" at the back. Life was not without its springs of hope because, for one thing, Georgette did not know that Cynthia, with the coöperation of the family, concealed from her the arrival each morning of a separate box of flowers addressed to Cynthia alone.

The great Ned Winterbottoms, whose father paid an annual income tax like the national debt, came out on the 6:10 train with Mr. Portage and was met at the station and driven home by Bob in the Portage flivver. Georgette, in the second best evening dress, was at the door to meet him. She had considered remaining quietly in the drawing room, a book in one hand and a rose from Mr. Winterbottom in the other. But the sound of the doorbell altered her plans.

"Gosh," she exclaimed, and before she could restrain herself she had thrown both arms around his neck.

After a moment he surveyed her at arm's length. "You've grown," he said.

"I have not." She turned around slowly so that he might have the benefit of her dress which displayed more of her young back than had ever been given the public since the days when, at the age of four months, her morning bath had been admired by relatives and neighbors.

"Youre practically the most beautiful young woman I've ever seen," he stated solemnly, "and I've brought you a present."

"Gosh." She opened the package with her quick strong hands, snapped back the lid and stared. "I suppose they're real," she said in a small voice, "they're so small."

"Georgette!" Cynthia's face was scarlet and Georgette met her eyes with a hard indifference.

"They're swell." She turned to Ned Winterbottom. "If they seem just a little young for me Ill keep remembering all the time they're real and that will make a difference."

"Bob," commanded Molly Portage sternly, "take Mr. Winterbottom's suitcase up to the blue room. Dinner's in ten minutes."

AFTERWARD, in the drawing room, Lizzie included Georgette when she passed the tray of cocktails. For a second Georgette was at a loss. Suppose she took one and drank it. It would prove she was grown up. On the other hand it might also prove disastrous. She remembered blankly the time she and Pete had smoked one of Mr. Portage's cigars.

"No thank you," she said in a loud clear voice. "I never drink. That is, I haven't for a good many years."

It was strange why at that moment every one, including Mr. Winterbottom, should be overtaken with a fit of coughing.

"I think you're very wise," he rallied quickly. "Some way I'd thought all along you were the sort of girl who didn't drink."

Dinner that evening was very pleasant. Georgette sat between Mr. Winterbottom and her father, and every one, including Bob, treated her with a deference which, if somewhat strained at moments, was at least adequate. Bob, however, did make one unfortunate reference to Pete Prentiss, who have given him a lift into the village that afternoon in his new car, and explained him to Mr. Winterbottom as Georgette's beau.

Georgette drew her thin young shoulders high with scorn. "That kid," she exploded. Then, to Mr. Winterbottom, "He's a neighbor boy. I

Awnings Add Comfort and Beauty to Homes in Summer

Striped, Plain, They Come in Various Styles

Or Your Own May Be Renewed by Stretching the Fabric Over Old Frames

By Louise Bargelt.

AWNINGS are of prime importance among our summer comforts. Besides adding good looks to the house exterior, and contributing a certain gay festivity to doors and windows, balconies, pergolas, and playhouses, they shut out the direct light of the sun during many daytime hours. In this way they are often of active assistance in keeping our draperies and furnishings from fading.

Of interest to home and apartment dwellers who are concerned with the warm weather coolness of the interior is the report brought out this last year by the University of Illinois. After a series of observations and experiments, the report states that in the cooling of a residence interior awnings which are properly designed and adequate make a difference of from 26 to 40 per cent, the report in question having to deal with experiments conducted in a home which was equipped with machinery for summer cooling, so that tangible evidence and information were easily procurable.

Intercept the Sun's Torrid Rays.

One of the main reasons for this considerable degree of awning efficiency lies in the fact that awnings intercept the sun's hot rays in their passage through window glass. In this way the heat is caught outdoors, as it were, before it gets into the house.

Modern awnings of good quality, designed and made by manufacturers of repute, are of sturdy tight woven fabrics. There are many various ways of handling striped designs. There are also awnings with scroll or pattern effects instead of stripes, and awnings which are severely plain, quite patternless in fact, but are given festively escaloped edges.

For so many gay and pleasureable purposes is the awning of today used. We see garden chairs and tables given this shade, sand piles and playhouses for children. Sun porches and sleeping porches, play tents and camping tents, open terraces and semi-enclosed spaces all come in for their share of colorful protection, as well as the many doors and windows of our homes.

We all crave hours of relaxation on shaded porches and terraces, and because too much sunlight can hurt our eyes we need a certain amount of protection. We love to eat, sometimes, on grassy lawns when there's a vast and easy to look at umbrella shade over our heads!

Awning Expert Is an Exterior Decorator.

The modern expert on awnings is really an exterior decorator in his line. His business of giving your house exterior awnings which suit it and add to its beauty is not entirely as simple as it sounds. Awnings, the right sort, can make a house; the wrong sort may not utterly break it, but they can detract so from the attractive appearance of the house picture that we decide before the summer is over that we'll get along without them next year if we broil alive in the doing.

Large awning manufacturers and firms conduct service departments with men available to send out to give advice on making new awnings for your house. Or you can buy awnings ready made, if you prefer—only get ones which harmonize with the house itself. Just as an architect knows what type of windows your house demands, or the style of its doors, or roof, or sun porch, so an awning expert is aware of the type of awnings required. Your house as a whole is carefully studied, and as a result your finished awning installation will be a handsome and satisfactory one. Which it should be, considering the fact that awnings should last a number of years and look well during their time of service.

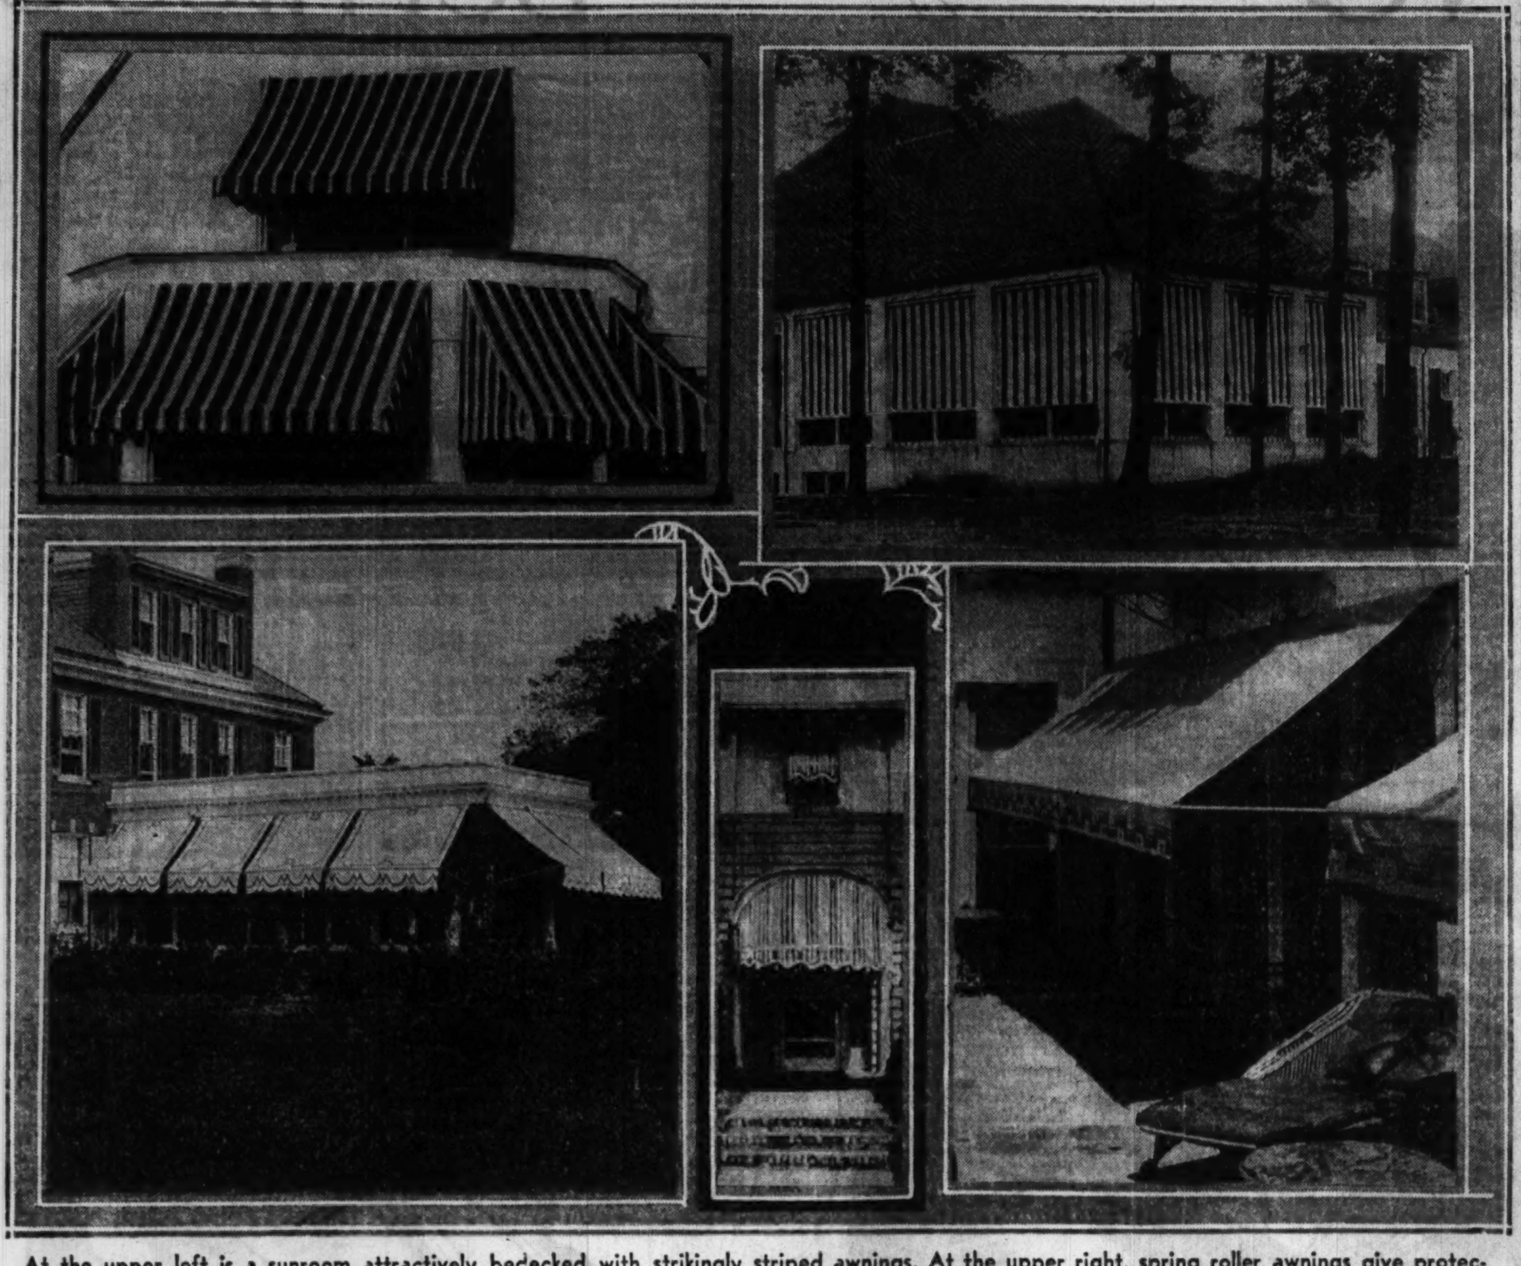
Old Frames May Be Freshly Covered.

There are awnings without sides, which allow quite a bit of air to swish through them; awnings with sides, awnings with simple hardware and with decorative, ornate hardware. There is a wide variety in the styles and colors available; we can pay what we can afford and select what pleases us within our budget range and the needs of our home.

If our existing awnings have reached that stage where they need an experienced doctor to tone them up and get them in shape; if they are torn, frayed, or ripped and yet are not in sufficiently bad shape to make new ones an absolute necessity we can have them entirely re-covered, using new materials, but the same old frames. Or perhaps some few of our awnings last year didn't fit just right, and this season we want them put in proper condition. Now is the time to consider having them attended to. By the time June arrives we can begin to expect the possibilities of some sizzling hot weather, and the sooner we get our house ready for that weather the more we can lounge around and enjoy it when it comes!

Choosing the color schemes in one's awnings with thoughtful care is as necessary as choosing carefully the shades of one's curtains and rugs and other interior decorations. Especially is this true since awnings flaunt their colors to the world at a time of year when all nature is in bloom. In the midst of a veritable wealth of glorious color we install our awnings. Then, too, besides these riotous hues of nature around us, there is the roof of the house to consider, and its exterior trim, and perhaps, too, the shade it is painted.

There is pleasure in color, real pleasure to be had from it. Sometimes we love it just for itself alone and sometimes because of its association with happy times in our life, even with people we have known particularly well and proportionately enjoyed. But we want to be sure we choose those colors our house is going to get along with. Good colors are vitally necessary everywhere in a house and on a house. No less so, good colors, sturdy, sun resisting, permanent colors, are of first importance outside the house, in the awnings themselves.



At the upper left is a sunroom attractively bedecked with strikingly striped awnings. At the upper right, spring roller awnings give protection and shade to wide areas of porch. At the lower left are Venetian awnings—without sides. At the lower center, an entrance with awnings, and at the lower right beautifully harmonizing awnings, especially designed for the type of home they are to protect. Carefully planned, expertly designed and correctly installed awnings afford truly decorative beauty as well as much added coolness to the home interior.

Kitchens Can Be Made Comfortable and Cool for Summer-time Efficiency

Stainless Metal Sink Easy to Keep Clean and an Attractive Unit.

By Wil'Ella de Campi.

SUMMER is no time to spend in the kitchen, to be sure, but since the ravenous family MUST be fed, hot weather or no, we strive at least to make the kitchen as coolly comfortable and colorful as it can be. It is wise, if possible, to redecorate for summer before the days become too warm and sunny.

New kitchen equipment is now designed to harmonize with cheerful color schemes and scientific planning can make this important room efficient as well as beautiful. Today's illustration shows a new cabinet sink, which with its neat arrangement, will save the housekeeper many a weary step.

The sink, with its double drainboard, is made of glistening stainless metal, so easy to keep clean. In the space below are convenient drawers for cutlery and cupboards for pots and pans. Cupboards built against the walls at each side hold china, glassware, and staples. With so much storage space near at hand there will be no unnecessary trudging back and forth to put things away when cleaning up after each meal.

A triple casement window directly over the sink affords plenty of air and light during the day. Electric fixtures at each side assure good lighting at night. A charming kitchen garden grows in colorful flowerpots on the window sill. There are chives and parsley always on hand and fresh when they're needed, and geraniums for sturdy beauty.

The rest of the kitchen is equally attractive and efficient. There is a modern console stove in black and white, a mechanical refrigerator with the latest improvements, a cabinet for brooms and cleaning equipment, and a metal topped work table with an accompanying stool. A breakfast table with three chairs is placed in front of a double window which affords cross ventilation.

Cool colors are in keeping with the general character of the room. Walls are painted white, spattered with frosty silver. The woodwork, including all cabinets and doors is painted a soft blue-green, with a line of silver. Insides of cabinets are glossy black, which makes an effective background for colorful china and gleaming glassware.

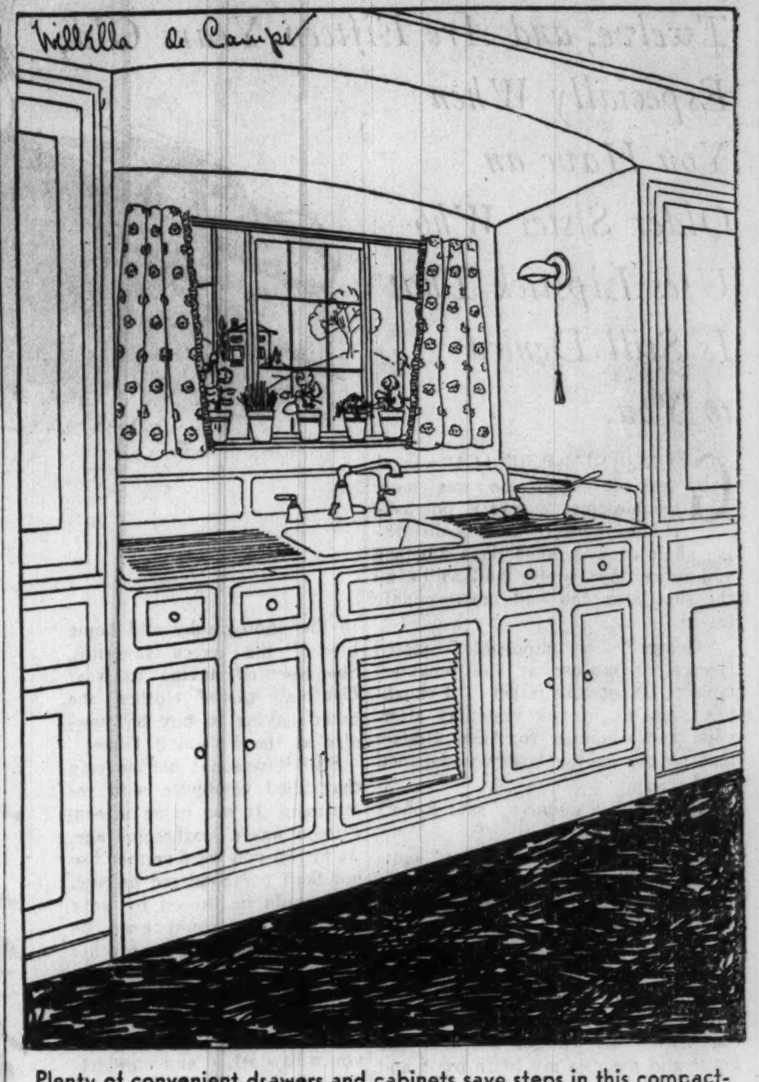
Breakfast table and chairs are black with blue-green trim. Seat pads for the chairs and curtains for the windows are made of chintz with a pattern of deliciously cool snowflakes on a blue-green ground. The seat pads are piped with white and the curtains are finished with white accordion plaited edging. Black and white marbleized linoleum covers the floor.

Though red is by no means a cool color, it may be used in combination with gray in a kitchen which receives no sunlight. Such a room has been charmingly decorated in the following manner: Walls above the wainscoating are done in a vertically striped paper which combines gray, white and red. Woodwork and wainscoating are painted soft French gray, with a line of red, and the insides of all cupboards are painted the same red.

Kitchen table, sink, refrigerator and stove are white with gray trim. At the windows are curtains made of white casement gauze, effectively finished with red wooden ball edging.

Adding vivacity and a distinctive note to the entire scheme is a colorful luncheon set used on the breakfast table. This set, woven by the Zapotecan Indians, is in green, red, and yellow plaid with strange Indian birds in red. There are eight place mats, eight napkins, and a runner.

Plain white china and red glassware are used in conjunction. Gray granite linoleum, covering the floor, adds to the generally cool appearance of the room.



Plenty of convenient drawers and cabinets save steps in this compactly arranged kitchen. The sink and drainboards are of stainless metal.

American Woman Honorary Member of Italian Fascisti

MRS. PETER A. DRURY JR., of New York and Washington, is the only American woman to be appointed an honorary member of the Italian Fascisti. Premier Mussolini conferred the distinction after she completed a survey of Italian prisons.

Miss Jennie Di Nardo, member of the police department of Paulsboro, N. J., is a fingerprint expert. She is secretary to the mayor.

Emma Reh, an American woman scientist, recently discovered the remains of the ancient Indian city of Teposcoulula near Oaxaca, Mexico.

Mrs. Borah Chooses Navy Blue and White

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho, is wearing a new spring suit of navy blue made with a two-tier cape. White silk lines the capes and the wrap-around scarf. Her accessories include a mushroom hat of blue straw trimmed with a large, flat bow of white organdy, white doeskin gloves and blue kid shoes.

Paris Actress Favors Black for Evening

PARIS.—(AP)—Madeleine Lambert, actress of the Comedie Francaise, is among smart continentals who choose black for evening wear. She wears a gown of black georgette accented by a belt of black lacquered satin and touched with the same satin on the décolletage.

Light, Springlike Colors Predominate in Charmingly Furnished Model House Planned for the Average Budget

Greens and Yellows Mingle with Creams and Beiges in Rooms that Blossom.

By Edith Weigle.

VERY springlike, crisp and fresh, and full of ideas for the young woman who is to be a June bride is an adorable little model house recently erected and furnished on the furniture floor of one of the State street stores. It's good to look at outside with its white walls, wide windows hung with Venetian blinds, and its little green trees in tubs by the door.

The colors inside are delicately soft and charming. Pale greens, beiges, creams, pure whites and yellows. The woodwork is all white. And in the living and dining rooms are two fireplaces with lovely white mantels.

As you enter this attractive Regency house, which is full of modern touches, the dining room is off the little hall, on the right. The end wall, facing you as you enter, is entirely white, a fireplace being centered in it. The key color of the room is struck in a green and white flower painting hanging above the mantel. On either hand are electric taper sidelights which are reflected in mirror backs.

The dining table of gleaming mahogany offers a rich contrast to the stunning Chippendale chairs of white, with white leather seats. It's very chic, you know, to combine light chairs with a dark table, or to have two kinds of upholstery, one variety for the side and another for the armchairs at head and foot of the board. Breaks the monotony and adds a gay and festive note.

Against one side wall is a particularly handsome three section mahogany secretary-cabinet, the upper, glass doored section displaying choice china and porcelain, and the lower drawer sections holding table linens. A broken arch pediment surmounts the top of this beautiful piece of furniture.

Directly opposite, between two long windows, is a mahogany sideboard or buffet, also good looking, but not perhaps as original as the china cabinet. Before the windows are a pair of mahogany plant stands with white jars of flowers.

Frenchy looking little green and white striped roller shades are seen between the simple folds of the long, pure white silk window draperies, which are made with a two or three inch heading at the top and finished at the bottom with a very wide flounce. They are trimmed with a white ball edging, and hang perfectly straight to the floor.

The rug in this room is made of that clever carpeting which, because of a patented joining device, may incorporate another shade or two in its design. In this case a creamy white border is set into the rug about a foot from the edege.

The wall paper was specially designed and is extremely chic with a pattern of crimson cherries against a background of beige gray, touches of green appearing in the foliage and white in tiny, wavy ribbons.

Over the dining table hangs a simple but very graceful electric candle chandelier. We were told it is just an ordinary type calcimined pure white to harmonize with the room. Here is a clever idea, easy to achieve and sure to add a perfect touch to a room with much white in it.

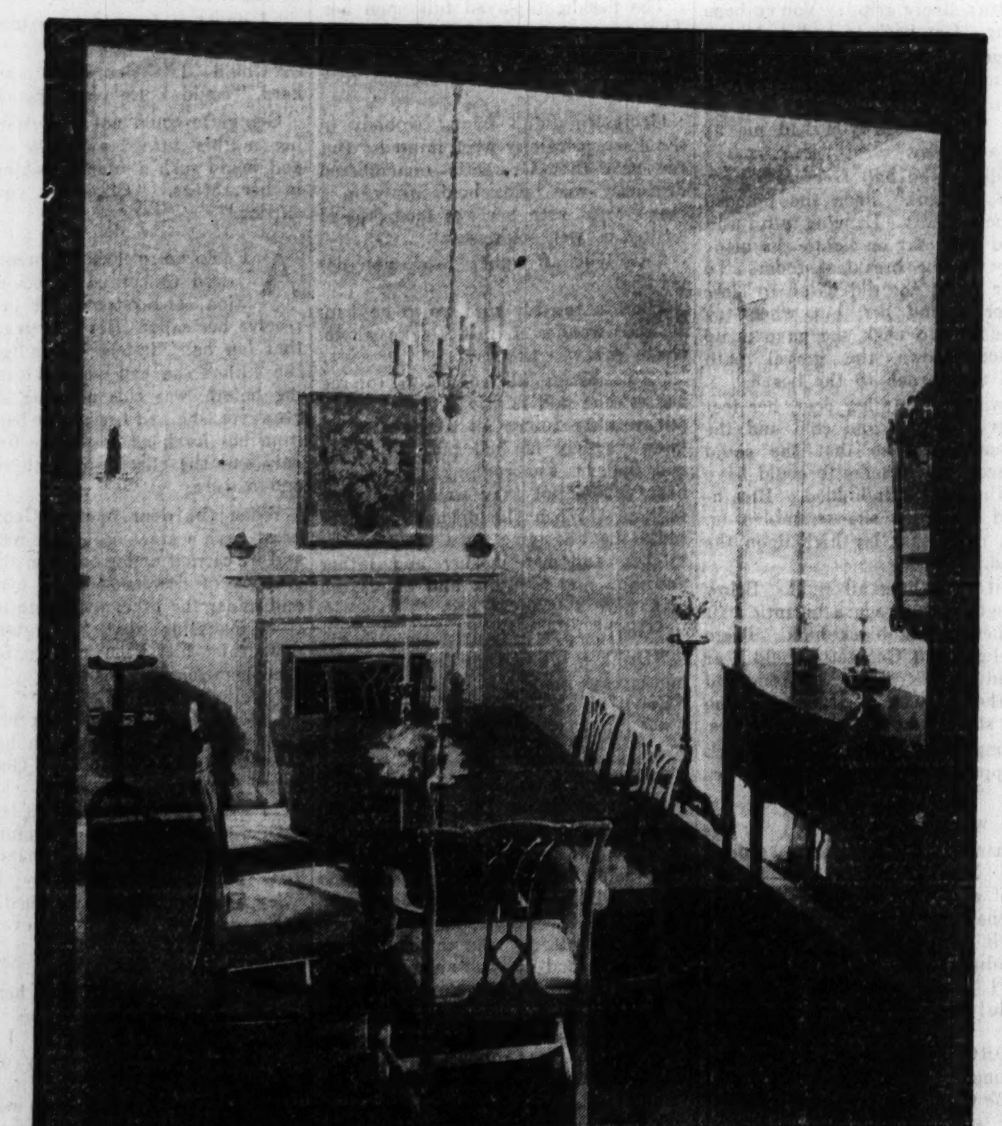
A picture of this interesting dining room is shown today.

The living room is carried out in pastel shades of beige and turquoise green. The walls are painted the latter color, and a large sofa is upholstered in beige silk damask, as is one armchair, while two other chairs are covered in beige corduroy, and the broadloom rug is beige. Touches of white are furnished by a mahogany armchair covered in white leather, by the white fireplace and mantel and a handsome circular white framed mirror above it, hung by white silk rope, as well as by white objets d'art, flowers, etc.

The wide, floor length windows are hung with white Venetian blinds and the draperies are moire, scalloped, and of a deep turquoise color. Before this window is a small white table holding a silver luster vase filled with artificial magnolia blossoms.

A small mahognay secretary desk adds a note of practical comfort to this room.

Beyond it is a little game room done in shades of beige and brown. Again the long window is hung with Venetian blinds, and the draperies are deep brown moire, hanging straight to the floor from under a straight valance of the same material, and edged with a band of American beauty color. A little brown covered love seat occupies a small recess in the room, and Navajo rugs add a modern touch. At the same time a charming decoration is made by hanging a group of old Japanese colored prints framed in white in a straight line at eye level along one wall. About six prints are thus used.



The mellow reddish-brown mahogany is set off by White Chippendale chairs upholstered in white leather in this charming little dining room. The fireplace end of the room is painted white, the other walls being papered in an atractive pattern of beige-gray, with touches of green, scarlet and white. Shown in a Chicago Store.

Mercolized Wax

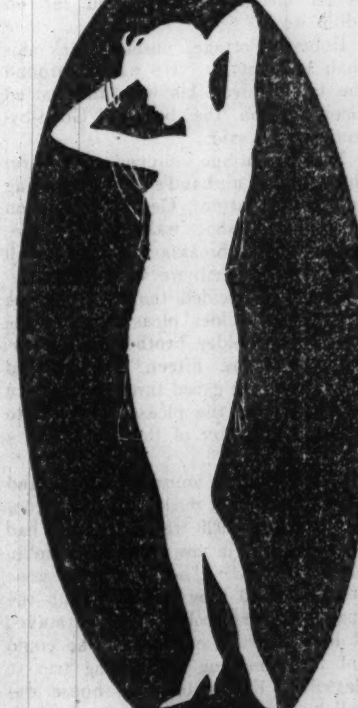
Keeps Skin Young

Absorb blemishes and discolorations using Mercolized Wax daily as directed. Invisible particles of aged skin are freed and all defects such as blackheads, tan, freckles and large pores disappear. Skin is then beautifully clear, velvety and so soft—face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out your hidden beauty. At all leading druggists.

—Powdered Saxolite—
Reduces wrinkles and other age-signs. Simply dissolve one ounce Saxolite in half-pint witch hazel and use daily as face lotion.

Here's the SAFE Way to Grow
Bewitchingly Slender
... FEEL YEARS YOUNGER AND ACQUIRE GREATER PHYSICAL ATTRACTIVENESS

Reduce double chins, barrel waistlines, tubby hips and rolls of fat on ankles. Easy now to possess youthful slenderness of movie stars.



The world no longer holds any elevated position for fat, unattractive women. Rarely do you see a man nowadays admiring one and the newspapers continuously tell of husbands divorcing wives who've carelessly allowed themselves to grow too stout.

Not a pretty future for overweight females—but don't worry because now you have a physician-approved treatment that not only reduces excess fat but helps build up strength and health as well. Simply take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in hot water or your coffee first thing every morning. Avoid fattening foods.

Kruschen is a superb blend of 6 SEPARATE Salts which help re-establish proper and normal body functioning — its health-giving influence is felt by all parts of the body. Surplus, unhealthy fat gradually disappears and don't be surprised when scales register normal weight for you—when your mirror reflects a delightfully clear complexion—bright eyes—a woman 10 years younger looking!

And not only does Kruschen mean trim slenderness but this "little daily dose" helps keep the system free from acid and harmful toxins which usually cause so many petty yet annoying ailments—headaches, acidity, drowsiness, indigestion, nervousness and sleeplessness. Energetic activity takes the place of listlessness—you'll keep feeling fine and fit as each day brings you nearer to your goal—a trim, slender figure.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drug store thruout the world and if the results of this first jar brings don't convince you Kruschen has at last made reducing safe and easy—money back. Imitations may be offered you so demand and get Kruschen—the ORIGINAL—the GENUINE—the SAFE way to lose fat.

Reduces from Size 44 Dress to Size 20

Mrs. Di Salvo of Woodhaven, L. I., writes: "Only a few months ago I weighed 187 and never could get a nice dress to fit. Now from a 44 dress to a 20 size [weight 138]—many thanks to Kruschen Salts. I've recommended it to all my friends."

Loses 16 Lbs.

Mrs. E. M. Drouryer of Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "I'm proud of my results from Kruschen. I've lost 16 lbs. in 4 weeks. I'm feeling like a young girl of 16. Lost the fat on my ankles and in and around my hips."

Her Physician Prescribed Kruschen

"Since my accident I was unable to get much exercise, as I'm still quite lame. I realized I was getting too stout [220 lbs.] and my physician advised me to take Kruschen Salts. I'm now reduced to 172 lbs. and feel fine. I am delighted with results." Miss Lida Wilson, City Island, N. Y.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

IN the course of one week this department receives numerous letters from all parts of the city and suburbs—appeals for clothing or furniture—for almost anything and everything. This process is repeated fifty-two times a year, and almost every packet of mail brings one outstandingly pitiful case. Tiny, neglected babies; undernourished children; unemployed young men; lonely and penniless old couples—all asking for help.

Winter is terrifically hard on these people—but the coming of summer seems to lessen, in some ways, their hardships. After all—there are parks and beaches which all may enjoy—with one great exception. This exception is made up of bed ridden invalids.

Within the last month requests for wheel chairs have doubled in number. The invalids listed in our files range from young to old and from slightly crippled to hopelessly so.

Here are excerpts from a few of the letters hopefully sent to me, and I trust they will plead their own cases. No one, I am sure, could feel justified in allowing a wheel chair to stand unused with such appeals as the following brought to his attention.

This note comes from one of the case workers of a large charitable organization. She writes as follows:

"Dear Miss Brown: We are coming to you in the interest of little Josephine M. She is now 11 years old and attending a school for crippled children. Her bus ride to and from the school is probably the most exciting thing in her life. It is most fortunate that the school furnishes transportation as she cannot walk any distance and her mother is no longer able to carry her. The child should have more fresh air and sunshine. With the closing of school she will be confined to her home unless a large stroller or a wheel chair can be found for her. We are caring for this family, which consists of a mother, five children, and a grandmother. The father is living, but has deserted his family. D. H."

Here's a plea from the mother of another small invalid.

"Dear Miss Brown: My little daughter is 7 years old. She has been an invalid for some time, and is badly in need of more fresh air. Do you thing one of your readers might have a child's invalid chair for her?

"MRS. R. O. D."

Miss R. G. is a young girl just home from the hospital. Her doctor has ordered fresh air and sunshine, but as she is unable to walk, this will be a difficult problem unless she secures a wheel chair.

Mrs. I. B. is a widow. She has been in bed for the last two years. It is easy to imagine what a wheel chair would mean to her.

B. L. M. requests a chair for a woman who has lost the use of both her legs. Her husband has just been released from the county hospital and is unable to work.

Still another letter comes from Mrs. C. M., who tells of two children in need of chairs. A girl of six and a boy of eight. Neither has ever walked, and both are from families in severe financial straits. Both children are too large to be carried and, unless we can help them, they are doomed to stay in small, stuffy, unattractive rooms during the long summer days.

One of our readers has very kindly sent us a supply of Four o'Clock flower seeds. If you would like to have some, write to this department immediately. Please do not telephone or call in person.

"Because I have been unemployed for the last 6 months I am unable to secure a buggy for my little daughter, 7 weeks old. If one of your readers has one no longer needed I shall be glad to call anywhere in the city for it.

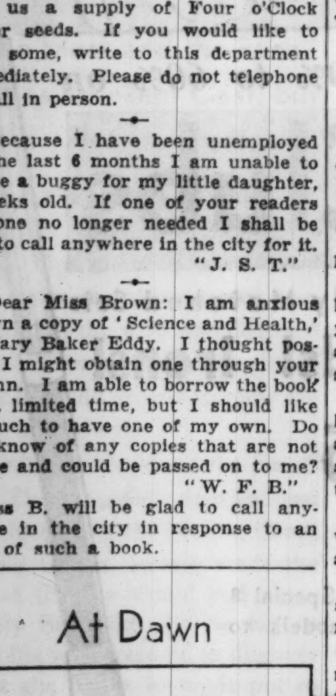
"J. S. T."

"Dear Miss Brown: I am anxious to own a copy of 'Science and Health,' by Mary Baker Eddy. I thought possibly I might obtain one through your column. I am able to borrow the book for a limited time, but I should like so much to have one of my own. Do you know of any copies that are not in use and could be passed on to me?

"W. F. B."

Miss B. will be glad to call anywhere in the city in response to an offer of such a book.

At Dawn



By Eleanor Jewett.

Two little birds on our pear tree sat,
Very, very early in the morning;
One said this and the other said that,
Very, very early in the morning.

One said he didn't and the other said he did,
Early—O, so early in the morning!
Not one of us could sleep (though we tried) amid
All the twitter of the morning.

The little birds argued and flew away,
Very, very early in the morning.
They'll be back tomorrow, they have more to say!
Very, very early in the morning.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

These Stamps Described in the Accompanying Article.

Mr. Cabeen will be glad to answer questions concerning stamps. A stamped, self-addressed envelope should be inclosed in case a personal reply is desired.

THE Irish Free State [Saorstat Eireann] was brought into existence on Jan. 7, 1922, when the dail or parliament ratified a treaty with Great Britain. This new government includes 27,349 square miles of territory, while the remainder of the island of Ireland, 5,237 square miles, is from its location known as Northern Ireland and has an entirely distinct and separate government.

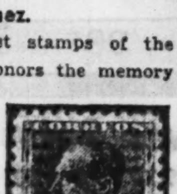
Stamps were at once provided for the Irish Free State by surcharging British stamps with various Gaelic inscriptions, but by the end of 1922 a distinctive issue began to make its appearance. The designs were based generally on subjects taken from Irish history and legend. Some of these are shown in the illustration and it will be noticed in the case of the map stamp that the Free State has given no indication that it does not include the entire island.

Following the example of other nations the new state spent considerable energy in changing place names from English to Gaelic words. Irish names have been restored or substituted for more recent English changes. Kingstown is now Dun Laoghaire [pronounced Duhn Lera or Lwera], Queenstown is Cobh [pronounced Kov—English cove], and Kilkenney becomes Cill Chainnigh.

In 1865 when the Fenians were attempting to establish the Irish republic, stamps were designed and submitted to the postal department of the Fenian government which had its headquarters in New York City. One of these stamps is shown in the illustration. They were accepted by the Fenians but probably never passed beyond the state of proofs or essays.

Spain Honors Ibanez.

One of the latest stamps of the Spanish republic honors the memory of Vicente Blasco Ibanez for the aid his writings gave to the republican cause. Ibanez is best remembered in this country for his story, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." This enjoyed great popularity and from it was taken the photoplay on which Valentino entered the inner circle of stars.



Cachet Notices.

The Universal Stamp association will sponsor cachets at Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y., to commemorate the 5th anniversary of A. M. No. 20 on June 1. One cachet only free to each person. Send covers "ready to go" for Syracuse to Camille Lacomb, 1800 West Fayette street, Syracuse, N. Y., and for Rochester to Cecil A. Cunningham, 177 Canton street, Rochester, N. Y.

An interesting series of cachets will recall the historic background of Richmond, Va. Souvenirs will be sent you in each envelope. There are no charges. Write for full information to the New Southern Philatelist, 109 East Cary street, Richmond, Va.

The First National Cover club will sponsor a cachet on the occasion of the 31st annual convention of the American Institute of Banking to be held in Chicago, June 12 to 16. Send stamped, self-addressed envelopes, unstuffed and unsealed to W. F. Binion, secretary, First National Cover club, First National bank, Chicago, Ill.

Newfoundland Stamps.

Newfoundland has ordered two new issues of stamps from the printers, John Dickinson & Co. of London, England. An air mail set will come in 5, 10, 30, 60, and 75 cent values, showing scenes in which an airplane is given prominence on each value. They will be placed on sale May 31.

A commemorative set of 14 values, to honor the explorations of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, will be placed on sale on Aug. 2, which is the 350th anniversary of the acquisition of Newfoundland by the British. The stamp designs will recall the life of Gilbert or the anniversary date. Sale will be limited to the period between Aug. 2 and Dec. 31 and on the latter date all values will be withdrawn.

Your Questions.

D. L. T.—The United States stamps which have straight edges all around and two large oblong holes at either side were issued imperforate by the government and privately perforated with these rectangular holes by the Schermack company. This concern which made machines for affixing stamps to envelopes perforated the stamps in this manner so that the holes would engage on the operating mechanism of the machine and advance the stamp to the correct position. By using this peculiar perforation, which was patented, they were assured of a continual demand for stamps by the users of their machines. Finally the government altered the perforation of coils so that they could be used in similar machines without a charge for perforating and the use of the Schermacks practically ceased.

SCARF, BLOUSE ADD COLOR TO FRENCH TOGS

PARIS.—(AP)—Bright scarfs and blouses are being worn this season to give color contrast to daytime suits and coats. Scarfs replace the collars on many models.

As for suits themselves, the styles launched by Worth are designed on a youthful silhouette with slender skirts and hipbone jackets that hang almost straight.

Among them is a little model of brown wool with, instead of a collar, a narrow, two toned attached wool scarf, half bright green and half beige, tied closely about the throat.

Another is a deep blue wool flecked with beige threads and finished with a narrow scarf of bright red wool.

Natural colored linen makes a third spring suit cut on tailored lines and finished with a short sleeved blouse of red, beige, and blue striped crêpe made with diagonal seamings. The jacket is lined with the same stripe.

Soft, lightweight wools in tones of gray and navy blue are used for frocks designed to wear with a cape or fur neckpiece. A gray wool model, made with a simple bodice, bishop sleeves, and a slender skirt, is finished with a bright red raffia belt.

Another of dark blue wool having gold paillettes woven into the material is topped with a shoulder cape of the same fabric.

The same note of paillettes or stones worked into the material appears in the evening mode with a frock of brilliant green crêpe having pink glass stones embedded in the fabric. It is worn with a pert puff sleeved jacket of matching green tulle.

Among other outstanding evening frocks are a frock of garnet red satin designed with brief puffed sleeves and a gown of black crêpe having a décolleté edged in white tucked organdy topped with a white organdy elbow length cape.

Black and White Outfit Worn by Mrs. Ross

DAY IN SPRING

sometimes help him with his home work."

Yes, the dinner was from every point of view a success and Georgette was both gratified and relieved to observe that while she was the possessor of a corsage of lilies-of-the-valley and sweet peas Cynthia wore only a cotton gardenia that had been removed from an evening dress of two summers before. O, it was superb being grown up and admired. It was wonderful being beautiful and wearing lipstick perfectly openly and being allowed to powder her nose, without comment, at the table.

And that was what made the thing that happened afterward so horrible, so utterly and completely shattering. Whatever misery life might hold Georgette knew nothing ever again would touch the bitterness of that moment. If she only hadn't gone upstairs to get a fresh handkerchief, if she only hadn't dallied so long putting on her mother's lipstick.

SHE had left them all in the drawing room drinking coffee. When she came down the stairs she could hear her father and Bob shaking dice at the backgammon board in her father's den and her mother's voice at the telephone. Cynthia and New Winterbottom were alone in the drawing room.

Why she waited that moment outside the half opened door she never knew. Maybe it was fate. Maybe she had been destined from birth for tragedy.

"I think that little cotton gardenia," he was saying, "is one of the most appealing flowers I ever saw."

Cynthia laughed, that nice low laugh that was so much like her mother's. "I know," she said, "but I couldn't spoil Georgette's field day."

"You're the nicest girl I know," he said slowly.

Again she laughed. "I heard you say that to Georgette."

"Georgette," he answered, "is in a class by herself. I am going to have statues to Georgette erected in every public park in the state of New York. In fact, I am even considering taking up the matter of having Georgette canonized. There isn't any St. Georgette, is there?"

"Do you think we need one?"

"I do," he answered firmly. "If it hadn't been for Georgette you might go on wearing ravishing cotton gardenias all your life and I never should have had the chance to see one."

"They are lovely," Cynthia murmured wickedly.

"And so," said Ned Winterbottom, who evidently possessed the courage to be banal, "are you? That first night, in the kitchen, when you came in with your face all white and your hair . . ."

Georgette shrank away. If she could only die quietly some place where no one would see her! Of course he loved Cynthia. He was going to marry Cynthia. All her life she would have to go on seeing him She was crying now. But it didn't matter. Blindly she stumbled into the library and threw herself full length upon the sofa. No one would find her here. No one would even look for her. She beat the pillows with her hard young fists.

They had been making fun of her. Not meanly. But they thought she was funny. She hated them. She hated everybody. Everything was terrible. And she had thought everything was going to be so grand. That was the trouble with life. You got all dressed up and lit the candles in your heart. Georgette paused a moment to consider the phrase. It was pretty good. She might put it in a poem some day. Maybe some day she would write a poem that would make everybody cry. And then. Well, she might get tuberculosis. Lots of people did. And she had a bad cold. It would be wonderful to die. They'd be sorry then.

"Hey!"

Georgette sat up with a sharp jerk. "You!"

He grinned sheepishly. "I thought I'd come over and see how you felt." He dropped into a chair and pretended to be absorbed in the far corner of the room.

Frantically Georgette blew her nose and made a desperate pass at her hair. Wasn't it exactly like Pete to stumble in on a moment like this?

"Everybody's talking about what you did," he continued, still inspecting the corner.

"O, yeah?"

"Sure." He nodded. "I'll bet there isn't another girl in the state that would have had the nerve to do it." He got up and walked over to the sofa. A moment he hesitated, then he sat down. But he still didn't look at her. "You've got a fierce cold, haven't you?"

Well if somebody had to catch her bawling it might as well be Pete. She slid her eyes around to him. No, he certainly wasn't much too look at and that suit of his brother's was about two sizes too big.

"I made forty in my car today."

"Yeah?"

STILL he didn't look at her. Of course he was only a kid. But he was acting pretty decent. And he wouldn't tell, either.

"I haven't washed it yet," he went on.

In spite of herself Georgette began taking an interest. "It certainly looks like sin," she commented.

"I thought," he shot a glance at her, "I thought maybe, if your cold was better, we might wash it Monday after school."

Georgette considered. Of course washing a car wasn't much to look forward to. And still she was sure her mother would forbid her doing it. That would be something.

"Sure," she said. "Only you better come in the back road, so nobody'll see you."

He nodded. "About four." Then he stood up. For a moment Georgette thought he was going to say something. But he didn't.

"So long." He put out his hand.

Georgette took it. "See you in the funny papers."

And then, although she had never expected to again, she smiled.

Convert Nursery Into a Study as Child Grows Up

If your small children are growing up fast and the room which suited them perfectly in nursery days is too youthful for their present needs, consider converting it this winter into an all round room for older children.

Bookcases can occupy the spaces on the wall where once the blackboard hung. There can be a study table instead of a play table, a hardwood floor with occasional inexpensive rugs instead of linoleum. The contents of the cupboards will be changed from toys and blocks and tin horns and dolls to games and drawings, baseball gloves, and what not!

Changes in rooms to suit the different stages of childhood mean thoughtful adjusting of environment to meet the needs and tastes of youth. Children don't demand expensive furniture or decorations. If the room is only suited to their needs they will like it immensely because it's their own—a place to play and work in and in which they can entertain their friends and associates.

Paint Protects All Parts of House

DON'T overlook the fact that every surface you paint must be in good condition before you paint it. Buying paint of standard quality and following carefully the directions for its application are two forms of insurance to take out for the successful indoor and outdoor painting of any and all parts of your house.

Women's Clubs Study Governmental Costs

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, composed of 1,350 organizations in the United States, is making a comprehensive study of costs of the federal government.

Mrs. Albert Rochelle, member of the state legislature of Wyoming, is a mother of six children, who are between 15 and 24 years of age.

Of the 34,132 undertakers in the United States, nearly 2,000 are women.

FITTED PIQUE EVENING WRAP IS ULTRA-CHIC

A PERFECT wrap for the summer evening gown of organza in one of the pastel shades is a three-quarter coat of white piqué that fits like a glove through the body, then breaks out in enormous puffs at the top of the sleeves. The line achieved is strongly reminiscent of 1900—a silhouette the stylists of 1933 have stamped as ultra chic.

Another striking innovation in evening wraps is the shoulder cape of broad Roman rilk ribbon, the colorful stripes running horizontally across the shoulders. The lower part of the cape is a ruffle, with the stripes perpendicular.

SHORT OF READY CASH?—TRADE FOR WHAT YOU NEED!

Why deprive yourself of things you need simply because you haven't as much money to spend as formerly? Through barter and exchange you can get what you want!

Your unused clothing may be traded for the radio you want. That vacant lot may bring the auto you need. Books, jewelry, a camera, and similar articles have exchange value. So have spare rooms, the rent of which may be traded for such things as professional services, instruction in music, or groceries.

Today the number of people who want to trade is surprisingly large. There's no limit to the variety of things they want or the variety of articles they offer in exchange. These people will be glad to know what you want and what you can offer in exchange. The quick way to reach them is through an inexpensive want ad in the Tribune Barter & Exchange column!

Check the storage spaces in your home for things to trade. Then phone Superior 0100. Ask for Miss Miller, Tribune Want Ad-Viser specializing in Barter & Exchange want ads. She'll gladly help you word a want ad that will state your offer attractively to the hundreds of thousands of Tribune readers.

A Tribune Want Ad at the new rates has no equal for getting results at low cost!

Phone Superior 0100- MISS MILLER

Let Miss Miller, Tribune WANT AD-VISER, suggest ways you can best use a want ad in the Tribune BARTER & EXCHANGE column to get the things you need in exchange for things you don't need. Call her today!

If your name is in the phone book you can charge your want ad in the Tribune. If you prefer, or if you haven't a phone, a Tribune man will call on you promptly.

Deep Sea Flora and Fauna Plus Lots of Movie Fiction in This New Film

Photography Reminds Critic of "With Williamson Under the Sea;" Plot Is Full of Action and Suspense; It's All About a Desperate Attempt to Recover Lost Treasure that Went Down with an Ill Fated Boat.

By MAE TINEE.

GOOD MORNING!

Just think! One week from today a world-great movie, enacted on a mile-area-ed screen, will be unreeling before the charmed eyes of an international audience! A Century of Progress, I'm talking about. Impossible, almost, to believe that it's actually here! That it opens SATURDAY!

Such a—seemingly—short time ago we were speaking of it as an event so far in the future as hardly to seem worth while making plans for. My land, how tempus fugits! (With which unoriginal exclamation we proceed to the business of the day.)

There are more ways than one of getting rid of an octopus. An acetylene torch, now, is an effective method. And just supposing you have the idea that such don't burn under water—see "Below the Sea" and garner a load of information for yourselves. (I think the thing was an acetylene torch. Looked like one.)

Fiction and Fauna Mixed.

This picture is a sort of Williamson-Under-the-Sea affair put to music. Only there isn't any music. What I'm trying to get across is that you get a lot of deep sea flora and fauna along with the out and out movie fiction.

The last time I saw Ralph Bellamy he was Jesus Christ in "Destination Unknown." Then, too, he was at sea. This trip he plays a very rough customer, indeed, who dives for a living and hasn't even a speaking acquaintance with sweetness and beauty till Diane Templeton comes into his life. But that's getting ahead of the story. . . .

The opening scenes are concerned with naval fighting during the world war. A submarine carrying three million in gold bullion is sunk. Only two survivors possess a chart of the locality where the boat went down. One of these estimable gentlemen pushes the other off a cliff—and that leaves him the sole living person aware of where lies the gold.

Three Plot to Recover Lost Fortune.

You discover this unsavory son of the sea later at a waterfront resort confabbing with the woman owner, who is, undoubtedly, his sweetie—of sorts—AND Steve, the diver. The three plot to recover the fortune and divide it three ways. You learn, though, that Schlemmer is only

Seven Houses Give Plays at Fair Opening

Chicago Stage Ready to Entertain Summer Crowds; Show Catalog

By CHARLES COLLINS.

THE opening of the World's Fair of 1933—the popular title for A Century of Progress—next Saturday night will find seven legitimate theaters ready to take advantage of the mighty quickening of Chicago's amusement life that this spacious and epoch making exposition will assuredly bring. The catalogue of play bills will not match with the opportunity, either in quantity or quality, but that is a fact to be charged against economic history.

Improvement will come as the pilgrimage toward this city from all over the country and the world increase in volume. Shows of all kinds — drama, comedy, operetta, revue, vaudeville—will be as plentiful as the diminished national supply permits, and visitors will find that Chicago's night life outside the fair grounds is abundant and recreative.

Because of the imminent occasion, a survey of playgoing possibilities is in order. At the end of this week, the following titles may be discovered by any one who is surveying the Rialto for shows that are not projected on a screen from the magic lanterns of moderism:

World's Best Puppets.

"The Piccoli": A notable novelty with an European background. Vittorio Podrecca's marionette entertainment from Rome, rated as the greatest in the world in this quaint sideline of the theatrical arts. The puppets, large, numerous, and most

Theater Guild Puts On Fifth Play of Season

"The Mask and the Face" Has Excellent Cast, but the Plot Is Fantastic.

By BURNS MANTLE.

NEW YORK.—(Special.)—The question is: Would you, being a normal husband, kill the wife who deceived you? Your answer, naturally, is that it would depend to some extent on the wife.

In "The Mask and the Face," the Theater guild's fifth and last production of the season, Count Paolo Grazia, having made the boast that he would feel absolutely ridiculous did he fail to kill his wife were he to discover that she had a lover, is put to the test.

The Countess Grazia, knowing her husband as she does, arranges a rendezvous with her lover in her rooms while her husband is busily bidding no trumps downstairs. Warned by a jealous rival, Count Paolo rushes upstairs just in time to see the lover disappearing in the garden.

He Would Kill, but Can't.

And is he enraged! Instinctively his hands fly to the fair white throat of the countess. He would strangle her if he could, but he can't. Twice he tries and fails. Then she, obliging lady, hands him a revolver. Still he cannot pull the trigger. Chagrined but impotent to act, the count banishes the countess from the country and announces publicly that he has killed her

CLAIRE DUX AND EGON PETRI IN BRAHMS FESTIVAL

By EDWARD MOORE.

CLAIRE DUX and Egon Petri lead the list of soloists of the Brahms festival to be presented by the University of Chicago next Thursday, Friday and the following Tuesday evenings. In advance it would seem to be an elaborate observance, presenting, as it will, not only orchestral compositions but extended choral works, at least one of which, the Rhapsody after Goethe's "Harzreise im Winter," is apparently a first performance for Chicago audiences.

The University Symphony orchestra will take an important part, as will the choir, the university chorus, and the chapel organ. The first two concerts will be given in Mandel hall, the third in the university chapel.

Several Works on First Program.

The first program will be made up of several works. The "Tafellied" will be sung by the university chorus. The "Liebeslieder Walzer" has been arranged for chorus and two pianos and will be presented by the Midway Singers and the University Madrigal group, with Robert Wallenborn and Wallace Johnson as the pianists. The rhapsody, mentioned above, will call on the services of Maurine Parzybok as contralto soloist, with the university choir and chorus singing the choral sections. The chorus and orchestra will likewise be heard in the "Schicksalslied." As a variant on the choral singing the piano quartet in G minor will be played by Oscar Chausow, violin; Martin Kamen, viola; James Kann, cello, and Robert Wallenborn.

Mr. Petri will be the soloist on the second night, and will play the piano concerto in B flat. The orchestra is scheduled for the Variations on a Theme by Haydn and the first symphony. There will be no singing.

Mme. Dux Will Sing in "German Requiem."

Moving to the chapel on the third evening, the festival will conclude the famous work, "A German Requiem." Here Mme. Dux will sing the soprano solo part, Earle Milkie, cantor of the university chapel, will be baritone soloist, and Frederick Marriott will appear at the organ.

The festival has been in preparation for several months as a

CHURCHES TURN ATTENTION TO CHICAGO'S YOUTH

'Week' Begins Today; City Zoned for Programs.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago's youth will get especial attention in citizenship and religion beginning this week and continuing throughout at least the early period of the summer vacation. Plans for the annual observance of Youth week, beginning today, have been forming for some time under the direction of Henry P. Chandler, president of the Youth Week federation. The Chicago Church federation, under the direction of the federation's commission on religious education, already has launched plans for daily vacation schools to reach 100,000 young folk with religious and recreational leadership.

City Cut in 43 Areas.

Mr. Chandler's plan for Youth week includes the districting of the city into 43 areas with a chairman in each, so that the program of events may efficiently be carried on. He pointed out that the city has about 1,000,000 youths under the age of 21. Athletic carnivals, school work demonstrations, handicraft exhibits, drills, exercises and hikes will feature the week's festivities.

The daily vacation Bible schools look forward to a month devoted to a study of "The City Beautiful" as related to the Century of Progress exhibition. Leaders met yesterday at 740 Rush street, where the curricular plans were outlined. The leadership group has been meeting each Saturday this month. Due to the opening of A Century of Progress, there will be no meeting next Saturday morning.

Miss Vera C. Gardner, director of religious education for the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, is chairman of the curriculum committee of the daily vacation school for the council of religious education. Under the general title of "A Century of Progress in Kingdom Building," Miss Gardner outlined a plan which will seek assistance from Jane Addams, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Judge Mary Bartelme, and Graham Taylor in the development of the city-wide program.

Exhibit Century of Religion.

Exhibits at A Century of Progress will be used in demonstrating the progress throughout the last century of organized religion. Father Marquette, Bishops Philander Chase and Charles P. Anderson, John Kinzie, and others will be included among the leaders of religion who have led in the city's advance.

Miss Gardner pointed out that making use of A Century of Progress exhibits will establish a definite interest in the Fair among the young. At the same time, she said the interest in the Fair will be related primarily to religion. Victor E. Marriott is the chairman of the vacation schools, and Emerson O. Bradshaw, executive secretary of the council of religious education, is the director of the program. Schools will be conducted in more than 1,000 churches of the city and suburbs.

OLD ST. MARY'S IS 100

Four former Paulist pastors of Old St. Mary's church, Ninth street and Wabash avenue, will assist at the solemn services marking the hundredth anniversary of the parish on May 28, according to Rev. John E. Burke, present pastor of the historic church. From San Francisco will come Rev. Thomas F. Burke, pastor during the world war and remembered especially for his patriotic speeches here and at Camp Grant, and Rev. Walter J. Orchard, who during his pastorate, 1925-'31, was prominent in charitable work among the poor and unemployed. Rev. Walter Hopper, first Paulist pastor of the old church, and Rev. Edward J. Mullaly, three years pastor and for thirty years a member of the parish staff, are both residents of Chicago. At this service Cardinal Mundelein will preside. The sermon will be delivered by Most Rev. Alfonse J. Smith, bishop of Nashville, and the mass will be celebrated by Very Rev. Msgr. William R. Griffin.

PRAY TODAY FOR FARMERS

Today will be observed in Episcopal churches throughout the country as a day of special intercession on behalf of American farmers. Prayers will be offered and special services conducted for a revival of prosperity among those in agricultural pursuits.

TAXPAYERS' BODY WILL CELEBRATE 12TH BIRTHDAY

The Archer-Crawford Taxpayers' association will celebrate its 12th anniversary at an open meeting at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at Gnady's ballroom, 47th street and Karlov avenue. John J. Mangan, head of the Southtown Taxpayers' association, will be the principal speaker. The Skarda and Searcy laws will be discussed. Following the program there will be dancing. John F. Krause, president of the association since its inception, will be chairman of the affair, assisted by Mrs. Catherine Ziemann, vice president; James Mangan, Joseph Wiencek, Mrs. Kate Lambertz, H. Krug, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Gnady, and Mrs. Margaret Goldman.

ALL DRESSED UP FOR "TRIAL BY JURY"

Here comes the bride with her bridesmaids! Now, look closely. This ideal June wedding party is made up of stalwart Tilden Technical High school boys who dressed up for "Trial by Jury," the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta presented at the school Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Basil Ward is the bride, and his "maids," left to right, are Tony Aleo, Elmer Johnson, William Walker, John Chase, Edward Zubko, Edward Sauter, Claude Lewis, Robert Lange, Albert Gossman, Horst Bauer, George Laskaris, and Adolph Hutek.

OLD ST. MARY'S SEXTON RECALLS 47 YEARS' EVENTS

Wabash and 9th Lawn When He Began.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

The first morning that Edward Green came to open the chapel doors of Old St. Mary's, his view encompassed lawns and foliage trees along South Wabash avenue at the corner of Ninth street. There were no noisy street cars, and the wood paving blocks resounded to nothing more disturbing than the hoof thuds of horses drawing vehicles such as only a fashionable residential neighborhood could boast.

It was 47 years ago. Every morning since then at 5:30 o'clock, Sexton Green has opened Old St. Mary's doors and, as punctually, at 9:30 o'clock, he has closed them in the evening. In the performance of his duties, carried out with dignity, reverence and military-like precision, Mr. Green has witnessed the great changes in the parish and the great city which, together, celebrate their centenary this spring.

Beginning his tasks as sexton and sacristan as a youth from Ireland, Mr. Green, now in his 69th year, has himself grown old while time has aged the cream-gray stones of the edifice to which he has given a lifetime. The structure is of the same material as the water tower on the north side and other buildings which escaped the 1871 flames. Mr. Green recalls when it was one of the finest churches in Chicago, and its parish one of the city's most fashionable.

Remembers All Prelates.

Treasured in the memories of the sexton are impressions of all the leading prelates of the church during two generations, and the hosts of parishioners to whom he has been a familiar figure. It it said of him that he never required any direction or correction from the pastors.

Familiar with vestments, candles, and altars, his efficiency from the beginning of his service has never wavered. And yet, it is added, he performs each familiar duty with the same concentration as though it were all new to him.

In reminiscence, Sexton Green tells of the theatrical notables who attended mass at Old St. Mary's when they were filling engagements in Chicago—Eddie Foy, Chauncey Olcott, and George Cohan. He speaks of the time when President Woodrow Wilson was a visitor at the church, and when William Jennings Bryan lectured in one of the halls.

Never one to travel about the city, but permitting its gradual development to impress itself through his constant reading of the daily press, Sexton Green imparts a spirit of loyalty toward the Chicago in which he has been deeply interested during almost half of its century of progress.

Saw First Elevated.

There was the time he witnessed the erection of the first elevated road that ran from Harrison street to 63d street. During the earlier World's Fair, it was such a novelty you couldn't get near it for a ride. Then there was the first skyscraper. And the historic disasters. The Iroquois theater fire, when he helped carry victims into the Good Samaritan hospital which, at that time, was located just across the street from the church. One of his former assistants, John Cannon, had escaped from the overturned Eastland.

It has been a changing scene, Sexton Green agrees, and each morning as he opened the chapel doors he realized that Old St. Mary's was being more and more engulfed by the city as its throbbing center spread southward from the loop. He has found deep contentment in his career and says he hopes, as he hoped when he began his services 47 years ago, "to be allowed to stay on."

'HAPPY LANDINGS' TO BE PRESENTED BY QUEST CLUB

The Quest club players of Englewood Baptist church, 415 Englewood avenue, will present a three act comedy, "Happy Landings," at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening. The cast includes Miss Gladys Mikkelsen, Clyde Phelps, Jr., Miss Lois Steel, Miss Sylvia Dubsky, Charles W. Pranke, Miss Genevra Ramsdell, Howard Vernon, Miss Esther Frantz, Miss Lois Wiffin, Edward Harner Jr., Bob Schraeder, and Vernon West. Miss Frances Dinwiddie is directing the cast, Ed Tuchel is stage carpenter, Miss Eleanor White is property mistress, Tom Hoover is publicity chairman, and Don Donovan is makeup director.

Prof. Cox to Speak.

Garfield B. Cox, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, will speak on "Inflation and Business Recovery" at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening before the forum of the leisure time institute at Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., 1400 East 53d street.

CHURCH SERVICES

Announcements for this column must reach The Tribune by Tuesday evening. Only postcards may be used. Address the Religious Editor, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Please include the time and place of meeting, the name of the pastor, and his sermon subject.

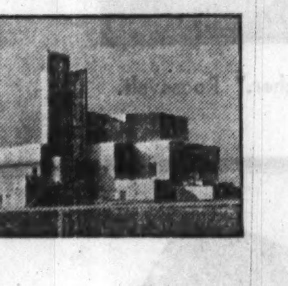
CHICAGOLAND MAP



EVERY MOTORIST DRIVING TO A CENTURY OF PROGRESS WILL NEED THIS MAP!

No Other Map of the Chicago Area Is as Complete!

FROM every point of the compass along the rim of the great metropolitan Chicago area, where hundreds of roads converge upon the city, this Tribune master map shows in a clear, understandable manner the safe, direct approaches over roads, boulevards, and streets to the heart of Chicago!

For months Tribune Pathfinders have been driving over these roads to Chicago, checking every detail of travel that motorists want to know about. Now all of this valuable information is available at nominal cost in the Tribune Chicagoland Map. This map supplies far more usable information than any other map of the Chicago area available anywhere.

3 Reasons Why You Should Get This Map Now!

The Tribune Chicagoland Map supplies indispensable information along three distinct lines—while you're en route to Chicago—for your travel about the city—and for the many side trips to points of interest near Chicago.

En Route to Chicago

Danger spots are indicated plainly in red.
Curves are shown in faithful detail.
All two and four lane highways are identified.
All grade crossings are clearly marked.
U. S. and State highway markers are indicated.
All roads with new Century of Progress road markers are shown.
Distances between points are plainly printed.

In Chicago

A Century of Progress Exposition grounds, including all buildings, grouped in 38 units, are shown.
Boulevards, through streets, street intersections, and street numbering system are plainly shown.
Historical points of interest are spotted and indexed.
All beaches and parks are marked and indexed.
The Municipal Airport—where the American Air Races will be held July 1, 2, 3, 4—is shown.

In addition, the map helps you find scores of places of interest such as the Civic Opera building, Northwestern University Campus and the Chicago Stadium.

Side Trips

The Tribune Chicagoland map shows also how to get to many places of interest near Chicago. Among them are:

CLUB WOMEN OF DIST. 3 LEADERS AT STATE PARLEY

Others to Attend National Conclave.

Third district leaders of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs had a prominent place in proceedings of the annual convention of the federation last week at the Hotel Sherman. This week several of them will be in attendance at the annual meeting of the council presidents of clubs in the General Federation of Women's clubs at Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, Third district president, heads the delegation which includes Mrs. A. H. Swett, president of the Beverly Hills Woman's club; Mrs. William Wigger, president of the Hamilton Park Woman's club, and Mrs. Milton Cruse, president of the Morgan Park Woman's club.

Mrs. Charles M. Upham, president of the junior auxiliary of the Englewood Woman's club, spoke on "The Value of the Federation to the Junior Clubs," on the convention program Wednesday morning. That afternoon Mrs. Noval B. Stephens, Third district junior chairman, participated in a round table discussion of junior auxiliary problems.

The Third district chorus furnished a musical program Thursday afternoon under Mrs. J. F. Groves' direction, and the Beverly Hills club chorus sang Wednesday evening. Mrs. William Ricketts of the Englewood club was appointed house chairman for the convention, with Mrs. George Simpson of Englewood, Mrs. Reid M. Bennett of Beverly Hills and Mrs. William B. O'Connell of Sherman Park on her committee. Mrs. August Poriz of Brainerd was chairman of the decorations committee.

Beverly Auxiliary Party.

The junior auxiliary of the Beverly Hills Woman's club will hold its first summer bridge party Monday evening at the home of Miss Isabel Chaplin, 11620 Longwood drive. Miss Martha Skinner, ways and means chairman, is in charge. There will be prizes and refreshments.

Chesterfield Club Luncheon.

Members of the Chesterfield Woman's club will hold their spring luncheon and bridge party Tuesday afternoon at the Plaisance hotel. Mrs. N. H. Murray is in charge of arrangements.

Brainerd Club Appointments.

Mrs. Edward Tocatlian, new president of the Brainerd Woman's club, has completed appointments of her board for the ensuing year. Mrs. A. N. Spence is program chairman; Mrs. Jennie Hansen, hospitality chairman; Mrs. George L. Kinnear, luncheon chairman; Mrs. Margaret Gifford, publicity chairman, and Mrs. James R. Howieson Jr., junior sponsor.

Other chairmen are: Mrs. E. A. Schlageter, art; Mrs. G. C. Marquardt, American home; Mrs. S. J. Friel, public health; Mrs. Henry H. Rohn, literature; Mrs. Florence Patterson, citizenship; Mrs. Agnes Carroll, gardens; Mrs. Fred H. Whiteside, teas; Mrs. H. H. Hiltbold, education, and Mrs Ada Adams, public welfare.

Mrs. Eula Meyers, motion pictures; Mrs. Mabel Wells, music; Mrs. Gertrude Wilke, international relations; Mrs. Chloe Whitman, finance; Mrs. Ruby Hart, membership; Mrs. Anton Bloom, dean. Mrs. O. E. Northup and Mrs. William O. Zingelman are directors at large, and Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Irma Gray, district delegates.

RITES TODAY END CELEBRATION OF CHURCH'S BIRTH

With a reception of new members today, Chicago Lawn Presbyterian church, 62nd street and St. Louis avenue, will bring to a close a week's celebration of its silver anniversary.

The Rev. W. D. Williams, pastor of the church for eight years, opened the observance with a special sermon last Sunday morning. Junior and senior Christian Endeavor societies met in the afternoon and a musical was presented in the evening.

Monday night's program was attended by members of church and civic organizations of the community. On Wednesday night a home-coming banquet was held.

D. M. Forgan, one of the charter members of the church, who with R. C. Marquis was a member of the building committee when the present church structure was dedicated in 1910, was a speaker at the home-coming.

Mr. Forgan recently returned from Long Beach, Cal., where he attended the Second Presbyterian church, of which Dr. E. S. Hudson is the pastor. Dr. Hudson was pastor of the Chicago Lawn church during its earlier years.

YOUNG MEN OF SOUTH SHORE TO GIVE COMEDY

The Young Men's club of South Shore Community church will present a three act comedy, "Nothing But the Truth," at 8 o'clock Thursday and Friday evenings in the church auditorium, 74th street and Yates avenue. Mrs. Ruth Jones directs the cast which includes Dale Bowen, Norman Corbin, Henry Heinsen, Arlan Bailie, Earle Graham, Miss Joan Streeter, Billy Waterman, Miss Margaret Malison, Miss Peggy Coughlin, Miss Virginia Hansen and Kenneth Corbin.

Chicago Lawn Girl Scouts to Give Minstrel Show

Chicago Lawn Girl Scout troop, No. 125, will give a minstrel show Friday evening at Thomas Memorial Congregational church, 64th place and Homan avenue, under the auspices of the Men's club. Miss Virginia Houston is interlocutor.

Bethany Reformed Choir to Give Concert Tuesday

The senior choir of Bethany Reformed church will give a sacred concert Tuesday evening at Hope Reformed church, 78th and Lincoln streets. The group numbers 35 voices.

EXHIBIT AMPHIBIAN AT HOBBY SHOW

William Jenkins exhibits the amphibian airplane made by him, to Ned Van Dellen while Joe Oehmen awaits inspection with his sailboat. Scene from the third annual pet and hobby show sponsored last week end at the Englewood Y. M. C. A. by the Keymen of Englewood. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

IT'S Homecoming day today at Englewood United Presbyterian church, and the Rev. James F. Le Clere has invited distinguished speakers closely connected with the church to take part in the celebration. Dr. Charles S. Cleland, moderator of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church, who speaks this morning, was a brother of the late Judge McKenzie Cleland, who helped found the church. And Dr. Theodore Crabbe, who speaks this evening on his medical missionary work in the southern Sudan, grew up in the church and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Crabbe, 6552 Union avenue.

The Bert L. Huffords of 6828 South Honore street have just received word that their son, Berle, has been elected manager of the Roxbury school track team away down east. Berle already was president of the senior class and of the honor society and editor of the school magazine and year book—he used to be that way at Lindblom too. Berle is headed for Yale.

* *

The Rev. John Strachan, who was a British navy officer before he became pastor of Holy Cross-Immanuel church recently, will present his first class of candidates for confirmation to Bishop George Craig Stewart tonight at the church, 5843 South Morgan street.

* *

NICE to hear that Howard L. Rooney, 6608 South Green street, is back on the job again. One of Our Town's most versatile young actors, directors, and playwrights! He is planning to present his own farce, "Jack and Jill," soon with the Hamilton Park Masquers taking part. And only last Sunday his play, "En Passant," the tale of a passe opera singer, was presented at the Opera club.

* *

Our Towners of Polish extraction have a big time in store at the annual Mother's day reception and tea this afternoon at the Knickerbocker hotel. City Controller Szymczak is speaking, the Rev. Francis Krakowski is singing, and Rosalie Sak, Alice Alder, Phyllis Balczyniak, Sophia Tomczak and Dr. Joseph Ulis are the committee in charge, which ought to guarantee fun for all.

* *

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pachankis, 5919 South Troy street, were back in Spring Valley again last week-end spending Mother's day with their mothers.

JAMES MERRICK of the Brainerd Improvement association, always an ace publicity chairman, but last week he surpassed himself. He became a newsreel photog. Quite unofficial, of course, but every night he was busy shooting films of celebrities who had visited the Brainerd May carnival. Mrs. Ora Molyneux was the good Samaritan who supplied the camera. James says the showing of his films won't be for another week or two.

Imagine Josephine McGrath as a circus barker! And Marion Green as a ringmaster! And Betty Coakley as a bandmaster! Just a sample of the surprises Mercy High school's circus will offer visitors tomorrow night. "Sells Sota Bar 'Em Bail-Hay Ringless," the girls are calling it, and they say it'll surpass 'em all.

A nice Mother's day attention was paid the Evangelical Home for Aged and Children at Bensenville when the "Q" players of Grace Evangelical church journeyed away out there from Marquette Manor to present the play, "A Sign Unto You." Anita Lunke, June Barrett, Charles Rylander, Mildred Horth and Roy, Bernice and Clifford Haufiaire went along.

Englewood Youth Boosters to Repeat Revue Today

The Parents' and Boosters' auxiliary of the Englewood Youth club presented a minstrel and revue last night and will give a children's matinée and a second evening performance today at club headquarters, 6034 Wentworth avenue. George Beyer directs the cast of 40. Proceeds will go to Boy Scout troops 692 and 693, and the Girl Scout troop which the club sponsors.

Plan Cabaret Party.

The 100 club will hold a cabaret party Saturday evening at the Hotel Windermere. Part of the proceeds will go to THE TRIBUNE'S hungry school children's fund.

PLANS DANCE

MISS BERTHA POKORNY.

Miss Bertha Pokorny, 1814 West 34th street, is one of a committee promoting the 13th annual spring dance of the Mount Pleasant Athletic club to be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the Cameo ballroom, Archer avenue and Whipple street. Miss Pokorny is president of the girls' auxiliary of the club. Richard Murphy, president of the club; Tom Conners, general chairman of the dance; Arthur Kusch, Norman Jones, Kenneth Avery, George Mulholland, Frank Zutek, Miss Bessie Adams, Miss Madeline Woods, Miss Sara Adams, Miss Irene Barkowski, Miss Helen Adams, and Miss Josephine Batastine also are on the committee.

GIRL ATHLETES FINISH 6 MONTH PARK MARATHON

Davis Square Leader in Volleyball.

The longest marathon in the south park sports schedule—girls' volleyball—has been completed. The six leagues began play late in January and all winners were not determined until last week.

Davis square, which placed five teams in the finals, was the outstanding park with championships in two leagues. Palmer was the south section leader, with two teams in the finals and five in the semi-finals, though none took a championship. Trumbull also had two squads in the finals, one winning a title. Mrs. Margaret Thompson is the Davis instructor, while Miss Hazel Anderson and Miss Adelaide Goodheart coach at Palmer and Trumbull, respectively.

On the Championship Team.

Five of the classifications are based on height, while the other is for married women. Mark White square was the winner over Palmer in the latter. Hamilton and Cornell were the semi-final losers. Members of the champion team:

Stella Czapla — Irene Michaels
Elizabeth Schlonga — Marge Shireck
Blanch Kochler — Marceline Richardson
Sophie DeNardo

The "A" league crown rests at Hamilton park. The Hamilton girls won after a playoff with Davis in a second "final." Hardin and Russell lost in the semi-finals. The Hamilton team:

Mary Wainwright — Mary Pratscher
Esther Saunders — Ethel Murphy
Laura Linroth — Gertrude Kellogg
Helen Wilkinson

Russell Wins "B" Title.

Russell square's team won the "B" league title in another playoff, Davis again being the hard luck team. Palmer and White went as far as the semi-finals. The Russell team:

Ella Lekki — Violet Cerajewski
Freda Rapacki — Marion Kabacinski
Genevieve Budna — Lottie Kantorski
Stella Budna

Davis finally crashed through in the "C" league, downing Palmer in the finals. This pair put out White and Russell in the semi-finals. Davis' second title was won in the "D" league after a playoff with Trumbull. Armour and Palmer survived the preliminaries.

Win in Other Classes.

The "C" champions:

Alice Archis — Violet Stokus
Polly Beganis — Tillie Grebelis
Agnes Yucus — Stephanie Wnukowska
Laura Krause

The "D" winners:

Katherine Pempek — Bernice Dainauskas
Frances Zaker — Sophie Tamulevich
Rose Oakley — Julia Maslauskas
Wanda Balcius

Trumbull took its title in the "E" league, trimming Davis. Hardin and Palmer were the other two to reach the semi-finals.

Leona Baranowski — Anna Siska
Dorothy Parichak — Irma Cavallara
Margaret Siska — Mildred Lalich
Mary Natarelli — Rose Mikus
Anna Puzich — Charlotte Marrin

The play is double round robin.

CALUMET, MERCY STUDENTS 1ST IN WRITING TOURNEY

South Side Wins Eight of 12 First Prizes.

With Calumet and Mercy High school students leading the way, the south side dominated the annual writers' tournament sponsored by the Greater Chicago Scholastic Press guild. Eight of the 12 prize winners and 30 of the 55 students receiving honorable mention yesterday at the press guild meeting are south siders.

Three first prizes and one honorable mention were won by Calumet students. To Mercy went the honor of gaining the most places — two firsts and five honorable mentions. The Academy of Our Lady, Englewood, and Aquinas Dominican High School for Girls each took four places, Aquinas having one first. Fenger and Bloom Township High schools accounted for other winners, while honorable mention was accorded to students of Bowen, Morgan Park, Hyde Park, and Thornton Township High schools.

Miss Prince a Double Winner.

Miss Geraldine Prince, 8412 Blackstone avenue, of Calumet High school, was the star of the tournament, winning the first prize in both the editorial and extemporaneous feature story divisions.

Three others, all of parochial girls' schools, won more than one place. Miss Fenelda Claire Claffy, 10057 Longwood drive, gained honorable mention in editorials and both extemporaneous and poetry divisions. Miss Mary C. Gallagher, 8415 Ingleside avenue, won the extemporaneous editorial contest and mention in editorials. Miss Jean Hart gained honorable mention in general and interview feature divisions. The latter two are from Mercy High.

The interview feature contest was won by Don Sutcliffe, 46 West 105th street, a Fenger student. In addition, five of the seven honorable mentions went south. These were Miss Juanita Hammer, also of Fenger; Miss Hart and Miss Junemary Cooling of Mercy; Miss Dorothy Maguire of Aquinas and Miss Yetta Lipschitz of Englewood.

Miss Conner Writes Best Story.

Miss Ever Conner, 2314 East 70th street, was judged to have the best short story—also an "all south event." Miss Gwendolyn Thorpe, also of Aquinas; Miss Bernice Silver of Hyde Park, and Miss Verna Rabe of Bloom Township High school were accorded honorable mention.

The south side's other first place in the material division was accounted for by Miss Mary Walter of Flossmoor, a Bloom pupil. Poetry was her forte. Miss Rita Brennan of the Academy of Our Lady gained honorable mention.

Other honorable mentions in various classes: Essay, Norton Goldberg of Calumet and Miss Jane E. Golden of Aquinas; editorial, Miss Patricia Haskins of Englewood.

Miss Mary O'Connor, 8232 Avalon avenue, won the extemporaneous essay contest. One of her Mercy schoolmates, Miss Frances Klingelschmitt, and Miss Marian Mansfield of Thornton Township High school gained honorable mention.

Other Winners Listed.

The best extemporaneous news story was written by Philip C. Clarke, 7917 South Trumbull avenue. He is a Calumet student. South side honorable mentions went to Miss Ruth Northleaf of Englewood, Miss Margaret Liebenthal of Morgan Park, and Edward Wagner of Tilden Tech.

Other honorable mentions in the extemporaneous sections: Current events, Bradley Eidmann of Morgan Park and Harold Strader of Bowen; editorial, Miss Juanita Daly of Morgan Park, Miss Helen Conway of Bloom, and Bernard Lundy of St. Rita; poetry, Miss Lois Gestner and Miss Henrietta Yalowitz, both of Bowen; feature story, Miss Marjorie Hattel of Englewood.

Miss Eliza P. Hall, editorial adviser of the Bowen Arrow, was chairman of the tournament. She was assisted in conducting it by the advisers of other school newspapers over Chicago and suburbs.

St. Casimir Academy Aid to Hold Convention Today

The 14th annual convention of St. Casimir academy auxiliary will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Nativity of Blessed Virgin Mary parish hall, 68th street and Washtenaw avenue. A business session will precede a banquet at St. Casimir academy, 2601 West Marquette road, with entertainment by students following. The auxiliary yearly provides 16 scholarships for girls of Lithuanian extraction.

MOTHERSINGERS OF P.-T. A. TO JOIN IN BIG CONCERT

Dolton, Southeast Groups Will Participate.

With the assistance of the Dolton community chorus and the Southeast Parent-Teacher council chorus, the Mothersingers' chorus of district One, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will give a concert at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at Calumet High school, 8130 South May street.

Mrs. A. W. Dunjill, whistler, will be soloist on the program, which will include individual numbers by each of the participating organizations. William Lester directs the Mothersingers and Arlene Middleton is accompanist. Mrs. Frank Hair directs the Dolton group, and Mrs. Harry Blossat, the Southeast group.

The Mothersingers are scheduled to sing June 15, June 27, and July 15 and Sept. 15 at A Century of Progress exposition. The chorus includes 550 women from 64 south side parent-teacher associations. New members are being invited to attend rehearsals the first Monday afternoon and the third Tuesday evening of each month at Hamilton Park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal boulevard.

A board meeting of the South Central Parent-Teacher council will be held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday at the home of Mrs. James E. Grant, 7731 Stewart avenue.

The Central West Parent-Teacher council will hold a school of instruction at 10:30 o'clock Thursday at Thoburn Methodist Episcopal church, 64th and Paulina streets. The morning session will include a talk on "Programs for 1933-34" by Mrs. Thomas B. Stephenson; "Who, What and Why of the District and Council" by Mrs. Arthur Guillaudeu; "Secretaries' and Treasurers' Work" by Mrs. Howard Johnson; "Summer Plans for Children and Parents" by Mrs. James Alexander; "Parents' Responsibility for Better Movies" by Mrs. Chester H. Greene; and a convention report by Mrs. George Morgan.

After luncheon Mrs. Herbert H. Siddall, new district one director, will install new officers, and Mrs. William E. Hartough, juvenile officer of the Women's Protectorate, will talk on "Parent Training." The council mothers' chorus will sing. Mrs. Clark L. Reed will preside, and Mrs. William Mason has charge of the program.

The Marquette association will hold its annual summer roundup from 9 to 12 o'clock Thursday and Friday with Mrs. A. R. Moberg and Mrs. G. S. Schafer in charge.

The Oglesby association will sponsor a movie benefit Friday and Saturday at the Cosmo theater. The mothers' chorus will rehearse at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday.

The Cook association's executive board will hold its final meeting at 1:15 o'clock, Friday in the school library.

In order to replenish its free lunch fund the Longfellow association will hold a benefit card party at 2 o'clock Friday at the store at 750 West Madison street. Mrs. Anthony Zintak is chairman, and Mrs. Charles Fasan handles publicity. There will be prizes and refreshments.

The Harper Junior High school association will give a card party at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow at 6242 South Western avenue. There will be a prize for each table. Mrs. Charles Helmers is handling ticket sales. Proceeds will go to finance the new auditorium drapes.

The Parker Junior High school association will hold a bridge luncheon Wednesday at the Plaisance hotel. Mrs. M. J. Archbold, 6953 Parnell avenue, is in charge of reservations.

Gage Park Club Branch to Hear Sanitation Talk

Mrs. Edward E. Waful, chairman of the sanitary district committee of the Woman's City club, will discuss the sanitary district at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday before the Gage Park branch of the Woman's City club at Gage park fieldhouse, 55th street and Western avenue. There will be a talk by a lawyer on the forthcoming judicial elections.

WHO'S WHO ON SOUTH SIDE

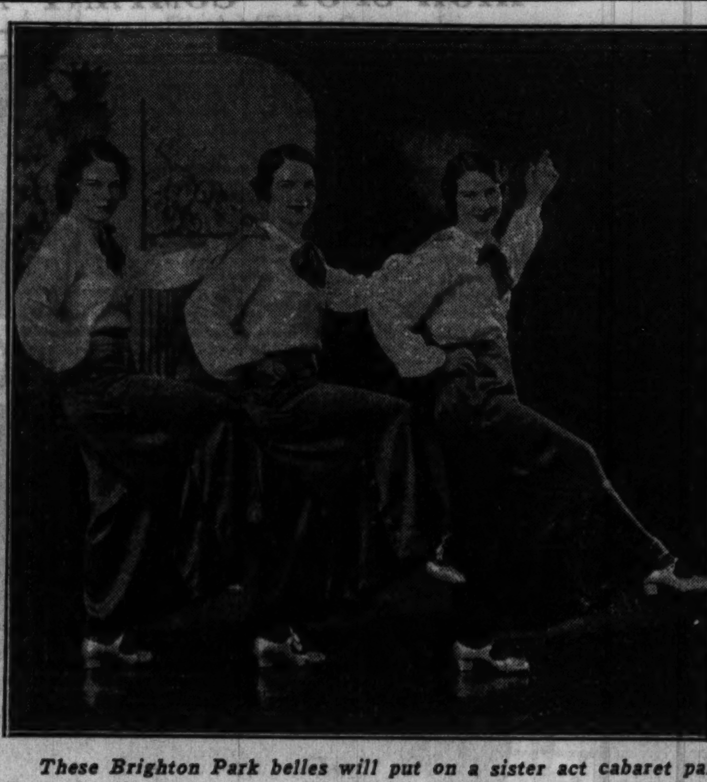
Born in the east and a Chicagoan of fewer than four years' standing, Ward B. James ranks as one of south side's leading figures. In addition to being president of the Greater South Shore Hotel association [formerly Jackson Park Hotel association] and managing director of Hotels Windermere, he is vice president of the Hyde Park Kiwanis club and a member of both the 55th Street Business Men's association and South Shore chamber of commerce. He was vice president of the hotel body last year.

WARD B. JAMES. [Copyright: Bachrach]

Mr. James was born in Rushford, N. Y., 40 years ago this month and was educated in liberal arts and law at Syracuse university. After a few years in the insurance business he joined the army during the world war, emerging with the rank of first lieutenant. He then joined the Statler hotel organization in Buffalo, N. Y., later moving to Detroit. In 1925 Mr. James became manager of the Tuller hotel in the latter city, moving to Chicago in September, 1929.

Three youngsters—Elaine, 9 years old; Rodney, 7, and Robert 5—keep Mr. James and his wife busy. Golf and bridge are major hobbies. He also is a member of the South Shore Country club, Army-Navy club, American Legion and the Shrine.

Sisters to Entertain Club



These Brighton Park belles will put on a sister act cabaret party of the Twelfth Ward Young Republican organization Saturday evening at 3707 South Western avenue. Left to right: Miss Sadie, Miss Annabelle, and Miss Helen Adams, 3734 Archer avenue. Frank Duncan and William Tracy also are on the program and Rodman Harvey will be master of ceremonies. This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 22.

It is safe to plant evergreens somewhat later than other trees, but no matter when they are moved they should receive an abundance of water until established. These plants are easily killed by smoke and gas.

Plants which flower before the leaves appear, such as the forsythia, spiraea prunifolia, and Cornelian cherry can be pruned as soon as the flowers fade. This encourages the formation of flowering wood for the next season. Sow hardy annuals now to obtain an early start.

Tuesday, May 23.

Try a row of dwarf zinnias for bouquets. The Lilliput varieties are excellent. Some of the pot marigolds make wonderful cutting material. Finish with lawn making and repairing at once, or the work may better wait until mid-August. The fountain grasses, such as pennisetum Ruppeli purple headed, and pennisetum longstylum, white headed, make fine basket material and are among the best for edging canna beds. These grow about three feet high. Buy young potted plants. Try some of the new marigold Guinea gold [a double yellow].

Wednesday, May 24.

A new introduction is nasturtium golden gleam. It has semi-double flowers. The sunplant [Portulaca] for hot, dry spots in the garden, makes a fine plant for massing or borders of walks. Watch the frames in which the tender bedding and vegetable plants are growing. Give plenty of air to harden the plants. Mow the lawn to keep it in good condition. Use a sickle or sheep shears for cutting close to the beds. Use the spade to give a clean, sharp edge to the perennial border.

Thursday, May 25.

Prune the lilac after flowering, but not too severly. Cut out cross branches, keep the center open and cut back any rampant branches. The shrubs will appreciate a liberal dressing of bonemeal at this time. Repair or rewrite all plant labels that require it. Finish transplanting the house plants.

Friday, May 26.

Carnation plants will furnish extra blooms if small stock is purchased and planted for cutting in the garden. Watch for the currant worms and spray with arsenate of lead. Give the strawberries an application of plant food. Mulch between the rows with clean straw to keep the fruit off the ground, and to conserve the moisture in the soil. If too wet, delay garden cultivation until the soil is easy to handle.

Saturday, May 27.

If the leaves of roses become skeletonized, spray with arsenate of lead. This is caused by a worm. Spray for aphids at the first indication that they are present.

Plant the birch, magnolia and beech in spring, as they have a fleshy root which does not become well established in fall. Spray the cherry immediately after the blossoms fall. Lime-sulphur for curculio and bordeaux for leaf spot and brown rot; spray the apple when two thirds of the petals fall for the calyx, and for coddling moth, spray about two weeks after the blossoms fall.

[Prepared in co-operation with Garfield Park conservatory.]

South Walther League Holds Spring Rally Today

The South Zone Walther league will hold its spring rally at 2:30 o'clock today at Nazareth Evangelical Lutheran church, 60th street and Spaulding avenue. Richard Maas, president of the Nazareth society, is arranging a supper, and there will be an oratorical contest.

De La Salle Mothers' Club to Give Party Tuesday

The De La Salle Mothers' club will hold a card party at 2 o'clock Tuesday at the furniture store at 6513 South Halsted street. Mrs. T. H. Weaver, 7425 Princeton avenue, is chairman, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Porter, 7341 Princeton avenue.

Hirsch Center Dancers to Give Recital Friday

The dancing department of Emil G. Hirsch center will give its annual recital at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening at the center, 4622 South Parkway. Helen Shores Savage is the director.

VETS NEAR CUT; URGE SPECIAL POPPY EFFORTS

Thursday Is Set for Drive.

Chipilly post, No. 310, of the American Legion, calls attention to the special importance this year of Poppy day Thursday, because of the large number of veterans who will be cut off from compensation on July 1. George Mundt will have charge of the workers.

Stockyards post, No. 33, will present "A Night in Hawaii" at the Fort Dearborn clubrooms, 6542 Cottage Grove avenue, Friday night. Al Feil is chairman of the party. Music will be furnished by Buck Lawrenz' Hawaiian orchestra. Ed Lowry will be master of ceremonies.

Chesterfield post, No. 695, through Commander O. W. Lindgren, invites the public to celebrate the opening of the World's Fair by attending the post's annual May dance and cabaret party at the Fort Dearborn clubrooms Saturday night. Armin Hand's Board of Trade orchestra will furnish the music. Members of the dance committee are William R. Miller, Commander Lindgren, Herman Asquine, James Englin, William Hull, Charles Rosner, and Joseph C. Tufo.

Poppy headquarters of Square post will be in the dining room of the Midway Masonic temple. Poppies will be given to the taggers Tuesday night. Frank Ives is poppy chairman for the post and Alice Fenton is acting in like capacity for the auxiliary.

The reorganization of the "Battery B club," 122d F. A., 33d division, A. E. F., has been completed, with the election of the following officers: Victor D. Simmer, president; Harry Gray, vice president; Carl W. Dietrich, second vice president; James L. Schooler, secretary; Don H. Brownlee, treasurer; the Rev. Harris H. Mitchell, chaplain, and George Ray, sergeant at arms.

The club has obtained an official state charter. Meetings are held in the 122d F. A. armory at 234 East Chicago avenue, on the second Fridays in May, September, and November.

Resolutions urging that every effort be made to arouse the people to the dangers of inadequate national defense were recently passed by the Cook county council of the American Legion. Actual conditions existing in the world demand a strengthening rather than an ineffectual defense, the resolution contends.

An unique veterans' organization, meeting with enthusiastic response, has been formed by old members of Company B, 131st infantry and the First Illinois National Guard. Much of the success of the organization is credited to F. O. Prescott, a former "top kick" in the company. The group has on its roster men who served in the company as far back as 1874.

Memorial services for the Rev. N. B. Clinch, for many years chaplain of the post, will be held next Sunday morning by Hyde Park post, No. 34, at the Hyde Park Methodist Episcopal church, 54th street and Blackstone avenue. The service will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. G. H. Parkinson.

TILDEN STUDENTS WILL ENTERTAIN MOTHERS FRIDAY

Present New Staff of School Paper.

Inauguration of the new Tilden Parent-Teacher association will take place next Friday, when Tilden Technical High school officially observes Mothers' day.

MARTIN ZITZ.

Plans for the formation of the group were discussed at a meeting of parents the night of Tilden's circus, immediately before the spring vacation, and will be carried out Friday when officers will be elected and a constitution adopted.

The day's program will open at Inauguration of the new Tilden Parent-Teacher association will take 10 o'clock when the mothers, soon after their arrival, will review the R. O. T. C. and band as they parade in Union avenue before the school.

Visit to Swimming Pool.

Next will be a visit to the school swimming pool, where a regular class will be seen in action, and afterward the swimming team will give a demonstration. Luncheon will follow, with sons joining their mothers, who will then accompany them to their classes.

An assembly will be opened at 1:30 o'clock with a welcome by Albert W. Evans, principal, and a talk by Mrs. William S. Hefferan of the board of education. After the election and adoption of the constitution, tea will be served with teachers as hostesses.

Mrs. John Thompson, 600 East 90th street, will preside as temporary chairman. She has been named as second vice president by a nominating committee appointed at the preliminary meeting.

Other nominees on the same slate are Mrs. Jay J. Reynolds, 2600 East 78th street, president; H. O. Myers, Tilden instructor, first vice president; Mrs. Wood S. Chase, 8019 Crandon avenue, recording secretary; Miss Katherine Birmingham, Tilden instructor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. M. E. Peschong, 8458 South Sangamon street, treasurer.

Introduce New Times.

Next semester's Times staff will be introduced at the paper's semi-annual party at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the school lunchroom. Arthur Lundahl, retiring managing editor, will be toastmaster.

Joseph Follmer, business manager, who continues in that post next semester, will speak, and there will be talks by Leonard Calus, retiring sports editor, Principal Evans, and other faculty members.

Martin Zitz becomes the new managing editor. He is one of the few boys to have held posts in both business and editorial branches of the paper. This semester he has been advertising manager, associate editor, and humor columnist, and was editor of the Times' special Ballyhoo edition.

Joseph Cole becomes new sports editor, Eugene Gullrich, Oregon Hunter, and Pat McCarthy, associate editors, and Austin Eckert, Anthony Hlausek, Christian Mack, Melvin Martin, Gene McCarthy, Alexander McGee, Walter Predl, Howard Van Scoy, and John Zankiewicz, reporters. Mrs. Helen Brown succeeds Miss Mary McAdams as faculty sponsor.

'THE BOLD FRONT,' MUSICAL COMEDY, TO AID HOSPITAL

For the benefit of Little Company of Mary hospital, 95th street and California avenue, a musical comedy, "The Bold Front," will be presented at 2:30 and 8 o'clock this afternoon and evening at St. Brendan's auditorium, Racine avenue and Marquette road. Miss Anna Fahey and Mrs. C. B. Cardy, Hospital Service club president, are co-chairmen, with Miss Helen Burke, chairman of the nurses; Miss Margaret Hough, ticket chairman; Miss Dorothy Lee, patroness chairman; Mrs. Joseph F. Herrmann, hospital auxiliary president, treasurer.

Lindblom Grid Mothers to Give Benefit Party

Ten Giant Dahlias of Rainbow Colors $2.50 Prepaid 300 Miles

Dahlia Jane Cowl

MODERN dahlias produce the largest flowers grown in gardens. We offer one root each of the following ten varieties, each of which is in the front rank of its color class, prepaid for the unprecedented price of $2.50:

Avalon, clear yellow. Charm, burnt orange. Jane Cowl, buff and old gold. Mrs. Ide Ver Warner, mauve pink. Purple King, deep purple. Sagamore, golden. Judge Alton B. Parker, copper. Storm King, pure white. Rose Fallon, orange and amber. Minna Burgle, giant scarlet.

These are free flowering varieties, producing flowers of the largest size, of exhibition quality. The collection will make your garden display an outstanding one and give you blossoms for your local flower show. The dahlia planting season is just beginning.

TEN DIFFERENT DAHLIAS, $1.50. We offer ten roots of named varieties of our selection, including not less than these five different colors—red, yellow, pink, orange, lavender—prepaid 300 miles for $1.50.

REHEARSE UNTIL LAST MINUTE ON LOMBARDO SHOW

Guy Drops Fiddle and Bow; All Shed Coats.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Guy Lombardo and his orchestra got into Chicago last Wednesday just in time to put the finishing touches on their weekly show with George Burns and Gracie Allen, outletting over W-G-N and CBS.

Here's a glimpse into the studio where the broadcast is about to start: Painstaking rehearsal goes on up to the last minute before they go on the air, while Columbia and advertising agency representatives and announcer step on each other's toes and wear that earnest if not completely harassed look that precedes every big broadcast. . . . Guy darts out of the studio to control room and gives certain passages of new numbers a final "listener's" appraisal. . . . All shed their coats except Announcer Bill Brenton, who puts his on as they go on the air. [This is the only show Brenton does, and he handles his part well.]

They play a couple of lively numbers, with Guy doing more weaving and waving than a symphony orchestra conductor. [No fiddle or bow in his hands now.] . . . Leibert Lombardo's muted trumpet is featured. . . . He advances toward the microphone, but not too close. . . . Francis Henry, guitarist, sits on a high stool, like little Jackie Heller's, with a mike all to himself. . . . Carmen, Larry Owen, and Derf Higman slip noiselessly from their seats to a suspended mike to do a vocal trio. . . . Hershel Williams of J. Walter Thompson's, the tiptoeing, whispering "Simon Legree" of the program, dashes back and forth from studio to control room. . . . They wind up a number and Guy introduces Burns and Allen from New York. . . . Francis Henry listens intently to catch every word of their chatter coming through a loud speaker. . . . Others argue as to whether the last number went out on the air properly. . . . Bill Brenton goes off in a corner and rehearses his commercial. . . . Some one asks whether there is time enough to change a reed. . . . "Half a minute," Guy announces, searching through the continuity to see where B. & A. are. Georgie slips up. . . . Wasn't that an oath? . . . The orchestra "takes it" from the comedians and now Brenton is on with the commercial. . . . He gesticulates first with one hand, then the other, clenches his fists as he tears through his copy. . . . Now he's finished and takes off his coat.

More of the smooth Lombardo rhythm executed with precision and finesse. . . . They've lost their suave night club front, and they're just a bunch of hard working boys in their shirt sleeves. . . . The minutes are all gone but one. . . . Another announcement by Brenton. . . . Then a plug by Harlow Wilcox and it's almost all over. . . . Some one talks. onusn, Guy warns, not off the air yet. . . . Engineer gives signal, lights go out, they're off, and Fred Waring comes on. . . . At once several players get into a lively argument over what happened during the last number. . . . Williams beards Guy and says, "I've got to see you about 20 minutes or a half hour to lay out next week's program." "All right," says Guy, "talk to me while I'm shaving."

With the Fair opening in sight, the air is showing some signs of clarifying, dance rhythmically speaking. When the millions who will view the Exposition start pouring into Chicago, they will find most of their favorite orchestras playing here. And they'll all have radio outlets, because "a line" means just about everything to a dance band nowadays. Here's the setup:

W-G-N—Hal Kemp from the Blackhawk, Wayne King and Bernie Cummins, Aragon-Trianon; Clyde McCoy, Drake hotel; Richard Cole, Palmer House.

WBBM—Guy Lombardo, the Dells; Ben Pollack, Chez Paree; Johnny Hamp and Artie Collins, La Salle hotel; Joe Roberts, Auditorium; Howard Leroy, Vanity Fair.

KYW—Vincent Lopez, the Urban room, Congress hotel; Mark Fisher, Edgewater Beach; Don Irwin, Terrace garden; Husk O'Hare, Canton Tea garden [some of these on NBC.]

WENR, WMAQ—Ben Bernie, Buddy Rogers, Ivan Eppinoff, from College inn; Bobby Meeker, the Bismarck; Ted Weems, the Lincoln tavern; Earl Hines, Grand Terrace café; Art Carroll, Beach View gardens.

WCFL—Al Handler, Don Barango, Little Bit of Moscow orchestra.

WIBO—Henri Gendron, Oriental gardens, and Maisonette Russe.

Jack Chapman will be at the Blackstone with outlet yet to be determined. Others who may be in the picture: Tom Gerun, Frankie Trumbauer, and Don Pedro.

And, of course, the grand rhythm serenader, Paul Whiteman and his troupe, at the Oriental theater.

Mandy Lou [formerly Magnolia], featured on Fred Waring's broadcast, which seems to me, just about the keenest program on the air this spring, is really Artie Belle McGinty of the Atlanta colored McGintys who made her radio debut more than six years ago as Aunt Jemima. Mandy Lou has proved herself a real comedienne on this program. She has had a lot of experience on the stage, is a versatile athlete, writes songs that get onto the air, makes her own clothes and she's a swell cook. Have you ever observed that Bill Sella, her interrogator, has a voice resembling Pierre Andre's?

Señor Ortiz Tirado, former leading tenor of the National Opera of Mexico, now heard with Enric Madriguerra's orchestra on the air waves, has a voice suggesting Tito Schipa's. Nino Martini's voice doesn't resemble any one's but Martini's, but in certain numbers his is about the finest on the air. Everett Marshall, a great singer, who made his big time radio debut the last week, doesn't satisfy so well on the air as he does when singing from the stage. The air is filled with the singing of fine male vocalists this season but there are too few women. Ah, for another Dragonette, or more broadcasts by this peerless soprano.

When Rudy Vallee appeared on his Thursday broadcast recently after his nose lifting a lot of folks in the audience insisted that he looked like Schnozzle Durante. . . . On the west coast they have rediscovered Bing Crosby. . . . Lee Sims is working out a vocal arrangement for Ravel's "Bolero" which Ilomay Bailey, his wife, is to do on one of their Sunday night broadcasts. . . . That's the same Victor Young who conducted W-G-N's orchestra a couple of seasons ago, who has replaced Leo Reisman on the cold cream program. . . . And with him is featured Paul Small, who got his start in Chicago. . . . Joe Sanders has organized a new band which will be heard from the Plantation club, outside Minneapolis, over WCCO in a fortnight.

What orchestra leader was fined $6,000 by the union for an under scale arrangement? . . . Art Carroll's band, recently organized is winning favor with the late night listeners. . . . Pat Barnes is back on the air at 12:15 Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays over WENR. . . . The Three Keys, radio trio, are at the Palace this week.

"HIGH SPOT" COMPANY AT WORK

The candid camera catches "The High Spot of the Air" company at work in the W-G-N studios in the Drake hotel. The "High Spot" revue is heard at 8:30 p. m. Tuesdays. In the foreground, left to right: Virginia Clark, hostess of the program as the "High Life Girl"; Pierre Andre, announcer; Edwin Kemp, Arthur Wright, Clinton Keithley, Natalie Alt, Lewis Warehan, Mark Love, all singers in the ensemble who also are soloists, and Musical Director Delos Owen. In the orchestra in the background are: Herbert Johnson, at the piano; Mr. Zipp, drums; Olda Jirousek, Gustav Kissel, Herman Julius Jr., Al Wathall, Gaston Du Moulin, David Bennett, Arthur Barringer, Veran Florent, Fred Vopatek, Roger Wilson, Sam Jordan, and George Tansor.

BLACKSTONE STRING QUINTET RETURNS WITH W-G-N QUINTET

The Blackstone Concert ensemble, long favorites with W-G-N's listening audience, has returned to the air, and will be heard each week day between the hours of 12:15 and 2:15 playing from the main dining room of the recently reopened Blackstone hotel. This popular musical organization is composed of Armand Buesseret, first violin; Dominic Dell Aquila, second violin; Leon Lichtenfeld, cellist, and Leon Benditsky, pianist.

GRACE MOORE, LOU HOLTZ ON NEW PROGRAM

The lovely soprano voice of Grace Moore, which has graced such operas as "La Boheme," "Faust," and "Romeo and Juliet," will be heard in the new Friday night cigaret programs starring Lou Holtz, which will start over W-G-N and Columbia network at 9 p. m. on June 2. Miss Moore will be co-starred with Holtz and Lennie Hayton's orchestra in the half hour variety presentations.

WORLD PROGRESS TO BE THEME ON MIDDAY SERVICE

The theme of the W-G-N Midday Service for the coming week will be "Religion and World Progress," and speakers on the program will portray various phases of the work of religious progress as it will be presented at A Century of Progress. The speakers: Monday, Allen D. Albert, chairman of the commission on religious exhibits, A Century of Progress; Tuesday, James B. Wooten, a business man and lecturer; Wednesday, the Rev. Father Francis Lyons, C. S. P., of St. Mary's Catholic church; Thursday, Dr. Curtis W. Reese, dean of Lincoln center; Friday, the Rev. Joshua Oden, minister, Irving Park Lutheran church, member of commission of religion, A Century of Progress; Saturday, Albert J. Olmstead, department of oriental history, University of Chicago.

W-G-N TO REPORT FULL FAIR STORY FROM GROUNDS

Broadcasts Will Begin Next Saturday.

W-G-N will cover every phase of activity at the World's Fair from the opening day next Saturday until it closes on Nov. 1. THE TRIBUNE station is establishing an office on the Exposition grounds and a full staff, headed by Frank Schreiber and Carl Meyers, W-G-N's chief engineer, will be on hand throughout the five months of the Fair to put the outstanding events and features of the great lake shore show on the air. The most interesting happenings on the grounds will be reported daily.

Columbia broadcasts will be handled by Steve Trumbull, and B. K. Pratt and Judith Waller will be in charge of NBC activities.

W-G-N will begin its Fair broadcasts next Saturday morning when the Exposition opens and will be on the air throughout the day. In the morning details of the parade will be reported. The dedication program from Soldiers' field, with talks by Bishop George C. Stewart, Rufus C. Dawes, Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, and Postmaster General Farley will follow.

In the evening at 8:15 from the Court of the Hall of Science the formal opening of the Fair buildings will be broadcast. Program will include music by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Lawrence Tibbett, baritone, and a chorus of 2,500 voices. Prof. Edwin Frost, the noted astronomer, will explain the bringing of light from the star Arcturus via the Harvard observatory, its conversion to an electrical impulse that will turn on the lights of A Century of Progress. Then will follow a broadcast detailing the Arcturus feature.

ROTARY GROUP, EXECUTIVES' CLUB TO CLOSE SEASON

The final broadcasts of the season of the luncheon speakers of the Chicago Rotary club and the Executives' club of Chicago will be presented by W-G-N during the coming week. The speakers presented over W-G-N by these two organizations during the fall and winter season have included outstanding men in their various vocations, and these programs have attracted many listeners over W-G-N.

Thousands of letters were received by the two clubs and W-G-N during the broadcast season. These programs will be resumed next fall and will again be broadcast by W-G-N.

The final luncheon meeting speaker from the Rotary club will be Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, who will talk at 1 p. m. Tuesday afternoon. On Friday at 1 p. m. the final luncheon meeting of the Executives' club will be broadcast, starting at 1 p. m. The name of the speaker has not been announced.

MENTAL HYGIENE SPEAKERS WILL DISCUSS CRIME

A series of talks dealing with crime as a mental health problem will be given on W-G-N at 11:50 each Thursday by the Illinois Society of Mental Hygiene. Dr. H. Douglas Singer, professor of psychiatry at the University of Illinois, will open the series this week.

On following Thursdays representative workers in the mental hygiene field will speak on "Causative Factors in Delinquency," "Mental Diseases and Crime," "Psychological Factors in Crime Detection," "The Mentally Defective Delinquent," and "Mental Health Measures in Prison Care."

Other speakers on the "Good Health and Training" programs this week are Dr. Frank B. Fowler on Tuesday and Dr. Rhea Black, whose subject on Friday will be "Modes of Treating Toothache in the Past."

INSIDE DOPE ON FIRE FIGHTERS TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

The fascination that a fire department holds for the entire human race will be explained tonight when Headlines of Other Days" is presented by Quin Ryan on W-G-N at 9:35 p. m. Dan Cahill, Chicago's greatest fire fan, known to every fireman on the pay rolls, will appear with Mr. Ryan and give the listeners the inside dope on the fire department and its equipment. The "Headline" of the night will be the dramatic story of the destruction of the S. K. Martin lumber yard, a story taken from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of Aug. 2, 1894. Five lives were lost and more than $2,000,000 in property was destroyed.

M'COY TO PLAY ALL CLASSICAL TUNES TUESDAY

Clyde McCoy's Music Box program over W-G-N at 9:15 Tuesday evening will include four of the better known classical numbers arranged in dance tempo. The program will include "Faust," "Humoresque," "Caprice Viennois" and "Liebestraum." The following week, Tuesday, May 30, McCoy's Music Box program will consist of an all "Moon Song" series.

Singin' Sam to Present the Insomniac's Favorite

Singin' Sam will offer the song of the insomniac, "I Want to Count Sheep," during his program over the W-G-N and Columbia network at 7 p. m. tomorrow. "Falling Star," "Daisy Bell" and "Annie Laurie" will also be included in his group of songs at that time.

Kate Smith Will Present Current Popular Songs

Kate Smith, accompanied by Nat Brusiloff's augmented orchestra, will be heard in another program of currently popular songs over W-G-N and Columbia, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. "Little White Church on Top of the Hill," "Hiawatha's Lullaby," and "Lover" will be among her offerings.

LOMBARDO BAND DURING REHEARSAL

Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians snapped by the camera man during rehearsal for their Wednesday night show over W-G-N and Columbia. Guy is third from the right holding a sheet of music. Leibert Lombardo is to Guy's left, leaning forward. Carmen is seated at the left and Victor is holding the big sax at the left. The orchestra is here for six weeks.

ON STAGE

HAL KEMP.
[Seymour Photo.]

Thousands of radio fans who have listened to Hal Kemp's novelty renditions of "Happy Days Are Here Again" and "Wintergreen for President," over W-G-N, are visiting the Chicago theater this week to greet in person the famous radio, recording, and dance band. Hal and his band are making their first local stage appearance this week. Featured with the orchestras are charming Deane Janis ad Skinnay Ennis, drummer-vocalist with the band. Miss Janis sings "I've Got a Right to Sing the Blues," while personable Mr. Ennis presents "Heart of Stone."

COWBOY MUSIC, ADVENTURES ON NEW KID SKETCH

A radio club for boys and girls with a real meeting place where members can get together and become acquainted is one of the features of the "Cowboy Tom" program, heard at 6:15 each Monday and Thursday on W-G-N.

The "Cowboy Tom" program brings jolly cowboy music and adventures that are exciting but without the crime or horror elements. The club's meeting place is called the Wigwam, and here the children meet Saturday and hear Cowboy Tom and his two Pueblo Indians sing and tell stories. Children sending in their name for membership in the "Round U" will receive invitations to the Wigwam.

ADMIRAL BYRD TO BROADCAST WITH EDWIN HILL

Just why does a man go to the north pole and the south pole? That's what many people would like to know, and there isn't anyone who can tell them better than Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the only expedition leader who has flown to both the poles. Edwin C. Hill will bring Admiral Byrd to the microphone at 8:30 Friday evening over W-G-N and the Columbia Broadcasting system, in the broadcast, "The Inside Story of Names that Make News." Nathaniel Shilkret and his orchestra will as usual provide the musical setting for "The Inside Story."

Spencer's "Railway Inn" Will Be Heard at 1:45

Jack Spencer and his popular "Railway Inn," henceforth will be heard at 1:45 Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. June Baker, household expert, will have her program at this same hour on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

50 HIGH SCHOOL BANDS TO ENTER NATIONAL MEET

Expect 3,000 to 4,000 at Evanston.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 musicians from high schools in all parts of the country will gather at Evanston June 8, 9, and 10 for the annual national high school band contest. The players, many of them girls, will be in the approximately fifty bands and orchestras now being selected in state and sectional contests for the national contest.

Awards will be made in the band, ensemble, and solo events. The first two days' competition will take place in the Northwestern university gymnasium, with the climax, a march playing contest in Dyche stadium, on the last day.

Two of the bands already accredited to the contest are the Joliet High School band, A. R. McAllister, director, and the Harrison Technical High School band, Capt. John H. Barbash, director. Rules and regulations of the National School Band association will be observed.

The contest is being sponsored by the Evanston chamber of commerce, with coöperation from Northwestern university, the Evanston Township High school, the Evanston P.-T. A., Women's club of Evanston, and other groups and civic organizations.

Arrange for Entertainment.

Arrangements to handle the contest, house and entertain the young musicians are being made by a general committee of Evanston residents, of which H. Dyer Bent, past president of the chamber of commerce, is chairman.

Contestants will be housed in the homes of residents of the city, university dormitories, and other available places. A transportation committee has been organized to see that the musicians and their instruments are transported to predetermined places; local sponsors will be selected for each visiting band; decorations are planned for the principal streets, and a committee will arrange for the entertainment of visitors.

Entries are on the basis of three classifications. In class A are bands and orchestras from high schools and other public and private schools of senior classification with an enrollment of more than 750; class B from schools between 250 and 750 enrollment, and class C from schools under 250 enrollment.

Four from City Entered.

Members of the general committee, aside from Mr. Bent, are Wirt Wright, George B. Anderson, James M. Flinn, David E. Walker, James T. Kolbert, Thomas A. Airth, Glenn C. Bainum, E. B. Davidson, Robert R. Swift, Dr. W. G. Alexander, Harriet Richardson, Walter Paulson, Elmer E. Nilles, J. A. Scanlan, Charles A. Ward, C. A. Hemphill, Thomas F. Gonser, and Byron S. Coon.

High school bands entered to date are:

Lane, Harrison Tech, Senn, and Austin from Chicago.

Taylorville, Aurora, Harvard, Bensenville, Joliet, and Arthur from Illinois.

Mason City, Marion, Denison, and Vinton, Ia.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Fort Thomas, Ky.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Wheeling and Logan, W. Va.; Cleveland Heights, O., and Iron River, Mich.

Englewood Rebekah Party.

The Englewood Rebekah club gave a hard times party and dance last night at Viking temple, 69th street and Emerald avenue. Miss Ida Meiselman was chairman.

Neighborhood Theaters

South side school teachers who like their movies are due for a treat. Beginning this week and continuing for a month, they will be admitted to Warner Brothers theaters once a week without charge. Courtesy tickets now being distributed through school principals will be accepted at the Avalon, Capitol, Stratford, Highland, West Englewood, Jeffery, Grove, Shore, Shakespeare, Hamilton, Cosmo, Frolic, Lexington, and Oakland Square theaters.

Giant Ape Amuck.

Imagine a gigantic ape run amuck among the skyscrapers of New York! This is only one of the fantastic events which make "King Kong" outstandingly horrifying in a season of horror pictures. A motion picture producer in search of something different comes to Skull island where savages live in fear of the monster King Kong and prehistoric creatures abound. After incredible adventures King Kong is finally captured and taken to America, but the worst is yet to come. Fay Wray shudders her way through it beautifully, but the cameramen deserve the lion's share of praise for photography which must be faked yet never once looks so. At the Southtown theater this week.

"White Sister" Revived.

"White Sister," which first brought Ronald Colman to light, has been revived for Helen Hayes and Clark Gable. It is at the Capitol theater this week. Miss Hayes has Lillian Gish's rôle of the young Italian girl who takes the veil when her lover is reported killed in the war, only to have him return. Lewis Stone and Louise Closser Hale share laurels with the principals.

Husband Shadows Wife.

A jealous husband sends a handsome detective to trail his beautiful wife on a trip to Cuba, and merely precipitates the occurrence he has dreaded. "The Keyhole" insures your sympathy for the lovers by casting George Brent and Kay Francis in the rôles and having Henry Kolker play the husband. Then there's Monroe Owsley to earn them further sympathy as a cad in pursuit of the heroine. At the Cosmo Tuesday and Wednesday, at the Oakland Square, Marquette, and Highway theaters Wednesday and Thursday, and at the Brighton Thursday and Friday.

A Feminine Racketeer.

Joan Blondell's latest, "Blondie Johnson," will appear today and tomorrow at the Stratford theater, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Peoples and Highland theaters, Wednesday and Thursday at the Midwest theater, and Thursday and Friday at the West Englewood theater. Blondie is a feminine racketeer who wins the love of another, played by Chester Morris, by her display of technique.

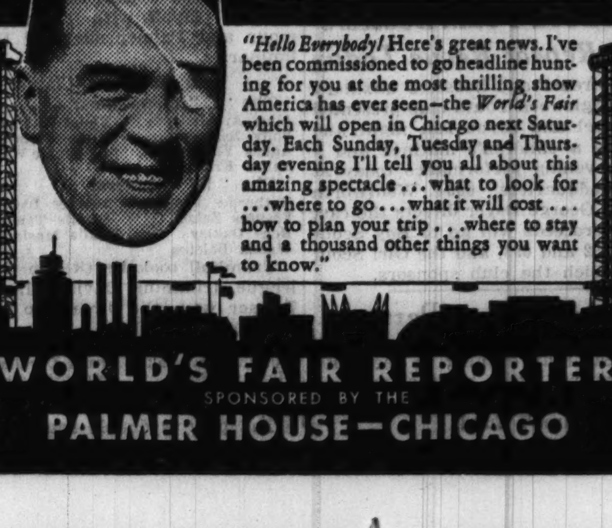
Here's a Popular One.

"King of the Jungle" is another epic of the jungle with a wild white boy master of its beasts, and with another Olympic swimming champ playing the part. But Buster Crabbe and his lions are not left in their jungle this time—a circus man brings them to America and hires a pretty girl [Frances Dee] to teach the boy English while he and his brutes are on the road. The thrills in this one are such that Mae Tinée placed it among the half dozen best of the month. At the Boulevard, Brighton, Halfield, and Highway today and tomorrow, at the Marquette today and tomorrow, Atlantic today, tomorrow and Tuesday, and at the Oakland Square and Colony theaters Friday and Saturday.



Seven Houses Give Plays at Fair Opening

Chicago Stage Ready to Entertain Summer Crowds; Show Catalog

By Charles Collins.

dexterously managed, give a copious revue of circus tricks, dancing, comic skits, and operetta numbers. The orchestral accompaniments and singing by the puppeteers represent high grade musicianship. Every capital city of Europe has seen and admired this famous Roman amusement, executed with a skill that is amazing. At the Erlanger theater.

Jack Pearl-Paul Whiteman: Two outstanding personalities of entertainment whose renown has been enhanced prodigiously of late by their radio exploits. They are the stars of a vaudeville revue which contains other performers who have a background of radio popularity. Mr. Pearl is the "Baron Munchausen" of the ether, and before he won that lofty title he was for many years one of the best German-American comedians of the legitimate stage. Mr. Whiteman, baronial of appearance if not of rank, is the dean of jazz musicianship. Two performances a day, afternoon and night at regular theater hours, in the Oriental, which this show has taken out of the cinema field.

Crime Comedy Without a Mystery.

"Riddle Me This": A good comedy about crime and detective work, telling an ingenious story that is a happy departure from the "mystery play" formula. There is no guess work for the audience about the identity of the villain, who is seen red handed at the opening of the performance, but there is plenty of suspense, excitement, and brisk amusement in the tale. Roger Plyor and John Gallaudet, two first rate actors, lead the cast. At the Princess theater, half a block from the Federal building and easy to find in spite of the fact that it is now celebrating its rebirth after two and a half years of darkness.

"Shuffle Along of 1933": A musical comedy by a large and lively company of Negro entertainers, including two of the stars of the original "Shuffle Along"—Eubie Blake, a wizard at the piano, and Flournoy Miller, an able comedian. At the Illinois theater.

"On the Make": A comedy about the questionable conduct of "party girls" who prey upon the fatuity of their admirers. Just another "golddigger" show, trying to be tough and succeeding in being vulgar. Edna Hibbard is the star. At the Garrick theater.

"The Family Upstairs": A comedy of the plain folks who live in the small flats and nag each other fondly. It has Thomas W. Ross, able veteran of American character acting, as its star. This simple minded laugh getter has been in Chicago for the last six months. At the Cort theater.

Bizarre Farce by George M. Cohan.

George M. Cohan, now at the Grand Opera house in his latest self-written vehicle, a bizarre comedy called "Pigeons and People," will end his Chicago engagement on the night the Fair is dedicated. The play is a curiosity in construction, for it is not divided into acts and keeps Mr. Cohan on the stage from the rise to the fall of the curtain. It is also strange of content, for it is merely an exhibition of Cohan's uncanny genius for "kidding."

"Pigeons and People" demonstrates, in a clever and diverting way, the grand old humorous racket of the tongue in the cheek. A few ideas in the head always improve this method of laugh getting—and that is why the other and elder comic George [Shaw] is better than the erstwhile Broadway boy. Still, there is only one Cohan. He is a unique figure of the American stage. Lenore Ulric in "Hard Boiled Angel," a brand new play, will follow him, opening May 30.

The first World's Fair booking, dated to begin June 4, will be Katharine Cornell in "Alien Corn," at the Harris theater. It is appropriate that the First Actress [Ethel Barrymore has lost the title] should occupy this position of honor. Miss Cornell had a New York hit in this drama of a musical genius' struggle against her cramped bourgeois environment; but she has not held back in the security of a Broadway run, waiting to see if A Century of Progress would live up to expectations. Many Gotham impresarios have been waiting to vote after the election; but Miss Cornell, who is her own manager, is Chicago minded.

In mid-June "Dinner at Eight," banner drama of the New York season, will arrive at the Grand Opera house. "Take a Chance," most successful of the recent crop of Broadway musical shows, and "Music in the Air," an operetta of high distinction, are also on the early summer calendar of the Chicago stage. Many other theatrical amusements have been planned and mentioned in dispatches. Some of them were merely hopes that have vanished; others are actualities that are now "penciled in" on the booking sheets.

George Cohan Talks Back to a Cop

SCENE IN "PIGEONS AND PEOPLE"
[Drawing by Ben Cohen.]

George M. Cohan, who has been a wonder boy of the American stage for forty years, appears at the Grand Opera house in his latest play, a fantastic comedy called "Pigeons and People." He has the role of a mysterious stranger named Parker, who is always asking questions that people can't answer. In this scene Mr. Cohan stands nose to nose with a menacing detective, who is acted by Edward Nannery.

Looking Over Bright Spots in Night Life

CAN you remember when the places now called "night clubs" were known as "cabarets"? This change in the American language happened about fifteen years ago, and was one of the countless results of the world war. London did it.

First, the American language, which dotes upon foreign words in matters that are concerned with the friskier aspects of life, borrowed "cabaret" from the French, as a label for any place of informal entertainment where food and drink were served. The "cabaret" period ran from about 1910 to 1920—the era of Vernon and Irene Castle and many another team of brilliant ballroom dancers.

Came the war and regulations for the early closing of cafés in London. To evade this law and give officers on furlough from the front a chance to stay up as late and drink as much as they wanted, certain so-called clubs were formed. Nobody who had not paid membership fees was admitted—in theory. In practice, of course, any one in an officer's uniform or evening clothes, or who could say he was a friend of Sir Cholmondeley Jones, well known member of the club, was received with open arms.

They were real clubs, although they cast off the hidebound exclusiveness of the London traditions. American soldiers liked the idea and brought back the phrase after the armistice.

Hence the American night club—which isn't a club at all, but a cabaret under a new name.

However, there are several species of these night life rendezvous. A night club in a first class hotel is usually a "room" of some kind or other—Empire at the Palmer house, Joseph Urban at the Congress. A night club on a suburban highway may call itself anything it likes, but the American language has selected "roadhouse" as the label for such places.

Speaking of roadhouses, the popular dancing spot called The Dells opened for the summer season last Thursday night. The band is Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians, with Carlos Molina's rhumba troupe as auxiliaries. A revue is given three times a night.

The night club time schedule is simple enough when one puts his mind on the subject. The general practice is three shows a night, beginning about 8:30, 11:30, and 2 o'clock. That gives the customers a dinner program, a supper program, and an "owl" program. The performances usually last about 45 minutes. During the intervals, of course, the public puts on its own show, practicing the American folk dances.

Cover charges, once the bane of the thrifty pleasure seeker, seem to have gone out of style. The minimum check system is now in general use. It's $2 per person, except at the more luxurious places, which think they ought to get $2.50 or $3. Speaking in general, prices are reasonable and the service is excellent.

Walter O'Keefe, master of ceremonies at the 225 club, is the bright young man who sang "Yuba and His Tuba" in the "Second Little Show." Also he is the happy husband of Roberta Robinson, who sang the rôle of Diana Devereaux in the Chicago company of "Of Thee I Sing."

Harry Richman, who tells the customers what it's all about at Chez Paree, has been night clubbing as long as Ben Bernie, who bears the title of Old Maestro. Also, he has appeared in Broadway revues oftener and with more flourish of trumpets than any of the others. And his batting average of reported betrothals to famous ladies of the theater and the cinema is exceptionally high.

A member of the pretty Merriel Abbot dancing group [Empire room, the Palmer house] fell down when attempting her first cartwheel trick the other night. Nobody laughed or attempted a wise crack. Night club manners, it would seem, are improving.

Theater Stars Who Double on Radio Programs

RADIO has discovered personalities that might otherwise never have attained stardom, but many of the headliners of the air are entertainers who were already famous on the stage. Just as the movies had to resort to stage people with the advent of the talkies, radio has had to call on the real "professionals" for most of their "spot" programs.

One stage personality who has taken radio audiences by storm is Jack Pearl [Baron Munchausen to air fans], who appears with Paul Whiteman, the Boswell Sisters, and Burns and Allen in the musical revue "Nuts to You," at the Oriental theater. Prior to his radio engagement Jack Pearl was among the major stars of the show world. Theatergoers had seen him in, among other productions, "Artists and Models," "Pleasure Bound," "Ziegfeld Follies," and "Pardon My English." His dialect comedy had become famous in our biggest musical revues, but it remained for radio to make it the byword of the nation. His "Vas you dere, Sharlie?" has gone down as one of the famous sayings of the day.

Another stage star who has added to his fame through his "mike" work is Eddie Cantor, whose programs are voted as among the most popular on the air. Cantor, like Pearl, combines his radio work with stage appearances, believing that "in the flesh" appearances must be kept up.

Fred Allen of "Three's a Crowd" and "First Little Show" fame is another current radio favorite. Whenever Al Jolson decides to sing his Mammy songs over the air he has a sponsor in no time. Bert Lahr is another current headliner, as are Phil Baker and Tom Howard. Among the stage stars who have headlined "spot" radio programs are Ethel Barrymore, Fannie Brice, Beatrice Lillie, Helen Hayes, Harry Richman, George Jessel, Jimmy Durante, Mary McCoy, and Fay Bainter.

Theater Guild Puts On Fifth Play of Season

"The Mask and the Face" Has Excellent Cast, but the Plot Is Fantastic.

By Burns Mantle.

and thrown her body into Lake Como.

On this confession he is arrested, jailed, and acquitted. His lawyer is the uncaught lover. The count is welcomed home as the hero of the countryside. There is a band to meet him.

What a man! All the amorous ladies of the neighborhood invite his favors. He is smothered in flowers and congratulatory telegrams. Then the countess comes back and while in the chapel next door funeral services are being held for a lady fished out of the lake and identified as the countess a reconciliation is effected to the strains of the Chopin Funeral March.

Nobody Cares Much for This Play.

Nobody likes "The Mask and the Face" very much. Nobody cared for it when, in 1924, Brock Pemberton produced a version of the same play written by Chester Bailey Fernald, one time author of "The Cat and the Cherub." On that occasion William Faversham played the count, and, as I recall the evening, forgot a good many of his lines. If he had remembered them all it would not have helped. Might have made it worse.

The guild production is all that it might be. Directed by Philip Moeller, it is perfect in detail and casting. Judith Anderson is unusually charming as the countess. Stanley Ridges plays the count vigorously and well. Leo Carroll contributes a sententious philosopher who delivers himself of such lines as "only a man who is afraid of ridicule is ridiculous," "men have rights, women have rules," "women and philosophy are very much alike. They are both inclined to befuddle the simple." But "The Mask and the Face" is only for the subscribers.

Theaters Filling Up at Season's End.

The theater season is breaking up and the theaters are filling up, which would provide an interesting paradox if the filling were of greater importance. As it stands it is made up almost exclusively of old plays revived.

Which is not at all distressing to this reporter. Better a good old play any time than a poor new play, says he. But it does bother those professional first nighters who have no other place to go—no place they consider interesting, no smoke thickened lobby in which to mill around comparing lipstick, cigarets, and feminine vertebræ.

There never has been a theater season in this capital in which the revival play has played so insistent a part. Not only have the popular pieces of one, two, three and four seasons ago been brought to life but the plays of this early season have been brought back for a supplementary engagement of one to eight weeks.

Players' Club Plans "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

This week we add "Of Thee I Sing," "When Ladies Meet," "Counsellor-at-Law," and "It's a Wise Child" to a list that already includes "Springtime for Henry," "As Husbands Go," "Another Language," and "Pinafore."

A fortnight from now we get nothing less than "Uncle Tom's Cabin." This will be the Players' club annual, a contribution staged in the cause of art and a treasury at least theoretically depleted by the unpopular eighteenth amendment.

Otis Skinner will be the Uncle Tom, Fay Bainter the Topsy, Pedro De Cordoba the George Harris, Thomas Chalmers the Simon Legree, Elizabeth Risdon the Eliza, Lois Shore the Eva, George Gaul the George Shelby, Ernest Glendenning the St. Clair, and Sylvia Field the Marie St. Clair.

In the lesser rôles will appear Minnie Dupree, Mary Nash, Joanna Roos, Kate Mayhew [she played Little Eva to Lotta Crabtree's Topsy in 1869], Lester Chambers, George Christie, Malcolm Duncan, and John Daly Murphy. A stunning cast, as you will admit. There is more interest in this revival than in any the Players have done in some years.

"$25 an Hour" Doesn't Amount to Much.

Other new plays of the week did not amount to much. One is called "$25 an Hour." Tom Mitchell, who wrote "Little Accident" and who was co-starred with Frank Craven in "Riddle Me This" last season, has turned producer with Alfred Aarons for this one, but it does not do him the credit it should.

A Rumanian tenor, suffering defeat as an opera singer, turns vocal teacher and charges $25 an hour, which is a pretty high rate these days. Still he is besieged by flat chested but physically ambitious lady pupils. In chains to Germaine Granville, a jealous mistress, Rozay is left in charge of a diffident young woman named Lucy when Germaine is called to Paris.

Lucy, who is an agent for the Metropolitan and eager to lure Rozay back to the operatic stage, conducts her campaign in blue silk pajamas, with the expected result. Germaine is replaced in the tenor's affections.

Georges Metaxa, last season's tenor of "The Cat and the Cherub," plays Rozay vigorously. Olga Baclanova, recently active in the movies, is the jealous mistress, and Jean Arthur plays Lucy with a quiet charm that she also has been selling to the cinema.

Here's One for the Record Books

ONE of the longest speeches in American drama is spoken by Katharine Cornell in the second act of Sidney Howard's "Alien Corn." It has 923 words and requires seven minutes to act. It tells the life of the heroine from her birth to the present moment, also giving sidelights on her parents and their musical careers. Howard originally wrote it nearly twice as long, but the actress insisted that it be cut to the "bone." It is not often that a star asks that her part be reduced.

Film Made in Mexico Given Russian Slant

All Acting Is Done by the Natives; No Artificial Sets Are Employed.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—The long awaited showing of Sergei Eisenstein's first picture made in Mexico took place recently. "Thunder Over Mexico" is the title. It is one of several pictures made there by the temperamental Russian who "left Hollywood on this film expedition to be gone three months and stayed fourteen," as Upton Sinclair said in his introductory speech at the showing of the film.

Sinclair, the "angel" of the venture, appeared on the platform at Cathay theater, where the film was shown to an invited audience. The novelist brought a chair with him to the stage, for he had been suffering from a throat ailment and due to fasting was in a weakened condition.

"On a university campus in Berlin my books, along with those of several other American authors, have been burned, but I believe that the message that I have given the German people through my books for over twenty years will not be lost," said Sinclair.

Famous Director Finds Mexico Fascinating.

Then, turning to the subject of Eisenstein and the Mexican picture venture, he mentioned how the famous soviet director, who had languished unused in Hollywood for many moons while under contract to Paramount, had completely fallen in love with Mexico, and although under the handicap of speaking no Spanish was so fascinated with the country that it was only because of his contracts in Soviet Russia that he was able to tear himself away.

"He intended to apply to his country for an extension of his leave, but, as he was stopped by American authorities at the border and held for five weeks, that became out of the question, and he was forced to return to Russia at once," said Sinclair.

The picture is something that no student of art can afford to miss. The introduction to the story shows pictures of the ruins at Chichenitza, as well as at other places in Mexico and Yucatan. The magnificent photography is beyond description. These imposing buildings are placed against heavenly backgrounds of drifting clouds, snow topped mountain peaks and endless plains.

Archaeologists and ethnologists would rejoice at the details of the carvings on the buildings. Besides the picturization in stone of ancient gods and men Eisenstein posed the modern counterparts in flesh and blood and the similarity is amazing.

Story of Film Depicts Old Feudal Theme.

The story of "Thunder Over Mexico" is simple. Its action takes place in 1906 during the reign of Diaz, dictator of Mexico, and deals with the heart rending experiences of a peon who brings his betrothed, as was the custom, to his "haciendando" for approval before the marriage, which could not take place without the consent of the overlord. It is the old feudal theme. A gentleman of the household abducts the maid; the peon and four friends attempt to rescue her. A man hunt is staged to run them down, and in the end the wretched creatures are destroyed by the "punishment of the horses." For students of the macabre this is a new thrill; men are buried to their shoulders and then horsemen drive back and forth in a group over them till they are dead.

Then follows the uprising of all the peons and the hacienda is burned. Shots symbolical of the Mexican revolution are shown, but they are anything but convincing, being plainly a Russian's view of how it might have looked. The ragged Mexican revolutionists are not shown. Instead there are crack troops moving with machine like precision.

The ending would be almost as amusing a chunk of Russian propaganda if it were not pathetic and untrue to life. It shows the peon of the far flung sunny plains looking with religious joy at the huge cogwheels slowly moving and which he controls with a lever. It is obviously the Russian worship of the machine and mass production, which is absolutely laughable when superimposed on a Mexican background, for the typical Mexican is too fond of beauty as he finds it in the outdoors and too fond of leisure and comfort to worry about wearing clean neat overalls and working big machines.

In "Thunder Over Mexico" the actors are not professionals, nor are there "sets." The acting is by natives and the settings are the buildings of the big haciendas.

Achieves Pictorial Effects in Two Ways.

In addition to the beauty of his scenes Eisenstein's method in obtaining his pictorial effects is interesting. He achieves his effects in two ways. In one way he first selects a natural frame for the action. Perhaps it is a huge century plant standing in the foreground, with the action of the humans being carried on at one side and a little in the background. Another time the conversation of three old men is completely dominated by the shots of the three huge sombreros that make a pattern for the camera. Their faces appear at times briefly. Still another shot of the maiden is taken against a stark wall paneled by the deep shadow of an arch, suggesting an enshrined madonna. When emotion is to be shown, an enormous close up, almost grotesque, presents the face of the actor. His second way of obtaining effects reminds one of the work of Epstein, the modernist.

Lilian Harvey eats heartily, but keeps her slim figure. She tore into a whole roast chicken, with all the trimmings, the other day at noon and ended up with strawberry shortcake and ice cream on the side. Still she doesn't gain a pound, but continues to tip the beam at 94.

Elissa Landi seems to be a toe dancer, judging from a swell new picture of her hanging on the wall at Fox's. Funny how many of the successful actresses can feel at home in toe shoes. Though she did it professionally only in one film, Colleen Moore is a fine toe dancer. Jeanette MacDonald did a lot of toe work in her musical comedy career. Lilian Harvey, too, is an accomplished ballerina, and Pola Negri used to be.

Maestro of Marionettes

VITTORIO PODRECCA

He is the Italian impresario and puppet master who is the brains behind "The Piccoli," the marionette entertainment from Rome now at the Erlanger theater. Signor Podrecca has carried his dancing and singing dolls, which seem to be alive, on tour all over Europe.

HISTORIETTE

JAMES DUNN hails from 146th street and Broadway, New York City, where he was born Nov. 2, 1905. His father was a speculator who won and lost three fortunes on Wall street. There had never been an actor in the Dunn family and James had no intention of going theatrical, but after trying out various jobs, at none of which he was particularly successful, he took the suggestion of a girl friend and applied for a job as extra at the Paramount studios in Astoria. Here he worked in a Richard Dix and a Thomas Meighan picture.

JAMES DUNN.

The studio closed and again James was out of a job. Now he wanted to be an actor. More vicissitudes beset his path, but, after a while, he succeeded in having some movie tests made, and Fox decided he was just the chap they needed to play in "Bad Girl." Since then he has been going over pretty well.

Young Mr. Dunn is 6 feet tall and weighs 153 pounds. Has blue eyes and a scar on the bridge of his nose, where they do say somebody hit him with a bottle. He plays the piano by ear, is superstitious, perspires when he is making love before the camera and adores to wear blue. He is not married.

Vaudeville Bills

THE vaudeville bill at the Palace theater this week includes:

James Barton—Dancing clown and waggish entertainer whose "drunk" was once a "Follies" sensation.

The Ingénues—Most celebrated of the all-girl bands—16 pretty musicians displaying their versatility.

Keller Sisters and Frank Lynch—Song harmonists.

Vilma and Buddy Ebsen—Youthful dancers celebrating their first Chicago engagement since they appeared in George White's "Flying Colors."

Stuart and Lash—Comedians, with Ida Sibley lending the feminine touch. They will work throughout the entire stage program.

The Four Queens—A quartet of dancers.

The Chicago theater's stage show for the current week consists of:

Hal Kemp and his orchestra, with Deane Janis and "Skinnay" Ennis, vocal soloists; Mitchell and Durante, comedy stars; Keith Clarke, in feats with a deck of cards; Seller and Wills, eccentric dancers; Yvette Rugel, operatic and musical comedy soprano; and the Cardell Twins, mirror dancers.

fooling. HIS idea is the one he's had from the start—to hog it all. He must have money to finance him, however, which his girl friend is willing to advance, and somebody who knows his business to go down after the treasure. . . .

These three unworthies make connections with a scientific expedition whose "angel" is the beauteous Diane. The conniver in chief tells the professor in charge of the expedition that he knows where can be collected the most marvelous of submarine specimens. And, adds he, he has secured the services of the best diver in the country—"IN THE WORLD"—scowls and growls Steve—to accompany the group.

And so—to the dirty work . . . !

The "angel" is a daring soul, who avowedly expects to have "a devil of a good time." She is strong for adventure—and he-men. It interests her to try polishing that rough diamond, the diver. . . .

An Exciting Attack by an Octopus.

Much transpires above and below water, including an attack by a giant octopus on the little glassed-in underwater studio from which Diane and the official photographer have been watching Steve at work. The octopus, the captain's greed and sardonic fate bring matters to a crisis.

If you like sea melodramas this number will quite likely please you a lot. It's actionful and packs considerable suspense. The playing is commendable in the main, though I think Ralph Bellamy strained a buttonhole trying to act rough. Those savage diver ways don't seem to come nateral—which is, I suppose, in the nature of a compliment to Mr. B.

Miss Wray can sure pile on the facial terror like nobody's business.

No, I don't believe the octopus is real.

Bits aBOUTem.

ANOTHER "express" picture is soon to be with us. We've had "Rome Express," "Shanghai Express," etc. Now on the docket is "The Silk Express," produced by Warner Brothers and having its cast headed by NEIL HAMILTON and SHEILA TERRY. . . . LAURENCE STALLINGS has been signed by Columbia Pictures to write three screen stories. . . . EDGAR DALE, member of the Ohio State university faculty, has written a text book entitled "How to Appreciate Motion Pictures." Haven't read it, but Film Daily says he advocates schools supported by the federal or state government to train players, directors, writers, cameramen, etc. . . . WILLIAM POWELL—where's he been hiding?—has been signed by RKO Radio Pictures to co-star with Ann Harding in "Double Harness"—screened from the London stage success. . . . Says the Motion Picture Herald:

"CLYDE BEATTY, whose animal training activities have placed him in hospitals twenty times, is the only member of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus who can secure no life insurance. The one exception, he told Newspaper Man Louis Sobol, was when he went to Hollywood to make 'The Big Cage' for Universal. After a great deal of argument the Laemmles finally persuaded Lloyd's to take a chance and insure him for $100,000. With such a sum hanging over his head he said he suffered apprehension for the first time in his career. Nothing happened."

See you tomorrow!

Hollywood Happenings

By George Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—Hamilton McFadden, director, who is at work on the picture called "The American," which is based on the life of the late Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, hunted up Capt. Cliff Barnes of the Los Angeles police department while he was getting some Chicago local color for his film situations. He found that Capt. Barnes had worked for years as a gold coast chauffeur in Chicago. The Los Angeles police officer called in a couple of old time Chicago police reporters, one of them, Ben Kendall, formerly of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to help him reminisce.

Sylvia Sidney scatters so many light hearted smiles about the studio that she has become a great friend both of women and men employés. So the wardrobe girls at Paramount were heartsick when an order came through for a black and white dress of mature design for "the Sidney"—that's what they call her—to wear in her next film. An old fashioned dress like that, they felt sure, would cramp some of the justly celebrated Sidney "appeal." It was a great relief to the fluttery seamstress corps to learn that Sylvia has to play a woman 47 years' old for certain scenes in "Jennie Gerhardt," and that's why the dress.

Janet Gaynor has abandoned her bicycle for exercise and taken up swimming. "No traffic problems in a tank."

The radio couple, George Burns and Gracie Allen, made such a hit in their initial Hollywood trip, during which they did specialties for the films—"College Humor" and "International House"—that the pair are being recalled to Paramount studio for another picture following their summer trip to England.

Herman Bing, former grand opera singer and impresario, played the part of a grand opera ex-singer and impresario in Lilian Harvey's first American film, "My Lips Betray," just completed at Fox's.

Royer, who designs fashions for Fox, says "American girls had better begin eating mashed potatoes and gravy, for in another year dieting is going to be very unpopular. Snake hips are passing from style. The gowns I designed for Gloria Stuart and Joan Marsh to wear in 'It's Great to Be Alive' are constructed so as to give their wearers the appearance of more hips and bust than has been considered correct for years." Royer says, however, that the waistline must stay slim and that the near future will see the return of a semi-hour glass figure.

Dolores Del Rio is enlarging her swimming pool. Ever since "The Bird of Paradise" she has been a swimming enthusiast and plans swimming parties aplenty for the summer.

Russell Birdwell had a narrow squeak when he was directing "Flying Circus." A plane flew low and gave him a neat part down the center of his hair. He claims his hair was on end and prevented the blow being serious.

Norman Foster was regretting the hustle and bustle of life in the film capital and announced, as actors will, that he was going to retire to a plantation some day and raise cotton. "Don't do it," says Frank McHugh, the comic. "Life on a cotton plantation is just a boll of weevils."

The romantic city of Rio de Janeiro and a lot of Brazilian music and dances, new to the screen, are going to be used for Lou Brock's musical film, "Flying Down to Rio." He's planning to do just that, go down in a plane with his troupe and get a lot of air shots of the celebrated scenery about the Brazilian capital. Its cabarets, art, music, and colorful life will all be used in the picture.

Adolphe Menjou has gone collegiate, sporting around town in a loud plaid sport coat.

The big circular parkway of lawn, statuary, shrubbery, and fountain at Cathay circle, which used to front the swankiest first run movie theater in Hollywood, has now been set off for restricted use of followers of the bicycle fad. The girls in shorts and open necked blouses may be seen, sometimes dozens and scores of them at one time, wheeling round and round the asphalt street and concrete sidewalks in the latest fad for weight reduction via outdoor exercise. The fellows who now are renting bicycles at 50 cents an hour also probably are taking up options on discarded rowing machines, electrical stomach jiggling contraptions and baby golf course devices, which were the rage in the springs of 1932, 1931 and 1930 respectively.

Cleve Morrison, Colleen Moore's brother, is one of the young men who is making more than a film actor's stipend out of his income renting bicycles.

Roland Young and Laura Hope Crews are planning to appear in "Only with You," in New York this fall. The play is by Clare Kummer, Young's mother-in-law, who is responsible for so many of his stage successes.

B'way Openings

New York, May 20.—[Special.]—Revivals are still in favor along Broadway. Here are the announcements for next week's premieres:

"Both Your Houses" reopens Monday night at the Ethel Barrymore theater. This one is the play by Maxwell Anderson which acquired the present year's Pulitzer prize. Just before the award was made the Theater Guild decided to let New York worry along without it for a time. "Both Your Houses" has thus spent the last two weeks in Philadelphia and it is returning now for a matter of seven days. Watler C. Kelly is still in command.

"Patience" opens Monday night at the St. James theater. Milton Aborn is responsible for this revival in the current series of Gilbert & Sullivan operettas. This piece has not been shown in New York since June, 1931. Among those in the company are Vivian Hart, William Danforth, Frederic Persson, Roy Cropper, Frank Moulan, Allen Waterous, and Vera Ross.

"Hate Planters" opens Thursday night at the Heckscher theater. An organization bearing the name of the American Classic Players is responsible for this presentation, the work of one Bertha Wiernik.

University to Give a Brahms Music Festival

Claire Dux and Egon Petrie Soloists in Programs Celebrating Centenary.

By Edward Moore.

commemoration of the Brahms centenary. Carl Bricken, professor of music at the university, has been in charge, and will direct the orchestra during the concerts. Cecil Michener Smith will direct the university chorus and Mack Evans the university choir. Both are members of the faculty of the music department.

Distribution of tickets has met a somewhat ingenious solution, since the third concert will be free to those who have attended the others. Each patron of the other two will be given as many tickets for this as he has ordered by mail for either of the other two. The prices for the first will be fifty cents and $1; for the second, $1 and $1.50. They are now available for mail orders from the department of music, University of Chicago.

Ruth Page Will Give Ballet Performance.

Arrangements for the Friday night ballet performance on the first week of the series by the Friends of Music have been completed. Ruth Page and her group of associates will dance Ravel's Bolero, and Laurent Novikoff, ballet master of the late Civic Opera company, is arranging a set of dances to the music of "Prince Igor."

Once during this period of concerts the Friends of Music will desert the Auditorium and go to the Stadium on West Madison street. This event will be a gala performance of "Aïda" in honor of the arrival at A Century of Progress of the hundred Italian flyers commanded by Gen. Italo Balbo, minister of the air. The date is a bit tentative since the arrival of the air squadron cannot be stated with complete accuracy, but it will be in the middle of June.

A first class cast and a lavish production is promised, and it is expected that many important leaders of the army, navy, and air forces will be in attendance. The performance will be under the patronage of Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul-general.

The Friends of Music add that their entertainments have been priced in a way to make them interesting to pocketbooks of patrons. The "Aïda" performance will have a top price of $2 a seat. The Auditorium concerts will have a top price of $1.50 except on the popular concerts on Saturday nights, when they will be seventy-five cents. At all times the first gallery will be scaled at thirty-five cents and the second gallery at twenty-five cents.

Notes of Interest to Music Lovers.

Consul Castruccio is also the sponsor for the recital by John Charles Thomas which will take place at the Auditorium this afternoon. It is being given for the benefit of the Italian Woman's club charity fund. Of Mr. Thomas' singing there is no particular need to speak at length at this time. In opera and concert he has proved himself many times in Chicago. His program will cover a wide range of famous Italian, German, French, and English works as well as at least one aria, "Eri Tu" from Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera." The proceeds of the concert will be divided among the Park Ridge School for Girls, Travelers' Aid, Frances Juvenile home, Chicago Woman's Shelter, Children's Memorial hospital, Chicago Commons Adult Education fund, United Charities, Catholic Charities, Joint Emergency Relief fund, Mother Cabrini hospital, six high school scholarships, and some individual cases.

Daniel Saidenberg, first cellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, who will appear with Rudolph Reuter in a Brahms program at Kimball hall tomorrow night, has recently returned from the east. One of the events while there was his appearance in the Saint-Saens Concerto with the New Haven Symphony orchestra in the final concert of its series.

"The Messiah" in dramatic form, first presented at the Auditorium several weeks ago, will be given six performances at the Goodman theater next week by the Oratorio-Drama guild. As before, Sophia Swanstrom Young is the producer and Carl Craven the musical director.

Anna Burmeister and Maurine Parzybok will be the soloists in the Fourth Presbyterian church vespers this afternoon, singing Faure's "Jesu, Word of God." Barrett Spach will play an organ recital by Guilmant, Ropartz, and Bairstow.

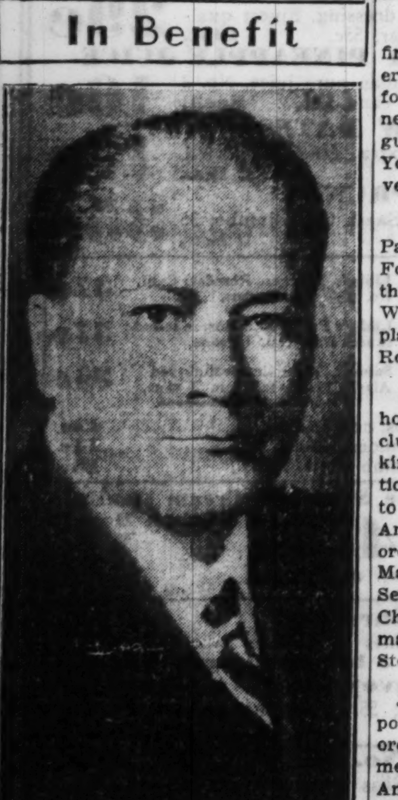
Rudolph Ganz has been made an honorary member of the Boston Art club, the oldest organization of the kind in the United States, in recognition of the contribution he has made to the advancement of the fine arts. Among other musicians similarly honored are Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Marcella Sembrich, Henry Hadley, Serge Koussevitzky, Fritz Kreisler, Charles Martin Loeffler, Serge Rachmaninoff, Albert Spalding, and Leopold Stokowski.

Josef Cherniavsky will extend his potent baton over the Chicago theater orchestra this week in an arrangement of works by Johann Strauss. Among the compositions will be the Persian March, "Wiener Blut," the Pizzicato Polka, the "Blue Danube" Waltz, "The Bat," and "The Gipsy Baron." Rudolph Wagner is featured in a piano solo.

The Croatian Singing society, "Hrvatska," will give its second annual concert at the Croatian Brotherhood hall next Sunday afternoon. Directed by Ivan Horvath, the choir will sing selections from Haydn's "The Creation," a variety of folk songs, and Novak's "Selimberg."

Vicki Baum is to make a personal introduction of Grace Cornell and Kurt Graff at their dance recital in the Chicago Woman's Club theater on Tuesday evening.

In Benefit



JOHN CHARLES THOMAS.
[Mishkin Photo.]

This famous American baritone, last heard here when he appeared as Scarpia in "Tosca" with Maria Jeritza at the Auditorium, will sing a recital on the same stage this afternoon. He is appearing for the benefit of the Italian Woman's club charity fund, and sponsored by the Italian consulate general.

Mary and Her Pair of Pekingese

She's nuts about muts! Mary Pickford may not be that way about "every little bow wow wow" she sees, but she does certainly care for her two Pekinese pups. This charming and recent photograph of "America's sweetheart" is proof of that statement. 'Twould seem so, at least.

Singing Trio at Oriental

THE BOSWELL SISTERS

The Jack Pearl-Paul Whiteman revue, which has supplanted cinema programs at the Oriental theater, contains among its many well known entertainers the three Boswell sisters, whose radio singing has made them national favorites. Here are the three graces of the air in a sisterly pose. By name: Connie, Martha, and Helvetia.

Bit of Bavaria Lives in Hofbrau on North Side

Waiters, Singers and Dancers Garbed in Costumes of Old Country.

By Edward Moore.

"IST das nicht ein schnitzelbank? Ja, das ist ein schnitzelbank. O, wie schoen!"

If you are looking for an amusing place to put in a couple of hours during the evening you might do much worse than drop into the Bavarian Hofbrau, 806 West North avenue. Here is a place where everything possible has been done to make the surroundings echt Bayerisch.

You are greeted with a cordial "Guten Abend" by the head waiter and his assistants. You are seated at a table confronting long wall paintings of Bavarian hills and fields and ox carts and merrymakers. You are served a foaming beverage of legal content—food, too, if you want it. Meanwhile, a little orchestra at the further end of the room plays waltzes, muzurkas, folk songs, most of which do not usually travel west of the Rhine.

Everybody Is Dressed in Costume.

Everybody is costumed. The waiters and waitresses wear the garb of the homeland; the orchestra, in loose shirts, knickerbockers, heavy woolen hosiery, and heavier shoes, might just have come from a week of mountain climbing. The orchestra, by the way, numbers four members, a violinist whose serious demeanor would do credit to a symphony concertmaster, a pianist, a third member who crouches behind a gigantic accordion, a fourth who interchanges clarinet and saxophone and makes them even more comic than they are in normal life.

It is he, extremely well nourished he is, who makes announcements in a marked accent from the stage, and who occasionally lays down his instruments, dons a feathered, flat crowned derby, and, pointing out various pictured objects on a screen, leads the patrons through the old German nonsense song cited at the head of this column. For you yourselves are expected to be in part your own entertainers, and the entertainment is not confined to dancing. You are threatened with the fine of a round of drinks if you fail to join in with this one.

Plenty of Singing and Dancing.

Much of it, however, is provided for you. There is considerable singing in hearty, pleasant voices. A girl with arms akimbo does a lively dance with some of her male companions. It is a courtship dance performed with all the gusto in the world, wherein many resounding slaps are administered to the faces of the disappointed suitors.

Do not leave the place without getting the head waiter to sing. He is Jan Wilgemkamp, and he possesses a bass voice such as people pay money to hear in opera and concert. Perhaps the Volga Boat Song is not quite in the atmospheric scheme of a Bavarian resort, but it is well worth the hearing just the same, and he will sing it with fine spirit.

You leave with a farewell rivaled in heartiness only by the greeting with which you came in. It is a cordial place.

With Chorus

ELSE HARTHAN ARENDT.
[Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

The Bach chorus, appearing at Orchestra hall on Tuesday night under the direction of Edwin Stanley Seder, will present an assortment of cantatas and choruses by the great composer. Of the soloists who will assist the chorus, Mme. Arendt is regarded as one of the best.

'Uncle Tom' Revival

A REVIVAL of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the dramatization of Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous novel, will be the twelfth annual spring presentation this season of the Players' Club of New York. The play will be given during the week of May 29 and the cast will include Otis Skinner as Uncle Tom and Fay Bainter as Topsy.

Circus Play.

"Under Canvas," a play about circus life, will be presented in New York on May 30. The author is Richard F. Flournoy. Among the players will be Alan Bunce, Ruth Nugent, Frank Shannon, Edgar Nelson, Anthony Ross, Frank Bendtsen and Paul Guilfoyle.

The Voice of the Movie Fan

In Praise of Nancy Carroll.

Dear Mae: The sudden fall of Nancy Carroll has puzzled us, inasmuch as from stellar rôles she has been reduced to a less featured player.

Here is a girl who refutes the old theory that beauty and brains cannot be combined in one person, for she has both. We picked her for a winner after seeing "Shopworn Angel," and naturally have watched her meteoric rise with a certain amount of pride. It was gratifying to us to watch her carry off the honors in "Devil's Holiday" and "Laughter." Now, having gained recognition as an emotional star, she apparently is starting over for no reason.

Lack of patronage at the theaters is due not so much to hard times as to poor pictures. Producers could help bring back prosperity by giving the good stories to the capable players and stop wasting them on the inefficient.

Yours very truly,
M. E. C.

Editor's note: If wishes were vehicles every star would ride in a grand coupé, because producers do yearn for worthy material. Didn't you like Nancy in "Child of Manhattan" or "The Woman Accused"?

Actress Identified.

Dear Miss Tinée: We should like to know the name of the actress who played the feminine lead in a picture which showed the ever present objection of children to their father's second marriage. The title may be "The Lady Lies."

TOOTSIE AND JEAN.

Editor's Note: Claudette Colbert. "The Lady Lies" was the picture.

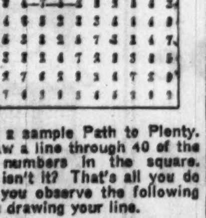
Cash Prizes For Drawing a Line Through These Numbers That Will Total the Highest Amount

Here is How to Work the Puzzle



Here is a sample Path to Plenty. Just draw a line through 40 of the largest numbers in the square. Simple, isn't it? That's all you do just so you observe the following Rules in drawing your line.

A—Your path must be continuous—you may turn as often as you like, but there must be no breaks, gaps or forks.

B—You may start your line at any number in the square—you may stop at any number. When finished, your line must contain 40 numbers.

C—Your path may go straight up or straight down—straight right or straight left. Diagonal lines (slanting lines) are not allowed anywhere in the path.

D—From the number with which you begin, you may go in a straight line until your path contains four numbers. Then you must turn because four numbers are all that are permitted in a straight line. If you wish, you may turn when your line contains three numbers. But less than three numbers in a straight line are not permitted. Observe this rule throughout—never less than three numbers in a straight line, never more than four (see the sample puzzle).

E—Your path must never touch or cross itself.

F—When your line contains 40 numbers, STOP. Add your line and put down the total in the space provided.

GENERAL RULES

1—The highest correct totals will count.

2—All entries must be post-marked on or before midnight, June 1, 1933, when this contest closes. No entries received later will be considered.

3—Your path must be drawn on the puzzle above or an accurate facsimile of it, or additional copies of this puzzle will be sent you on request.

4—Order and remittance for $1.00 worth, or more, of Certified Tooth Paste must accompany your solution to make it eligible

5—Three responsible men appointed by the Certified Laboratories will decide the winners.

6—In the event of ties for any prize, then all those tying for this prize will be required to work additional Path To Plenty Puzzles, similar to the first one, except that there will be more numbers which will be arranged differently. Each puzzle will be larger, until there are no ties. If necessary, there will be seven additional puzzles. In the event of ties in the seventh additional puzzle, full prizes will be awarded each tying contestant.

7—In case of ties being so nearly identical, that collusion or copying is evident, then all such entries will be rejected altogether.

8—Not more than one prize will be awarded to a single person, household or group of persons.

First Prize	$500.00
Second Prize	100.00
Third Prize	50.00
Fourth Prize	25.00
Fifth Prize	15.00
60 $1.00 Prizes	60.00

Contest Ends Midnight, June 1, 1933

This is our fair and square way of introducing our merchandise—the most remarkable offer you've ever seen—an opportunity to buy genuine Certified Milk of Magnesia Tooth Paste at big savings and at the same time share in our generous cash prize contest.

How I Lost 62 Pounds Ugly Fat
Without Harmful Dieting or Drugs
By MARGARET GEORGE

218 Lbs. 148 Lbs.

Above are my photographs taken before and after I drank Germania Herb Tea. I used to be so tired and weak I could hardly stand on my feet. I am now giving free demonstrations in the leading department stores of America. I am 50 years old, work 14 hours a day, am on my feet all the time and never felt so good before in my life. I would love to have you come and meet me.

Simply Drank Delicious Germania Herb Tea—

SIXTY-TWO pounds of fat in three months was the welcome loss in weight I registered without taking any harmful drugs or salts—without violent exercising and without going hungry for a single minute. Drinking three cupfuls a day of delicious Germania Herb Tea, obtainable at food, department and drug stores, I hold entirely responsible for the loss of all my ugly fat and the return to me of a youthlike strength and energy I had not possessed in years. To obtain a trial package free, note coupon below.

Just What Germania Tea Is and How Fat Drops Off Like Magic

Made of herbs grown on the sunny slopes of hills and mountains in Germany, Germania Herb Tea is strictly a vegetable product containing no harmful drugs. It tastes just like ordinary orange pekoe tea. It is made the same way and you can drink it, either hot or served as iced tea, with lemon, cream or sugar.

Delicious, I found it and many women I know who drink it say the same. But getting rid of 62 pounds of fat cannot be accomplished by drinking any ordinary tea. Remember, you must drink Germania Herb Tea —and the remarkable thing about it is you lose weight without going on a freak starvation diet that runs you down and makes you weak and strengthless. I lost weight every day and each day I ate what I wanted, except much fatty meats and starches, felt better, and grew stronger. The body simply must have plenty of good, wholesome food, and of the right kind, containing vitamins and other necessary substances to sustain life and build strength and energy. Get at your nearest Food, Dept. or Drug Store, or—

Capital Celebs Make It Tough for Working Girl

They Ramble and Rollick Their Way Into Public Print

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—All this scab labor at the typewriter is making it difficult for a Washington newspaper woman to do her daily stunt for the papers. (Editor: Please note.)

Just look at the list of capital celebrities who have rambled or rollicked their way into print: Alice Longworth and Dolly Gann running parallel, but, like parallel lines, never, of course, meeting; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and her daughter, Anna; Senator Borah, with a piece on peace; Senator Tydings, with a book on the depression, to mention only a few of our competitors.

Just the other day I sat next Ray Moley at luncheon. As assistant secretary of state he had a lot of things he could say, but he would say them only "off the record." Now I pick up the paper, see that Prof. Moley is to syndicate a column on government, and I am told the syndicate numbers something like a thousand papers.

It looks to me as if the only person from whom I can get a really realistic interview in this town is Steve Vazilakos, the voluble peanut vender whose stand is in front of the White House. But if any enterprising literary agent reads this paragraph, like as not he'll sign Steve up for a series of memoirs, and then where'll I be?

● Senator Henry F. (the F stands for Fountain) Ashhurst (Dem., Ariz.) is a shrewd psychologist. As chairman of the senate judiciary committee he is in charge of the impeachment trial of Judge Harold Louderback of California, now in progress.

"I'm going to make all the witnesses stand when they give their testimony," he confided to me. "I figure that if a fellow is standing he's less likely to talk a lot. We've got to get through some time."

● While we're on the subject of senators, just one more story about the Kingfish. The other day he rushed the season; appeared in a white linen suit. His colleagues were twitting him.

"A white suit's all right," remarked one, "but Lord, how they run up the laundry bill!"

"You're right," replied Huey Long, stretching himself nearly out of the linen coat.

Then he added: "Yes, sir, it takes a lot of clothes, this being in politics. Now in a campaign I figure I need ten of these suits. Campaigning, a fellow sweats 'em down so fast."

● Economy continues to worry the diplomats in Washington. Most recent victim of the depression is the Bulgarian legation. The Bulgarian government has notified our government that it has abolished the ministerial post here. M. Simeon Radeff, the present minister, will leave promptly for home. The government will henceforth be represented merely by a chargé d'affaires. A chargé is not so important, but he's a lot cheaper.

Which moves Washington to wonder if the United States will, similarly, abolish its legation in Sofia. For this sort of thing is reciprocal. If a foreign country wishes to elevate its legation here to the status of an embassy the courteous, diplomatic gesture on our part is to elevate our legation in that foreign country to the ambassadorial rank.

Sometimes the senate, which has to vote approval of the elevation, isn't particularly pleased at the additional expense. Perhaps a demotion down from minister to chargé would be quite satisfactory to the senate right now.

● People who don't like the old diplomatic custom of hand kissing insist that it's not gallantry, but conceit. that makes the diplomat take the lady's hand and raise it to his lips. "The diplomat does not want to stoop," these critics insist, so he raises the gal's fingers up to his kissing level. This custom, it is noted, is particularly characteristic of some of the South American dips.

● The veterinarians in town are saying harsh things about Meggie, the White House Scottish terrier, because she hasn't had her spring haircut. She's getting to look pretty fuzzy and fluffy.

● A friend of one of the Roosevelt boys, reading in the paper that Major, the White House police dog, had nipped Senator Hattie Caraway at a recent party, wrote to young Roosevelt: "I see by the papers that Major bit a senator. But tell me, has he ever done anything really bad?"

Hunts Meet Draws Many Sports Enthusiasts in New York

BY NANCY RANDOLPH.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Believe it or not, just as you wish, but the swankiest attitude today is to veer away from swank. It is becoming aristocratic to be democratic; all of which is paradoxical enough to make Mr. Chesterton tear his hair, if the English essayist has any left.

But all jesting aside, we are now in the midst of the equine season, which is always the most purely social of matters, and the emphasis this year is laid even more heavily upon simplicity. The Grand National, the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness are things of the past. The suburban and rural horse shows, and the twenty-eight year old united hunts meet are the things of the present.

Held at the Murray Estate.

Yesterday saw the hunts meet take place at the Hugh Murray estate, next that of the Edward F. Huttons near Roslyn, L. I. I don't know just how many homes the united hunts has had, but the Murray course is its latest, and a lot of us think, quite its best.

Away back in 1905 the hunts was first held at the old Morris Park course, long since vanished. Then it went to Bennings in Washington, D. C., then to dear old Belmont Terminal, where it remained until only a few years ago when the Terminal became building lots. From Aqueduct, which wasn't at all suitable, the hunts went to Bowman Park, near the Westchester Country Club at Rye, and that was not too suitable, though delightfully rural.

From Bowman Park the harassed hunts returned to Aque-

A GRANDDAUGHTER OF CHARLES WARREN FAIRBANKS

Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Fairbanks of Chicago and Indianapolis, is being missed by Chicago society. She and her parents left recently to spend a month in their Indiana home. Miss Fairbanks, named for her paternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks, wife of the Vice President of the United States in Taft's administration, is an unusually charming young woman, with a deep appreciation of all things artistic, particularly those of Italy. Her interest in Italian things and persons was intensified when she acquired an Italian brother-in-law, Count Ruggero Visconti di Modrone, who married her sister, Edith, about two years ago. Cornelia has spent considerable time in Italy, both at school and visiting the young Viscontis in Milan.

SAUCE for the GOOSE

By D—— D——.

"MY DEAR, I am surprised at your having her. There was such scandal about her in L——," commented a north shore matron to her hostess about the guest of honor. Imagine the surprise of the hostess later when she overheard the "kindly" one cordially inviting the guest of honor to be her "lion" at a Sunday night party the next week. The ways of some women are strange!

● "Do you slide down on anything?" queried a fond mother of her young son after he had slid down the Magic mountain on the Enchanted island at A Century of Progress. "Yes, of course, on your pants," answered the literal minded young man.

● More adventures of our biscuit salesman, who also is a popular beau in society and who begs that his name be omitted this time. While out on the west side he inadvertently threw a lighted cigaret into a chicken pen and while trying to extricate it he opened the pen and out ran the chickens. He and the irate proprietor chased them and captured all except one, which a tremendous truck ran down. The salesman had to pay for that one.

● At Lake Forest's Trading Post two handsome china urns await a purchaser. They came from one of the distinguished households of the fashionable north shore town. Rounding up a contribution the other day for the second hand shop that supports the Alice Home hospital, the mistress of this household designated a pair of vases to her maid. All vases looked alike to the maid, so she chose the wrong pair. Once they had been dispatched to the Trading Post, however, the generous minded matron refused to recall them. Connoisseurs value the urns at $500.

● "That's the height of optimism," commented our companion on a drive west when his attention was called to the thousands of tiny trees Mark Morton has planted on his estate on the St.

Opening of Exposition Great Occasion of Week

Ceremonial on Soldiers' Field Will Be Attended by Chicago Notables.

By COUSIN EVE.

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS, Chicago's own, opens the coming Saturday. Historic it will be, impressive, unique, and beautiful. Unlike in any sense its predecessor by four decades, it has shown an open mind to ideas new, to men and women young, to matters stimulating and strange, to tales as yet untold.

The ceremonial of the opening will take place at Soldiers' field with three thousand of its many thousand seats reserved for officialdom. Whose heart does not beat quick at thought of being there! Bands, flags, soldiers, sailors, sharp beat of drums, whirr of airplanes overhead, perchance.

Art for A Century of Progress has been achieved in rare perfection. For four years Chauncey McCormick, invited by Rufus Dawes to head the art committee of the Fair, has worked out a big program. There were no available funds, the times were indeed hard. Foreign governments were unwilling to lend their treasures, and insurances were prohibitive. There was no money to build a fireproof gallery.

Obstacles Superbly Overcome.

These obstacles produced a superb result. Aided by a small committee, including Charles H. Worcester, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Percy B. Eckhart, Max Epstein, and John Holabird, Chauncey McCormick has organized an art exhibit in the Art institute, now incorporated into and part of the Fair, that fairly staggers one with its importance and beauty. Mr. McCormick toured the country in the interests of art. He interested Mr. Widener, the Webbs, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney; Yale and Harvard universities, the Metropolitan, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Mrs. Edward D. Libbey, Sir Joseph Duveen, Stephen Clark, Maitland Griggs, Chester Dale, and all of our great local collectors, including Mrs. Martin Ryerson, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Worcester, Max Epstein, and the chef d'oeuvres of the Deering estate owned by Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. Richard E. Danielson, sisters.

On Monday afternoon was a preview. The building looked grand, sweeping marble stairs, all fresh, the blue walls of the upper foyer wreathed in box, with square clipped trees at all the doors. On the walls of this court an array of famous paintings to leave one dumb. A dazzling portrait of Queen Isabella of Spain by Velasquez, painted before America was discovered. Its neighbor, the Spanish Toledo, hot hill town, done by El Greco, one of his rare landscapes, from the Metropolitan. A line of glorious Goyas from the Chauncey McCormick collection, including the famous Duke and Duchess d'Alba. A line of El Grecos, ten famous canvases, including two from Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer's collection, Cardinal Guevara and Toledo, Mr. Epstein's, the Charles Deering and Libbey collections.

Walls of Small Galleries Newly Colored.

The walls of the smaller galleries have mostly been recolored, with due regard to the pictures to be hung. There are some marvelous Davids from Edward Berwind in New York, Bouchers, a Frogonard, Lancrets, Poussins, a famous Chardin. Many Corots are shown, perhaps too many, and Millet, a great Courbet and others of the Barbizon school.

I especially liked the colonial room, with some Copleys, Hoppners, a Gilbert Stuart or two, and a robust painting of old Gen. Dearborn. Flitting like a butterfly from flower to flower, I whirled through the primitives, some of the grandest in existence, dropping a curtsy in front of Sir Joseph Duveen's "Venus and the Lute Player," by Titian, a very highly esteemed painting found latterly in a British nobleman's castle. Other Titians are there, a magnificent Holbein of Henry VIII.'s Catharine Howard, fifth wife, fresh as if done yesterday.

Breathless one arrives at a delicious roomful of Degas, ballet dancers in suave tulles, the great race track things for which he is celebrated. A whole room for Cezanne. Quel luxe! One could almost have a small hysteria. And a room of Gauguin, deep wild colors, copper skinned natives, exotic isles, one shrieks for the excitement of it, and one or two Seurats, and six Toulouse-Lautrecs.

Then the vacant space, the spot wherein Whistler's "Portrait of His Mother" is to hang. The only foreign owned canvas in the entire show, and that painted by an American. It arrives and will be unveiled with pomp and circumstance on May 29.

A Great Collection of Renoirs.

A great collection of Renoirs, shedding dazzling light: sunny scenes, the gayety of bathing parties and picnics. Manets of grandeur. Monets of somber distinction, and several gorgeous Rembrandts.

The American school, the Dutch, and, most striking, the John Sargent group. To this a visitor, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney of New York, strode at once. Its center, a tall bronzed young Egyptian girl from the Deering collections, had been promised years ago to Mrs. Whitney by the painter. Sargent evidently had forgotten these idle words and sold this tall, vivid canvas to Mr. Deering. It is flanked by a small portrait of Mrs. Charles Dyer, and another of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Still racing, without pausing for breath, we reached the abstractions. Highly controversial, they are well named and worthily hung up and down the noble back stairs. Picasso, Leger, Lurcat, Survage, Picabia, are all there. "The Nude Descending the Stair," also a companion piece, a snake, descending the stair. There are many international contemporary works. The entire exhibit is glorious, the finest ever assembled in this country.

Mrs. Rufus Dawes, charming and handsome woman, is ex-officio president of all the women's activities of A Century of Progress. And they are many. In July, from the 15th to the 23d, the International Council of Women will meet here, with headquarters at the Fair, and Mrs. Dawes has appointed Mrs. Walter B. Wolf chairman to select a group of ten hostesses to entertain delegates to this important convention. These delegates are coming from all parts of the world.

The women as chosen are Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. George Langhorne, Mrs. Augustus Eddy, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank (who will herself be chairman of the literary committee of

Mrs. Pomeroy New President of College Club

Hospitality of Clubhouse Extended to Alumnae Guests at Fair.

By Ruth De Young.

MRS. EDWARD DWIGHT POMEROY will extend a hearty welcome this summer to hundreds of college graduates come to see A Century of Progress. Yesterday at the annual meeting of the Chicago College club Mrs. Pomeroy was elected president of the membership to succeed Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney, who has just completed a two year term of office.

MRS. EDWARD DWIGHT-POMEROY. [Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

The meeting was held in the attractive clubhouse which the club purchased ten years ago. Now it is undergoing special summer refurnishing, including a roof terrace, for the sake of the college alumnae—north, south, east, and west—who have been invited to make the cheery dining room, parlors, and chambers their stopping place while in Chicago.

This will be the first time the clubhouse has offered hospitality during the hot weather months. Reservations already have been received from California, New York, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. In fact, the directors fear they may not be able to take care of all their guests.

New Officers Chosen by Nominating Committee.

The second vice president elected yesterday is Miss Emily M. Goehst. Mrs. A. H. Montgomery is the new corresponding secretary; Miss Dorothy S. Clark, the auditor; and Mrs. Charles S. Pratt and Mrs. Anson Caméron, the new members of the directorate. The slate was chosen by a nominating committee with Mrs. Francis E. Broomell as its chairman.

The purpose of the College club is social with a strong seasoning of the cultural and intellectual. This was the idea of the quintet of college graduates . . . Miss Elizabeth Telling, Miss Sarah B. Tunnicliff, Miss Esther Witkowsky, Mrs. Edward G. Hobler, and Miss May Estelle Cook . . who called a meeting of the local alumnae of our best colleges and universities in 1907, in old Handel hall. Martha Wilson, a prominent social worker, presided.

To Present Plays on the Enchanted Island.

The club was formed. Lounges were provided in the Fine Arts building. Soon, however, the membership demanded more spacious quarters in the same building, luncheon every day, and tea after the Friday concerts. Then came another move a few years later to the sixteenth floor of the Stevens building. Here, under the direction of Mrs. Louise Van Voorhees Armstrong, the club achieved a name in amateur dramatics, which will reach a climax this summer in the presentation of plays in the children's theater on the Enchanted island at A Century of Progress.

Just as other college alumnae will enjoy this clubhouse this summer, the members of the Chicago club have exchange privileges with college clubs in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and a dozen more cities throughout the country.

The Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen is to hold its annual May breakfast Thursday noon in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Two thousand women, representing 350 organizations in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin, and eastern Indiana will attend. Prince Potenziano, royal Italian commissioner to A Century of Progress, will take part in a ceremony in which the Italian consul general, Giuseppe Castruccio, will present to Lorado Taft the insignia of the commendators of the crown of Italy. Award of the medal is made in recognition of Mr. Taft's play, "The Gates of Paradise," one act of which is to be presented at the luncheon. Mrs. Charles S. Clark, conference president, will be hostess.

WHEN YOUNG LAKE FOREST TURNS OUT TO SEE A WEDDING

Looking at the pretty lady is what these youngsters were doing when this picture of them was taken. The pretty lady was Mrs. Winston Elting, who had just acquired that name in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, having been Miss Marjorie Horton until then. Here are Tommy and Mary Washburne, of the Hempstead Washburnes, and Joan and Bunty Rayner, daughters of the Gilbert Rayners. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Charles road. The 75 year old salt tycoon, brother of Joy Morton, the founder of the Morton arboretum, will have to reach the century mark if he is to enjoy any shade from the trees he has planted in such precise rows in the fields surrounding the new house he has built. The house is on the highest ground in that section and to say that it sticks out now like a sore thumb is putting it mildly, but when the landscaping begins to develop it will be a gorgeous place.

● What will I take so the butler will be impressed when he unpacks my bags?" asked a timid young man who was going to one of Lake Forest's great houses for the week-end. Apropos of guests who aren't accustomed to butlers and sech, did you hear about the gentleman who spent a night with the Philip Armours this last winter and who, after the butler had unpacked his bag and placed its contents in closet and bureau, said in reply to the butler's polite inquiry as to whether there was anything else to be done, "Yes, pack my bag again so I can find my pajamas."

● Helen Walker Szukalska may spend the summer in Geneva, that charming little town with the New England atmosphere on the Fox river forty miles west of Chicago, but she won't be in the little old stone house that she wanted. The landlord wouldn't have her two huge German shepherd dogs as tenants, so Mrs. Szukalska and her little Kalina (daughter) are looking for other quarters for the summer.

● We like Mrs. George B. Swift's definition of a politician. Asked for one the other day, this delightful matron, the wife of the city's 1895 mayor, replied with earnest humor, "A fool that likes folks."

● The landlord from whom Kathleen Sheriff Hammond rented an adorable white clapboard house in Geneva wasn't so hard hearted (or perhaps not so considerate of his house and grounds), and attractive Mrs. Hammond is busy raising wire-haired pups, along with her own three cunning babies, the eldest of whom is five.

● Two things are remembered about Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's twenty-four hour visit to Chicago last Monday—the huge pear-shaped diamond she wears on the third finger of her right hand, and the difficulty she had Monday morning posing gracefully for newspaper photographers with her Titanic memorial, an immense sculpture.

● At a dinner party last week the late arrival of "Al" Kornfeld and Miss Barbara Poole at the Baur-Bull nuptials a year ago was recalled. The reason, it was revealed, was a white runaway horse on the million dollar bridle path that parallels McCormick boulevard. Mr. Kornfeld, driving a car of the Victorian vintage (or just about), frightened the mount and its rider. To be gallant, he jumped from his high perch—complete with topper and cutaway—and started across the neighboring fields. Rescue was effected, but Miss Poole has not yet forgotten the humor of the episode.

● "Rice in the engine" is the way mechanics described the troubles that caused the honeymooning Winston Eltings to stop three times between Lake Forest and St. Joe last Saturday on the first lap of their wedding trip. They were married in Lake Forest in the late afternoon at one of the prettiest spring weddings imaginable, and the bride was as lovely as a fairy tale princess.

Hunts Meet Attracts Many to Long Island

duct, then to West Hills, near Syosset, L. I., and now it has made its début at Roslyn, where, one hopes, it will be permanently housed.

Five Races on the Program for Meet.

Yesterday's meet is the only racing fixture that definitely belongs to society. Five races, four of them over hurdles, and timber, and brush, and one on the flat for gentleman riders. It is really the last gathering before society disperses for the summer and abandons town to visitors and the sun's rays. One saw simply every one yesterday, from the gray hatted president, dear old Brose Clark, fresh from the family triumphs in England, to the new powers in the social equine world, the George Atwells Jr., and the Junior Whitneys.

Since the Hunts has become a purely rural affair—quite "county," as the English would term it—there were no stands and no boxes, and hence no boxholders. Every one came in the family motor or the ancestral gig, and even four in hand, and nosed into parking spaces along the rails. Champagne bubbled and luncheon baskets appeared. Notables sat on the hoods, and bonnets, and tops of cars and focused their glasses on the horses.

Seen along the rails were the matronly Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, Grand National winner for 1933; the John Hay Whitneys, Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Alexandre, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Welles Durant, Richard Whitney, Henry W. Bull, F. Skiddy Von Stade, Mrs. Walter B. James, Amory Haskell, H. O. Tallmadge, Lewis Latham Clarke, H. E. Talbot Jr., Jay Carlisle, Henry B. H. Ripley, William Beering Howe, Mrs. Caspar Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Coe, Mr. and Mrs. Parker Corning, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley H. Mills and Mrs. Mills' father, Dave Hennen Morris, new ambassador to Belgium; Mr. and Mrs. George M. Moffett, and Mr. and Mrs. James B. Tailer.

Show Will Shift to Tuxedo Park.

From Long Island the rural equine show will shift to the fearfully exclusive Tuxedo Park on June 2 and 3. This annual affair is always a simple gathering, for all its exclusiveness, but most colorful with the cadets from nearby West Point taking part and savoring the park hospitality.

On opening day Mrs. David Wagstaff will give a luncheon for the West Pointers and the younger set, with a Dutch treat dinner to follow at night, including a showing of the motion pictures of this year's Grand National. And, of course, Mrs. Brose Clark will be present to be cheered to the echo.

On the third Mrs. Wagstaff will give a luncheon for the judges and officials, and at night the George B. St. Georges will give a dinner for them. Incidentally, Mrs. Wagstaff's son, David Jr., is a cadet at the Point.

ARDEN SHORE COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

Miss Elizabeth Alger is chairman of the Chicago Arden Shore committee, which, like all the other Arden Shore committees in the north shore towns that do not contribute to the camp from their community chests, are putting on drives this month to raise their quotas for the support of the camp at Lake Bluff. Mrs. Cassius Biggert is Evanston chairman; Mrs. Frederick Tilt, Wilmette; Mrs. A. L. McDougal, Kenilworth; Mrs. A. J. Mitchell, Winnetka; Mrs. John E. Davis, Glencoe; Mrs. Harry A. Sallery, Ravinia; Mrs. George Childs, Highland Park; Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Lake Forest; Mrs. R. E. Crawford, Lake Bluff, and Mrs. Robert Hilton, Barrington. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

NEWS AND VIEWS OF THE SOCIAL SET

the Fair), Mrs. Hubert Burnham, Mrs. Huntley Gilbert, Mrs. George R. Dean, Mrs. C. B. Goodspeed.

On Monday afternoon at the Art institute, Mrs. Potter Palmer called a meeting in one of the galleries. Appointed by Mrs. Dawes chairman of a committee of hostesses for visiting museum heads and donors to the Art institute and lenders of great works of art, Mrs. Palmer also included a few men at the gathering. In the rows of chairs members of this important committee who listened to a few words from Mrs. Dawes, a few more from Mrs. Palmer, and a lively talk from Chauncey McCormick were Mrs. Martin Ryerson, in heavy black for her admirable husband, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Potter Palmer, Col. and Mrs. George Langhorne, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. Clay Judson, Mrs. Martin Schutze, Miss Alice Rouillier, Miss Eleanor Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brewster, Mrs. Walter Papecke. There were perhaps a few others. After this discussion members walked through the entire World's Fair exhibition of paintings for a preview, and there was the greatest enthusiasm for what had been done.

A Very Interesting Dinner Party.

One of the truly interesting parties of last week was the formal dinner Sunday night of the Japanese commissioners to A Century of Progress. Given in the big red stone house of Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum, which is theirs for six months, the hosts were Consul and Mme. Muto and Mr. Kusunose, whose official positions are identical for the Fair. Receiving also were Mr. Sasaki, in charge of Japanese national exhibits, and Mr. Shimadzu.

It was amusing to see the changes in this house; interesting, too, to Mrs. Baum, who was an honored guest in costume of white lace, training. The empty bookshelves of the long library were no longer empty but decked with oriental brocades, golden shrines, rare Japanese works of art. Tall golden screens here and there with great green branches of the pine tree splashed across their gleaming surfaces.

Young Mme. Muto, tall, slim daughter of a Japanese banker, was in silver lamé with turquoise jewels and slippers. Educated in New York, she is charming and gay, and one of my beaux tells me a wonderful dancer.

If any of the dozen guests expected a dinner with oriental menu, he did not have his wish. It was an occidental feast, from the magnificent floral centerpiece of many kinds and colors of our own spring flowers, quite contrary to Japanese ideals of beauty, through a beautifully ordered dinner —with our own local butlers and maids in attendance. Our hosts all speak excellent English and are quite mad about America. The guests at this party were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Robert Wheeler, and the official party.

Mrs. Everett, one of the most charming looking women in Chicago, has a unique accomplishment. She knows Japanese. Thus she was able to hear that the Japanese commissioners, speaking heart to heart among themselves, had a grand time at their own party. Which made it unanimous.

Reception in Honor of Italian Prince.

Speaking of past dinners, that same week an Italian society, the Dante Alighieri, arranged an elaborate and spectacular feast for Prince Potenziani, royal Italian commissioner. At the Belden-Stratford a reception was held in the mezzanine, the prince arriving in full panoply, sash and star of an inspiring color combination, red and yellow, sun-burned from his voyage on southern seas, gallant and charming. A carved armchair to honor the former mayor of Rome was placed for him at one side of the long, long table, with Mrs. Watt Cluverius as his dinner partner.

A fantasy of the pastry cook's, a sort of garden effect, spread out in front of the prince with a Roman arch on which blazed the words "Welcome Prince." At its foot, Fort Dearborn, and across a tiny stream, a park with benches and bushes, and a fine airplane, the very same that will bring Gen. Balbo, air minister, to Chicago. There were speeches.

The prince's was adroit and clever. Thorough man of the world, he played with the idea of making a speech, and evaded the unique suggestion of the toastmaster that he was an understudy for St. Paul because he had said to a lady before dinner, "I am a Roman, not a Florentine." In fact, one has never yet seen a Roman prince who seemed to be understudying for any saint.

However, all this was very amusing and Prince Potenziani once and for all time disposed of the idea that he is not 100 per cent Italian by remarking that he had a Polish ancestor (he believes) quite far back. But that he neither speaks nor understands Polish. And that is that.

HEARING ABOUT THE FOUNDING OF THE JUNIOR LEAGUE

Miss Adelaide Atkin, Mrs. John L. Cochran Jr., and Mrs. James Addington present an interesting study in rapt attention, don't they? This picture was taken when they were listening to Mrs. Howard Linn, founder of the Chicago Junior league, tell about its early days. Miss Atkin, whose sister, Miss Margot Atkin, is president of the Chicago league, is a director, and so are Mrs. Cochran and Mrs. Addington. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

I did not see so many Americans, only a few friends of the consuls, Commander Castruccio, Signor and Signora Fermé, Col. Siquieland, Mrs. Charles Chadwick, Admiral Cluverius, Augustus Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham, Henry and Mrs. Field, Miss Grace Denton, Prof. Bompiani. There were moving pictures of the new Rome, and a lovely Italian lady, sopranoing, after dinner.

Dr. Albert and Miss Schmidt Talk on the Fair.

Dr. Allen Albert, magnetic speaker, cheer leader of A Century of Progress, spoke in the ballroom of the Woman's Athletic club last week. That pretty girl, Miss Dotty Schmidt, had preceded him on the subject of "The Enchanted Island." My word! but those Junior leaguers are thorough. Any child who gets on the Enchanted island for a holiday this summer should be ready for Harvard university in the fall. And if he or she hears all of the story hours, planned and allotted by noted authors and spellbinders, will soon be competing for a Nobel prize.

Dr. Albert stressed the extreme modernism of the exposition. Many of the exhibits point to the future; new ideas in everything. He was admiring Japanese participation in the Fair. Poor as Japan is at present, they have sent twenty-four artisans and a magnificent exhibit of arts and industries. The building itself, its parts all beautifully packed and shipped, was ready to fit together like a jig-saw puzzle when it arrived. It will open on time, its commissioners will be in a line receiving with appropriate seasonal flowers, and bows and smiles on June 1.

And a few weeks later, one of the commissioners tells me, two lovely maidens educated in the solemn ritual of tea drinking will come out from Japan and there will be a ceremonial tea.

China, also, has a beautiful building, put up by local Chinamen and a popular subscription. In fact, the oriental group is one of the beauty spots of the Fair.

Following Dr. Albert's address, Mrs. William Pelouze had a luncheon for him at the club, and I found myself sitting by Mrs. Reimund Baumann.

Recently home from Denmark after a year's absence, the wife of the Danish consul general is charmed by Chicago and its lively stride.

Time to Observe Hats at a Wedding.

Lake Forest, delicately green, with fruit trees budding was the happier for a lovely wedding Saturday afternoon. At least half the guests speeded out from town to the church of the Holy Spirit, a little stone church snuggling in an English village way among green lawns and hedges.

So bright and colorful is the interior that outside of huge altar pieces of calla lilies, and branches of white fruit blossoms in the brick vestibule there was no need of décor. The church filled in a manner leisurely, with smiling people, lots of Eltings, many Winstons. Having time, it was fun to see the newest hats, the battle already won by the very tall exaggerated peak hats, the big brimmed chapeaux versus the tiny peanuts already in the heavy muffin class.

And there was the much traveled yellow straw, droopy, with black shiny band, which had gone from Patou in Paris to Rio de Janeiro, then to Chicago with Mrs. Scott Durand. Among the Eltings the broad red sailor on Mrs. Howard Elting's dashing head and the huge floppy straw on her daughter, the lovely young Mrs. Joseph Donner of Buffalo.

The bride's mother, in dark blue print flowered in pink, was one of the beauties present. The bridesmaids had a startling color scheme. In citron yellow chiffon with big dark blue chiffon hats and huge feathery bouquets of bluets, they got away with the difficult combination, sweeping triumphantly up the aisle in a parade of beauty. Led by Miss Baby Clow, maid-of-honor, in dark blue chiffon frock and hat, with bouquet of pale yellow daisies.

The Bride a Vision in Satin and Tulle.

Then, the bride, a lovely creature always, slender, quite blonde, with dazzling smile, black lashes and brilliant eyes, she came in with her grandfather, Arthur Mason. A vision of while tulle, huge shower of white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley, and long, long sheath of white satin ending in endless train—never did that train seem to end.

And so they were married, the Rev. Herbert Prince in loud clear tones challenging peremptorily any to come forward or else "hereafter forever hold their peace" who might seek to disrupt this ideal union of youth, beauty and devotion. This part of the service always strikes a chill, but nothing ever happens.

Victor Elting was his son's best man. The crowd then flocked over to the big white house of the Rinakers in College road. Here in every room were great branches of flowering cherry. Then, the round of the wedding party, congratulations, persiflage, and so forth, with the long line of bridesmaids, who were Francise Clow and the Misses Betty Brown, Jane Boyce, Margaret Chapman, Jane Brooks, Eleanor Wheeler, and Mrs. Edgar Marston III.

The ushers in a state of quiescence in the library were Victor Jr. and John Elting, Ross Beatty, Joseph Quarles, Malcolm Stevenson, David Hulburd, George Bassett III., and William Deknatel.

The wedding cake, instead of a device of orange blossoms and wedding bells, was topped by a tall sugar building brightly lighted, the bridegroom being a rising young architect. And not flitting through, as mostly one does at wedding parties, nipping here a nut and there a candied rose leaf, the guests sat solidly down and ate with enthusiasm of marvelous small hot sandwiches and such. And finally a sweet, delectable indeed, small white basket made of ice cream and filled with fruits fashioned of colored ices.

Seeing so many of my town friends seated and eating with such gusto reminded me of the reflections once of Biggs, our veteran caterer, to a valued customer. Guests from the suburbs, said he, always sat down in the dining room and with napkin outspread and could be counted on to eat everything, while city people took tea with lemon, and little else.

Many Lovely Gowns Were Worn.

Very few startling frocks. Mrs. Sterling Morton's black print with parrot colored pattern, sleeveless, was very becoming, arms and neck being browned by both Miami and Arizona. Mrs. Irving Osborne Jr. had another such gay fantasy in black, printed in field flowers, red, yellow, blue, white, with a tiny cap of the same. Mrs. Clarence Goodwin in pink knit, on from Washington, was with Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, who had a beautiful young child with her. Miss Harriet Stuart was in palest mauve gray, a tiny cap, furs, orchids, very smart.

Who else? The Harold C. Smiths, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McC. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Corton, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacPherson, Mrs. Arthur Aldis, Mrs. Baum, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Houghteling, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Durbin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter, Mrs. Byron Harvey, and the newest engaged couple, Miss Marjorie Goodman and Charles S. Dewey Jr., both radiant, also Miss Louise Dewey. The sun shone brightly on this wedding.

Miss Borland Will Tell of Her Travels.

Next Tuesday evening at the Lake Shore drive, a dinner followed by Beatrice Borland's lecture on the "World's High Spots," with moving pictures never yet shown. The most I can say for that entertainment is that I have accepted a dinner and third hearing of the exciting wanderings of Mlle. Borland. It will benefit the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's.

And the puppet show, the enchanting "Piccoli!" Their opening Monday was an event of the spring season. I ran into Rufus Dawes at the sortie and he was as much a fan as I, and that is some fan, and great were the jabberings of pleasure from a fashionable crowd.

The Piccoli gave a sophisticated revue. Four-foot dolls, they move on magical strings. Their acting is marvelous, their dancing better and more spirited than real life dancers. In fact, a man with me said the puppets were better actors than live actors, having no inhibitions.

A tiny opera was given, with soprano and tenors back stage. A scene in Venice, another at Naples; Josephine Baker, the colored music hall star in Paris, in one of her wildest revues. Full of swift satire, the house yelled its pleasure. The maestro at the end, the concert pianist, was the grand finale. I adored it. Saw the Castruccios, the René Weillers; lots of dinner parties, smart dresses. The company of Piccoli, of Roman origin, is eighteen years old and has circled the world.

Ganna Walska Gives an Exotic Luncheon for Ramon Novarro

By May Birkhead.

PARIS.—In chronicling the doings of Chicagoans in Paris Mme. Ganna Walska's name inevitably comes often under the pen. This is not surprising, for she is an indefatigable hostess, has friends among many notabilities in Parisian and cosmopolitan society, and has three excellent places in which to give her always colorful parties. As our readers know, she often gives teas or evening entertainments, either on the stage or in the foyer of the Théatre des Champs-Elysées, that big lyric theater which she owns.

When it comes to more restricted, if not more informal, affairs Mme. Walska invites her guests to her Château of Galluis, a few miles beyond Versailles, or to her residence in the Rue de Lübeck, in that high part of Paris near the Trocadero. The other day she had about twenty-five at a luncheon in her town house to meet Ramon Novarro, the celebrated movie star, who had completed just the night before his engagement as a singer at the Alhambra here.

Values Appearances in French Capital.

He quite lived up to his reputation for modesty and simplicity, and spoke of how valuable his appearances in Paris had been to him. He remarked on what a contrast this direct contact with a large, expectant audience, which at first overwhelmed him and before which he felt entirely on his own resources, furnished to his usual performances in the movie studio, where all the details were carefully regulated by the director of the film.

He will know within a few days whether or not he is to take the stellar rôle in "Laughing Boy," from the popular novel of that name. In August he is to film in Hollywood, with Jeannette MacDonald, "The Cat and the Fiddle." It is likely that later on he will go to his native Mexico for a picture in that semi-tropical setting.

He left the day after Mme. Walska's party for a week's rest in Switzerland. Before returning to Paris for a concert at the peak of the season he will visit in the south of France Rex Ingram, who started him in the movies eleven years ago. He never comes to Europe without looking up his first screen mentor. After Paris Novarro will give two concerts in London.

Charmingly Unusual Decorative Scheme.

The decorative scheme of Mme. Walska's luncheon table was a poem, and so was the combination of dishes and wines. Running the full length of the mahogany table was a row of blue-green Chinese finger bowls, on ebony pedestals, with a particularly impressive one in the center, all of them works of art, and with purple pansies floating in them. At each individual place was a square of yellow lace with accompanying doilies and yellow napkins.

The wine glasses of old crystal showed great variety in size and design, especially some of those for champagne being almost like vases and having curious covers. The water cups were of silver. The distinguishing dish was Algerian couscous, making a great effect of color in the big platters.

Among the guests were Don Vladimir Notabarboli and his lovely wife, who was the second wife of Robert Goelet of New York. They are known to their friends in Paris as the Duca and Duchessa di Villarosa, but, if we are not mistaken, he is a kinsman of the Duke of Villarosa of an old Sicilian family and the name is often written Don Vladimir Notabarboli di Duchi di Villa Rosa.

Before her marriage to Robert Goelet she was Fernanda Rocchi Riabouchinsky. Others in the luncheon party were Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr, who had known the Duchessa di Villarosa in her Newport days as Mrs. Goelet; Mlle. José Laval, daughter of the former French premier; Sir Charles Mendl, M. Jean Ciechanowski, formerly Polish ambassador to Washington and his wife, to mention only a few.

Cinderella Really Did Her Dancing in Fur Slippers

LONDON.—(AP)—Cinderella's slippers, popularly supposed to have been made of glass, really were made of fur, according to Sir Gerald Wollaston, garter king-of-arms and an authority on heraldry.

He told members of the Royal Socieyt of Arts that the slipper was made of "vair," which is heraldic fur of white and blue. The other idea, he said, came from a confusion with the French "verre," meaning glass.

Newport Season Will Commence Early This Year

Many of the Residents Plan to Visit A Century of Progress Exposition.

NEWPORT, R. I.—[Special.]—The indications are that the season will commence early this year. While many of the colony are to attend the World's Fair in Chicago, they will be here before and after their visits. Commodore Arthur Curtiss James is opening Beacon Hill shortly. His famous yacht, the Aloha, is being commissioned. The commodore will attend the exposition in June.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzhugh Whitehouse are at Stone Villa after a stay at Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet will be at Ochre Court on their return from Europe late this month.

The Robert Walton Goelets are expected shortly at their Narragansett avenue villa which is already open. Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Pope are at the Waves and Dr. and Mrs. Henry Barton Judds are arriving at Whitehelm from Baltimore.

Julia Berwind and her brother, Edward J. Berwind, will be at the Elms after June 1, while Miramar is open, though Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice will not be in residence until late in June. Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth Wickes are soon to be at Zee Rust, which will be opened on the twenty-fifth of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince are having extensive alterations made at Marble House, which they purchased from the late Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. It will be the first time in ten years that the famous place will be open. The Princes will be on their yacht, Lone Star, until the house is ready.

Also arriving are the Rev. Dr. Roderick Terry, Col. and Mrs. Francis L. V. Hoppin, Mr. and Mrs. Marsden J. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howard, Mrs. Nicholas Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Maximilian Agassiz and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Greenough.

GENUINE SALE

Beginning Monday, May 22nd

REGARDLESS of your present attitude toward sale merchandise, we want you to understand that we have never bought a job lot of apparel nor advertised anything but our regular stock in a reduction sale.

Every piece of merchandise available during a sale in our Shops was selected for our regular clientele from our regular sources of supply, and it must necessarily be of the finest quality and style, as we carry nothing else.

The magnitude of our business necessitates a great variety of styles. As the end of every season approaches, our big problem is to clean house, and to make room for the next season's merchandise. This has to be done. It is imperative. Consequently we take all of these beautiful pieces and reduce the prices.

Women from all over this buying area come to our sales. In fact, many of our regular sales patrons never wear anything but Weathered clothes.

It is only natural for those who have made unsatisfactory purchases elsewhere at illegitimate sales, because the article was cheap, to feel skeptical.

But we assure you in all sincerity that our sales are genuine; that you can undoubtedly find dresses, coats, suits, sportswear and hats—the loveliest things imaginable—at prices so low that you probably will be able to replenish your entire wardrobe with a very small outlay.

This sale of all spring merchandise starts in both Shops.

It is not a cash sale. All patrons with charge accounts, or new patrons who are entitled to credit, may have their purchases handled in the regular manner.

We never accept any merchandise for exchange or credit.

Superb Collection of Great Paintings Now Assembled in Galleries of the Art Institute Exhibit of Old Masters and Modern Open to the Public Tuesday.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THE most superb collection of great paintings which has yet been assembled in one gallery either here or abroad is that which the Chicago Art institute has brought together for its Century of Progress exhibition. Beginning with the French, Italian, and German primitives one follows the thread of fine art from the fifteenth century into the twentieth. So tremendous is the scope of the show that one visit barely serves as an introduction. This is an exhibit to which only repeated visits will mean complete satisfaction.

As one walks through the galleries—all the paintings and the sculpture are on the second floor—now this and now that unique canvas stands out. For instance, the gorgeous "Aristotle" of Rembrandt dwarfs for the moment the entire gallery in which you discover it; dwarfs by its great craftsmanship and power the entire exhibit. Then, with a last sigh of appreciation, you turn from it and find your imagination immediately caught by a smaller but exquisite canvas, the Vermeer "Woman Weighing Gold." Or you find the quaint portrait of a child by Cranach, or the sparkling landscape with riders by Cuyp. Again you are stayed by the beauty of the Frank G. Logan Hobbema, the "Watermill with Great Red Roof." And then again you catch your breath before the famous "Judith Leyster," by Frans Hals.

"Aristotle," by Rembrandt, lent by Duveen Brothers, Inc., one of the greatest paintings to be found in the Art institute A Century of Progress exhibition, which will open on Tuesday to the public.

Little Gallery Reserved for Italian Primitives.

The early Italian primitives are in a little gallery and you will recognize many of the more beautiful ones as from the Martin Ryerson collection belonging to the institute. Among the later Italians, fifteenth and sixteenth century, be sure not to miss the exquisite, tiny Leonardo da Vinci, one of the gems of the exhibition. The Bellini painting of two men is striking. It is loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Worcester. In an adjoining room the lovely "Lady Holding a Rabbit," by Piero di Cosimo, gives us pause, and among the sixteenth century Venetian group Veronese, Tintoretto, and Titian are magnificently illustrated.

Turning to the English painters Raeburn in "The Johnston Group" provides us with a canvas long to be remembered. The "Landscape with a Bridge," by Gainsborough, is magnificent, and the large landscape by John Constable is very fine. "The Dutton Family," by John Zoffany, is quaint and amusing, a Victorian family card party on a flowered carpet.

The "Sir Edward Walpole," by William Hogarth, is another splendid piece of portraiture. "The Honorable Mrs. Watson," by Sir Joshua Reynolds, is as sparkling and fresh and lovely today as when it was first painted.

Famous French Painters of 17th, 18th Centuries.

In the next gallery are found French paintings of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Chardin, Fragonard and Le Nain are the important names here, and Chardin proves his inimitable genius in two entrancing pictures, "The Industrious Mother" and "The Schoolmistress." Fragonard is represented by a lovely "Mother and Baby," and the very fine "Portrait of Hubert Robert." "The Peasant Family," by Le Nain, is a direct, unsentimental portrayal of a sturdy set of children.

Do not miss the Alpine scene by Courbet nor, in the succeeding large gallery, the lovely "Portrait of Madame de Richemond and her Son," by David. Here, too, hangs the magnificent unfinished "La Toilette de la Mariée," by Courbet, which is lent by Smith college, one of the very important paintings in America. William Orpen in his study of "The Old Cabman" gives us an indication of the great powers which were his. Remark the exquisite quality, the charm, of "La Femme au Chien," by Carrière, and let yourself be carried away by the gorgeous "Interior with Nudes," by Zorn. Feel the Whistlerian influence in the lovely "Gray Day, Tangier," by Lavery.

One of the small galleries has been devoted to the work of Degas and Monet, and here let nothing interfere with your seeing the "Carriages at the Races," by Degas, a very French and very charming picture. A Pissarro, "Le Café au Lait," must be studied in this room, too.

A Room of Pictures by Cezanne.

The room of paintings by Cezanne is of interest. Particularly lovely is the landscape near the door and the still life of flowers which flanks it. Another rather sketchy and indefinite landscape across the room is effective

Adjoining is another room devoted to Henri Rousseau and Gauguin. The jungle with monkeys and oranges, lent by Mrs. R. R. McCormick, is the finest of the trio of Rousseau's. The Rousseau lent by John A. Carpenter, in which a tiger figures, seconds it in interest. The Gauguins are a bit uneven, but his divergence into fresh paths is satisfactorily represented and now and again the beauty of his color is worth close attention.

Following this room is another where examples of Van Gogh and Toulouse-Lautrec are shown. Toulouse-Lautrec stands up well in the company provided by the great painters of the earlier centuries, but Van Gogh totters. Van Gogh was mad and erratic and not responsible. He was abnormal and his work reveals his tortured spirit. As one of the names closely linked with modernism, this group of paintings by him must necessarily occupy an important place, but it also, decidedly and quietly, fixes that place for him.

The next room is chiefly Matisse. The "Interior," near the door, is rich in color and beautiful in color and the handling of texture. The still life of flowers is rather beautiful. For the rest, Matisse also is a herald of a movement and the various clarion calls that echo from the walls may or may not arouse an answering response from your breast. It is a representative group of figure paintings that have been gathered here and they show Matisse as he has been collected in the United States. The Picasso "La Toilette" hangs on the far wall.

Contemporary American Work Shown.

Finally, through several stunning portraits by Stuart and by Copley we make the approach to the American school. The so-called "temporary galleries" in the east wing are hung with contemporary American paintings, a number of Chicago pictures among them. A room of extremely ugly contemporary German paintings occupies this wing also. At the far end, in the hall, are contemporary French and, as well, the celebrated "Nude Descending the Staircase," which today looks like nothing but barrel staves, a negligent brown, cascading into space. Cubist effusions are on the stair walls.

The walk through the east wing is rewarded by a page from Sherlock Holmes, "The Speckled Band," in the figure of the snake in Pierre Roy's "Danger on the Stairs." The closed door in the hall is symbolic of unknown horror and the huge snake is a vicious bit of mystery. Another reward is the amusing conceit by Joan Miro, "Dog Barking at the Moon."

One might also add that Ralph Clarkson is represented by an early full length portrait of a lady; Louis Betts by his lovely "The Shell"; Louis Ritman by the beautiful nude he showed in last fall's American show, and Walter Krawiec by a typically fine circus painting. A number of the contemporary American paintings will be recognized as having been either awarded prizes or been hung in various art institute shows during the last three or four years.

News of Exhibitions Now Being Held.

The South Side Art association opened its third annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture by members in the Hotel Sherman last Sunday. It is a representative show, as good in caliber as that of last year.

The paintings of flowers by such artists as Harriet Krawiec, Edgar Forkner, Josephine Riechmann, Jessie Arms Botke, Anna Lynch, Gerald Frank, Rudolph Ingerle, Karl Plath, Elizabeth B. Millard, and Ingeborg Christensen, remains one of the most brilliant exhibits in town. It is at the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue.

Wellington J. Reynolds has just finished a painting which is a memorial to the late Albert F. Ames, who for 43 years was superintendent of the schools in the Riverside district. The Parent-Teacher association of Riverside will unveil the memorial at the close of the current school year. Meanwhile it has been hanging in the Chicago galleries, a distinctive and fine piece of work.

The All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts announces its prize awards in A Century of Progress exhibit to be held in the Stevens hotel. The jury of awards consisted of Lucie Hartrath, Robert P. Kilbert, and John Stacey. In oils the gold medal went to "Lower Town, Quebec," by Edward T. Grigware; silver medal to "Song of Spring," by Gerald Frank; bronze medal to "White Roses," by Edith Jane Cassady.

"Pop" Hart was awarded the gold medal in water colors for his stunning "Arabs Assembling for Fête"; the silver medal went to Louis Weiner for "Old Adobe." Frederic Dalrymple received honorable mention for his beautiful "Old Willow."

An exhibit of amateur and professional photography is current at the Austin Y. M. C. A.

Paintings by Helen King is the next exhibit to open soon in the Allerton House gallery.

The Little gallery, 56 E. Congress street, announces an exhibit of sketches by Enrico Glicenstein of the Yoshe Kalb company. It opened May 13 and runs to May 27.

Monaco Royal Family Beset by Difficulties

Succession to the Crown and Republican Plots Disturb Monte Carlo.

MONTE CARLO.—(AP)—Monaco's royal family, beset by difficulties, political and private, is seeking to work out the destiny of the Grimaldi dynasty with the princely throne at stake.

A movement to transform the roulette supported principality into a republic under French supervision, has arisen, along with a dispute over the succession to the crown.

Count Aynard de Chabrillon, pretender to the throne of Prince Louis II., renewed his claim when Princess Charlotte, daughter of Louis, renounced her right of succession.

There also have been side problems for the royal family following the recent divorce of Princess Charlotte and her husband, Prince Pierre de Grimaldi, formerly the count de Polignac.

Children Divide Year Between Relations.

Disagreement regarding the custody of the children, Prince Rainier and Princess Antoinette, has just been terminated by an arrangement whereby they will be with their father during the summer months. They are to winter with Prince Louis.

Prince Rainier, who is nearly 10 years old, is the crown prince since his mother abdicated her rights.

The 64 year old count de Chabrillon, however, in a note to the French foreign office, claims that he inherited the right of succession from the family branch headed by the German duke of Urach.

The count de Chabrillon, who claims descent from Honore III. of Monaco, ancestor of Louis, lives in France.

Assembly Proclaims Loyalty to Prince.

Meanwhile there has been political agitation for a republic. At the same time, however, the Monegasque assembly and the communal delegation, both appointed by Louis after he suspended the constitution several years ago, have proclaimed their loyalty to the reigning prince and to Prince Rainier.

Princess Charlotte, 34 year old daughter of a morganatic marriage of Prince Louis, was legitimatized in 1919, making her eligible to the throne. But recently she expressed a desire to "live a free life."

She said she had done her duty by giving two children to the dynasty and she had no desire to reign over the 1,600 subjects and 23,000 other inhabitants of the ledge of rock, eight miles square, which embraces the principality.

It has been rumored that Princess Charlotte intends to marry a commoner and live in France or Italy.

Loyalty vs. Honesty.

MANILA.—(AP)—Leopoldo Yabes, a student at the University of the Philippines, was suspended by Dean Maximo M. Kalaw because he wrote an article stating that many romantic trysts were being kept after hours in laboratories and lecture rooms. The dean said Yabes failed to show a proper sense of loyalty.

Swedish Savings Gain.

STOCKHOLM.—[U. P.]—The Swedish postal savings banks show a large increase of deposits for the month of November, 1931, more than 36,000 new accounts having been opened, as compared to some 13,000 during the same month in 1930.

Where Every Day's a Holiday

Doing the siva-siva, the national dance of American Samoa. The picture was taken near Pago Pago, the port where Somerset Maugham got the inspiration for the story which was dramatized as "Rain" and which made Sadie Thompson known all over the world. In Samoa they live as they did centuries ago, with the same customs, etiquette, arts and crafts.

Want to Get Away from Business? Here's Loneliest Place in the World

THE loneliest place in the British empire, if not in the inhabited world, is the island of Tristan da Cunha, the largest and the only inhabited of a group of three islands situated in the middle of the South Atlantic ocean. It was named for a Portuguese admiral, who discovered it in 1506.

Sometimes more than a year elapses without a ship calling there. Thus the people, of whom there are only 160 do without mail and newspapers, and their food supplies are often woefully short, as the soil and the sea furnish the barest means of support.

When a ship called two years ago the natives said there were three things they still had plenty of—canned sardines, Epsom salts and Bibles. They requested poison for rats, their one mongoose being unable to make serious inroads on the hideouts of the rodents.

The main island, Tristan, is an extinct volcano, and rises 7,640 feet above the level of the sea. The crater summit is filled with fresh water. St. Helena, 1,320 miles north, is the nearest inhabited land, while Cape Town is 1,400 miles east, Buenos Aires 2,500 miles west and the south pole 3,200 miles south. Until the middle of the last century the neighboring waters were visited by American whalers, but with the decline of the whaling industry these visits ceased. The whalers have been sadly missed by the Tristanites.

Although the inhabitants became depressed over the scarcity of food and the long absences of ships, they decline to leave the island when land is offered elsewhere.

Five nationalities live on the island today—English, Scotch, Irish, American and Italian. They have intermarried, and of course there are few family names.

The only lights on the island come from lamps filled with oil made from the blubber of sea elephants.

GERMANY SHIPS HARZ CANARIES ALL OVER GLOBE

BERLIN.—[U. P.]—Several hundred thousand canary birds, mostly from the Harz mountain region, are en route by special steamers from Germany to countries across the sea.

In former years, the number of songsters thus shipped every year was upward of half a million, but they gradually have been decreasing in popularity. In some countries, furthermore, the duties are so high as to make the birds too costly; in Russia they are banned as "unnecessary luxuries."

As early as the 16th century, canaries were popular. The science of cultivating their voices improved bit by bit until now they are put through a thorough schooling, from which they have to graduate, as it were, before being approved for shipment. Among the most skilful teachers in the German bird academies are blind ex-soldiers.

The color of the bird is an important matter. United States fanciers always have preferred the light yellow type, but Britain, for example, like them red-yellow. The desired colors are secured by cross breeding; pairing white and green birds, for instance, yields blue ones in the third generation. Cayenne pepper is also listed as a dietary item in developing the red-yellow shade.

Churches in France Federal Owned; Priests Boss Bells

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RENNES, France.—Although most churches in France are owned by the government and merely rented to the church—free of charge—the parish priest alone is the master of the church bells and has the sole right to decide when they may be rung. This right has just been confirmed by te Rennes Court of Appeals.

All churches constructed before 1905—the date of the separation of church and state—belong theoretically to the state. Ever since that year there has been a general argument as to who could order the bells rung. Many a village mayor has ordered them rung without consulting the priest.

Then a case turned up that became a test case. Three youthful Bretons in the village of Laz, Brittany, wished to ring the church bell in honor of the marriage of one of their friends. The village priest forbade them to do so. But they disregarded his orders. The priest took the matter to court and the boys were fined $1 each. They appealed and the Rennes court has just decided against them.

France Fails in Effort to Curb Absinthe

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—In France, too, prohibition seems to have been a failure—prohibition of absinthe, that is.

Absinthe was banned about 20 years ago as being just a bit too noxious even for a Frenchman. The law that proscribed it made provision for certain types of substitute drinks.

The chief of these is "pernod," a fairly powerful aniseed concoction which has corroded the stomach lining of many a curious American within a few weeks of his arrival on these shores. Other anis drinks coming within the "imitation absinthe" category are "oxygenee," "cressonnee," "junod," and several other less well known. Their common characteristic to the eye is that they cloud to a milky white when water is poured into them. To the taste they offer a sort of licorice flavor. In alcohol they are high powered and have the further well merited reputation of being especially rough on the stomach.

These absinthe substitutes are recognized by law which regulates their contents. These regulations result in their being made with too much sugar. A discriminating drinker of apertifs, and Frenchmen as a race are fairly discriminating, having so great a variety to work on, objects to the quantity of sugar.

And so there has grown up an increasing body of citizens who make their own or buy them bootlegged in certain bars.

This steadily growing bootleg has at last alarmed certain legislators, and Deputy Henri Tasso and several of his colleagues have introduced a bill in the chamber of deputies changing the regulations so that a more acceptable set of anis drinks can be produced.

The Paris daily Petit Bleu in this connection points out that a certain apertif originally considered even more harmful than absinthe did not receive any attention from the legislators at all and has never, for some mysterious reason, been interfered with. It is a drink called "amer picon."

Istanbul Pays Cur Bounty.

ISTANBUL.—(AP)—By a new ordinance designed to rid Istanbul of its pest of street dogs, the city is paying 12½ cents for each cur's tail. A thousand zealous dog chasers claimed the bounty in the first month.

TRAVELERS' GUIDE

What's your travel problem? Queries regarding costs, accommodations, etc., of travel by land, air, and sea, and places to go and how to get there, both in this country and aboard, will be answered by this department. Answers of public interest will be published. Address your questions to Travelers' Guide, The Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I am interested in a summer trip to the West Indies and the Caribbean. How are climatic conditions at that time?—W. T. E.

Because of the proximity of this region to the equator, the difference between summer and winter temperatures is only a few degrees. United States government records of the Panama canal—the southern terminus of practically all of these cruises—show the highest temperature reached during July and August, 1932, was 90 degrees and a general average temperature during that period of only 81.3 degrees. Due to the trade winds, there is always a breeze, and the nights are usually quite cool.

Please send me all the information you have concerning the use of travelers' checks and how to change your money for them.—M. C.

Travelers' checks are a form of "insured money." They are issued in $10, $20, $50, and $100 denominations. You may buy them at your own bank or at travel agencies.

For each $100 which you turn into these checks you pay three-quarters of one per cent, or 75 cents, plus two cents stamp tax on each check.

You do not cash them; you spend them as you would currency. Railroads, hotels, merchants, gas stations, and others accept them as payment of bills and purchases. They are accepted at the current buying rate for bank checks on New York in all foreign countries, and in United States in dollars.

My mother is a citizen of Norway. Could she come to the United States and make her home with me?—C. J. O.

If you are an American citizen you have the privilege of bringing your mother to the United States in accordance with the immigration law. Any steamship agent will supply the required government form to be completed by you and sent to the commissioner general of immigration at Washington, D. C.

Funeral of Gypsy "Queen of Kent" Draws 20,000 Spectators

Insight Into the Future Was So Remarkable that Her Presence at Mayfair Social Function Guaranteed the Success of the Party.

By Ann Whittingham.

LONDON.—[Special.]—Gypsy Lee, the gypsy "queen of Kent," whose recent funeral at Farnborough, Kent, drew 20,000 spectators, left a fortune of £15,000, almost all of which was made in Mayfair.

She was a remarkable "fortune teller," and her presence at a social function—off in a room by herself—was quite enough to make the party a huge success. She told my fortune at a cocktail party some two years ago, and the experience was both startling and amusing, for her technique was extraordinarily direct.

She was a remarkable fortune teller.

"You would have less trouble with servants," she said, "if it weren't for your mother," and later, "One of your rooms is rather nice, but the others don't amount to much," which was not what you would call tactful.

She scorned the vague descriptions affected by most of her class. Instead of saying to a fluttering debutante, "beware of a dark gentleman," she would say—as she actually did once to my knowledge, "don't have anything to do with that dark stockbroker whom you will meet next month at a house party."

At parties she never foretold bad news, though willing enough to plant shrewd warnings. A strange character with a strange gift. Just why the college of psychic science never investigated her Mayfair vogue I do not know; they would have received enough authentic material for a book.

Lipsticks, Extreme Styles Not for Palace Typists.

Before the war there were only one or two women typists employed at Buckingham palace and in the lord chamberlain's somewhat somber office in St. James's palace, but the women came trooping in, of course, during the war, and his majesty has been so pleased with their work that they have remained. There are no regulations as to uniforms, but the queen's dislike of lipsticks and of extreme dress is well understood and invariably regarded.

The queen's dislike of extremes is well understood.

Today one of the most responsible posts in the royal household is held by a woman. She is registrar of the king's archives, her name, Mary Mackenzie, M. A. Her task is to sift the king's correspondence and file away, with innumerable cross-references, all the letters and documents likely to be of use to the future historian. You would never guess the names of her two typist assistants; they are Miss L. Smith and Miss Edith Jones.

Oxford is running violently to shirts. Black shirts of which there are some forty parading around in honor of Fascism, and red shirts, now numbering 16, but increasing rapidly. A youth named John Brown of Ruskin college, Oxford, is now organizing the 500 members of University Labor club into a "red shirt brigade," and local shops are stocking up both colors impartially. I foresee brawls in those peaceful quadrangles.

Portraits of Royal Family on Display.

I always visit the Royal academy exhibition with a serious high brow determination to judge the pictures to the best of my moderate ability, as works of art, but as I cross the courtyard of Burlington house there pops into my mind, like a mischievous imp, a story which upsets my mood.

It was my first visit, years ago, and my companion, godlike in silk topper, morning coat, and spats, remarked: "The late Lord Curzon once commissioned Sir John Lavery to do a portrait of his wife. The picture was finished and submitted to his lordship, for approval. The marquess surveyed it carefully. 'And what, Sir John,' he inquired icily, 'have you done with the snowy amplitude of her ladyship's bosom?' "

The picture was finished and submitted to his lordship for approval.

Lord Curzon would find today that Sir John's conservatism is now universal, for "snowy amplitudes" have all but disappeared. Of course, they have quite disappeared from portraits, but they are not really noticeable anywhere, so all pervading is the cult of slim and boyish figures. Lancelot M. Glasson illustrates this in "The Four," a study of four rowing girls in shorts and jerseys, standing beside their shell. Very virile and very modern, but eternally feminine comment was, invariably, "What ankles!"

As usual there are several portraits of the royal family. The queen, who always knows what she likes, has bought the portrait of herself painted by Arthur T. Nowell. It shows her wearing her coronet and drooping earrings, with a magnificent rope of pearls twined round and round her neck; the gossamery quality of her dress of powder blue is very well done, though the Times' art critic thought that the portrait as a whole was "rather timid." And why not? Certainly its respectful note did not displease the large crowd milling in front of it during the "private view."

Seek National Cemetery.

SYDNEY.—(AP)—Australian war veterans, favoring the idea of a national cemetery where former brothers in arms may sleep their last sleep together, are agitating the establishment here of a counterpart of the Arlington National cemetery near Washington.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

WHILE hundreds of thousands of Chicagoans are pouring out of the city this summer to see the world hundreds of thousands of outsiders will be pouring into the city on the same errand. The wonders of the world, to say nothing of the universe, will converge at A Century of Progress.

Beginning next Saturday visitors to the Fair will be transplanted to the tempestuous land of Jehol, to the age-old gardens of the Villa d'Este, to the magnificent Maya temple, to the romantic land of the Nile, to glistening Venice, and to an Arabian Night's glamour such as only a 25 million dollar exposition can portray. These visitors will find the thrill and beauty of far away lands thrown into sharp relief by electrical cascades and flaming pylons.

Travel is broadening, to be sure. But once in a lifetime the broadening influence is to be had right here at home.

Department of commerce experts have estimated that between 1922 and 1931 Americans traveling abroad spent more than five billion dollars. And nearly half of that was sent back to us in that time to reduce war debts. Travel pays!

● Comments of two famous tourists:

"I dislike feeling at home when I am abroad."—Bernard Shaw.

"The use of traveling is to regulate imagination by reality."—Samuel Johnson.

Our Weekly Horror:

The ancient Grecian and Roman custom of blinding birds to induce constant singing is still being practiced along the southern shores of Greece and Spain. Only a few birds in a hundred survive the operation.

● Did You Know department:

That the island of Zanzibar is the clove growing center of the world; that its annual output of 9,000 tons is valued at nine million dollars? . . . That for hundreds of miles the lordly St. Lawrence river is wider than the state of Rhode Island; that its actual source is in Minnesota, and that the world's largest vessels can sail up the river as far as Quebec? . . . That the island of Ceylon produces 300 million pounds of tea annually and that most of it is mountain-grown?

Add Places We'd Like to See:

The island of St. David's, as described in Hudson Strode's new volume, "The Story of Bermuda":

"There the people still live in patriarchal simplicity. Their 17th century English is tinctured with seafaring West Indian intonations. When they are not fishing they sit about on their haunches. When they walk in groups they go in single file like ducks. On week days they go barefooted with their trousers rolled halfway to their knees. On Sundays they wear shoes to church, but take them off to come home. White men whose ancestors were never peasants now take black women for wives."

● When Christopher Columbus gave the name of West Indies to the string of pearls linking North and South America he was curiously prophetic. The islands he found had nothing to do with the far east, but Trinidad, one of the largest of them, has since become India's most important outlet in the western world.

In the last eighty-five years hundreds of young Hindus and Moslems have settled there. And their descendants zealously cherish the traditions and sacred rites of their motherland. With them life still flows in the carefree ways, each man under his own breadfruit tree or cultivating his rice patch with oxen.

At sunset they wait for the muezzin call, or the beat of drums summoning them to the ancient festivals of Holi or Shriv Rati. Annually they join in the passion play which for centuries has thrilled Islam.

A NEW LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY

William Reay Faurot isn't old enough now to mind those lovely, longish blond curls, but O, how he will hate it when his fond relatives remind him of them when he is older! He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Faurot of Riverside, and will celebrate his second birthday in August. He possesses a brand new sister, Suzanne Reay, who was born on May 8 at the Passavant hospital, but who now is enjoying life at home with her mother and father and Billy.

Skeletons of Men Seven Feet Tall Found Near Paris

PARIS.—[U. P.]—Bones reputed to have belonged to a race seven feet tall have been found in a Neolithic tomb on the outskirts here. A report on the discoveries of the archeologists working in the northwest suburbs has just been given at the Sorbonne.

Paul Lemoine, director of the Paris Museum of Natural History; M. Lantier, curator of the archaeological museum at Saint Germain en Laye; Prof. Rivet and other savants, have visited the tomb and are agreed that it is of sufficient interest for excavation work to be continued with renewed effort.

Sight seven foot skeletons were brought to light beneath a huge monolith weighing more than four tons.

A number of the bones were charred, indicating that the bodies had been burned before burial, and little was found around them save a few flint arrows and spearheads which lead to the belief that the persons buried were not of very high caste.

Craters Open in East Indies.

BANDA NEIRA, Moluccas.—(AP)—Several new volcanic craters have opened in this district of the East Indies, the eruptions being accompanied by earthquakes and landslides. Many villagers took refuge in the forests.

When Chicago Was Young

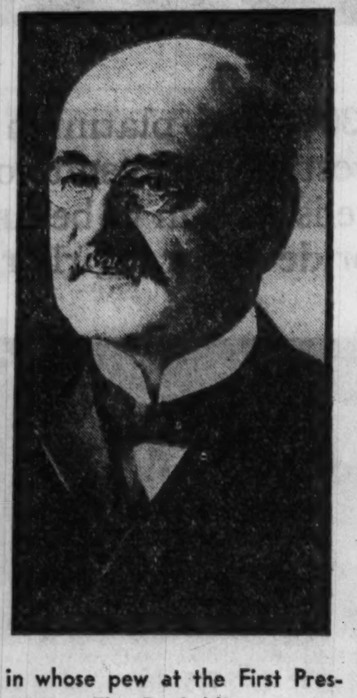
Mid-Victorian Days in the Mid-Continent

By Herma Clark.

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd, of New York.

Chicago, June 5, 1882.

DEAR JULIA: We have been at the First Presbyterian church today—at least, Martha and Sandy and I have. Will hasn't been feeling well this week . . . nothing serious, I suppose, but he feels tired and out of sorts. I do hope he will be better soon, for the wedding day is coming on apace.



Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Penfield, in whose pew at the First Presbyterian church "Martha" sat in 1882. The Penfield's are mentioned in today's installment of "When Chicago Was Young."

At the beautiful First Presbyterian church (in the heart of the fashionable district, or rather, quite accessible to it at 21st and Indiana avenue) we were seated in the Penfields' pew, much to my satisfaction. Mrs. Penfield is a lovely woman, full of good works, and her husband is one of the pillars of their church.

They were showing me the old records of the church, for it is soon (next year) to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary and the members are already planning for it. The church held its first meeting in the carpenter shop of Fort Dearborn, the Rev. Jeremiah Porter having come from Fort Brady with the troops who had been transferred from that point to Fort Dearborn.

The text of that first sermon was: "Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit," and the church has lived up to that text nobly, being a center of good works. Another record was shown me, an entry in good Dr. Porter's diary on that day, memorable to Presbyterians, when he preached his first sermon. Dr. Porter records: "The first dreadful spectacle that met my eyes on going to church was a group of Indians sitting on the ground before a miserable French dram-house playing cards, and as many trifling white men standing around to witness the game."

The church was organized June 26, 1833, with twenty-six members, one of them being our dear old friend, Philo Carpenter. The first building, costing $600, stood at the southwest corner of Lake and Clark streets and was, they told me, about 30 by 40 feet in size. When Dr. Porter married Miss Eliza Chappell, Chicago's pioneer school teacher, and moved to Peoria, the church encountered great difficulty in finding another man to take his place. Several ministers from the east were invited, but declined to come out to this swampy, malarial place. Finally the Rev. John Blatchford, traveling from New York to the west, was delayed in his journey and the church induced him to remain as pastor. They have had many wonderful ministers since then.

Shortly after we came to the city a beautiful building was put up on Wabash avenue near Congress street, and I remember every one wanted to attend there.

There is much rivalry as to the first religious activities in Chicago. The Catholics say, with truth, that the first prayers to the white man's God were offered up by a Catholic priest. The gentle Father Marquette hallowed the ground of Chicago by his devout petitions in 1673. Father St. Cyr said the first mass in Chicago in Mark Beaubien's house in May, 1833. I believe the First Presbyterian church can claim to be the first actually organized here, but a Baptist friend told me recently his denomination built the first church edifice in Chicago.

Well, it doesn't matter which was first, but I am glad to think that in spite of its reputation Chicago has always had devoted men and women who made great sacrifices in order to keep the faith once delivered to the saints.

Now, I close rather hurriedly to give Will his medicine, due at this hour.

Lovingly,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Footnotes.

The First Presbyterian church of Chicago will celebrate its 100th anniversary in June, being the same age as the city itself. On its roll of members were the best known men and women of the city in early days. The present location is 64th street and Kimbark avenue.

St. Mary's Catholic church ("Old St. Mary's") held its celebration in May.

Louis C. Penfield of Evanston is a son of the Penfields in whose pew Martha sat in 1882.

The "When Chicago Was Young club," an informal dinner club, meeting every Friday evening at the Southern Tea shop, 40 East Huron street, has resolved to restore the proper pronunciation of the word "column." Under the title, "A Pronunciation Peeve," one regular attendant puts it thus:

"It always makes me fret and fume
When people call that word 'colyume'."

Have you a word you dislike to hear mispronounced? Send it in and we will have a two line rhyme made to order for it.

Send old songs and sayings to Herma Clark, CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

France's New Air Minister Learns to Fly

PARIS.—[U. P.]—Pierre Cot, France's new minister of air, has the conviction that an official in his post should know how to fly.

He is, in consequence, flying in the face of political precedent and taking lessons every week with a military instructor at Le Bourget.

M. Cot's predecessors in the air ministry have flown often, but none has learned to pilot a plane. The reasons are two: One, that most of the ministers have been men of middle age, lacking the instinctive balance and coördination essential to safe flying, and the other, that the government does not want its responsible ministers risking their lives in the clouds.

M. Cot, however, is only 37, one of the youngest ministers in any French cabinet. He has displayed unusual aptitude for a novice. He has had sole control of the training plane as it dipped and circled over Paris. Returning to the ground on the last trip, he was toasted by officials of Le Bourget to whom a minister pilot is a refreshing novelty.
